Lots of questions about the USCG Designated Anchorage Area along the north shore of Round Lake. Many adjoining riparian owners still object to "those people" using their bottomland. Therefore, the city's efforts toward a permitted controlled mooring area have ended. The Army Corps of Engineers advises that mooring permits will be issued only to riparian owners. Mariners do have the right to anchor on riparian bottomlands.

Within the Designated Anchorage Area (between the buoy line and the shore), small craft need not display a light when anchored. By anchoring there, rather than elsewhere in Round Lake, you are assuredly out of the channel and the turning basin for the Acacia and the Emerald Isle. Do be courteous while you are there.

Charlevoix native Dwight Smith is City Band's guest conductor

The Charlevoix Community Band will be under the direction of guest conductor Dwight Smith Tuesday, July 6 as it continues its 1999 summer concert series with performances at 8:15 p.m. every Tuesday through July and August at the Clarence Odmark Pavilion in East Park.

Smith, a Charlevoix native, earned a bachelor of music, master of arts and specialist in educational administration from Central Michigan University. He has taught band and orchestra for 16 years and served as a secondary school principal in Michigan public schools.

Smith has performed with bands and orchestras in Michigan, California, Florida and Japan and has served as an adjudicator for band/orchestra and solo/ensemble festivals in Michigan for more than 30 years.

Smith brings his expertise to the clarinet section, having studied with Dr. Edgar Ross of CMU, professor Keith Stien of Michigan State University, and Dr. John Mohler of the University of Michigan.

This fall, Smith will take the helm of the Highland County Concert Band in Sebring, Fla.

Throughout the rest of the season, the Charlevoix City Band, under the direction of Charlevoix Schools music instructor Rafe Rittenhouse, will perform a variety of music including marches, show tunes, movie themes, novelty numbers, big-band hits and classical transcriptions.

Charlevoix boasts one of the oldest continuing municipal band programs in the country, dating to the early 1900s. In keeping with tradition, the band will feature several guest conductors this summer, including such distinguished guests as Smith, Seraphime Mike, Ed Noirot and Evelyn Wujcik. A brief biography on the conductor and program will proceed each concert.

The band also extends a warm welcome to any musicians wishing to participate in the summer concert series. Rehearsals begin at 6:30 p.m. every Tuesday at the Charlevoix High School band room.

Charlevoix sisters hit European road with band

Charlevoix sisters Rachel and Carolyn Bellairs are in Luxembourg. No, France. Wait, today it's Germany.

The twins are part of the Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp's International Youth Symphony Band which is currently on a three-week, seven-city European tour.

The band, with 97 players, is touring Luxembourg, France and Germany. Band members are staying with families at each of the seven stops on the tour, and are performing at concerts in each town.

The Bellairs sisters' adventure began last summer while they were attending Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp near Whitehall. Rachel, a trumpet player, and Carolyn, a baritone saxophone player, were among some 1,500 students who auditioned for the six groups that were to tour Europe this summer. Approximately 400 players were chosen to make up an orchestra, symphony band, jazz band, choir and ballet troupe, and an adult community band.

Rachel and Carolyn, 14, are ninth-graders-to-be at Northwest Academy in Charlevoix and are the daughters of Jenny and Bob Bellairs of Charlevoix. Rachel is a trumpet player, while Carolyn is a baritone saxophone player, but she is playing the tenor saxophone on the tour.

"The tenor sax is my ticket to Europe, but the bari sax is my real love," Carolyn said.

Carolyn began as a flute player three years ago, then added the baritone sax to her repertoire when Northwest Academy band director Gary Stutzman formed the Northwest Academy Jazz All-Stars. She continues to play the flute with the concert band and is studying saxophone with Jason Raddatz, a member of the Up North Big Band.

Rachel came to the trumpet with a background in piano, studying under Steve Stargardt, Sherry Dankert and Steve August. She now studies under Evelyn Wujcik.

At Northwest Academy, the girls have participated in many concerts, traveling throughout Michigan, Canada and Colorado. As members of the Jazz All-Stars, their initial appearance was at the 1998 Northern Michigan University Jazz Festival, where they met legendary jazz trumpet player Clark Terry. Among their most notable appearances are the Mackinaw Center Stage Theater, the Michigan Charter School Convention in Ypsilanti, and the National Charter School Convention in Denver. The girls and their All-Star bandmates also participated in the Jazz at its Peak Festival in Colorado Springs, at which the band received a superior rating.

As young children, the girls frequently tagged along with their father to Charlevoix City Band and Up North Big Band practices. Today, they themselves play in the Charlevoix City Band during the summer months and are also members of the Praise Band at Charlevoix United Methodist Church.

The twins and their mates in the International Youth Symphony Band will not have much time for rest and relaxation once they return to Michigan on July 10. In late July, they will embark on a four-day mini-tour of the state with stops here along with suburban Detroit and a homecoming concert at Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp. The concert in Charlevoix is 7:30 p.m. July 28 at the Odmark Pavilion in East Park. In case of rain, the concert will be in the Charlevoix Middle School gym.

It will be an exciting homecoming for two young ladies who have seen and accomplished much in their brief musical careers.

Renowned pianist to perform at hospital benefit

Van Cliburn International Piano Competition finalist Katia Skanavi will perform July 9 along with the Traverse Symphony Orchestra at "Symphony on the Green," at Bay Harbor Equestrian Club.

Skanavi is an accomplished pianist having made five recordings for the Lyrinx label in France featuring solo and orchestral works by Brahms, Chopin, Liszt, Saint-Saens and Schumann. She was a finalist at the 10th Van Cliburn International Piano Competition, the highest honor in international music circles.

Prior to her success at the Cliburn, Skanavi was the first-prize winner at the 1994 Maria Callas Grand Prix and in 1989, at the age of 18, she captured third prize at the Marguerite Long-Jacques Thibaud International Piano Competition.

Katia Skanavi

Skanavi is featured in Playing with Fire, a documentary about the 10th Van Cliburn competition, which began airing on public broadcasting in October, 1997.

A graduate of the Moscow Tchaikovsky Conservatory, Skanavi now studies with Sergaei Babayan in Cleveland. During the 1997-98 season, Skanavi performed with the Moscow Philharmonic and the National Orchestra of Santo Domingo and she appeared in recital and chamber music performances in Brazil, France, Russia and the United States.

Skanavi, the winner of this year's Ima Hogg Competition, has a busy 1998-99 schedule that includes her debut with the Houston Symphony along with performances with the Richardson, Springfield, Tacoma and Toledo symphonies and recitals presented by the Cleveland Museum of Art, the Flint Institute of Art, the Steinway Society in San Jose, and Portland State University's Piano Series. She will also perform several duo-recital programs with pianist Alex Slobodyanik.

Skavani has made quite an impression on the musical world, having earned the Steve De Groote Memorial Award for her performance with the Tokyo String Quartet. She has played extensively in concerts in Japan and Europe and she recently appeared with the Sinfonia Varsovia under the baton of Sir Yehudi Menuhin and with the Moscow Soloists.

Skavani has appeared at many of the world's most celebrated concert venues including Salle Playel, Salle Gaveau and the Theatre des Champs Elysses in Paris; La Scala in Milan; the Musikverein and the Konzerthaus in Vienna; Suntory Hall in Tokyo and the Symphony Hall in Osaka.

Skanavi's performance at Bay Harbor is part of an evening fundraiser for Charlevoix Area Hospital. Patrons will be allowed to picnic on the lawn. Grounds open at 6:30 p.m. and the concert begins at 7:30 p.m., rain or shine.

General tickets are $25 and $35, student tickets are $15, and special reserved seating under a tent and a champagne and dessert "After Glow" are $200 (limited to 100 tickets).

Tickets are available in Charlevoix at the Bridge Street Book Shop, Don's IGA and Charlevoix Area Hospital's Development Office. Tickets are also available in Petoskey at Quiet Moose/Compass Int., Cutler's and McLean & Eakin Booksellers. In Boyne City, tickets are available at Cindi Franco's Cool Stuff, Boyne Area Medical Center and Boyne Rehab Center. In East Jordan, tickets are available at the Busy Bridge Antiques and Gifts.

Some would like to say no to shipping Great Lakes water

Sides are being drawn in the looming fight over Great Lakes water. Environmentalists and public officials in the Great Lakes region are concerned about proposals that would ship Lake Superior water to Asia or pipe Lake Michigan water to the Southwestern United States.

"The problem is whether we can legally just say no," said G. Tracy Mehan, director of Michigan's Office of the Great Lakes. "We're basically dealing with uncertainty at this point as to the future so we're always concerned with legal precedents that might allow for an untoward export or diversion of water."

Since 1986, each of the eight Great Lakes governors has had the power to stop diversions of Great Lakes water outside of the basin, but this veto power could be taken away by Congress, or it could be determined to be unconstitutional. And once Great Lakes water is exported to another country, NAFTA regulations could have more power than the states to control diversions.

Even if governors do retain veto power, a recent approval by the Engler administration of a diversion from Lake Erie to Akron, Ohio, which lies outside of the Great Lakes basin, has raised worries among legislators and environmentalists that too much authority over diversions rests with the governors. Despite Akron's agreement to put an equal amount of water back into the Great Lakes basin, there is concern that the public and lawmakers will continue to be excluded from diversion decisions. A package of bipartisan bills has been introduced into the Michigan Senate that would require public notice and consultation prior to future diversions.

As for the future, Chris Shafer, a former DNR employee who now teaches a class on water law at Thomas Cooley Law School in Lansing, said that caution should be the guiding principle.

"The Great Lakes are a resource and there is a very high level of public trust and responsibility that goes along with that," Shafer said.

"So I think it is a fair argument to say that our science is not sophisticated enough to understand with certainty what the impacts are. Until it is, we ought to treat diversions very cautiously."

Watch for fraud when contracting for repairs

Charlevoix County Sheriff George Lasater has a warning to homeowners: the warmer temperatures tend to bring out many of the scam artists who prey on unsuspecting and trusting homeowners.

Lasater has issued a warning to homeowners to be on the look out for unsolicited visits by contractors, particularly those who say they just happened to be driving by and "noticed that your roof, driveway, windows or whatever" needed work.

Lasater cautions citizens to avoid entering into agreements with contractors who contact them in this manner.

There are many cases of trusting individuals who have given sizeable downpayments for repair work to be done by the "nice young man who came to the door, never to hear from him, or see their money again," Lasater said.

Sheriff warns homeowners about scams

In cases where work as actually been done, it may have been done incorrectly, or it is incomplete. Usually, Lasater said, attempts to contact the person responsible prove fruitless and they have more than likely moved on to find another neighborhood ripe for the picking.

Lasater recommends that citizens do the following before agreeing to have work done on their homes:

1) Always deal with a licensed contractor and ask for proof of licensing status.

2) Get references of those you are considering to do the work.

3) Get written estimates and be wary of "special low prices."

4) Get a written contract and have an attorney review it, especially if a large amount of money is involved.

5) Never pay for the entire job in advance.

6) Never pay in cash.

Lasater also said that consumers should remember that they have a right to cancel within three days of signing any contract solicited and signed in your home. You can do so by sending the contractor a registered letter stating your desire to cancel.

If you have problems with a contractor, Lasater suggets:

1) Try to resolve the matter before making final payment.

2) Contact the local building inspector on questions of workmanship and code violations.

3) Consider going to small-claims court on matters involving less than $1,500.

4) If fraud is suspected, file a criminal complaint with the local police or sheriff's department.

In some instances, you may have to seek the assistance of an attorney to resolve the matter.

Seniors aged 60 and over can contact the local Area Agency on Aging for the telephone number of the legal services program providing legal services to the elderly in their area of the state.

Lasater issued one other note of caution: If you are visiting your local homebuilders show and are tempted to enter one of the many prize drawings offered, be aware that by entering, your name will more than likely be put on a mailing or call list.

These lists are used by the company offering the prize to generate leads for potential customers. Mailing and call lists are often sold to other companies, which potentially generates more mail and calls to your home.

Funds coming for road enhancements

Three stretches of Charlevoix County roads will be improved as part of the Michigan Department of Transportation's Enhancement Program.

A paved non-motorized trail will be constructed on the north side of US 31 from the Charlevoix city limits to Townline Road in Bay Shore, and a short stretch of US 31 south of M-66 will receive funds for beautification.

The third county project calls for a pedestrian pathway along M-66 from Mill Street to Erie Street in East Jordan.

The projects will be paid for from a $64 million fund the department has allocated for roads and pedestrian facilities throughout Michigan. The money comes from federal transportation enhancement allocations for 1999-2000.

Projects are located in 61 of the state's 83 counties and include pedestrian/bicycle paths, landscaping, brick street restoration, storm water runoff mitigation, scenic lookouts, new signs welcoming visitors at state borders, and a variety of other projects that go above and beyond traditional road or highway work, according to an MDOT press release.

Plans call for the non-motorized paved trail from the city limits to Townline Road to be 10-feet wide and 7.5 miles long. The path will follow the highway and include nearly three miles of Lake Michigan shoreline, a nature preserve and wetland. It also links with another MDOT project that will run eastward another seven miles to connect with Harbor Springs.

The proposed budget is $1,384,130 of which $1,107,304 will be paid in federal funds and $276,826 will come from MDOT.

The plan also calls for beautification of a two-tenth mile stretch of US 31 south of M-66. The project includes planting trees, shrubs and or flowers and will coordinate with a US 31/M-66 intersection safety improvement project slated for 2000. The proposed budget is $62,700 of which about $50,000 will come from federal funds and about $12,500 will come from MDOT.

Venetian organizers get their barge

By B. J. Hetler

Fireworks at the 69th Annual Charlevoix Venetian Festival are closer to a reality now that a barge is available for launching them.

The Venetian Festival board and a Beaver Island business have signed a purchase agreement for the barge, festival president Dan Barron said.

The barge, which is 32 feet wide and 100 feet long, has passed inspection by the U.S. Coast Guard and a tugboat will haul the barge from Beaver Island to Round Lake.

Charlevoix traditionally displays its fireworks during the Venetian Festival, rather than on the Fourth of July. If fireworks are held, they will be displayed on Saturday, July 24. The festival runs from July 18-25.

A laser show took the place of last year's fireworks following the 1997 accident that killed one man and injured at least 15 other people watching the fireworks display. The fireworks were being launched from Bridge Park by the channel when a firework exploded in its launching tube. Shrapnel from the steel tube and from the launching trailer sprayed the crowd. Lawsuits against the city, the pyrotechnician, the chamber of commerce, and others are pending in 33rd Circuit Court.

The barge and the location of the launch this year will provide a safe fireworks display, Barron said. No boats will be allowed within a 420-foot radius of the barge's clear zone area.

The popular decorated boat parade around the lake will take place, Barron said. The parade boats will have exclusive use of the slips adjacent to East Park for 24 hours prior to the fireworks display.

Now that the festival board has received U.S. Coast Guard approval, it is seeking approval from the city to launch the fireworks.

Board unanimous: Build high school

The Charlevoix School Board approved the recommendation of the school facilities committee and unanimously decided to put option three on its October ballot.

Option three calls for building a new high school with an auditorium. It will establish a fifth- and sixth-grade upper elementary school and seventh- and eighth-grade middle school in the former high school, which will be remodeled. The Kindergarten-fourth-grade elementary school will also be remodeled under the plan.

The board is excited about the recommendation, said superintendent John Sturock. He commended the 25-member facilities committee for coming together from diverse backgrounds and all agreeing on the same option.

The committee is confident that the community will support the option it recommends, it said in a statement to the board. Option three calls for 2.76 mills to raise the $18.5 million bond issue. It stated the need for effective information to educate the community.

Voters soundly defeated two proposals, totaling more than $20 million, in 1996. But committee member Bill Trubilowicz said the community was not adequately informed about the needs of the schools, and a lack of trust by the community resulted back then.

The school facilities committee was originally charged with conducting a study of the school district's needs. But the school board recently asked the committee to give its recommendation after it came up with three options.

The first option would have cost $14.4 million and would have remodeled all three schools.

The second option would have cost $16.6 million and would have remodeled the elementary and high schools and constructed a new middle school.

The school board is searching for a new site for the high school and hopes to make a decision by the end of August.

Celebrate the fourth

The 20th Horton Bay Fourth of July parade carried a "Millennial Madness" theme this year. The well-attended event came off under a hot sun and high humidity. Clockwise from above:

- Rachel Schulingkamp looks ready to fight anyone who might take away her beverage. The Schulingkamps are from New Orleans and have a home on Walloon Lake.
- Spectators and parade participants alike express. This man shows off his patriotic suit and hat.
- Parade members march with their banner, "Horton Bay Y2K Unplugged." Many of the parade entrants were dressed as millennium "bugs."
- Two contented audience members were Grace, three months, and her father, Joel Scheffler, from Grand Rapids. The Petoskey Second Line dancers are popular entertainment for the crowd at the Horton Bay parade. The dancers' ages range from 50-88 years old.
- This parade participant played Earnest Hemingway celebrating his 100th birthday. He seemed to be enjoying his ride, a benefit on the hot parade day. (Photos by B. J. Hetler)

OPINIONS

Just where do all these weeds come from?

By Roger Knutson

Ear to the ground

Surely you must have wondered after a hot afternoon in the garden or over a flower bed, "Just where do all these weeds come from?" It's a fair question and one with answers worth pursuing. First, as the philosophers say, we must define our terms. Just what is a weed? We all know. They are those plants that grow in such abundance just where we want something else to grow. But we can do better at a definition than just to say that a weed is any plant growing where we don't want it.That would condemn roses to weedhood if growing on a golf green and that just doesn't seem right.

Weeds are those plants that live best close to people and to civilization. Before our human ancestors kept grazing animals and began to cultivate crops, there were few weeds. Weeds only do well where the ground is disturbed in some way, and humans have been the preeminent disturbers of the ground for at least 10,000 years. Before that, weeds had to make do with the occasional natural catastrophes of landslides, floods or volcanic eruptions. Present day weeds may well have been among the rarest plants in that pristine early world.

The soil that you stir in your garden or field each spring is likely to be filled with seeds left there by plants that have been dead for decades, just waiting for you to bring them close to the surface where they can germinate and grow.

In 1880, Professor Beal at what was then Michigan Agricultural College, buried jars filled with the seeds of 25 common weeds. Their location is known to only one botany professor in each generation (like the formula for Benedictine), and it is his job to exhume them every 10 years and test them for viability. After 90 years, one kind still showed 50 percent germination and a number of others had lesser vitality. It is not hard to see how weeds almost magically appear any time soil is turned over, even if it has been under a building for decades. Botanists talk about the large weed seed bank in the soil; a bank not likely to ever suffer a shortage.

Weeds need more than seeds to survive for decades. They have to be able to germinate quickly when the time is right, grow as fast as possible, and produce the maximum number of seeds for that seed bank in the shortest time. Those are all virtues if you want to grow the plants, but not if you want to get rid of them. Many of the plants we now work so hard to exclude from fields and gardens have been cultivated crops at some time or place in human history. The Redroot Pigweed so despised by herbicide salesmen is the Amaranth plant from which our ancestors in the middle east harvested seeds and made porridge. No one would likely eat Pigweed without protest, but Amaranth sounds almost inviting. Barley and rye most probably originated as weeds in the early wheat fields of that same middle east cradle of agriculture. Any plant that can germinate quickly in disturbed soil, grow rapidly and produce abundant seed may be either a crop or a weed, depending on where and when it is growing.

Our weeds began with crop plants, are often indistinguishable from them and stubbornly live with them wherever in the world we carry the crops. A middle eastern farmer from 4,000 years ago would likely recognize most of the weeds in our present day midwestern fields and in our yards and roadsides. His names for them would differ, but he would have pulled out the same thousands of them that we have. A farmer 4,000 years in the future is likely to know the same ones.

If weeds in your garden seem to dominate the lettuce, carrots and spinach you have planted, maybe you should investigate solutions simpler than hoes and herbicides. Nearly all the common garden weeds are edible and many of them are delicious. Lambsquarters, Purselane, Pigweeds and a dozen others are useable as cooked greens when young, and you wouldn't want them to get overly large anyway. Leave a few specific weeds for seed each year and plan a care-free harvest early the next growing season. Then when someone complains that your garden looks weedy, you can point out that you are maximizing food production on your disturbed land in the same way that people have been doing it for thousands of years.

Letter to the editor

Marquis Roen was an important event

Editor:

Concerning the Geoffrey Reynolds article on the Marquis Roen — the launching, in 1921, of this vessel was considered to be quite important. So much so that businesses and the schools closed so that everyone could view the event. There was a large crowd.

I gave the Historical Society director a copy of the actual newspaper account of the launching which I'd hoped would be included in the article. My classmate, Hilda Roen Asher (daughter of captain John Roen) gave me the photograph, and I provided her with a copy of the clipping which had been saved by my grandmother, Elizabeth Hulme Beattie, sister of Herbert Hulme, the ship builder.

P.S. I doubt if I was taken to the launching, as I was only 3 years old!

Charlevoix Trail Committee celebrates MDOT grant

Trail will run 5.7 miles from township line to Nine Mile Point

Jerry Corley, chairman of the Charlevoix Trail Committee, stands at Nine Mile Point where the newly funded trail from Charlevoix will end. (Photo by B. J. Hetler)

After more than two years of work, the Charlevoix Trail Committee is celebrating approval of its trail funding request submitted with more than 400 other applications.

"We're very pleased," said committee chairman Jerry Corley. "We were crossing our fingers, hoping we'd get this."

Committee members drafted the grant request and submitted it to the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT). MDOT approved the use of $1.3 million in federal funds for 5.7 miles of a non-motorized trail.

The funding allows construction of the trail from the Hayes and Charlevoix townships' line to Nine Mile Point in Hayes Township. MDOT will select the engineering and construction companies and Corley hopes construction will begin next year.

The 10-foot wide trail will run alongside of U.S. 31 north providing a scenic route along Lake Michigan. It will be used for hiking, biking, horseback riding, roller blading and jogging.

The grant request was for 7.5 miles and Corley hopes the additional funding is approved during the next grant period. The trail would then extend to Bay Shore. Plans are for it to link up with an extensive trail through Petoskey and on to Harbor Springs.

Upon his retirement in 1986, he and his wife, Adela, moved to Lakes of the North where they have enjoyed years of traveling, golfing and community involvement.

Free children's art workshop slated

In conjunction with its exhibit, "Charlevoix Artists of the Past," the Charlevoix Historical Society will feature a free children's art workshop at the Charlevoix Depot Museum from 1-4 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 14.

All children in kindergarten through sixth grade are invited to participate, summer residents included. A tent will be available in case of rain.

The event will be taught by Caroline Smith, who just completed her first year as an art teacher at the Charlevoix Middle School. Smith, previously a popular art teacher in the East Jordan schools, is excited to be working outside the school with students in the arts.

"The children of Charlevoix are surrounded by such a beautiful environment, and art is one way to help them gain a greater appreciation for their community," Smith said.

The children will first view the exhibit's historical art work. It is hoped that these works will serve both as inspiration and example for them as they are asked to use their own impressions of life in Charlevoix to create original works that illustrate these impressions.

Smith will demonstrate different drawing and printmaking techniques in this hands-on setting. The children, at the end of the afternoon, will have their own masterpiece to take home.

To register, call Smith, 547-7023.

The "Charlevoix Artists of the Past" exhibit will be open to the public from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 13 and Saturday, Aug. 14 at the Charlevoix Depot Museum at the Depot Beach on Lake Charlevoix, located at the end of East Dixon Avenue. Admission is $2.

For more information on the exhibit, call 547-9754 or 547-0373.

The exhibit and related activities are partially funded by the Michigan Council of Art and Cultural Affairs and the Cheboygan Area Arts Council. The children's workshop also received funding from the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club.

Charlevoix scout troop completes Utah camp and canoe adventure

Boy Scouts of Troop 6 recently completed a three-night, four-day canoe and camping adventure along 63 miles of the Green River in Utah.

Scouts making the trip, which was three years in the planning, were Jeff Riley, Nick Miller, Patrick Wilson, Cody McCary and David Ruehle. They were led by Scoutmaster Bobbie Ruehle. Parents along on the trip were Jeff Riley Sr., Bill McCary and Gary Ruehle.

Scouts had to be at least 13 years old and hold the rank of first class to be eligible for the high adventure trip.

The scouts canoed the river and set up camp at a different location each night.

In June, Troop 6 held a court of honor to recognize scouts' achieving ranks and other accomplishments.

Those honored: Andy Riley and Tom Castiglione, tenderfoot rank; Cody McCary and Patrick Wilson, first class and first aid and canoeing merit badges; Caleb McCary, canoeing merit badge; Nick Miller, life rank along with small boat sailing, first aid, rifle shooting, canoeing and lifesaving merit badges; also achieved Boy Scouts of America life guard status; David Ruehle, life rank, canoeing, first aid, environmental science, personal management and emergency preparedness merit badges; Jeff Riley, life rank along with first aid, environmental science, citizenship in community, rifle shooting and emergency preparedness merit badges. Jeff Riley is also a member of Explorer Post 53 in Charlevoix.

David Ruehle is also attending junior leader training camp.

New scouts working toward tenderfoot rank are Kevin Kussina, Robert Shutler, Dayveon Meadows, Andrew Mallory, Eddie Waldron and Josh Saur.

Future Troop 6 activities are summer camp at Camp Breilick in Traverse City, a pizza fund-raiser, the Venetian Festival parade and drag races in Grand Rapids along with Troop 1 of Gaylord.

Charlevoix Venetian Festival

To the Residents, Businesses, Families and Friends of Charlevoix

The 1999 Venetian Festival will be highlighted by a blend of tradition and change. While 1999 ushers in the 69th year of Charlevoix's homecoming festival, it also marks the first time in decades that the Festival will not be run by the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce.

The Chamber Board voted earlier this year to restructure its role as promoter and overseer of the Venetian Festival, in response to sentiment expressed in two community forums and an increasing need to focus Chamber resources upon its primary economic mission. An independent non-profit corporation, entitled Charlevoix Venetian Festival, Inc., was formed to assume the role as administrator, promoter and proprietor of the Festival.

The Venetian Board, which is comprised of volunteer directors, has since met several times each week and has worked long hours to enhance the quality of existing Festival programs, to expand the array of activities and to further promote the family/homecoming orientation of the Festival. The goal of the Venetian Board has been to plan events with the people of Charlevoix and not simply plan for the community.

The Venetian Board has, within a short time period, conferred with a wide range of groups within the Charlevoix community. Thoughts and recommendations have been shared with business groups, civic and service clubs, city staff and council members, school staff and our school children and seniors. An ambitious program of Festival activities has emerged as a result of this community input.

The 69th Annual Venetian Festival will extend into eight days of continuous activities, opening on Sunday, July 18, 1999, and concluding on Sunday, July 25, 1999. Numerous events will make their debut, including the "Rhythms of Venetian Music Festival" featuring a diverse array of music with performances by 22 groups over the eight day period of the Festival. Performers range from aspiring local school age musicians and professional bands from Northern Michigan, to "The Contours," an original 1960's Motown group.

The "Venetian Games" also makes its debut, encompassing 12 different activities and athletic toumaments occurring over the eight days of the Festival. Both individual events and team sports are included in the "Venetian Games," some of which are competitive, with others geared to more relaxed participation. Other new activities have also been scheduled for young and old alike, from a "Vegas Night" aboard the Emerald Isle and "Bingo In The Park" for the seniors, to "Kids Art In The Park" on Tuesday afternoon.

After many months of persistent effort, it now also appears that a fireworks display may be possible. The United States Coast Guard has approved a proposal to stage fireworks, with a maximum shell size of six inches, from a barge in Round Lake. A clear zone radius of 420' would be maintained and would still afford sufficient area for the traditional Venetian Boat Parade. Final approval rests with the City of Charlevoix.

The plans for the 69th Venetian Festival draw upon the finest traditions of Venetian, as a celebration of life in Charlevoix. The Festival has been designed by and for the people of Charlevoix, at minimal or no expense to those who wish to participate in the numerous activities or enjoy the numerous entertainment opportunities.

Because there are relatively few revenue generating activities, the viability and success of the new Venetian organization and direction depend upon the financial support of the entire Charlevoix community. Seven corporate sponsors have generously contributed sizeable donations. These sponsors are Southdown, Inc., Pat McKeown Ford, Skyline Erectors, Inc., Citizens Bank, Charlevoix State Bank, Big Rock Point Restoration Project and Pepsi Cola of Northern Michigan. Numerous "Gold Sponsors" have also contributed donations of $1,000.00 or more.

Further financial support is still required, however, in order to sustain the present Venetian effort. The cost of a fireworks display alone, has more than tripled and the Venetian Board has been required to purchase a barge to stage the same. The expense of the "Rhythms of Venetian Music Festival" equals that of the prospective fireworks display. Like the "Venetian Games," no revenue will be generated for the Festival by either the prospective fireworks display or the music festival.

The new Venetian organization and direction is at a formative stage. Financial support from the community is critical to sustain these efforts for the 1999 Festival and future Festivals. Please support "Venetian" by sending contributions payable to the Charlevoix Venetian Festival, Inc., at P.O. Box 120, Charlevoix, Michigan 49720.

The generosity which has already been shown towards "Venetian" exemplifies the finest qualities of a small town community. Further support and generosity will ensure successful continuation of the Venetian Festival as a Charlevoix tradition well into the next century.

Many thanks and best wishes for a safe and full filled Venetian week.

"Brownie" Flanders, Dave Novotny & John Winn

Summer need not mean a break from reading, learning

Even during the summer months, Vernon Winfrey saw to it that his teen-age daughter — already an avid reader — read a book and wrote a book report each week. Many books and reports later, Oprah Winfrey began her broadcasting career at a Nashville radio station.

Today, Oprah Winfrey — talk show host, philanthropist, entertainment executive — still spends her spare time reading.

Many children are also reading in their spare time, even choosing to exercise their reading skills through the summer. But for many of us, when we hear the word "summer" the next word that comes to mind is "vacation."

Summer is a time for long days at the beach or pool, picnics in the park, and staying up late. But kids who close their books along with the school doors can forget much of what they learned during the year. Children, especially those struggling in school, can't afford to take a vacation from reading.

Reading is a skill that must be taught, supported, and sustained. Supporting children's reading activities — even simply reading daily with a child — requires substantial commitment from parents, older brothers and sisters and caring adults such as grandparents. This is particularly true during the summer when hard-won skills can be quickly erased.

Even without the structure of the school day, there are still lessons to learn. Summer is the perfect time to capitalize on children's natural curiosity and engage them in activities of all kinds. Kids can use the break from school to explore their interests through books and computers. But it shouldn't be a self-guided expedition. Involvement from parents or other caring adults is critical to success.

Adults can offer stimulating experiences to children who want to read and learn. Whether it's a weekly outing to the library, museum, or bookstore, adults who pay attention to children's interests can make a difference.

When outings aren't possible, make virtual trips with a computer. Many public libraries, Housing and Urban Development (HUD), neighborhood networks, or community centers are wired to the Internet. Adults and children can travel together on the information superhighway.

Sometimes of course, ideal levels of parent involvement aren't possible. The kids may be out of school, but work for moms and dads continues. That's why the U.S. Department of Education's America Reads Challenge has asked youth and community organizations, retired citizens and other caring adults to join with teachers and parents to keep all children reading this summer.

For more information on summer reading and writing activities for children, call (877) 4ED-PUBS or visit the U.S. Department of Education's website at http://www.ed.gov/family/RWN/Activ97.

Middle school students kick off 'Instead Club'

Approximately 100 students from Charlevoix Middle School attended the kickoff of the "Instead Club," an after school and summer activity program.

The youngsters enjoyed music, games and food during the two-hour evening following the end of the school year. The games were organized and supervised by parents and other adult volunteers.

Paul Stevens, "Instead Club" activities coordinator, reported that the evening was a huge success.

The goal of the program is to develop youth assets and ultimately reduce the proportion of adolescents who engage in sexual intercourse, thereby reducing teen-age pregnancy, preventable infectious disease — including HIV and sexually transmitted infections, and to reduce preventable chronic disease because of tobacco, alcohol and drug use.

The summer "Instead Club" activities will take place at the Charlevoix Middle School on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons throughout the summer. Among the activities planned are a canoe trip on the Jordan River and a trip to Michigan Adventure.

All students who will be enrolled in middle school in September at Charlevoix Public Schools, Northwest Academy, St. Mary's or are being home-schooled in the Charlevoix district are welcome to attend the sessions.

The motto for the "Instead Club" is "We're gonna party, we're gonna play. We're gonna feed you every day. So grab a friend, and take chance. Learn the power of abstinence."

For more information, call Paul Stevens, 547-5471.

The program is funded through a Michigan Abstinence Partnership Grant. The Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency was awarded a grant and Charlevoix Middle School is a pilot site for the program.

Charlevoix setting that evokes memories of On Golden Pond. The serenity continues indoors where light floods the living room's cathedral ceiling and catwalk. Each room is exquisitely decorated to its own personality.

• The Wertz Victorian Home is a charming house in the heart of Charlevoix built in 1893 and lovingly renovated two years ago by Rick Wertz Building. You'll see before-and-after photos and you'll notice that the floor plan was opened, a fireplace built and two dormers added. The interior is warmly decorated with bold colors and fabrics, and crown moldings add to the drama. Antique clocks and furniture bring an older home feel.

• The Unbehaun house, a contemporary style home located on Round Lake, offers views of downtown Charlevoix at every glance. The design brings light which combines with the soft warm tones throughout to give the home second-to-none comfort. The interiors blend one-of-a-kind antiques with traditional upholstered pieces. The view from the upper-level office is second- to-none.

• The modern Fisher home is prominently placed on a rocky Lake Michigan shoreline and is loaded with contemporary features including rounded drywall, stained concrete floors and circular ceilings.

'You don't have to be an artist'

By B. J. Hetler

A new studio is the ultimate shopping experience and opportunity to use your creativity.

Cottage Pottery located in the Edgewater Inn shops is a paint-your-own pottery studio. It sells ceramic platters, bowls, vases, bird houses, tooth fairy boxes and more, from which customers make their selections.

Customers then create a design to paint on their ceramic piece, and choose from a variety of colorful glazes provided by the studio. If someone needs advice, owners Kathy Campbell and Paige O'Leary are nearby.

"You don't have to be an artist," O'Leary said. The studio provides a supply of stencils, sponges and other artistic supplies to aid the budding artist.

Cottage Pottery opened in late May and is a popular spot, say Campbell and O'Leary. There is a children's section where prices for the ceramic items are $5 or under. Tourists visit the studio, as well as residents. The studio welcomes groups of children and adults who attend to enjoy painting together. Customers are all ages and come from diverse backgrounds.

"We have business people who enjoy it so much they keep coming back," Campbell said.

Choosing the item, the colors and the design, and then painting the piece is very relaxing and therapeutic, O'Leary said.

Unlike many other pottery studios, Cottage Pottery charges no hourly fee, but instead charges 50 percent of the item the customer chooses to paint.

"We're one of only two studios in the nation that I know of that doesn't charge an hourly fee of $7 to $8 an hour, in addition to the price of the bisque-ware," O'Leary said.

The owners say it adds to the relaxed atmosphere of their studio. People can stay and paint as long as they want, without having to watch the clock, O'Leary said.

Cottage Pottery offers special-occasion items and designs. A unique idea for a family reunion is to paint a platter and have the family members sign it. Customers enjoy painting designs on plates or other items for special events, such as a wedding anniversary or a birthday.

The studio provides nontoxic, lead-free glazes, design books, brushes, aprons and other supplies.

A new service by Cottage Pottery brings the supplies, including the ceramic items, to a convention, group gathering or a private home. Customers are able to use their creative skills in a setting other than the studio.

Campbell and O'Leary plan to have a web site in the fall that will specialize in personalized creations for various events.

Cottage Pottery is located at the Edgewater Inn, 104 Michigan Ave., Charlevoix. Hours are 10 a.m.-8 p.m. Monday-Saturday, and noon-4 p.m. on Sunday. The telephone number is 547-6383.

Charlevoix's 31st Annual Craft Show this weekend

Combine one of the most picturesque settings in the state with a gathering of more than 150 craftsmen and women from throughout the United States, an open-air atmosphere, and the result is Charlevoix's 31st Annual Craft Show, a bonanza of opportunity for collectors.

This year the craft show is from 9 a.m.-7 p.m. Saturday, July 10 and from noon-7 p.m. Sunday, July 11.

All available spaces in Charlevoix's grass terraced waterfront parks, fronting on Round Lake yacht harbor, are filled by artisans displaying a great variety of crafts — wooden furniture, birdhouses, pottery, jewelry, quilted works, toys, original folk art, baskets, hand woven rugs, dried florals and herbs, handpainted clothes, Native American beadwork, decoys, dolls, stained glass and, of course, holiday items.

Charlevoix's Craft Show virtually offers something for everyone, with reasonable prices.

> "It's a very interesting craft show."
> — Phyllis Young, jewelry designer

The timing and setting of the show is ideal. The summer resort and tourist season is in full swing, boaters are sailing and cruising in and out of the picture-book Round Lake harbor. Summer has arrived, and Charlevoix is celebrating.

Exhibitors come from a wide range of backgrounds: some are fulltime craftsmen and women, and others are those who find time to devote to a favorite hobby.

"It's a very interesting craft show," said jewelry designer Phyllis Young of Elk Rapids, who has participated in 30 of Charlevoix's 31 craft shows.

Consumers will foot bill for spent fuel

The federal government's refusal to live up to its obligation to accept spent nuclear fuel will cost Consumers Energy electricity customers more than $32 million through 2004, a top utility executive told lawmakers.

"The U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) was supposed to have a repository for spent nuclear fuel ready by January of 1998," said John Clark, senior vice president of Consumers Energy. "The DOE isn't even close. That means the customers of Consumers Energy and every other nuclear utility are paying twice: Once for the development of the national repository and again for the storage at power plants."

Clark testified before the Michigan House Energy and Technology Committee. He urged lawmakers to vote for a resolution calling on the federal government to meet its obligations to open a national repository for spent nuclear fuel. The resolution is sponsored by Rep. Mary Ann Middaugh, who chairs the House Energy and Technology Committee.

Middaugh's resolution notes that a 1982 federal law requires the DOE to build a permanent storage facility for spent nuclear fuel. The DOE has been working on a proposed site at Yucca Mountain, Nev.

Clark said that customers of electric utilities with nuclear power plants continue to pay more than $600 million a year for a national repository. The federal Nuclear Waste Fund totals $15 billion. The Michigan contribution to this fund is nearly $700 million, with $200 million coming from Consumers Energy customers, since its inception.

"Funding hasn't been a problem, yet DOE says 2010 is the earliest that it expects to have a facility open," Clark said. "It took the United States less than a decade to put a man on the moon, yet it's going to take nearly 30 years to open this repository. I find it difficult to comprehend why the federal government has failed to act."

Passage of the resolution will tell the Congress and the federal government that Michigan lawmakers and citizens want a facility completed at Yucca Mountain, Clark said.

Clark also urged lawmakers to support a federal bill that would require the DOE to create an interim storage facility.

Voisin third in prestigious 'championship'

Charlevoix native Vince Voisin recorded an impressive third-place finish in the SST120/Formula Two APBA/UIM World Championship powerboat race on the Saginaw River off Bay City.

Vince Voisin

Rich Hearn of Cincinnati won the race at 96.7 mph, while J.R. Saffold of Tampa was second. The field was comprised of 27 drivers from the United States and Europe.

The event was part of the prestigious Bay City River Roar, and the racers' finishes counted toward the American Power Boat Association High Point Championships.

Voisin, 24 and a 1993 Charlevoix High School graduate, is currently second in the championship point standings in his first full season of racing on the championship circuit.

He placed second in Georgia in the first race of the year, then placed second at races in Florida and West Virginia before placing third in Pennsylvania.

Voisin, who graduated from Michigan State University in 1997, is an accountant working for the Motorola Corp. in Atlanta.

Nice breeze to end spring season

By A. Nony Mouse

The spring series came to an end amid dark and stormy skies, but only a few drops of rain fell here and there. A nice sailing breeze held throughout although it eased considerably not long after the finish of the shortened course race.

Finally, the J-22s shook up their almost consistent finishing order except (as often) Hussy finished first. Following closely were Paleface Lite, H S Moisture Missile and, of course, High Maintenance in fourth place. Superfulos, Jumblies and Gecko trailed, in that order. Swine Flew and Crazy Horse again did not start. The final series standings, best five of the six races sailed: Hussy 6, H S Moisture 9, Superfulos 13, High M 20, Paleface 22, Jumblies 33 and Swine Flew with 35. The others either did not sail the three-race minimum or were not registered for this series.

Gotcha again led Kamikaze and Mint Julep in Fleet A and the corrected order of finish was the same. Therefore, Gotcha ends up with a perfect 5, Kamikaze 10 and Mint J 15.

In Fleet B, M 3 (pronounced "M cubed") crossed the line well ahead of J Hawk, the only two boats to cross the finish line. Spring series final: Cabaret with 7, Our Thyme 11, M 3 12 and J Hawk 17.

Fleet C's Lost Vermonter knocked off Blasen III with Original Sin, Jesse and Cygnus following. It ends up with Blasen at 11, Lost V and Original Sin each with 13, in second and third, respectively (tiebreaker, most first places), then Jesse with 14, and Cygnus with 18.

In the JAM 198 and higher, Cheemaun led the way, trailed by Apothecary and then Red Hot. The series ends with Red Hot at 6 points, Cheemaun 9 and Apothecary 10.

Attorney asks for dismissal in suits

> The attorney, Gretchen Olsen, claims the city and its officials are protected against liability by governmental immunity and the public duty doctrine.

The city of Charlevoix and four of its officials are asking a judge to dismiss them from lawsuits relating to the 1997 Venetian Festival fireworks explosion.

Petoskey attorney Gretchen Olsen has asked Charlevoix County judge Richard M. Pajtas for summary disposition for the city of Charlevoix, city manager Michael Wiesner, clerk JoAnne Patrick, police chief Dennis Halverson and fire chief Doug Carver in lawsuits filed by victims of the fireworks explosion.

Summary disposition means asking the judge to make a ruling without a trial based on the evidence in hand.

Local resident Mark Yager was killed and at least 15 others injured in the 1997 Venetian Festival blast when a 12-inch firework exploded in its steel launching tube, sending shrapnel hurtling into the crowd of nearby spectators.

Yager's family and other victims of the explosion subsequently filed eight lawsuits, naming as defendants the city officials who permitted the fireworks, the chamber of commerce and the Venetian Festival officials who helped organize the event, the pyrotechnician who launched the fireworks and the companies that may have manufactured or supplied the fireworks.

Olsen claims the city and its officials are protected against liability by governmental immunity and the public duty doctrine.

Olsen also noted that each individual official also has governmental immunity unless their conduct is grossly negligent and that negligence is the direct cause of the injury or damage in question. The law defines gross negligence as "conduct so reckless as to demonstrate a substantial lack of concern or whether an injury results," she states.

Plaintiffs in the lawsuits claim the city officials were negligent for allowing pyrotechnician Richard Davis of Central Lake and his non-profit fireworks company, Fireworks North, to transport and shoot the fireworks in an unsafe manner. The city officials were also responsible for maintaining a safety perimeter around the fireworks launching site and other crowd control measures, the suits maintain.

Plaintiffs assert that spectators were within 75 feet of the fireworks launching site near the Beaver Island Boat Co. docks. A federal standard calls for a 720-foot safety perimeter when shooting 12-inch fireworks shells.

Olsen noted that city officials were only involved from the permitting end, and that Davis had shot the fireworks shows for 12 previous Venetian Festivals prior to 1997.

Wiesner, Halverson, Carver, chamber executive director Jacqueline Merta and Davis held a meeting prior to the fireworks to discuss the launching site, Olsen said.

Olsen said the local officials "relied heavily" on the pyrotechnic operator's expertise, a reasonable thing to do based on Fireworks North's good reputation, its history with the Venetian Festival, and the municipal defendants' limited knowledge of the subject, Olsen writes in her motion.

If city officials failed to maintain a safe distance for spectators from the launching site, or issued the fireworks permit without making sure Davis complied with state laws, that still does not meet the threshold of conduct so reckless as to demonstrate a substantial lack of concern for potential injury, according to Olsen.

Pajtas may hear the city officials' motion on July 20, when a similar motion for summary disposition sought by the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce and Venetian Festival is scheduled to be heard.

In other Venetian Festival lawsuit developments, the attorney for the Beaver Island Boat Co. and its president, Lynn DeGrow, has made an offer to three plaintiffs to settle their lawsuits.

Fireworks will be launched from barge

"The Coast Guard has been extremely supportive of our efforts," Barron said, adding that he believes a majority of city council members also support the return of the fireworks. Overwhelming support is coming from the community and civic groups, he said.

The display would last 20-30 minutes. Safety features besides the barge include a maximum cardboard shell size of six inches. Twelve-inch canister shells were used in the 1997 display.

The display will still be dramatic, Barron said. A greater number of shells will be used within a shorter period of time. He stressed that all procedures will be up to federal standards.

"The keynote of the fireworks event will be the safety of everyone involved," Barron said. "If we gain approval for the proposed fireworks display, it will be the safest fireworks shoot in Northern Michigan."

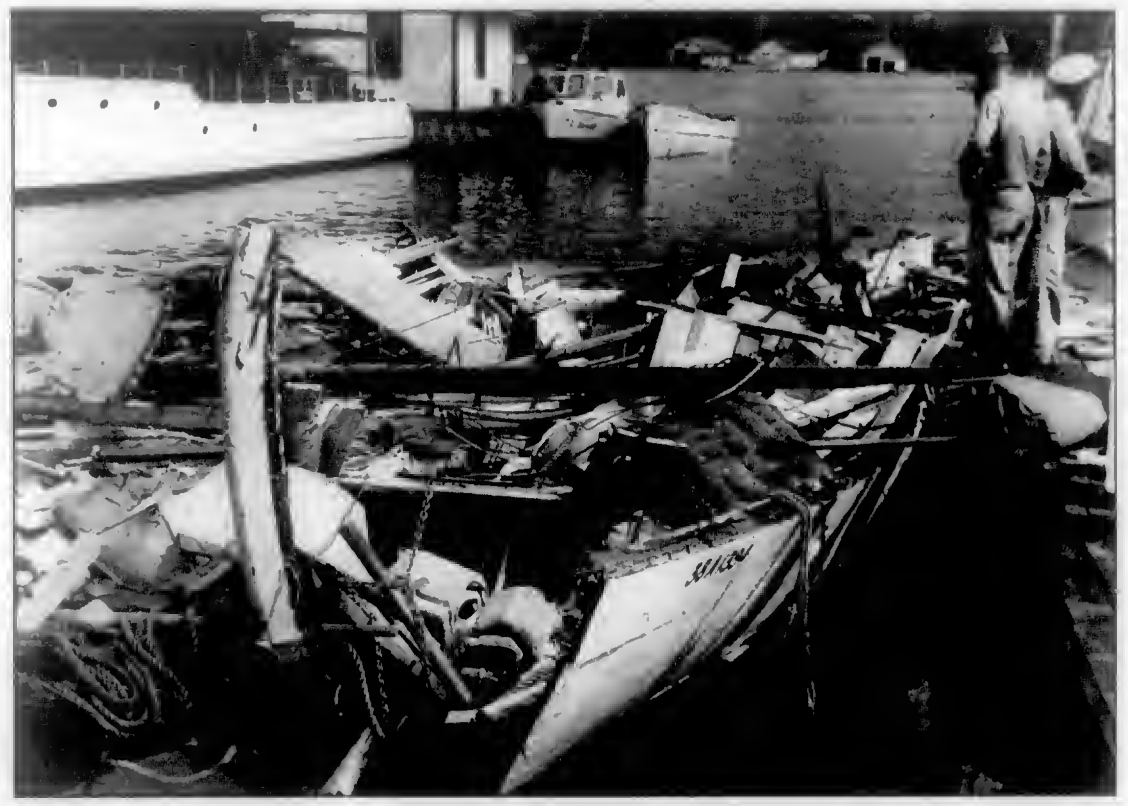
SCRAPBOOK

Explosion destroys schooner 'Aloha' in Charlevoix boatyard

Editor's note: Reprinted from the Thursday, July 19, 1956 edition of the Charlevoix Courier.



This photograph shows what was left of the 40-foot schooner 'Aloha,' which exploded in the Hamilton & Son Boat Yard on the south shore of Lake Charlevoix in July, 1956. (Photo courtesy Charlevoix Historical Society)

An explosion in the Hamilton & Son Boat Yard on the south shore of Lake Charlevoix last Thursday morning completely destroyed the 40 ft. auxiliary cabin schooner, 'Aloha', owned by Fred C. Schaub of Big Rapids and hospitalized Ray Hamilton, 61, owner of the yard and Archie Himebauch, 33, an employee.

The condition of Mr. Hamilton who suffered a dislocated right hip, multiple lacerations, superficial burns of the arms and face and a concussion in the blast was reported as satisfactory Wednesday.

Mr. Himebauch was treated for shock and discharged to his home Friday.

Mr. Hamilton was inside the schooner, which had an auxiliary engine and Mr. Himebauch had just stepped on the deck of the boat which was tied at the dock in the boat yard at the time of the blast. The exact cause of the explosion has not been determined by the U. S. Marine inspector, Lt. Frank M. Sperry of St. Ignace, who investigated the accident. However, it is felt that vapor gas in the bilge which was ignited when Mr. Hamilton turned the key to start the motor may have been the cause of the blast which wrecked the schooner and broke windows in several homes in the area. The force of the blast blew Mr. Himebauch onto the dock.

There was no fire as a result of the explosion and workmen who included Robert Hamilton, son of the injured man, pulled Mr. Hamilton from the wreckage. Both Mr. Hamilton and Mr. Himebauch were taken to the Charlevoix hospital via ambulance.

As can be seen in the picture above taken shortly after the accident the schooner was completely destroyed.

The Aloha, which is well known here, was built in Florida in 1930 and for a number of years Charlevoix had been its home port.

Mr. Hamilton is still confined to the hospital where attendants said Wednesday his condition was good. He is a former mayor of the city and served as city clerk of more than 25 years.

The accident Thursday was the first major waterfront accident here in recent history of the community.

An erroneous report of the accident sent the Charlevoix fire department to the dock where the tug, Gypsy, owned by Jake White was moored before the error was corrected and the fire truck dispatched to the boat yard.

Burglars break into Campbell Shoe Store

Editor's note: This appeared in the Sept. 24, 1919 edition of the Charlevoix Courier.

The Campbell Boot Shop was entered by burglars late Thursday night or early Friday morning. The robbery was committed by Floyd Bradley and James Blab, both of Chicago.

The men entered the building through a window in the back of the store from which they pulled off the iron bars that protected it. They then broke the lock on the back door and left this way.

When the affair was discovered Friday morning on opening the store shoe boxes were piled on the floor and shoes scattered around the place. About seventy-five pairs of shoes were missing.

The authorities were notified at once, which resulted in the capture of one of the men, a Floyd Bradley, who was employed at McCann's bakery. He was found in bed with a pair of ladie's shoes on.

The other man, James Caleb, was taken later on and both of them are now in the county jail. The shoes were all recovered, part of them being hidden in a grain sack in McCann's basement. Aside from the damage to the shoes, the loss only amounted to about ten dollars.

'Bigger' Venetian set for kickoff

Here we go!

The Charlevoix Venetian Festival 1999 promises to be bigger and better than any of its predecessors.

From the Kid's Art in the Park to Bingo in the Park to Vegas Night to the carnival to the boat raffle to the everpresent variety of sensational entertainment at the Odmark Pavilion in East Park, Charlevoix is the place to be for eight days beginning on Sunday, July 18.

"This really is a true homecoming," Dan Barron, president of Charlevoix Venetian Festival, Inc., said Monday. "Venetian week has been a Charlevoix homecoming for families and friends — a celebration of life in Charlevoix.

"The entire Venetian board is proud and excited about the programs and activities that are being offered. And they're enthusiastic about the level of community participation and support that we've had."

The festival has expanded in size and scope from years past. It has gone from a three-or-four-day event to eight days.

Barron said the reason for the expansion was that the community wanted it.

"It's the result of comments coming out of community forums relating to the festival," he said. "It's actually our response to provide a diverse array of activities geared to all different ages and groups within the community."

There truly is something for everybody, from an expanded list of sporting events for all ages, to other activities geared to children, teenagers, young adults, seniors and all those in between.

It all kicks off on Sunday with the opening of the Venetian Games. The first official event of the Games is a tennis tournament at the Shanahan Field Courts beginning at 12:30 p.m. Like nearly every event connected to the Venetian Games, the tennis tourney welcomes players from almost every age group.

Other athletic events that begin on various days next week: The Keith Carey Venetian Golf Cup for Juniors and the Keith Carey Venetian Golf Cup Championship at Charlevoix Country Club and Charlevoix Golf Club, respectively; a 4-on-4 soccer tournament at Shanahan Field; Camp Rayder Basketball at the Charlevoix High School gym; a co-ed volleyball tournament on the sand court at Ferry Beach; swim championships at the community pool; Venetian Cup Sailing Regatta for Juniors on Lake Charlevoix; a co-ed softball tournament at the city diamonds; the Jeff Drenth Road Race, which begins at the Charlevoix Elementary School; and an outdoor 3-on-3 basketball tournament.

The full plate of athletic events are just the tip of the iceberg at the Venetian Festival.

Festival goers' eyes and ears will be entertained with nary a break as East Park hosts band after band and entertainment act starting with a teen concert/dance just after the opening remarks and welcome on Sunday. Bingman sentenced

A man whose scheme to rob a bank polarized Charlevoix for several hours last August was sentenced to state prison July 9.

Patrick Allen Bingman, 27, formerly of Massachusetts, cried and apologized for his crimes.

Charlevoix County Circuit Judge Richard M. Pajtas handed down sentences against Bingman amounting to 20 years in prison.

On June 25, Bingman took advantage of a plea bargain.

Bingman pleaded no contest to an offense called making a false bomb threat, and habitual offender-fourth offense.

For those offenses, Pajtas sentenced Bingman to serve 10-to-15 years in prison.

acoustic rock take the stage from 7:15-10 p.m.

The victims of the 1997 Venetian Festival fireworks tragedy will be remembered at the festival with a benediction at 7:30 p.m., Monday, July 19, at Odmark Pavilion. The Rev. Michael Dennis will give the benediction and prayer.

The remembrance will be a prelude to the evening's music at the pavilion, festival organizer Dean Davenport said.

"We need to remind people of the tragedy," he said. "It's not all games and balloons. By doing this we make a statement that we haven't forgotten."

The accident killed one man and injured at least 15 other people when a firework exploded in its casing, sending shrapnel into the crowd at the 1997 festival's fireworks display.

After the benediction, "Backroom Gang," which plays Dixieland ragtime/jazz and blues, takes the stage.

Some two dozen acts will be featured in East Park throughout the week, from those which specialize in folk music, to others such as a drum-and-bugle corps unit, a comedian, a Motown Revue, a puppeteer, the Up North Big Band, and the list goes on and on.

Two of the musical highlights are Charlevoix-based acts "Leavin' Dodge" and "Wild Angels."

"Leavin' Dodge" is a Charlevoix-based trio that performs urban folk music, while "Wild Angels" features two Charlevoix natives, Danica Kilander and Jennifer Ricks. The trio's music ranges from country to contemporary.

Kilander, the reigning Venetian Queen, will hand her crown over to the 1999 Venetian Queen at the Coronation Ceremony at 7 p.m. Saturday, July 24 in East Park.

That same evening, a raffle will be held for a 20-foot Four Winns 200 Horizon inboard/outboard boat with trailer, valued at $27,000. Raffle tickets are available at the boat, which is on display in East Park at the end of Mason Street. Raffle-ticket buyers need not be present to win.

Other Venetian highlights:

- Kid's Art in the Park, 1-3 p.m., Tuesday, July 20, East Park.
- Bingo in the Park, 1:30-4:30 p.m., Wednesday, July 21, East Park. Jerry Ward performs "Tribute to America" during intermission from 3-3:20 p.m.
- The carnival, Thursday, July 22-Saturday, July 24, at Erber parking lot/Mason Street.
- The boat parade, Saturday, July 24, dusk, Round Lake Harbor.
- Tour the Tall Ship, Saturday, July 24, noon-8 p.m. Round Lake Harbor.
- Street Parade, Saturday, July 24, 11 a.m., Bridge Street.
- Tours of the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Acacia will also be offered at various times.

Food concessions will be available throughout the festival in East Park.

Organizers seeking 'Vegas' volunteers

A "Vegas Night" is set for the Charlevoix Venetian Festival and will take place beginning at 9 p.m., Thursday, July 22.

A variety of casino-style games will be played aboard the Emerald Isle boat, which will remain docked throughout the evening.

Games include blackjack, craps, dirty queen, a money wheel and other games of chance. Volunteers are needed to deal blackjack or help with other games. A brief training session for volunteer blackjack dealers will be available on Wednesday, July 21.

Live music will be provided by the Northwest Academy Jazz All Stars, under the direction of Gary Stutzman. A cash bar will be available throughout the evening and light snacks will be provided.

Vegas Night is a fund-raiser for the Venetian Festival and all proceeds will go to the festival. Tickets are $10 per person in advance and are available at Interior Motives and The Sunglass Shoppe. If space is available, tickets will be available at the door for $15 per person.

Anyone interested in volunteering or wanting to reserve tickets may contact Valerie Barnes at 547-1834.

Two injured in barn fire

Two people were injured Sunday in a fire that destroyed a barn at the Raymond Flowers residence, 1657 Marion Center Road in Marion Township.

Vickie Flowers, the owner, sustained second-degree burns to her hands while moving a travel trailer away from the flames, according to Charlevoix Fire Chief Doug Carver. A firefighter suffered from heat exhaustion.

Both were treated and released at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The fire call came at 6:04 p.m. The 20-by-40 foot barn was destroyed before firefighters arrived. The animals in the barn and adjacent shed and garage were saved.

Carver said the cause of the fire is under investigation. However, it is believed to be natural.

Bingman to serve consecutive sentences

In a separate case, Bingman pleaded guilty to obstruction of justice, and was sentenced to serve 2-to-5 years in prison.

The judge made the sentences consecutive, meaning the obstruction of justice penalty will be served after Bingman completes the 10-to-15 year term.

Before the plea bargain, Bingman was facing up to life in prison if convicted.

In exchange for his pleas, other pending felony charges will be dropped including conspiracy to commit bank robbery, attempted bank robbery, and malicious destruction of police property.

Bingman was accused of conspiring with three other men in the fake bomb/bank robbery plan.

Police say Bingman masterminded the botched bank robbery in Charlevoix that was attempted on Aug. 25, 1998.

Watching the movie "Dead Presidents" may have been the catalyst for Bingman and the others to hatch the bank robbery scheme, according to testimony in district court.

The plan included creating a diversion on the south side of town, then robbing the First of America bank branch on U.S. 31 northeast of Charlevoix, and north of the draw bridge. (The bank has since changed names.)

An open draw bridge would trap police on the opposite side of town.

Police have said the planned crime fell apart when some of the participants were caught on the wrong side of the bridge themselves.

Testimony in district court indicated the scheme may have fallen apart when others backed out of the plan.

Bingman, also known as Patrick Shea, was arrested by the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department on Nov. 6.

In the obstruction of justice case, Bingman admitted he threatened a witness in another criminal case out of the Upper Peninsula.

Sheriff: Marine laws will be strictly enforced

Due to the increase in the number of complaints and violations from the careless operation of personal watercraft (PWC), the Charlevoix County Sheriff Department Marine Division said it will strictly enforce marine laws pertaining to their use, according to a press release by Sheriff George Lasater.

Some of the key laws that the marine division will be paying particularly close attention to are:

- Any operator or occupant on board a personal watercraft must at all times be wearing a Coast Guard-approved flotation device that fits and is in good serviceable condition.
- A person shall not operate a personal watercraft between the hours from one hour before sunset to 8 a.m.
- Whenever a personal watercraft is within 100 feet of an anchored boat, drifting boat, raft, dock, pier, buoyed swim area, or swimmer in the water, the PWC must be operated at an idle-slow no-wake speed.
- A personal watercraft shall not cross within 150 feet behind another vessel, other than a personal watercraft, that is traveling at a speed greater than slow-no wake.
- A personal watercraft shall not be operated by a person under the age of 14.
- A person who is between 12 and 14 may use a personal watercraft if he or she obtained a boating safety certificate before Jan. 1, 1999.
- A person who was born after Dec. 31, 1978 shall not operate a PWC on Michigan waters unless he or she first obtains a boating certificate and is in possession (physically on board the PWC) of a boating safety certificate.
- The owner of a personal watercraft or a person having charge over or control of a PWC shall not authorize or knowingly permit the PWC to be operated in violation of the aforementioned sections.
- A personal watercraft shall at all times be operated in a reasonable and prudent manner. Maneuvers that unreasonably or unnecessarily endanger life, limb or property constitute reckless operation of a vessel.
- Weaving through congested vessel traffic or swerving at the last possible moment to avoid a collision also constitute reckless operation of a PWC.
- Those personal watercraft equipped with lanyard type engine cut-off must have the lanyard attached to their person, clothing or personal flotation device as is appropriate.
- A personal watercraft cannot be operated where the water depth is less than 2 feet unless it is being operated at a slow no-wake speed or it is being docked or launched.
- Personal watercraft shall maintain a distance of 200 feet from the shoreline on the Great Lakes unless traveling at slow no-wake speed perpendicular to the shoreline.

Rangers help keep up the pace on golf courses

EDITH

EDITH GILBERT

Even though I've been around golfers most of my life, I had never heard of "rangers," "pacemasters" or "ambassadors" until I met Neil Suomela. He is one of many retirees who enjoys working as a pacemaster at the Bay Harbor Golf Club. His main job is to help golfers maintain a steady pace and prevent bottlenecks from developing on any one of their three courses. At $240 a round, slow play can not only be a problem for the players, but for the owners of Bay Harbor as well. Suomela's role is similar to that of the popular Ski Patrol — to be friendly, helpful and enforce the rules. Since the decline of caddies and the accepted use of golf carts after World War II, the ranger program became a national program that is used at many country clubs and private golf courses.

With the escalating popularity in golf, thanks to guys like Arnold Palmer, keeping up the pace on a course has become a major problem. Novice golfers often resist letting people play through, which may cause others to lose their tempers, and can turn what ought to be a pleasant three-hour game into a five- or six-hour endurance contest. For example, if there is a slow foursome ahead of a fast twosome, it is courteous for the foursome to wave the twosome through to speed up play. If they don't, that's where the pacemasters come in. Very politely. At Bay Harbor they patrol the course in golf carts at all times with hand-held radios, two rangers on each nine holes.

But according to Steve Braun, who trains his "ambassadors" at the classic Belvedere Golf Course, amateur golfers are not the only ones who need to be nudged by polite officials. At Pinehurst recently, Tiger Woods became upset when he was approached at the U.S. Open by an official of the United States Golf Association for taking too much time on a shot! Then there's famed champion Jack Nicklaus, who was always considered to be one of the slowest players in golf. He was "put on the clock" by USGA officials for slow play more than once when he lost sight of the group ahead of him. In case you didn't know, being "put on the clock" subjects one to a penalty or fine.

Different courses create different situations. There are the old classic courses that cater to senior citizens in their 80s and 90s, in contrast to convention centers that cater to business conferences, where nongolfers or those who play only once or twice a year tend to slow down the play.

Rangers not only try to maintain the pace by telling people "I am sorry, but you are being extremely slow and holding up the whole course," but also by helping players locate lost balls or a missing club. They replace divots and in general try to help to make the game more enjoyable for everyone.

Chuck MacGillivray, a golf enthusiast and former golf pro, said during this interview that, "Golf is a world unto itself!" And then he reminded with a smile that my late husband, Julius, who was Northern Michigan State Champion years ago, told him, "I never 'enjoyed' a round of golf in my life!"

Much of plant life came from elsewhere

Ear to the ground

By Roger Knutson

The United States has for the last three centuries served as a magnet for people from all over the world. Immigrants have, for good or ill, clearly shaped the world around us. In much the same way and at the same time, our plant world has been shaped and altered by botanical immigrants. Like the immigrant people, immigrant plants had to be sufficiently aggressive to carve out a niche for themselves at the expense of the natives. You can drive for hundreds of miles on midwest interstates and see few plants that would have been familiar to the original inhabitants. Roadside after roadside is crowded with immigrant people and covered with immigrant plants.

Here in Northern Michigan, the native plants are just a bit more abundant than in the generally tamer parts of the state, partly because immigrant trees have not been very successful at establishing themselves here. More urban areas have more immigrant trees: The Tree That Grew in Brooklyn in the famous novel of 50 years ago was an ailanthus originally from China. And just last fall, the city of Charlevoix planted two Norway maples, originally from Europe, on our front boulevard. They are doing well, as immigrants often do.

The Flora of Michigan, that monumental three volume compilation by Ed Voss, lists 2500 kinds of plants that can be found in Michigan, and while Dr. Voss is reluctant to say just how many of those are immigrants, an estimate of 10-20 percent would not be out of line. It is not just numbers of kinds that count. In anything but an undisturbed forest, 80 percent of the total plants you see in Michigan will be immigrants. The bright blooms we see along roadsides in the summer are almost exclusively immigrants living in the disturbed environment we have made for them. The Brome Grass likely to fill in the spaces between the flowers along those same roadsides is also from European ancestors. If you are in a part of the country where you can hear or see ads for agricultural herbicides, you may be familiar with the names of velvetleaf, lamsquarters and the evil-sounding black nightshade. What the ads don't tell you is that those plants were not here waiting to invade the agricultural fields as soon as the forests were cleared or the prairie plowed. They came with the crops; with the human immigrants. Velvetleaf arrived here all the way from India. In your lawn, the plant we call Kentucky bluegrass may have arrived here from Kentucky, but no one knows for sure how it got to Kentucky. Best guesses are that bluegrass has been traveling with people ever since they domesticated grazing animals about 10,000 years ago in the area south of Turkey.

The white clover that may be blooming just now in your lawn used to be called Dutch clover, which pretty clearly suggests that it came from the old country. Plantain, which you will have in your lawn only if there are places with enough traffic to do in some of the grass, used to be called white man's feet by the Native Americans who had never seen it before those other immigrants' feet landed on these shores.

The arrival of most immigrants doesn't rate a formal announcement, but now and then one of sufficient importance to us will be noted in the newspaper. When we lived in Iowa, I found in the Decorah (Iowa) Republican of Aug. 11, 1871, a report of the first appearance of the Canadian Thistle. Not surprisingly, the thistle was first seen near the railroad depot and what the Republican called "The neighborhood of the Norwegian College"; both places you might expect immigrants to pause before spreading out and colonizing the whole area. The plant did not come from Canada, but from Europe. We like to attach blame someplace where not too many will complain.

Among the plants, immigrants are almost always weeds; aggressive, land-grabbing, prolific creatures that we would sometimes rather be rid of. It doesn't take too great a stretch of analogy to see ourselves in those vigorous, spreading plants. We are nearly all immigrants; how many of us are only weeds would seem to be our choice.

Letter to the editor

Editor:

So ... you want to build your country dream home nestled in a wooded area on 10 acres of land? Sprawl scum! Land hog! So ... you want a nearby emporium housing a treasure trove of the world's best products at the lowest possible prices? Mall monster! Growth glutton! So ... you want a sport utility vehicle (SUV) to safely transport your family and camping equipment? Car crusher! Fuel flusher!

Wake up folks. Beware of the groups who seek to curtail your freedom to live where and how you choose. They use pleasant sounding and seemingly innocuous terms like "Smart Growth," "Livable Communities" and "Controlled Environments," but what they really want to control is what they do not own.

Private property rights are a cornerstone of our freedom. We must be on guard against individuals or groups who would undermine those rights or dictate our lifestyle choices. After all, one man's utopia is another man's hell.

To contribute time or money to those groups is to buy them the chains that will ultimately be our shackles.

Stolen jeep recovered in lake

Warrants are pending against two suspects who allegedly stole a 1998 Jeep Cherokee from a Charlevoix driveway early Sunday morning.

Richard Slabaugh, who lives on Prospect Street, reported his vehicle stolen to Charlevoix city police.

Earlier, the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department received a complaint that a vehicle matching that of the stolen Jeep had struck mailboxes on Marion Center Road.

Around 10 a.m. Sunday, a citizen reported seeing a Jeep Cherokee driven into Adams Lake, south of Charlevoix.

The Charlevoix Fire Department dive team recovered the partially submerged vehicle with the aid of Charlevoix Towing. No one was inside.

Going on information of witnesses and residents, and with the help of the sheriff's department tracking dog, police identified the alleged perpetrators.

City police are seeking a warrant for auto theft, while the sheriff's department is seeking warrants for malicious destruction of property on at least two individuals.

Boy accidentally shot by brother

A young boy was expected to be released from Charlevoix Area Hospital on Monday after he was accidentally shot in the neck on Friday.

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department responded to a South Arm Township residence Friday afternoon on a report of an accidental shooting.

Police discovered that a 16-year-old male accidentally shot his 6-year-old brother with a 9 mm semiautomatic pistol, which was taken from his father's locked gun cabinet.

The bullet entered the 6-year-old's neck and exited near his shoulder blade, according to the sheriff's department report.

The older boy was showing his brother the weapon when it accidentally discharged, police said.

Sheriff George T. Lasater did not release the names of the brothers.

First 'Walk' ready to set sail

Gardens offer beauty, wide variety in Charlevoix

The 1999 Garden Walk, a first for the Charlevoix Area Garden Club, is scheduled for 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Thursday, July 22.

The walk consists of stops at five gardens and The Depot near the Chicago Club, which is where the container contest will be held and where a few craft items made by members will be for sale.

Tickets, which are $7.50, are available in Charlevoix at The Appletree, Marvin's Gardens, Don's IGA, Bridge Street Book Shop; in East Jordan at Busy Bridge Antiques and Gift; in Petoskey at the chamber of commerce and in Boyne City at Country Now and Then Gifts. Tickets may also be purchased at any of the stops along the walk.

A trolley bus will take visitors from the Charlevoix Township Hall to the MacGillivray, Gibbons and Leverich gardens.

Here is a stop-by-stop look at the walk, which is a benefit for Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, the Charlevoix County Land Conservancy and a new meditation garden at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

- Gibbons garden, 12985 PaBaShan Lane. In 14 years, Dr. James Gibbons and his wife, Christel, dramatically transformed their acre of ground, creating a rock garden, building berms and planting 250 varieties of plants and flowers in addition to shrubbery and grass.

Also included are two Easter Island-style "tiki" wood faces from the old Hawaiian Gardens restaurant in Flint, a waterfall, a graceful weeping larix and a knee-high pond rimmed with boulders. Wood plank walkways snake around raised borders to encourage a closer look at plate sized sum and substance hostas and miniature ferns.

- Garland garden, 201 E. Dixon. In just the past two years, former teachers Cynthia and David Garland have planted 40 rose varieties with intriguing names such as Don Juan, Moon Shadow and Iceberg. In addition, they have planted a variety of perennials, annuals and shrubs around the house, part of which was built in the late 1800s.

The couple was inspired to create a delightful English garden by the gardens they saw in Wales a decade ago.

- Unbehaun garden, 103 Prospect. Chris and Chuck Unbehaun's unique heart-shaped garden was designed by Petoskey landscaper John Hoffman.

In the front, the garden spills down a green hillside toward Round Lake — the top crowned by an abundance of day lilies. At the bottom, with glimpses of the harbor, is a tall berm landscaped with small boulders interspersed with sedum, flowering plants and low evergreens.

More boulders ring a clump of birch trees and line the walk to the front steps. Carefully preserved majestic white pines are an important feature of this impressive site.

- Leverich garden, 12441 Meanderline Lane. Anne and Ed Leverich have enhanced the nature that embraces their home, imparting an atmosphere of seclusion and serenity.

The thickly wooded area of tall trees and evergreens rise up along a hill, forming a stunning backdrop to the site. More trees shelter the upward winding lane accented with bright yellow primroses and colorful petunias.

On top of a natural mound along the walkway to the house, the Leveriches lavished a wide variety of plant material, including large hydrangeas and miniature sunflowers.

- MacGillivray vegetable flower garden and container gardens. Armfuls of fresh flowers are available all summer long at the MacGillivray garden, 8721 Mt. McSauba Road. Joan and Chuck MacGillivray produce a nice assortment of fresh greens and produce to enliven and spice up mealtimes.

Container gardens may be seen at the historic railroad depot where garden club members have created several categories for visitors to enjoy and vote for their favorites.

For more information, call Barbara Starns, 547-4303.

Chuck and Chris Unbehaun sit in the unique garden behind their Charlevoix home. It is among the five gardens on the first Charlevoix Garden Walk. (Courtesy photo)

Obituaries

Claire Reis Kahn

Claire Reis Kahn, 88, of Charlevoix and formerly of the Bronx in New York City, passed away July 9, 1999, at Boulder Park Terrace Nursing Home in Charlevoix.

She was born March 29, 1911, in the Bronx, the daughter of Selma (Greenbaum) and Herman Reis. She was preceded in death by brothers Laurence and Sylvan Reis. In June 1947, she married Mortimer Kahn in New York City. He preceded her in death in 1992.

She is survived by her daughter H. Lee Kurchinski, and son-in-law, David; grandchildren, Nicole Kurchinski, David and Diane Kurchinski; great-granddaughters, Danielle and Katelyn, all of Charlevoix, and Lindsay and Kimberly of Sault Ste. Marie; sister-in-law, Janet Reis, of Palm Harbor, Florida, and Mabel Kahn of Southbury, Connecticut; and several nieces, nephews and cousins.

Claire lived most of her life in Brooklyn, N.Y., spending summers in Bradley Beach, N. J. , and Patchogue Shores, Long Island. Upon retirement, she moved to Dunedin, Fla., until becoming widowed. She then moved to Charlevoix.

Claire received her bachelor's degree from New York University and her master's degree from Adelphi University. She taught business subjects and was a grade advisor for 35 years in the New York school system. She began her teaching career at James Madison High School in Brooklyn, and retired after many years at Fort Hamilton High School in Bayridge, Brooklyn. Upon moving to Florida she became a substitute teacher at Dunedin High School.

Throughout her life, she was involved in several organizations including Patchogue Shores Women's Club, and B.P.O.E., and was an active volunteer for the Geriatric Research Organization at Mease Hospital in Dunedin.

Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix is handling creamation, but there will be no service or burial in Michigan. A celebratory rememberance gathering will be held at the Greenbaum residence in Brooklyn, N.Y. Winchester Funeral Home will be notified of the date of service. Flowers will be welcomed and Winchester Funeral Home will have all the necessary information.

Donations may be made to Children's Village of Jerusalem, 5 Beekman St., Suite 400, New York, N.Y. 10273; and Adelphi University, Office of Alumni Relations, 207 Levermore Hall, Garden City, N.Y. 11530.

Claire was admired and loved by all who knew her. She was revered by her students, impacting many adolescent lives throughout her career. She was still hearing from them after decades passed. She leaves a legacy of unmatched warmth and kindness, maintaining her grace and dignity throughout her struggle with Alzheimer's disease. She was truly an extraordinary lady, all who crossed her path would surely agree. She leaves a huge chasm in our hearts and lives, but we are grateful she can rest, at last.

Tebeau completes Freedom Academy

Jonathon Tebeau

Jonathon D. Tebeau of Charlevoix graduated from the week-long Michigan Freedom Academy at Phelps Collins Air National Guard Base near Alpena.

The event is an annual gathering of some 100 of the nation's future leaders who discuss and learn about freedom. The academy is organized and sponsored by the Michigan Freedom Foundation, a group of business and military leaders who want to expose high school-age students to a great awareness of the obligation and responsibilities inherent to a free and democratic society.

Among the academy's speakers this year were Michigan Attorney General Jennifer Granholm, State Sen. John Schwarz and Michigan Supreme Court Chief Justice Betty Weaver.

The academy is for students who have just completed their junior year in high school, have at least a 3.0 grade point average, and are active in student leadership and extracurricular activities. Many attendees are students seeking nominations to one of the five military service academies.

Tebeau, 17, is the son of Robert Tebeau and Suzanne Acharya. He is a senior-to-be at Charlevoix High School.

Swegles graduates

Air Force Tech. Sgt. Troy M. Swegles has graduated from the Air Force Noncommissioned Officer (NCO) Academy at McGuire Air Force Base in Trenton, N. J.

Swegles received instruction in advanced military leadership and management theories and responsibilities, physical fitness and conditioning, oral and written communications skills, supervisory roles relative to the Air Force mission and organization, human behavior concepts and problem solving, and practices and tools necessary to operate in the Air Force.

Swegles is a transportation manager with the 83rd Communications Squadron, Langley Air Force Base, Hampton, Va.

Swegles, a 1985 Charlevoix High School graduate, is the son of Paula Tinsley of Charlevoix and Ronald Swegles of Sunnyvale, Calif.

Eaton, Gregory on Grand Valley dean's list

Karen Waldron

Charlevoix poet's book available

A Charlevoix woman has put together a collection of her poems that will be available at area bookstores.

Karen Waldron began writing "Native Wing" two winters ago and finished it in February.

The 37-page poetry section is followed by highlights from her pilgrim ancestors. The poems express a simple spirituality based on the Christian faith.

The collection is available for $10 at the following stores: Sisters Antiques, Stonehedge Gardens and The Garage Sale.

Retirement party slated for teacher

Friends, parents, former students and school supporters are invited to a retirement party for Helen Evenhouse, a teacher at Ebenezer Christian School in Ellsworth. The party will be held at 7 p.m. Friday, July 16 at the Ellsworth Township Hall.

Helen, the wife of the Rev. James Evenhouse, who is also retiring from the Atwood Christian Reformed Church this fall, has taught at Ebenezer Christian School for 13 years.

Some of her fondest memories of the past 14 years in Michigan include the lakes, orchards and close friends and people who take time for others. She said she will always remember her fellow teachers and seeing her first kindergarten class graduate from high school.

Helen, who taught kindergarten, first- and second-grades, always considered it a blessing that God chose her to teach and always appreciated her students' enthusiasm and honesty.

Helen grew up in Clifton, New Jersey where she attended grade school. She graduated from Grand Rapids Christian High School, earned her bachelor's degree from Calvin College and earned a post-graduate degree from Michigan State University.

The Evenhouses plan to travel and visit their children who live in Michigan, Oregon and California. They plan to live in Grand Rapids.

Humane Society opens new home

By B. J. Hetler

From puppies discovered in a dumpster to a 20-pound cat, Charlevoix County animals now have a new building to call home until they are adopted.

The Charlevoix County Humane Society grand opening was Saturday, July 10, in Boyne City. Many of the more than 200 people who toured the 4,000-square-foot shelter have supported the project through contributions or volunteer efforts.

"It's been a labor of love," said board member and county liaison Trish Wright. "It's (the shelter) as sophisticated as any in Michigan. It was a lot of work, but look at it — it's beautiful."

The former shelter in Charlevoix at 1,000 square feet was overcrowded and in disrepair.

The county contributed $150,000 towards the new building and set aside the land. County commissioner Phil Johnson worked on the project with others and is glad to see the results.

"I love it — it's just great," Johnson said. "It's everything we all hoped for."

The humane society raised about $100,000 for the project. Helene Valade is president of the Charlevoix County Humane Society. Her eyes began to tear as she spoke about the completion of the shelter.

"It's a dream come true," Valade said. "It's wonderful to see the community coming here, we couldn't have done this without the community."

The $400,000 building was designed with input from the nine-member humane society board. A conference and education room holds groups of children and adults where volunteers will teach on topics such as proper handling of the animals and overpopulation prevention.

Cats and dogs have their own areas and the building has two air filtration systems. One system flows through the "holding" rooms where animals stay until their health status is determined. A clinic and grooming area is also located in the building.

The shelter also provides a room that law enforcement officers are able to access anytime of the day or night when they find a stray animal.

A unique feature is the "pet socialization room," a quiet room where people wanting to adopt a pet are able to spend time with the animal away from distractions.

Several opportunities are available for people wanting to make financial contributions. A "path of life" walkway will be constructed outside with bricks imprinted with the names of contributors or the names of their loved ones. The brick donation is $50.

Or, for the same contribution, people may purchase a brick for the "wee wee wall" and have the name of someone they feel deserves such entitlement imprinted on the brick.

Other donations can go towards a dog or cat kennel and a name plate with the donor's name is attached to the kennel.

Fund-raisers will be held to help pay for the shelter and the humane society welcomes contributions and donations. Some of the items needed by the shelter are a computer, copy paper, topsoil, shrubs, picnic tables, combs and brushes. Contributions are tax deductible. Volunteers are needed in all areas of the shelter.

The Charlevoix County Humane Society is at 614 Beardsley St., Boyne City. The telephone number is 582-6774. Hours are noon-5 p.m., Monday-Saturday. Meetings are held at the shelter at 7 p.m. on the second Wednesday of each month. The public is invited.

About 200 people attended Saturday's grand opening. Right: Wright smooches with one of the adoptable dogs at the new county facility. (Photos by B. J. Hetler)

Filling a need in Charlevoix

By B. J. Hetler

A chiropractor who sees a need for more practitioners in Charlevoix has opened an office on Antrim Street.

Gilling Chiropractic Center, P.C., opened June 1 and owner Craig R. Gilling, D.C. said business is very good.

"It's growing rapidly," Gilling said. "There's more of a need because more people are seeing chiropractors."

Gilling and his associate, Brian D. Oliver, D.C., also have an office in Gaylord that opened in 1996. Gilling recently decided to open another Northern Michigan chiropractic center and researched local areas. He said he was glad to find out that Charlevoix has a need for chiropractors.

"I've always loved Charlevoix," Gilling said. "We've been coming here for weekends and the Venetian Festival for years."

Gilling's wife, Denise, enjoys coming to Charlevoix with him and visiting the sites. The couple have a 15-month-old son, Casey.

Gilling has family ties to Charlevoix. His father, Howard Messmore, D.O., practiced osteopathy here for years. He was the first osteopath to receive hospital privileges, Gilling said.

Chiropractic care uses no drugs in treating patients. The spinal nerves control every part of the body, and the body is healed through the nervous system, Gilling said.

Gilling graduated from Life Chiropractic College in Marietta, Georgia and has practiced for eight years. Oliver graduated from Palmer College in Davenport, Iowa and has practiced for six years.

Gilling Chiropractic Center treats families and individuals for ailments ranging from ear infections, low back and neck pain, and headaches.

The goal is to help to keep the work force and families healthy, Gilling said. It is a patient-oriented office geared towards saving patients time and money.

The center offers an initial consultation, x-rays and examination for a $20 fee.

Gilling Chiropractic Center, P.C. is located at 119 Antrim St. The telephone number is 547-3483. Hours are 9 a.m.-1 p.m. and 3 p.m.-6 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday, Friday, and 9 a.m.-noon Tuesday and Thursday.

Awards to junior golfers

The Charlevoix County Junior Golf Program awarded scholarships to seven golfers to the Ferris State University camp.

Sam Ciske, David Shearer, Kristle Goins, Nicholas Tripplehorn, Andrew Tillatson, Josh Wood and Mitchell Klooster received the scholarships, which will send them to FSU's popular week-long camp in Big Rapids.

"We budgeted for six recipients," scholarship committee member Nancy LaCroix said, "but the quality was so good and so difficult to separate, that we decided to send seven, the most we have ever selected.

"We'll have to work harder at our fund-raising tournament, The Supe, to balance our budget."

The seven scholarships is the most ever awarded by the program. The 193 youngsters enrolled this summer is also a record number.

The players have gone through six instructional sessions rotated among Charlevoix Country Club, Antrim Dells, the Belvedere and the municipal courses.

Due to the large turnout of players, director Dean Davenport sought to increase the adult mentoring program, citing the need for more adult mentoring as youngsters play holes after their instructional time.

"We now have 35 adults that make up our Mentor's Program and, as a result, everything is running very smoothly," Davenport said.

Putting skill test winners (by age division): Age 8-Emilee Colvin, 9-Nathan Tripplehorn, 10-Kris Bartling, 11-Joel Keehn and Jarod Kirby, 12-Phil Mayes and Mitchell Klooster, 13-York Smith, 14-Brian Jakeway, 15/16-Chad DeKorte and Nick Cole.

Chipping winners: 8-Emma Maynard, 9-Tripplehorn and Zita Anderson, 10-Bartling and Kyle Smith, 11-Billy Brodin, 12-Adam Bizzel, 13-Sam Chulick.

Match play on tap

Thirty-one area golfers are gearing up for match play in the first Charlevoix Venetian Keith Carey Cup Golf Tournament at the Charlevoix Golf Club.

The players recorded the top scores in qualifying rounds July 5-6.

The men's first flight qualifiers are Randy DeYoung, Scott Blechel, Aaron Gaffney, Tom Dorsek, Keith Grunch, Keith Haske, David Schearer and Curt Meixsell. Flight two qualifiers are Richard Clem, Ed Holm, Joe Battle, Dick Hunter, Jack Niswander, Quinton Walker, John Ferguson and Herb Beech.

The women's first flight qualifiers are Holly Russell, Lynette Webb, Amy Russell, Meg Fowler, Arlene Blissett, Julie Supernaw and Leighann Lovell. Flight two qualifiers are Jill Washburn, Rosemary Corradi, Polly Plott, Celenda Ferguson, Diana Barker and Nancy Grunch.

Matches will be contested for two weeks with finals for each flight slated for 4 p.m. Tuesday, July 20.

The tournament is named for longtime Charlevoix Golf Club manager Keith Carey, who died last winter. It is one of 12 sporting events that make up the 1999 Venetian Games.

Many vessels turn out for opening night

by A. Nony Mouse

It was a wonderful sight to see — 29 colorful spinnakers racing downwind on a summer evening in Charlevoix, the Beautiful.

The Summer Series breezed in last Wednesday, July 7, and brought a bit of trauma to the big J-22 Fleet. Buffeted by fairly strong winds, the boats jammed the committee boat end of the starting line. Several captains were too ambitious and forced a general recall.

After witnessing the J-22's, the other fleets approached the start somewhat cautiously and conservatively and all started in order.

Little Leaguers ousted from tourneys

Charlevoix representatives compiled a 5-6 record in various Little League district tournaments over the past week.

The Junior Division (ages 13-14) team was eliminated from its tournament on Monday by Traverse City, 6-2. Earlier, Charlevoix defeated Grayling, 10-3, then lost to Boyne City, 12-9.

J-22 fleet starts three times

The J-22 fleet returned but failed to learn from the error of their ways. They repeated the same mistake and were recalled for a second time. However, their third attempt was a charm and all crossed the starting line like civilized adults.

The first three J-22s were back to their most common finishing order. Hussy was first. H S Moisture Missile and Superfulos were in the money followed by Paleface Lite, Reckless, High Maintenance, Gecko, Crazy Horse, Jumblies, First Date, Indigo, and Good Old What's Its Name. Congratulations on fielding (watering?) 12 J-22s! Rumor has it that there are yet more to join us.

Gotcha again led Kamikaze in Fleet A on both elapsed and corrected times.

In Fleet B, Mi Joy, Bald Eagle and Our Thyme II finished in the money. Cabaret, Babe, M3, J Hawk and Saffron followed. It was a nice eight boat fleet. Congratulations!

Fleet C's Tireless had a great first race finish edging both Lost Vermonter and Jesse by less than two minutes. Back a bit further were Blasen III, Cygnus and Original Sin.

In the JAM 198 & higher, Apothecary took top honors with Red Hot and Cheemaun trailing.

In JAM 153-195 Flash was the only starter and of course finished first. Two of the expected registrants elected to fly 'chutes during the Summer Series. The Race Committee will have to review the JAM breakdown unless there are other entrants. Meanwhile, JAM 198-plus results are tentative pending the possibility that the split point will be changed or eliminated.

The BCYC's "Jim Kuhn Memorial Race" will be sailed Saturday, July 17. This great event benefits Camp Quality and needs your support. Late entries can call Fred at 582-2514 and hope for the best. Don't forget Saturday, July 24! You are needed in the Charlevoix Venetian Yacht Parade. Entrants receive great, special docking privileges — check with the Chamber of Commerce at 547-2101.

My old friend, Swift-on-the-Water, a Native American, gave his two boys (the proud, new owners of a J-22) the gifts of full membership in the CYC. He told me he always wanted to see his "red sons in the sail set."

100 years

Family recognized for century on farm

By B. J. Hetler

Pride without boastfulness is a beautiful thing to see. It has a deep, quiet strength to it.

The Johnechecks have that pride about farming. After all, they've been doing it on the same land for more than 100 years.

A recent centennial farm designation from the State Historic Preservation Office prompted the family to reflect on their heritage.

Paul Johnecheck was one of the many immigrants who came to this country in the late 1800s. He traveled from Bohemia, having heard about the streets paved with gold and the land of opportunity.

The reality of the hardships in settling here almost made him return to his homeland. But he worked hard and eventually met his wife, Mary. He bought the land at 06849 Camp Daggett Road from a homesteader in 1881, and Mary and he started a 70-acre farm.

Paul died after 48 years of farming and the farm was handed down to a son, August. The farm prospered under the care of August and his wife, Irene.

"I was never going to marry a farmer," Irene said. "It was too much work."

But she met August and three months later they were married. The couple had five children in five years.

The Johnecheck farm produced potatoes, corn, hay, oats and more using the help of horses until August bought a tractor in 1941. It also had chickens, dairy cattle and pigs.

The centennial designation was given by the State Historic Preservation Office and the sign was given to the Johnechecks by Great Lakes Energy. Family recognized for a century of farming

"We had a pet pig," Irene said. "He would get up on the sofa with us. We brought it up like a puppy or a cat."

August, who was born in the family home, died at the age of 94. At 85 years old he was still farming. Every night before he retired, he walked out to the yard and checked on the cattle and other animals.

One of his sons, Harold, and his wife, Sandra, now operate a scaled-down farm producing hay, straw and oats. They both have fond memories of August.

"He was very particular about the feed he gave to his pigs," Sandra said. "He fed them skim milk, oats and corn. He never fed them garbage."

August also had a certain time of the year when he butchered the animals because they tasted best then, Sandra said.

Harold and Sandra remember the superior taste of the food that August and Irene produced. The vegetables were full of flavor and the chicken and pork would melt in their mouths.

It's the way chicken are butchered and fed that leaves them with no flavor, Sandra said. It's the same with pork and beef that are given hormones and fast fed.

But the Johnechecks realize that small family farms are becoming part of history. Many families have sold their farms to the giant farm conglomerates.

"Pretty soon there won't be any small farms," Harold said. The younger people aren't taking over the farms, and the taxes are too high for many farmers, he said.

His mother, Irene, also sees family farms disappearing, but sees a way to keep them.

"Families have to keep farms together," she said.

Harold doesn't think any of his five children will continue to farm, but he hopes the land will stay in the family.

One of the sons, Rick, who lives nearby on Camp Daggett Road, says he hopes it will too.

"I don't think any of us kids will farm, but it would be nice to have it stay all together in one piece," he said.

Rick's wife Nancy grew up on a farm.

"There's deep debt in farming," Nancy said. "It's not cheaper to grow your own anymore, not when you consider the time involved."

Nancy researched the Johnecheck farm and met the requirements of the state preservation office to obtain the centennial designation. It was a surprise for her in-laws.

"I was glad to do it," she said. "Something that old, we should save the heritage."

Harold continues to farm every chance he gets. He divides his time as a builder and working his mother's farm. Except for a horse and a pony, the farm animals are gone. He took care of nine dairy cows until recently. He was sad to see them go when he sold them, but no longer has the time to milk them.

The dairy barn, pig barn, tool shed and other buildings are still tended to by Harold.

It's a lot of work, Harold said, but he loves farming.

"I love getting out there with the tractor," he said with a smile.

Legend book signing this weekend

Author Kathy-jo Wargin and artist Gijsbert "Nick" van Frankenhuyzen will sign copies of their popular books, The Legend of Sleeping Bear and The Legend of Mackinac Island, this Friday, July 16 from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. at Bridge Street Book Shop in downtown Charlevoix.

In 1998, The Legend Of Sleeping Bear was officially designated as Michigan's Children's Book. It is a heartwarming and powerful tale of loyalty and dedication between a mother bear and her two cubs, and reveals the legend of Lake Michigan's Sleeping Bear Dune.

The new release, The Legend of Mackinac Island, tells the triumphant story of the great turtle named Makinauk, who was guided by the Spirit of the Sky to lend his back as a haven of rest and relaxation -- a place known today as the magical Mackinac Island.

The pubic is invited to attend the book signing. Last year, an appearance by van Frankenhuyzen attracted more than 240 people. Wargin's visit this year is expected to draw a larger crowd. Posters will be available and books may be purchased in advance or at the event. Refreshments and music will be provided.

For more information, call Bridge Street Book Shop at (231) 547-7323 or (800) 729-3949.

Circle of Care event a success

Circle of Care held its second annual benefit variety show and craft fair on Thursday, July 8, at the Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix.

The benefit was held to help the family of 10-year-old K.C. Smith of Boyne City. K.C. is undergoing treatment for cancer.

The event was the result of many volunteers who donated their talents, handmade crafts, food and time, said board member Terry Dohm. Local merchants in Charlevoix and Emmet counties donated prizes which were raffled off.

The highlight of the evening was the program entitled "It Takes Two to Tango" a spoof about the relationships between men and women. More entertainment was provided by the Charlevoix Men's Glee Club and the Betty Cole Singers.

"It is apparent that this small community has in its midst some really talented people who have unselfishly donated their gifts for this worthy cause," Dohm said.

SCRAPBOOK

Tapping huge maple trees on the bluff

By Nancy Ritsema

When the first settlers to the wilderness of Norwood in the 1860s cleared the land on the bluff looking west they were fascinated by the panoramic view displayed before them of the Leelanau Peninsula, the distant Fox Islands and the shimmering blue waters of Lake Michigan stretching to the horizon. Summer residents from Chicago soon discovered the charm of this small community at the foot of Grand Traverse Bay and bought homes and property on Norwood's bluff and lakeshore.

Samuel B. Chase, a well known Democrat who worked for the city of Chicago, bought a home on the bluff in Norwood in 1886. He also acquired property on Harwood Lake two miles east of Norwood where he and friends and family members fished for small-mouthed black bass. In the spring, Chase and those helping him tapped the huge maple trees surrounding the small lake, boiled down the sap, and canned and preserved the fragrant amber syrup.

In 1953, Edward G. Chase, Samuel's son, wrote a letter to family members capturing the family's adventures in their sugarbush. Following are some of Ed Chase's written memories of collecting sap and making maple syrup at Harwood Lake east of Norwood.

"We would come up to Norwood in late March when there were great amounts of spring snow still to be melted by the sun. The road ran due east up and down steep hills to Harwood and the sugarbush. The trip was made on the big bobsleds pulled by horse teams carrying my dad, Nick Shores, Bob Stafford and myself.

"We traveled over corduroy roads through the tamarack swamps which lay between the hills. In winter, it took more than an hour to cover two miles.

"The sugar house was a log house 18 feet by 40 feet, made out of big timber logs. In one end was a sleeping room with three or four bunks in it. The 'arch' as it was called, or stone fire pit, was 12 feet long and 4 feet wide and was solid stone and mortar on three sides.

"At one end of the arch were the door through which 4-foot pieces of cordwood were pushed in and shoved to the back end of the arch with a poker. The two big pans in which the sap boiled were about 10 inches deep and four-by-eight feet in size. They rested on a ledge on top of the arch.

"Outside the sugar house was a tank that would hold 20 barrels of sap. The top of the sugar house had panels in the roof that could be slid back while we were 'boiling down' so that great clouds of steam could escape. When the sap steam floated away through the woods, there was a sweet maple scent to the air.

"My dad only tapped about 350 trees, but they were tremendous big trees which took four to six tap spouts for each. Fires were started early in the day. It took two or three hours to get the great fire going, and the sap in the pans on the arches to the boiling point. The boiling down continued nearly to daylight. It took about 40-50 gallons of sap to make one gallon of syrup the way we made it.

"To gather the sap a special sled with a small tank of two- or three-barrel capacity was pulled by a team of horses. It was very rough going and many a tank of sap was tipped over as the horses lunged through deep pockets of snow. To keep the sap from slopping out of the tank, a big chunk of maple wood was dropped into the tank. The maple wood kept the sap from splashing up so high in the tank.

"There is so much lime in the soil in our part of Michigan that it was necessary to 'clarify' the syrup after it had been boiled down to the proper weight and density. The syrup made at Harwood was brought back to the Chase house in Norwood and Nick Shores' wife clarified it in a deep oblong pan on the kitchen stove.

"The clarifying was done by straining the 'sugar sand,' a gritty grain that comes up from the ground in the sap into the trees and

Boiling down, a quart of milk helped make sap into syrup

then finally is present in the syrup. This grittyness is not evident in the crystal clear sap as it comes from the trees. The boiling down of the sap brings it out.

"After straining, about 10 gallons of syrup at a time was brought to a sharp boil. Mrs. Shores then poured in a quart of milk to bring the lime to the surface where it was skimmed off. She then canned the boiling hot syrup in glass canning jars.

"On some land next to the sugar bush at Harwood Lake my dad always raised buckwheat which he had ground into flour. Our friends were presented with a gallon of syrup and a 10-pound sack of buckwheat flour by dad. I imagine you would have to look a long ways before finding such a thing done now."

Many of the old Chase sugarbush trees are gone today, but the Bill and Dave Parsons families continue the tradition of making maple syrup at Harwood Lake right up to the present.

Harwood Lake has continued to be a popular fishing lake long after the Chase's sold their property there. In 1924, Lewis Barth, Harold Zimmerman and his son, Charles, traveled from South Bend, Ind. in their Ford Model T and pitched a tent by Harwood to do some fishing. They pulled their canoe on a trailer they rigged from a farm wagon.

It took them two days to get from South Bend to Harwood Lake at top speeds of 15-20 mph in the Model T, including frequent stops to grease the wagon wheels on the canoe trailer. But the fishing was good. And they went home with plenty of sunfish, perch and small-mouthed black bass.

Old Sam Chase couldn't have done better himself.

All systems go for fireworks

Fireworks will return and light the skies above Round Lake during Charlevoix's 69th annual Venetian Festival this week.

The Charlevoix City Council unanimously agreed at a special meeting last Friday to reinstate the popular fireworks display. The decision comes two years after a fireworks explosion at the 1997 Venetian Festival killed one spectator and injured at least 15 others. A laser light show replaced fireworks last year.

Dan Barron, president of the Charlevoix Venetian Festival, Inc., a non-profit organization that coordinates the festival, was pleased with the decision. "I'm thrilled with the council's action," he said. "It's a culmination of over six months of continuous effort. Board members put in hours and hours and hours of long work and close study on a weekly, if not daily basis."

The fireworks will begin at approximately 10:30 p.m. this Saturday, July 24.

Baron and Chief Jim Shull of the U.S. Coast Guard made the presentation to city council. Barron emphasized that safety and feasibility were the festival committee's primary concerns.

Coast Guard and festival officials concurred, a barge-launch from Round Lake harbor would be best for safety, law enforcement, oversight and control. In 1997, the fireworks were launched near the Beaver Island ferry at the mouth of Round Lake harbor.

The committee consulted the USCG and the nation's foremost experts before selecting a fireworks operator.

Zambelli Fireworks Internationale of New Castle, Penn., widely recognized as the preeminent fireworks company in North America, will coordinate and produce the show. Zambelli has conducted spectacular fireworks displays at

Community leader Don Meggison dies

By B. J. Hetler

A community mourns with the family of Donald B. Meggison, who was laid to rest on Monday in Charlevoix.

A Charlevoix native, he died on July 15 at the age of 75.

"Meg" was known for his willingness to help others. He volunteered his time and efforts to numerous organizations, and helped many individuals.

Don Meggison

Friends and family alike will miss him. One of those many friends is Bill Supernaw.

"Charlevoix's about out of people like Meg," Supernaw said. "Don was a 'give-you-the-shirt-off-his-back' guy. He was a little crazy, but had that serious side. None of us will ever know all the good things he did, except maybe Helen (Meg's wife of 52 years)."

Meg's career activities and interests were numerous as well. He was with the Charlevoix Fire Department for 40 years. He was an underwater diver, a mechanic, a World War II veteran, a businessman, and a councilman, to name a few.

Lyle Gennett, a shift commander at the fire department, worked with Meg for 20 years.

"He was a person you could count on," Gennett said. "He would do anything for anybody, and he personally gave to the community." Meg was always helpful in raising money for the community's needs. He was very helpful in raising money for Engine No. 85, Gennett said.

Josh Barnes knew Meg for "umpteen" years. He said he's heard people say a great many complimentary things about Meg, but one thing he hadn't heard was how wise Meg was.

"I've seen him defuse nasty situations while on the city council," Barnes said.

Barnes remembers how Meg handled situations. "Members would try to get him to vote their way. He was independent and would take time to think about it. As far as I know, he always made the right decision."

Barnes said his friend had a full and wonderful life. "If you say only nice things about him, you're telling the truth."

Those that knew Meg best, his family, agree.

Sons Jerry Meggison and Tom Meggison worked with their dad at the fire department. "He was a great guy," Jerry said. "He was a great dad and a great husband to our mother. He would do anything for anybody."

Tom learned how to cook chicken from his dad. "I cooked a lot of chicken with him," Tom said. "We used to do the Republican annual party together. Dad's always been there," Tom said. "He's my father and my best friend."

Bruce Meggison knows how his dad helped others. "Everyone knew if you needed something you could call Meg," Bruce said.

The Meggison's only daughter, Barb Swanson, said her father will be missed very much by everyone. "He was a hard worker," Barb said. "He was a great father and always made time for family."

Family and friends of Meg have many memories from his years in Charlevoix. His family extended to the community, and he will be missed.

"He really loved this town," Supernaw said.

plays at the International Freedom Festival in Detroit, in New York City, Washington D.C., St. Louis, Pittsburgh, Petoskey, Kuwait, Saudi Arabia, and at several Super Bowls.

"We're going to launch many more shells in a shorter time," Barron said of the planned 20-minute show. "It'll have a more dramatic impact and be even more impressive."

Six-, 5-, 4-, and 3-inch cardboard-encased mortars and shells, plus Roman candles and other pyrotechnics will rise to heights of 600-800 feet creating a layered effect and a multi-color display, according to Barron.

Fireworks will be launched from a 32-by-100-foot flat barge anchored near the center of Round Lake. Ron Greco, Zambelli's pyrotechnic operator, has experience with more than 100 fireworks displays conducted from barges.

Zambelli provides insurance coverage of up to $11 million. Charlevoix Venetian Festival, Inc. secured additional aggregate coverage of $3 million.

The Coast Guard will enforce a 420-feet radius clear zone around the barge as recommended by the National Fire Protection Agency (NFPA). The USCG will use the global positioning system (GPS) to determine exact locations for the barge and eight perimeter marker buoys.

The barge is currently anchored at Beaver Island. It will be towed to the H&D Construction dock in Ironton on Thursday, July 22 by the "Apache," a 70-foot ocean-going tug boat operated by Tom Dawes of Dawes Marine Towing in Buffalo, N.Y. Dawes holds a USCG Towboat License for the Great Lakes. He has 35 years experience on the Great Lakes, Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, and the Panama Canal. He has participated in approximately 12-15 similar fireworks displays in Buffalo, Toronto, and Erie, Penn.

Fireworks will not be armed when placed in wooden racks on the barge on Friday. Electronic detonation devices will be set Saturday.

The traditional Lighted Boat Parade will take place just after sunset. About 25 boats decked out in a variety of Christmas lights will tour Round Lake harbor for about 45 minutes prior to the fireworks.

The boats will require a 50-feet corridor outside the safety zone. The USCG will clear this corridor at 9:30 p.m. to allow parade participants to navigate safely. The harbor will be closed to all but parade participants at this time.

Patrol craft from the USCG, Charlevoix County Sherrif's Department, Michigan Department of Natural Resources, and the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary will be in the area to direct boats and answer questions when the safety zone is in effect.

Basketball star found guilty in MIP case

Matthew Allen McClellan, a star athlete at Charlevoix Area High School, was found guilty last Thursday of a minor in possession (MIP) of alcohol charge.

In a bench trial (without a jury), 90th District Court Judge Richard W. May found McClellan, 18, did possess and consume alcohol at an all-night party on Dec. 4-5, 1998.

McClellan was ordered to attend a 3-hour zero tolerance alcohol education class, perform 60 hours of community service work, and pay court costs and fees of $220 by Sept. 15.

The case stems from an incident that occurred in the early morning hours of Dec. 5. At approximately 5:00 a.m. the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department received a call that a "person requested help" at McClellan's home in Hayes Township.

When a sheriff's deputy arrived to investigate, Teresita McClellan, Matthew's mother, advised the minors not to take a preliminary breath test (PBT). All the minors except Matthew submitted to the tests. Patrol Sgt. Donald Sproul testified that there was a distinct smell of alcohol present in the house. Sproul said he clearly could smell the odor of alcohol coming from Matthew's nose and mouth region, and on his breath. McClellan refused to take the PBT and denied he had been drinking. The deputy ticketed McClellan, and several other minors for MIP.

McClellan was a starting senior on Charlevoix Area High School's state tournament-bound basketball team at the time. The Charlevoix school district adheres to a strict zero-tolerance alcohol and drug policy for its athletes. McClellan was permitted to continue to play on the basketball and track teams while the case was pending. Some community members speculated McClellan was given special treatment because he was a key player for the Rayders. School officials denied the allegation.

Upon sentencing, Judge May admonished McClellan to avoid trouble and abide by athletic department policies and regulations when he attends college in the fall. McClellan said he plans to enroll at Saginaw Valley State University. He hopes to make the basketball team as a "walk on" and later earn a scholarship.

"I'm going to behave better in the future," McClellan said. "I want to put this all behind me."

County OKs brownfield authority

By B. J. Hetler

Developers and entrepreneurs may have unique investment opportunities with the county's approval of a Brownfield Redevelopment Authority.

Major changes to the state's environmental cleanup law have loosened stringent regulations, making investment in abandoned, contaminated sites financially attractive.

Charlevoix county has at least 20 brownfield sites, as defined by the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality. Brownfields are industrial and commercial properties that usually have some degree of environmental contamination and are abandoned, idle or underused.

Brownfields are not, however, superfund sites. If they are contaminated, the sites can be cleaned up at relatively low cost and in a shorter time frame than superfund sites.

County and Authority board member, Don Smith, explains the brownfield concept with an example:

"Let's say there's an abandoned power plant and it's on the tax roll for $3 million. A developer can buy it, put a half million in it to clean it up, spend $5 million to renovate it and turn it into a marina. Now he's got property worth $15 million, for example."

The state makes the project financially attractive by providing several funding vehicles. One is tax increment financing. Out of the taxes that would be payable to the state and county due to increased value of the property, a credit would be allowed for the monies spent on the clean-up costs until those costs are paid off.

Investors may also be eligible for state brownfield bond funds, or obtain credit from the state through the single business tax credit.

The costs of renovating a brownfield site may be substantial, depending on the condition of the property. But one of the advantages is that sites are often located close to highways and where infrastructure is already in place.

The county sets up the authority, Smith said, but municipalities and townships must each pass resolutions for incorporation within the county authority.

The county board approved the appointment of seven Brownfield Redevelopment Authority board members. Appointed were John Dixon, Randy Frykberg, Tad Malpass, Tom Mannes, Matt Pollard, Don Smith, and Arch Wright.

OPINIONS

Test anxiety is an unrecognized health risk factor for seniors

By Roger Knutson

EAR TO THE GROUND

The health risk noted here is generally unreported as a category, which means that actual attributed causes vary and not well-documented. The greatest risk is to people with grandchildren in colleges or universities. Onset has never been reported earlier than age 45 and it becomes increasingly more likely over the age of 60. There is a strongly seasonal distribution of reported deaths, coinciding with major exam periods at semester or trimester marking periods and reaching a surprisingly high peak during final examination periods.

No reasonable explanation has yet been offered for the coincidence of senior citizen death with testing systems in American higher education facilities. Normal death rates for people in age groups from 45 to 70 with grandchildren who are undergraduates are three to four times greater than the same age group without grandchildren during the most dangerous seasonal time periods.

As a teacher of college and university students for more than 35 years, I have noted that the incidence of grandparent death during or immediately prior to major examination periods is remarkably high. I only wish I had kept better records, since a search of the mortality and morbidity reports of the Centers for Disease Control shows no comparable phenomenon. I suggest that this new syndrome be labeled Timely Grandparent Death (TGD) and that detailed records of its incidence and especially its relationship to academic calendars be accumulated.

Remarkably, some individual students, in the course of a four-year academic career, have reported the loss of as many as six or seven grandparents to this malady, although I have been unable to document the loss of more than two grandparents during any one academic course.

The incidence of Timely Grandparent Death bears some relationship to prior grades in the specific course in which it is reported. Students with grades hovering near C- or D are far more likely to report Timely Grandparent Death than are those with more robust academic records. Grandparent frailty and academic frailty seem to go hand in hand.

We can beat Timely Grandparent Death without the necessity of major new research initiatives or federal funding. We can handle this ourselves with a simple health advisory: If you have a grandchild in a college or university, for your own well-being and even for your survival, do everything in your power to assure that their academic performance is at its best. And watch out especially during those times when major examinations in important courses occur. Keep track of your grandchild's academic progress — your life may depend on it.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

By Joe Johnston
Charlevoix Assembly of God

Have you ever been to a birthday party for an 8-year old? I remember on one occasion attending a party for the son of some friends. Everything was wonderful until it came time to pass out the candy. The distributor of candy made a very fatal mistake. Unbeknownst to her there were two children more than they had planned. In the giving of the candy, the first recipients gleefully opened their bag of treats and began eating. However, the two children at the end of the line were left standing empty handed.

You're probably thinking, "How cruel!" Well, there were other arrangements made for the children who didn't receive their candy supply. But, the very first thing that came out of their mouth was "that's not fair."

I'm sure all of us can remember instances in our lives when we felt like we were being treated unfairly, whether from a coach, our boss, a teacher or co-worker. Sometimes we think we deserve more than we get, and other times we get more than we deserve.

Jesus taught a parable in Matthew 20 about a vineyard owner (Jullio Gallo I). The time of harvest had come and Mr. Gallo needed some workers to harvest his grapes. So he set out to find some workers. He recruited workers all day long. The wages were good and the work wasn't too strenuous. Each worker was hired to pick grapes for the day for $100. So they did. The only problem was when Mr. Gallo paid the workers he gave them all what they agreed upon, $100 for the day. This should not really be a problem but it became one.

The servants who worked all day for their $100 were very jealous and angry at Jullio because he paid those who worked two or three hours the same $100 wage. His response to them was "I am doing you no wrong. Didn't you agree upon $100 for the day! Take what is yours and go your way. Is it against the law to do what I want with what I have? Or are you envious because I am generous?"

Let's face it. In life, people are not all treated the same. Even Jesus had His favorite disciples. Out of the 12 He chose Pete, Jim and John to be His closest companions. Life is not fair because it's not supposed to be. We live among people who are imperfect, ignorant and who make mistakes. So there are bound to be some contentions among us.

God Himself was not fair in His dealings with us. We all have sinned (Romans 3:23). We all deserve death because of it (Romans 6:23). But God in His infinite mercy extended us grace. That's not fair! No it's not, but I'm glad. The best way to understand fairness is to stop comparing yourself to others and start comparing yourself to God.

Area man's '55 Porsche takes 'Best of Class'

At a gathering of some of the world's most elegant classic automobiles, David Draper drove away with one of the event's top prizes.

The 1999 Bay Harbor Concours d'Elegance held last Saturday attracted a field of 87 car entries in eight classes including antiques and vintage, pre-and post-war, early and late sports cars, and special interest models.

Draper's 1955 Porsche 550 RS Spyder earned the prestigious "Best of Class" honor in Class F-2, Early Sports, 1943-1955.

It is a perfectly restored race car, sleek and silver, "simple but beautiful," Draper said. The car's body is made of ultra lightweight aluminum. The entire car weighs only 1,200 pounds.

Porsche limited production of the 120 horse power, 1-1/2 liter, 1500cc engine sports car to just 90 vehicles. Draper's is production number 62.

The model was very well known throughout the world of sports car racing in its day. Similar vehicles were raced at LeMans and Sebring by infamous drivers Sterling Moss and Roger Penske and others at top speeds approaching 140 mph.

The RS Spyder's history also includes a dose of celebrity tragedy. Actor James Dean was driving the same style car when he died in a crash.

David and his wife, Stephanie, of Ellsworth, negotiated for nearly 12 years before purchasing the vehicle in 1986. The Porsche was never raced or in an accident but previous owners had customized it. Draper stripped the Spyder to the bare chassis and restored it to original specifications.

The Drapers rarely display their remarkable vehicles at shows. They would rather drive tours, "up to 1,000 miles, preferably along tight, twisting roads," David confessed.

In addition to the Spyder and a 1960 Ferrari 250 GT California Spyder that was also featured at the Concours d'Elegance exhibit, Draper has several other cars in various stages of restoration. He is currently collecting classic cars by country of origin including a Ferrari (Italy), Bugatti (France), Jaguar XKE (England), Corvette (USA), and of course, the Porsche 550 RS Spyder (Germany).

Draper's passion for classic cars is also his business. He owns Time Machines Unlimited, specializing in fine automobile restorations, located in Charlevoix.

What's cookin'?

Area favorites featured in two new cookbooks

Two new cookbooks hot off the presses feature recipes from area cooks.

The third edition of a popular cookbook containing more than 500 recipes is now available for purchase at several area stores. A Taste of Charlevoix, includes a collection of recipes for meals and snacks from A to Z -- Apricot Salsa Chicken to Zucchini Quiche.

Several Charlevoix residents and restaurants share some of their favorite recipes for breakfasts and breads, soups and salads, cookies and candy, main dishes, healthful selections, and a few "just for kids."

The spiral-bound, 296-page book also contains dozens of general household suggestions for food storage, stain-removal, window washing, beauty aids, handy person tips, and much more.

The cookbook was compiled by members of the Xi Epsilon Gamma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority, a local women's service organization, and is illustrated by Charlevoix artist Linda Boss.

Cookbook sale proceeds benefit the Charlevoix Hospital, Charlevoix Food Pantry and Charlevoix Hospice. Copies of A Taste of Charlevoix cost $13 each and may be purchased at Bridge Street Book Shop, Interior Motives and Don's IGA in Charlevoix.

Charlevoix's Rosalyn Goldstick's recipe, Rosalyn's Gefilte Fish, is among the more than 130 recipes featured in the soon-to-be released "Michigan Cook Book."

Conservancy to honor Ingalls-Campbell DeWitt Home

The Charlevoix County Land Conservancy will honor the 129th year of the Ingalls-Campbell DeWitt Home at 108 Park Ave. in Charlevoix with an open house from 1-5 p.m. on Friday, July 23 and Saturday, July 24.

The historic home is the third-oldest home in Charlevoix. In 1870, Lennie Ingalls commissioned the home to be built by Ben Campbell, a ship chandler from Beaver Island.

Only 18 years old and soon to give birth to her first child, Lennie was widowed when her young husband, Almon, died. Almon Ingalls is the first death recorded in the Charlevoix County Record of Deaths, Vol. 1. In 1869, the birth of Almon Ingalls Jr. was recorded as the second birth in Charlevoix County.

Lennie Ingalls later married Ben Campbell and they had three children. Campbell provided the music at early Charlevoix get-togethers and on a cold November morning, he set out from his shipyard on Round Lake to search for survivors of the Fisherman's Island Tragedy. The Ingalls-Campbell home remained in the family, always owned by women, until the death of Lennie's grand niece, Erma DeWitt.

Today, the home serves as the office of the Charlevoix County Land Conservancy. The mission of the conservancy is to advance community land stewardship and protect land in Charlevoix County. The year old conservancy has acquired the Margaret P. Erber Preserve on Beaver Island and the Peter P. Faskey Preserve on the Boyne River.

The Ingalls-Campbell DeWitt home now has a new roof, the old living room has been restored to provide a bright office space for the conservancy, and the home will be painted this year.

The Charlevoix County Land Conservancy is restoring the home in cooperation with the city of Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority. The simple, yet stately home remains today much as it was in 1870. The front porch, the classic lines and the apple tree in the yard are reminders of a time when life was slower but in many ways more harsh.

Services offered for seniors

The Charlevoix County Commission on Aging offers many services for area seniors including home-delivered meals and senior center congregate meals in Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan.

The commission also offers:

- Homemaker programs which assist seniors with light housekeeping. The homebound client is eligible for two hours every other week to perform duties such as running the vacuum, mopping floors, bathrooms and kitchen duties. Seniors should remember to save their heavy-duty spring house cleaning, or window washing for cleaning services that specialize in that type of heavy-duty cleaning.
- The in-home respite program is designed for caregiver relief. The client must require 24-hour supervision and have a dependable caregiver in the home for the commission's respite aide to relieve. Funds are available for Alzheimer's and dementia clients. Respite aides are well trained in dealing with dementia and difficult behaviors. If you know of any caregivers that need a break, this program is specifically designed for them to prevent burnout in caregiving.
- The personal care program involves certified nursing assistants and personal care aides who will assist the elderly in their home with safe bathing. Many elderly are afraid to step into the tub by themselves, and all too often they fall and sustain injuries related to bathroom accidents. This is a small bathing grant that will rely upon donations to expand the program.
- Michigan's Prescription Medication Program, which helps seniors with the high cost of prescription medications. Eligibility is based upon residency in Charlevoix County, 65 or older, income not exceeding $1,006 per month for single household or $1,356 per month for married couples. The commission can provide two to three month's supply of vouchers for medications for those qualified, depending on need and the number of vouchers available.

Big changes at Karl's Pastry Shop

By B. J. Hetler

Karl's Pastry Shop is keeping up with the times by changing its focus.

Gone are the donuts fried in grease. But customers will still savor made-from-scratch pies, muffins, tortes, bagels, croissants, cakes, eclairs, and other bakery items.

Owners Karl and Carol Gilewicz say they decided to design a health-conscious menu.

"We still make everything we used to," Carol said. "But we've shifted from fried."

Everything from breads to soups and salads are made from scratch and contain no preservatives, Carol said.

Pasties with an Upper Peninsula recipe are one of the specialties.

"We use my great-grandmother's recipe," Karl said. She lived in Calumet-Laurium.

Karl has owned a bakery in Charlevoix since 1982. He has three years of training in the culinary arts and does most of the baking. Carol has three years of training in the culinary arts and is the shop's manager. She also decorates cakes for any occasion.

Deli sandwiches such as roast beef with dill havarti are served on the bakery's popular homemade rye bread or other specialty bread. The menu includes a veggie bagel with herbed cream cheese, cucumber, lettuce, tomato; onion and pepper rings. Sandwiches are also offered on a croissant or a roll.

The bakery offers "made-to-order" sandwiches and salads.

"We can make anything you can think of," Carol said.

Meats, cheeses and salads may be purchased by the pound. Platters may be ordered for events. The bakery has a seating area where customers may enjoy their food with coffee, cappuccino or other beverages.

Karl's Pastry Shop is located at 1200 Bridge St. The telephone number is 547-6431. Hours are 9:30 a.m. until 6 p.m., Monday-Saturday.

Environmental groups target DME

By B. J. Hetler

A Charlevoix company is the target of environmental groups that say a required cleanup of toxins isn't being accomplished fast enough.

DME Company on Ferry Avenue is a tooling manufacturing company, owned by Millacron in Cincinnati. It has been cited by the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ) for toxins in the soil and groundwater.

Vinyl chloride, a carcinogen, is entering Lake Charlevoix at a rate five times higher than the state health standard, the Lake Charlevoix Association stated in a report. Lake Charlevoix is 450 feet from DME's site.

The toxins entered the soil from a landfill that was on DME's property, and from a lagoon used by the company at one time to dispose of spent solvents, used oils and coolants. With time the toxins have seeped into groundwater.

"The biggest problem is the area on Matthews Lane where there are cottages," said Dan Darnell. Darnell is MDEQ's district supervisor at the Environmental Response Division.

DME is conducting a cleanup, Darnell said, but MDEQ want to see the groundwater issue addressed sooner than DME's plans call for.

Jerry Puhl of the non-profit, environmental group Water and Air Team Charlevoix (WATCH) said that although the company is working on the cleanup, not much has been accomplished.

"DME is not really cooperating, and is not letting DEQ onto its property," Puhl said. "We were hoping DME would do the cleanup voluntarily, but they're dragging their feet."

Puhl pointed out that WATCH appreciates the industry in the area and realizes that the contamination problems were there before DME bought the land.

"It's not their fault, but they bought it and they need to deal with it," Puhl said.

Other groups urging faster cleanup by DME are Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council and The Lake Charlevoix Association.

Bruce Wasilewski, DME Company plant manager, said company officials were not available for comment.

Armband day, Vegas Night among the highlights

More information regarding several popular Venetian Festival events has been released by festival organizers.

- The midway/carnival is scheduled to open on Thursday, July 22 in the vicinity of Erber Parking Lot and Mason Street. An additional "armband day" will be offered, which allows festival-goers the opportunity to enjoy an unlimited number of rides for the single price of $10.

The first "armband day" is scheduled, as in the past, from 5-10 p.m. Thursday, July 22. A second "armband day" is from noon-5 p.m. Friday, July 23.

- A limited number of tickets are still available for Vegas Night aboard the Emerald Isle boat. The casino-style outing begins at 9 p.m. Thursday, July 22 and will include games such as blackjack, craps, dirty queen, a money wheel and other games of chance. Tickets are $15 per person at the door, but may be purchased in advance for $10 at Interior Motives, The Sunglass Shoppe, Re/Max of Charlevoix and the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce.
- The United States Coast Guard has announced extended hours for public tours of the Acacia. The cutter may be toured, free of charge, from 6-9 p.m. Friday, July 23, 1-4 p.m. and 6-9 p.m. Saturday, July 24, and from 1-4 p.m. Sunday, July 25.
- Record participation is anticipated for the boat parade, which kicks off at dusk on Saturday, July 24. Boat slips at the city marina adjacent to East Park will be exclusively assigned to boat parade entrants for a 24-hour period. Judging will be conducted, for the first time, on a people's choice basis. A limited number of ballots will be randomly distributed in East Park and other downtown locations.
- The enthusiastic response to the Rhythms of Venetian Music Festival has carried over to other musical aspects of the festival.

Celtic and Christian instrumental music will also be performed by Dan McClerren at the Venetian Art/Craft Fair on the upper level of Bridge Park and the Northwest Academy Jazz All Stars will perform live music, in proximity to the Emerald Isle during Vegas Night on Thursday, July 22.

Festival '99: Off to a great start

'Remember those whose lives were changed forever'

A prayer for a safe and happy Venetian Festival at the benediction on Monday seemed to be answered before it was offered.

An early evening blue sky and agreeable temperatures promised a great start to the week of festivities. Families gathered on the lawn at the Odmark Pavilion in East Park to hear the benediction.

Rev. Michael Dennis of the First Baptist Church prayed for God's blessing upon the festival and prayed for the victims of the 1997 fireworks tragedy.

"Two summers ago we walked with the families of the victims," Dennis said. "Once again we remember those whose lives were changed forever."

Festival committee president Dan Barron welcomed everyone to the festival and remembered the victims of the tragedy.

"At this festival and future festivals let us reconcile the pain of the past with our spirit of the future," Barron said.

The evening continued with the Dixieland and ragtime jazz and blues group, Backroom Gang from Traverse City. The crowd applauded the musicians while children danced on the lawn to the toe-tapping music.

The festival offers more music, fun and games throughout the week.

Three musical acts added to lineup

Three musical groups have been added to the impressive lineup at the Rhythms of Venetian Music Festival at the Odmark Pavilion in East Park.

Dean Parker of Charlevoix, a 12-string guitarist who performs folk/rock music in the style of such groups as America and Gordon Lightfoot, will take the stage from 6-7 p.m. Wednesday, July 21. He will go on just prior to The Fabulous Horndogs.

Maximum Effect will perform from 4-6:30 p.m. Saturday, July 24, taking the place of the Jelly Roll Blues Band. Jelly Roll Blues Band withdrew due to a scheduling conflict. Maximum Effect is a six-piece show band from Saginaw. The group, which has toured the midwest, is formerly known as the McCray Brothers Band and is distinguished by its lively renditions of funk and soul music.

The Young Americans will make their first appearance at the Charlevoix Venetian Festival on Saturday, July 24. The Young Americans, an internationally renowned song-and-dance company based in Southern California, will partake in the street parade, which begins at 11 a.m., and will take the Odmark Pavilion stage from 12:30-12:50 p.m.

The Young Americans is comprised of some 120 students from all regions of the United States and the world. For the past 22 years, a cast of 26 performers aged 16-21 have made Northern Michigan their summer home, performing at the Boyne Highlands dinner theatre.

Cook

"I made this recipe many times when my husband brought home fresh fish caught in Lake Michigan," Goldstick said in a press release.

From as far north as the Keweenaw Peninsula to the southern cities of Jackson, Kalamazoo and Detroit, chefs, homemakers, bed and breakfast owners, and a variety of state departments have contributed to the book.

Other Charlevoix area contributors include Helen Phillips' fried oysters, Theresa Grupa's American fluff, Terri Jaskerski's hamburger patty casserole. There are also recipes in honor of Mary Louise Novotny (tuna macaroni loaf), Mrs. Henry Partridge (ham croquettes) and Mrs. R. L. Suratt (Mrs. Suratt's meat loaf).

The book is the newest release in Golden West Publishers' "Cooking Across America Cook Book Series."

There are so many people who helped make our 1999 season a success: board members, sponsors, coaches, umpires, players, parents. Impossible to name each of you individually, but the Board of Little League realizes your contribution and wishes to say "Thank You."

We recently hosted seven teams participating in the District 8 Major League All-Star Tournament. I admit during the planning stage those involved had some apprehensive moments; but it all came together eventually. People came forward to work the concession stand, prep the field between games, sell 50/50 tickets, and perhaps most importantly, umpire the games. Then there were the spectators who continued to follow the games even after Charlevoix was eliminated. They came to watch simply because they liked baseball. Our success was definitely a group effort and, for me, it was so gratifying to see how many people support kids playing baseball. Thanks to all who helped!

Sailors battle each other, Mother Nature

By Fair Winds
Charlevoix Yacht Club

Throughout the afternoon on Wednesday, July 14, weather forecasts warned of storms and heavy weather for the Charlevoix area, and the sailors in the second race of the Summer Series found these predictions were to come true.

With winds building to 35 knots, darkening skies, rain and occasional flashes of lightning, there were inevitable discussions among skippers and crew members at the docks about the advisability of sailing in such conditions. Some boats decided to go ahead and race; others decided to not leave the marinas. The wind remained heavy well into the evening and skippers and their crews faced challenging conditions.

The J-22 fleet may have faced the most daunting conditions due to the lightweight and small size of the boats. One experienced skipper of a J-22 went overboard; Hussy altered course to pick up the stranded skipper and, due to time lost, did not complete the race. Reckless crossed the finish line first, with Crazy Horse crossing the finish three minutes later. Superfluous came in third. Hussy had been in fourth place at the time her crew rendered assistance and was given a fourth place overall for the race. Paleface Lite and First Date followed.

Kamikaze was the only boat racing in Fleet A and completed the race in just over two hours.

In Fleet B, Mi Joy crossed the finish first, five minutes ahead of Our Thyme II, yet saved their time by only 14 seconds as corrected. Babe sailed over the finish three minutes behind Our Thyme II, followed by Saffron.

In Fleet C, Original Sin was the first to finish and had a corrected time of one hour and 40 minutes. Cygnus and Tireless followed closely behind, with Blasen III and Jesse bringing up the rear.

In the JAM 198 and higher fleet, Apothecary came in first, with Red Hot finishing 38 seconds behind on corrected time. In the JAM 153-195 fleet, Flash was the only boat to finish.

Overall, the sailors prevailed despite the weather conditions. As the wind continued to build in velocity, those boats that were carrying too much sail ended up reefing mains and replacing Genoas with working Jibs. One crew member found herself ankle-deep in water in the cabin and wound up pumping water for a good portion of the race.

Tennis tourney wraps up

The first city tennis tournament that is a part of the New Venetian Games saw an array of tennis players compete in seven flights for championship crowns.

In the boys age 10-and-under final, David Zackeim defeated Brian Cash in a close match, while in the boys over-10 title match, Randy Wood edged Scott Pair.

In the 16-under doubles, Alex Zackheim and Kristin Holmes topped Chris and John Pew.

In women's singles, Janet Friedinger defeated Karen Peters, then the two teamed up to beat Pat Carland and Lynn Salmonson in the women's doubles title match.

In mixed doubles, Kate Campaigne and Steve Carland edged Joyce and Dean Davenport in the championship match.

In men's doubles, Nick Kling and Dean Davenport topped Dave Drury and Larry Letwin.

Tournament managers were Vinnie Klooster and Sarah Stone.

Eight in golf title matches

The championship matchups are set in three of the four flights in the first Venetian Festival golf tournament.

In the men's under 50 flight, Keith Grunch will play Scott Blechel in the championship match. In the men's over 50 flight, Richard Hunter will play Jack Niswander.

In the women's under 50 flight, Amy Russell will play Leighn Lovell for the title, while in the women's over 50 flight, Rosemary Corradi will play either Glenda Ferguson or Diane Barker.

The finals were scheduled for Tuesday, July 20 at Charlevoix Golf Club.

The tournament is named in honor of Keith Carey, longtime Charlevoix Golf Club manager who died recently.

The tournament began with qualifying rounds. The finalists advanced through quarterfinal and semifinal match play rounds.

Man notches rare double eagle

Stephen Reese of St. Louis made a rare double eagle 2 on the 463-yard par-5 ninth hole at Belvedere Golf Club. Reese, a 9 handicap, shot 38 for nine holes.

HOW TO KILL A BUSINESS
... in ten easy steps

1. Don't Advertise
Just pretend everybody knows what you have to offer.
2. Don't Advertise
Tell yourself you just don't have time to spend thinking about promoting your business.
3. Don't Advertise
Just assume everybody knows what you sell.
4. Don't Advertise
Convince yourself that you've been in business so long customers will automatically come to you.
5. Don't Advertise
Forget that there are new potential customers who would do business with you if they were reminded.
6. Don't Advertise
Forget that you have competition trying to attract your customers away from you.
7. Don't Advertise
Tell yourself it costs too much to advertise and that you don't get enough out of it.
8. Don't Advertise
Overlook the fact that advertising is an investment in selling ... not an expense.
9. Don't Advertise
Be sure not to provide an adequate advertising budget for your business.
10. Don't Advertise
Forget that you have to keep reminding your established customers that you appreciate their business.

SCRAPBOOK

Reynolds Farm marks centennial

By Betsy Reynolds

This summer the descendants of Albert and Ellen Reynolds will celebrate the centennial of the Reynolds Farm on Waller Road in Charlevoix Township.

Albert and Ellen moved from Otsego County, N.Y. to Otsego County, Mich., for reasons not known. On June 4, 1899 they purchased the Waller Road property for $500 from James and Hanna Hawkins. Previous owners had been Skaw Bose, Theressa Micksawby, Alexander and Angeline Micksawby.

The Reynolds seemed to have prospered on this property. The log house was enlarged; the barn and other typical farm structures were also built. Records show they traveled to Orlando, Fla. and purchased a lot there. In a Benjamin Brown Ford Garage advertisement, Albert is listed as one of the proud owners of a Ford purchased in 1916. Albert was a member of the Prohibition Party and Charlevoix Township treasurer.

Albert passed away in 1924, leaving the farm in Ellen's hands. Grandson Keith Reynolds inherited the land when Ellen died in 1936. Keith passed the land on to his four children.

Keith, wife Catherine and their children lived on the farmstead only in the summer, because the county did not plow the east end of Waller Road in the winter.

All that remains today of the original buildings is the stone basement and concrete portions of the barn. A few logs from the log house have become fireplace mantels in several homes. Rocks hauled from the rocky ridge were used in the construction of the cribs on the Pine River Channel breakwater.

Today, Albert and Ellen's descendants do not farm the land as they did, but maple syrup is harvested from a fine grove of maple trees, a large garden supplies many vegetables and flowers, and wildlife is abundant.

There are now five descendants residing with their families on Rocky Ridge Farm. Keith's children, grandchildren and great grandchildren walk the land that six generations of their family have lived on for a hundred years.

Employers, employees enjoyed Charlevoix in the summer

By Marilyn Boss

A wonderful part of our history was having the black people who came here with their employers during the summer months enjoy Charlevoix with us. Dale and I have very fond memories of friends we made at that time in our lives.

Every Thursday at noon, all the maids and chauffeurs had the day off, and were not due back home until 7 a.m. the next morning. They would gather and fill up the park, which we now refer to as Veteran's Park. It is located across Belvedere from the 7-11 store. They had the use of the big fancy Cadillac or Lincoln, owned by their employer. They would gather in the park, and enjoy a picnic, or plan things to do that day.

One of the memorable occasions was when they put on a play during the time money was needed for the new hospital. They performed in the middle school gym before a packed house. We remember distinctly the beautiful music, and especially the scene of Jesus carrying a heavy wooden cross up the aisle as they sang the song, "Must Jesus bear the cross alone, and all the world go free." John Wilks, a very distinguished, tall gentleman who worked for Mrs. Gilbert at cottage 49 on the Belvedere, carried the huge cross over his shoulder from the back to the front of the gym and up the stairs onto the stage. It was a very moving event which we will never forget..

John maintained a beautiful dark blue Cadillac Fleetwood for Mrs. Gilbert. He always had it shining so brightly that it looked better than new. He used newspapers to wipe it off after it was washed to get that high shine. One day, Earl Crandell, the local policeman, gave him a ticket for speeding on Belvedere Avenue. Oops! Wrong move! In those days, you had to appear before the justice of the peace at city hall, and they would pick the first four or five people they could find outside on the sidewalk to come in and be the jury. The accused had to appear before them, and they decided their fate right then and there. John brought along his employer, the elderly Mrs. Gilbert, and she commented to the jury that John had never done a wrong to anyone, and she didn't believe that he had been speeding. The jury unanimously voted not guilty. The story soon was all over town, and it was said that John stood there, tears rolling down his face when they read the verdict. He could not believe that the people could be so kind to him. That was what it was like in Charlevoix at that time between the townspeople and the summer help. The merchants were very friendly to them wherever they went, and many friendships were developed through those years.

When Dale delivered milk, he would take one of our children along, and when he stopped at the Hater cottage on the Belvedere, the nice maid, Moselle, would give our daughter, Diane, who was with him, cookies. Her husband, Grady, and Moss' chauffeur, Woody, who lived across the street, would play golf at daybreak many mornings at the municipal golf course, as they both had to be at work at 7 a.m. Woody would either be found shining the big seven-passenger limousine, or he would be downtown shopping at the grocery store. Everyone in town knew him, and he was a good friend.

Rothchild's had a wonderful cook named Nell. She also had cookies when Dale and the kids delivered milk. One Thursday, a car load of maids from the Belvedere that Dale knew came by our house and asked if they could look at it. We love red, and all the bright colors, and so did they. We had a great time laughing with them about our similar tastes.

I worked at the Turkey Wing Restaurant in the summer, and the owners, Dewitt and June Peters, had a great husband-wife team there. Grand was a big, gentle man who did all the cooking, and Princess was his wife. She made the salads and french fries and cold sandwiches. I really enjoyed working with them.

Zack White was a marvelous piano player who didn't know a note of music. He had a white upright piano at his home on Antrim Street, located where Oleson's complex is now. He played piano for Duke Ellington for years, and I remember Zack showing me his many scrapbooks, filled with newspaper items from gigs in New York, Chicago and all over the country. His home in Charlevoix provided many hours of entertainment for those who wanted to listen. I loved to hear him play.

These are some of the people we remember. There were many more, and they added to the life we knew then. Fond memories, indeed.

Winds snuff out fireworks show

Tens of thousands of people enjoyed eight days of music, food, fun, carnival rides and special events at the 69th Annual Venetian Festival.

This year's festival was held July 18-25.

A tremendous rush of air, a deafening "boom" and spectacular white flares streaking through the night sky signaled the return of fireworks after a one-year absence.

Charlevoix ceased fireworks following a tragic explosion in 1997 that killed one person and injured at least 15 others.

Last Saturday, "ooohs and ahhs" from the admiring audience quickly dissolved into "awws" of disappointment when officials stopped the display after about two minutes.

Art Shaw, state certified fire inspector for the City of Petoskey, and patrol commander U.S. Coast Guard Chief Jim Shull, halted the fireworks display after observing debris and glowing embers falling onto boats and the audience along the southwest shore of the harbor.

About two hours earlier test fireworks were fired to determine the direction of winds aloft at 500-600 feet. What little wind there was blew toward the southeast. When the fireworks show started at approximately 11 p.m., the wind had increased somewhat and shifted to the southwest, according to Shull.

"I saw debris falling in a direction different from the area where we tested," Shaw said. "I saw people scurrying, trying to get out of the way."

Shaw has directed the Petoskey fireworks since 1986. He was a Petoskey firefighter for 21 years. Shaw said he was contacted by Charlevoix City Manager Michael Wiesner to oversee the Charlevoix fireworks through a mutual aid agreement between the two cities.

Coast Guard Chief Shull also said he saw "glowing embers" falling on the boats and the water near the marina. "We met with the fireworks company on Thursday and agreed that any glowing embers would be a show-stopper," Shull said.

Shaw and Shull made a joint decision to halt the show immediately.

"It wasn't easy," said Shull, "but it was the right call. We were looking out for the general safety of the public. We felt their safety was threatened."

Shull said he and Shaw did not discuss options, such as postponing the program for a few minutes to see if the winds would die down, moving the barge, or altering the trajectory of the fired shells before agreeing to pull the plug.

1999 Venetian Queen

Kelli Skiba, the 69th Venetian Festival queen, smiles after being crowned on Saturday. Skiba, 20, was chosen queen over seven other candidates. The candidates were judged on two speeches, an essay and interviews with a panel of judges from outside the Charlevoix area. A $2,000 scholarship was awarded. Kelli, a 1997 Charlevoix High School graduate, is the daughter of Brownie and Susan Flanders and Henry Skiba. She is an Economics and English major at the University of Michigan. Chief: Crowd reacted well to fireworks cancellation

Don Ward of Ward Brothers Charter Boats Inc. said he saw some falling debris, but no "glowing embers." Ward was on his company's dock on the southwest side of Round Lake watching the display with his family.

"I was out in front of my place and I saw nothing that was a problem. With any fireworks there's a certain amount of ash fallout."

An estimated crowd of 15,000 to 20,000 reacted to the news of the cancellation very well, according to Charlevoix Police Chief Dennis Halverson. "The crowd seemed to understand," he said. "Nobody expressed any great anger, the decision was accepted surprisingly well."

"Safety was a planning priority for the entire festival. We had a system in place and it worked," Halverson said.

Festival Committee President Dan Barron and the board held a press conference on Monday. The committee will attempt to ascertain the appropriateness of stopping the fireworks display, Barron said.

The judgment of Petoskey's fire inspector was premature, Barron said. He questioned the background and experience of Shaw, and compared the expertise of the display company, Zambelli Fireworks Internationale. Zambelli has staged fireworks shows at presidential inaugurations, Super Bowl games and the Statute of Liberty celebration in New York City. It has more than 40 years of experience.

The clear-zone area around the barge was increased from 420 to 520 feet, and the shell size was reduced from six-inch to five-inch by Zambelli as an extra safety precaution, Barron said. Neither the city nor Shaw had suggested the precautions, he said.

"Calling off the fireworks was outrageous, an embarrassment and a disappointment" Barron said.

However, Shaw stands by his decision.

"If people's lives are in danger the show is not that important," Shaw said. "I stand by the call based on what was going on."

The festival board is conducting an investigation into the decision to stop the fireworks. It is also waiting for a report from the city staff.

Though many visitors said that fireworks are a big reason why they come to Venetian, some admitted that the colorful displays are not the only reason they visit the Charlevoix festival.

One family took the cancellation and disappointment in stride and looked on the sunny side.

"My wife, two daughters and I spent a beautiful day together in the park," said Bob Turley from Chicago. "We listened to lots of great music, ate hot dogs and ice cream, the kids danced and had lots of fun. We were all tuckered out and wanted to go to sleep anyway. Overall, it was a wonderful time for our family." The Turleys said they will be back next year, fireworks, or no.

Bob and Katie Hathaway and daughter Madeline, 7, of Durand came to the festival for the third straight year. Except for the short fireworks, "everything else was wonderful," said Katie.

The onus for the sudden cancellation fell on the festival committee according to Vance Flaggert of Waterville, Ohio. "These guys (festival officials) are gun-shy," he said. "I fully understand their decision though. I come here every year and always have a great time watching the boats and the people."

Will Flaggert return in 2000? "Absolutely!"

David Beaudoin of Charlevoix had a different reaction late on Saturday night. "This was terrible," he said. "It's an embarrassment to our community."

On Sunday afternoon several Charlevoix residents reflected on the previous eight days. Pete Pace gave credit where he felt it was due. "The festival committee did a great job," he said. "This might be the best (festival) ever."

"Everybody was being super cautious," said Bob Starback. "Too bad the weather didn't cooperate." They both felt the boat parade was "excellent," and that too much emphasis is focused on the fireworks.

"People seem to lose sight of what the event is all about, it's more than just fireworks," Starback added. "The whole week was well planned and organized."

The festival offered many events for the community.

Musicians from a diverse genre entertained children and adults from afternoons into the evenings. Young children danced to the Dixieland music of the Backroom Gang and the Motown music of The Contours.

Children enjoyed exercising their creativity during Kid's Art in the Park, and seniors played bingo in the park on a sunny festival day.

Shrieks from carnival riders punctured the hot summer air, and kids carried life-sized stuffed animals, prizes they had won along the midway.

The U.S. Coast Guard cutter, Acacia, and the schooner, Madeline, offered education and historic tours, free of charge.

One of Charlevoix's largest parades ever took place on Saturday in front of a huge, appreciative audience. A highlight was the appearance of members of the Charlevoix High School Class of 1959, whose team won the state football championship.

The Grand Marshall was Charlevoix's outstanding citizen of the year, Bill Price.

Crowds kept the food booths busy. The taste delights included grilled, marinated chicken, bratwurst, hot dogs, hamburgers, roasted almonds and baked goods.

The festival closed on Sunday the way it started — with sunny skies and people in good spirits. The festival was an all-volunteer event.

A crowd of up to 20,000 people filled East Park to view the return of fireworks to the Venetian Festival. (Photo by Doug Drapal)

Judge dismisses Taylor from suit

The 1997 Venetian Festival chairman was dismissed on Tuesday, July 20, from lawsuits after a circuit court judge found that he had not made any decisions for the festival fireworks.

Former festival chairman John Taylor was named in eight lawsuits, along with the City of Charlevoix, pyrotechnician Richard Davis, the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, and others following the 1997 Venetian Festival fireworks explosion.

A 12-inch firework prematurely exploded inside its steel launching tube, blasting shrapnel into the festival crowd. The families of the victims filed lawsuits following the explosion on July 26, 1997, that killed local resident Mike Yager and injured at least 15 other people.

Taylor's attorney, Thomas J. Phillips, from Traverse City argued successfully that Taylor was not responsible for the fireworks display portion of the festival.

Woman dies, four injured in car accident

A Charlevoix woman was killed and four other Charlevoix residents were injured in a two-vehicle accident in Emmet County's Little Traverse Township on Tuesday, July 20.

Marita M. Kerner, 45, of Charlevoix was killed in the accident. Persons injured were: Jeannie Kerner, 19, Lisa Kerner, 17, Stephanie Kerner, 14, and Nancy Sandomierski, 15.

The crash occurred on West Conway Rd. near Moeller Road at approximately 4:46 p.m.

According to Michigan State Police, a Dodge Neon driven by Jeannie Kerner entered West Conway Road from a private drive near Moeller. A full size Ford pickup driven by Ronald Keller of Harbor Springs was traveling east bound on West Conway Rd. and struck the Neon on the passenger side.

The front seat passenger, Marita Kerner, the driver's mother, was pronounced dead at the scene by Emmet County Medical Examiner Dr. Carl Hawkins.

Injured persons were treated at Northern Michigan Hospital. Keller and his passenger James Myers of Harbor Springs declined medical treatment.

The Michigan State Police were assisted at the scene by the Emmet County Sheriff's Department, the Harbor Springs Area Fire Department, Life Link EMS, Emmet Ambulance, and the Alanson Littlefield Fire Department.

The accident remains under investigation.

Donations to assist the Kerner family with funeral and medical expenses may be sent to: John Kerner Family, c/o Charlevoix State Bank, 111 State St., Box 217, Charlevoix, Mich. 49720.

OPINIONS

A new adventure begins in Charlevoix

DOUG DRAPAL

"Welcome to Charlevoix. This is a great town. You're gonna like it here," said Bill Barber while vigorously pumping my hand recently. His greeting echoed those I've received from many folks during my first two weeks here in Charlevoix.

My dear, old "Grandpa D.," who to the best of my knowledge has never had an original idea, is a master of spouting the right, trite, sometimes polite phrase for every occasion. He frequently says,"You never get a second chance to make a great first impression." My first impressions of Charlevoix could not be better.

When Ken Winter, general manager of the Courier, and I first talked about the editorship of this newspaper, I was a bit skeptical. His description of the town and the job opportunity seemed too good to be true. Grandpa D. says, "Things like that usually are."

On that sunny summer afternoon, Ken gave me the nickel tour of Charlevoix the Beautiful. He pointed out all the standard features, the quaint downtown shopping district, the beaches, marinas, parks and recreation facilities, historical Earl Young homes, and the clubs, schools, hospital, churches, industrial park and much more. Naturally, I was impressed.

I asked about the people who live, work and play here. Ken shared his opinions and insight, then suggested I find out for myself.

If I have one skill, it is an ability to meet and engage strangers in short, lighthearted conversations while eliciting facts, information and of course, their opinions on a myriad of topics. Truth is almost everyone has a ready opinion on almost every subject. Ol' Gramps even has an opinion on opinions. Guess I don't have to tell you what he says opinions are like.

So, for a few days I knocked on doors, made phone calls, visited the library, Harsha House and shops along Bridge Street. I attended a city council meeting and a school board meeting, even stopped by a local watering hole to chat with the regulars.

Along the way, I met several interesting area residents. All were more than happy to oblige me with their unique perspective, views and opinions. I spoke with Jeanine Wallace, John Haggard, Hal Evans, Helen Weislik, Dean Davenport, Dan Barron, Dennis Halverson, George Lasater, Tamara Stevens, and many others.

They all share one common denominator — a sincere affection and pride for Charlevoix, its traditions and history, and especially for the people who call this area home. I liked that, too.

Their glowing descriptions of life and the lifestyle here must make Jacqueline Merta's job as president of the Chamber of Commerce a little bit easier.

Their consensus is that Charlevoix is a relaxed, comfortable and friendly small town. It is prestigious, upscale, sophisticated and proud, yet without the haughty arrogance that permeates so many similar places.

To me, Charlevoix is a town teeming with charm and character, and a town with a team of charming characters.

A few years ago, my younger brother died suddenly. His passing helped me realize just how short, unpredictable and precious life is. I decided then it was time for a lifestyle change, a time to begin a new chapter in my life. I left my job, leased my home downstate in Northville, and moved to Salem, Oregon.

There a career change, from newspapers and journalism into commercial real estate, marketing and professional mediation services, provided an opportunity to develop additional skills and experiences.

After nearly four years in the great northwest, I returned to Michigan feeling like a prodigal son. This is home. It's where I want to be.

Through a series of curious coincidences and serendipity, fate, good fortune, divine providence, or maybe just dumb luck, I am back doing what I like to do best, working at a small town, community newspaper.

The editor of a small weekly newspaper wears many hats including writer, reporter, photographer, layout and design coordinator, etc. As editor of the Courier, I also hope to earn a reputation as a trusted friend, good neighbor and concerned citizen.

The primary purpose of this newspaper is to inform its readers about important issues through clear and unbiased presentation of facts and information.

Articles written to persuade, convince, or influence readers should be found only on the opinion/editorial pages.

By its nature, news is often negative. We will report on the negatives and continue to seek out the positives. We will mirror the community of Charlevoix and reflect the good as well as the bad.

The Charlevoix Courier will remain politically independent.

Being a newcomer to this area has both disadvantages and advantages. My learning curve is steep and I carry no baggage filled with bias and prejudice.

I accept the challenges that come with this job with what Zen calls a "child's" or "open" mind. Basically, it means being receptive to all possibilities. I want to know "why" and "why not" things happen.

I will continue to welcome your story ideas and suggestions. I need to discover what is important and of interest to you.

I believe that children, families and schools are the heart of any community, and elders and retirees are too often a most under-appreciated and under-utilized resource.

Finally, I didn't know whether I should accept this position at the Courier, or not, so I asked Grandpa D. for advice.

"A man who dies without regrets has lived a happy life," he said. "People regret things they didn't do in life, not the things they did that didn't work out. God puts you where he needs you. Remember, whatever you choose to do, never tire of doing what is right."

That was pretty heavy stuff coming from the old curmudgeon. Then he added, "Hey, kid, when in doubt, go with your gut."

I did.

Hello, Charlevoix!

Letters to the editor

Thanks for golf program, camp

Editor:

For the past two summers I have visited with my grandparents in Charlevoix. During this time I have taken part in the Charlevoix County Junior Golf program. This is a wonderful program.

Recently, I was privileged to receive a weeklong scholarship from the Charlevoix County Junior Golf Association to attend Ferris State University summer golf camp. The golf pros provided excellent instruction.

I would like to thank the Board, the teaching professionals and the Executive Director, Mr. Dean Davenport, of the Charlevoix County Junior Golf Association for this great opportunity.

The summer program and the golf camp are excellent. Thanks again for both of these programs.

Sincerely,
Joshua Wood

School board deserves praise and support

Editor:

Residents of the Charlevoix School District should be encouraged to offer their thanks and support to the school board and the School Facilities Committee for their thorough evaluation of the needs and options of future educational facilities in our community.

The process has been open and interactive to allow residents to understand and offer their insight to the decisions. We have all had many opportunities to participate in this important undertaking.

The findings have made it clear that we need to begin a facilities improvement program, and to begin one on a timely basis.

It is well documented that higher quality education leads to a higher quality of life in this, or any community. Modern, technologically efficient classrooms and facilities will allow our teachers a better environment to help our children broaden their educational horizons.

We should consider how the expense of improving our schools will positively influence the quality of our children's lives and the community's well-being.

The recommended Option 3 is an investment which will provide us with many years of rewards, and appears to be the most fiscally responsible and efficient choice for the long term.

Let's all spend some time this summer evaluating how we can ensure the success of this proposal and prepare to offer our support and cooperation to this project as we are asked to affirm and participate.

Steve Seely

Wojcik leads 'Swing Thing' at Thursday Night Series

Larry Wojcik will lead the Swing Thing Band at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau's Thursday Night Concert Series at the Odmark Pavilion in East Park.

Wojcik, a drummer/percussionist, band leader and arranger, has some 45 years of professional experience and is well versed in all styles of playing. He has earned an outstanding reputation for his superb time keeping and ability to swing.

Wojcik is an alumnus of the famed Berklee College of Music in Boston. He earned his bachelor of arts degree in music education from Michigan State University. His credits include appearances at major music festivals, live television, movie sound tracks, radio jingles and pit work for local and regional music productions.

He has kept an active concert and club schedule while studying arranging with such greats as Neal Hefti, Johnny Richards, Russ Garcia, John LaPorta, Herb Pomeroy, Phil Rizzo, Dr. Gene Hall and Dr. George West. He has performed with such jazz greats as Bob James, Marv Stamm, Charley Mariano, "Chubby" Jackson, Steve Marcus and Donald Byrd, to name a few.

An active workshop and teaching studio is maintained at the Crooked Tree Arts Center where Wojcik prepares percussion and wind students for their performance careers as young musicians and also provides them the opportunity to study music arranging, theory and composition.

The joy and excitement that Wojcik derives from providing rhythm for both the listener and the dancer is absolutely contagious. His unquestionable love of and dedication to providing a stimulating beat is without question one of his greatest musical attributes.

"I've found a nice place to live in town and will relocate here later this summer." Until then he will commute daily from a cottage on Burt Lake.

Drapal is a native Michiganian. He was born in Detroit, grew up in Farmington, and later lived in Northville for 14 years with his wife and son.

A graduate of Michigan State University, Drapal left the Resorter in 1995 and moved to Salem, Oregon. There he started Strategies and Solutions, Inc., a business consulting firm specializing in strategic planning, communications, public relations, and problem solving. He received training and certification in mediation and appropriate dispute resolution through the University of Oregon Law and Entrepreneurship Center. Drapal served as a volunteer mediator/case developer with Neighbor-to-Neighbor, Inc., a community-based conflict resolution program.

He was also affiliated with Prudential Real Estate Professionals, Commercial Division in Salem. Drapal specialized in investment analysis, leasing and marketing of commercial property. He is a graduate candidate and is close to completing courses and requirements for the commercial real estate industry's prestigious Certified Commercial Investment Member (CCIM) designation.

Drapal moved to Indian River in 1991 and worked at the Straitsland Resorter until the fall of 1995. He was responsible for all news-gathering, reporting, writing, editing, photography, layout and design, makeup, advertising, circulation, marketing, promotions and business operations of the award-winning weekly newspaper. After Drapal moved to Oregon, the Resorter was purchased by former Courier editor, L. Scott Swanson.

Drapal joined the Detroit News in 1980 as coordinator and later supervisor of public relations. In these capacities he was responsible for company-sponsored community events, prepared press releases and speeches, edited, photographed, wrote and designed the monthly company newsletter, and served as the News' special correspondent to all outside media.

He later served as public services manager and marketing services manager. In 1989 he was appointed marketing services director. In that position he reported directly to the publisher and president, directed a staff of 32 researchers, artists and copywriters, and managed an expense budget of nearly $9 million.

As marketing services director, he directed radio and television campaigns and coordinated advertising with agencies such as Lintas: Campbell Ewald, W.B. Doner, and Yaffee and Company.

From 1989 to 1991 he worked in the same capacity with the Detroit Newspaper Agency, the newspaper publishing business agent formed after the joint operating agreement between The Detroit News and The Detroit Free Press. He was the liaison with DNA advertising, circulation, production, and marketing departments and the News and Free Press newsrooms.

While in newspapering, Drapal served in a variety of professional offices. Among these were tenures as executive vice president of the International Freedom Festival in Detroit, executive board member of the Science and Engineering Fair of Metropolitan Detroit, vice president of the Detroit Sports Broadcasters and Writers Association and a steering committee member of the Detroit Festival of the Arts.

Through the years, Drapal has been active in several community organizations including the American Red Cross and Kiwanis Club. In Salem, he served on an 18-person task force appointed by city council and the mayor to study and re-write the city's land use regulations and system development charges. He was also an advisory board member for the Valley Business Weekly newspaper.

Drapal is no newcomer to the area. His family has vacationed in northern Michigan for nearly 30 years and built a cottage on Burt Lake. His son, Jason, is a graduate of Northwestern University.

Pancakes, lakes charm French visitors

By B. J. Hetler

Four French students in Charlevoix on an exchange program find at least two things they all love about the area — the pancakes and the lakes.

Although they enjoy their native crepes, American pancakes hit the spot. Especially with maple syrup, said Alexis Luherme, a senior in high school in his home town of Betton, France.

Student Stephane LeGrand from Pace also has a penchant for peanut butter, a new food for him.

Students Olivier Moenner and Benoit Durand named pizza, hot dogs and Mountain Dew as taste treats.

The area lakes are popular sites for the students where they can be found wind surfing — a sport they practice in France.

They came to Charlevoix through an exchange program that grew out of a trip that 28 Charlevoix students took to France in April. Charlevoix High School French teacher, Jamie Aumend, organized the two-week trip. While in France she met Cathy Daisy, a teacher, who planned the exchange of French students with her.

The Charlevoix students traveled to the northwestern corner of France that included the Loire Valley, Brittany and Normandy regions.

"It was important for the students to see the history of Normandy beach," Aumend said. "They also visited a World War II museum. The purpose of the trip was to educate our students in another culture."

One of the highlights was visiting the Monet Gardens in Giverny.

The Charlevoix students lived with host families while in France. This was the best way for them to learn about the culture, Aumend said.

The French students are learning about the U.S. by staying with host families here. The families are learning about French culture from the exchange students.

Host to Stephane LeGrand, Linda Resch, is hosting an exchange student for the first time, with her husband, Tony. Their daughter, Tiffany, became homesick while traveling with her class in France, and her family decided to host an exchange student who may miss their family and culture.

"We're having a ball," Resch said. "We were all up late last night laughing and talking." She said that Stephane speaks English very well and is learning the area around Charlevoix.

Stephane, who is quick to smile, said he is having a great time meeting "many good people." He admires the beauty of Lake Charlevoix and the city.

"I understand why people live here," Stephane said. "It's a great American town." He admires the architecture of the Charlevoix houses. Although architecture interests him, Stephane will go on to university to study English and German. He plans to teach.

Olivier Moenner, a high school junior from Reenes, plans a career in computer design. He said he wants to return to the U.S. to live and work. Patrick and Julie Whitley host Moenner.

"This is our first time hosting a student," Patrick said. "It's great. We've been hanging out downtown, going on picnics and canoeing. I've learned about France from Olivier."

Benoit Durand said he would like to live in the U.S., but he does miss some of the food from home. His family gets fresh milk and goat cheese from the countryside near his home in Le Neubourg. Durand speaks German and English as his foreign languages. He is a golfer, pianist and equestrian.

The students return to France with many memories of Charlevoix and their host families and friends on July 30.

Charlevoix High School French teacher, Jamie Aumend, organized an exchange program that brought four French students to Charlevoix. The students enjoyed the Venetian Festival while they were here. Artisans boutique specializes in unique gifts

By B. J. Hetler

A mother-and-daughter-in-law team liked shopping together so much, they decided to open a boutique and provide gift and home decor items for other shoppers.

Elements is a first-time venture for Nancy Suzor and her daughter-in-law Janine Suzor. The boutique opened early this summer. It offers a diverse array of items hand-made by more than 85 artists from across the United States, Canada, Mexico, and South and Central America. The owners buy directly from the artisans and do not sell manufactured items.

"We're always looking for new and different things," Janine said.

A visit to Elements convinces the shopper that the Suzors have succeeded in their quest. A section of the boutique is for children and the items for sale demonstrate that adult artists are able to exercise a child-like imagination. A wall decoration in the form of Zorro on a rearing horse doubles as a night light. Hand painted small and large music boxes are crafted to sit on a night stand, hang on a wall, or attach to a baby's crib.

A shopper looking for one-of-a-kind items will find them at Elements. Whether it's pottery, colorful candles, frames, clocks, mirrors, vases, or small furniture accessories, the choices are unique and crafted by quality artists.

The owners say many of their customers find gifts for special occasions at their boutique.

"People buy for weddings, birthdays and other events," Nancy said. "We get orders for corporate gifts, and we're already seeing purchases for Christmas gifts."

The store has a gift and bridal registry.

Elements is located at 107 Bridge St. The telephone number is 547-5820. It is open every day from 10 a.m. until every shopper's dream — as late as there are shoppers.

Three hurt in two-car crash

Three men were injured early Saturday morning in a two-car head-on collision on Boyne City Road near Horton Bay.

A vehicle driven by Marvin Darnell Hailey, 34, of Charlevoix was traveling west on Boyne City Road when his vehicle crossed the center line and struck an east-bound vehicle head-on at 2:10 a.m. Saturday, July 24, according to a press release from the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office.

The driver of the east-bound vehicle, James Timothy Priddy, 40, of Midland, sustained head and leg injuries. A passenger in Priddy's vehicle, Milton Laurice Southern, 37, of Saginaw, sustained head injuries.

Hailey and Southern were transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital by Boyne City Ambulance. Priddy was transported by Boyne City Ambulance to Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey.

Alcohol was a factor in the accident, which remains under investigation by the sheriff's department.

County increases employees' hours

A county growing in the number of people and state mandates requiring extensive record-keeping and paperwork necessitate an increase in county employees' hours.

County commissioners approved a request by the personnel committee that all full-time employees not already working 40 hours a week, be increased to 40 hours.

"The volume of work has quadrupled," said Charlevoix County Clerk Jane Brannon. The increased hours affects approximately 40 employees in her office and the offices of the treasurer, register of deeds, equalization and Friend of the Court.

The county building hours will remain the same. The additional hours will allow employees more uninterrupted time to work before their offices open to the public.

All part-time employees will continue to work their present schedules with no increase in hours.

The increase takes effect on August 9. Funds for the increase will come from the contingency portion of the county budget.

Doing business without promoting is like working in the dark — nobody knows how to find you when they need you.

Charlevoix's Chamberlain captures Drenth Run 5K

Charlevoix High School graduate Becca Chamberlain won the women's division of the annual Drenth Memorial Venetian Festival 5K Foot Race Saturday.

The event's three races — 5K, 10K, and one mile — were all run under extremely hot weather conditions.

Chamberlain, 22, posted a time of 20 minutes, six seconds. On the men's side, Central Lake's Ryan Shay, 20, a junior and All-American at Notre Dame, repeated as champion in 14:40.

In the 10K, Jami Grant, 20, of Holt was the women's winner in 42:11, while for men, it was Richie Brinker, 23, of Mount Pleasant in 32:17.

The women's 5K masters title went to an area runner as Abby Dart, 43, of Harbor Springs, was first at 23:15, while the men's 5K masters winner was Kevin Deyo, 40, of Traverse City, who finished in 16:56. The men's 10K masters went to Don Fedrigon Jr., 42, of Elk Rapids in 40:04; while the women's winner was Elizabeth Gale, 44, of Flushing in 47:16.

The men's one-mile winner also came from Charlevoix as Pat Rajewski, 30, ran a 5:17; while the women's winner was 14-year old Sarah Kaufman of Appleton, Wis., in 6:52.

"It went really well," said race director Paul Gelderblom. "It was hot. Boy, it was hot, so it slowed a lot of people down. A lot of times were slower because of the heat and humidity."

Following are winners and their time for all divisions of the three races, plus placings for area runners:

Council OK's additional funds for Venetian insurance; boat raffle rescheduled for Aug. 19

The Charlevoix city council approved an additional $3,000 to offset additional insurance costs for the Venetian Festival fireworks.

Dan Barron, president of the festival committee, requested the funds at a council meeting on July 19. The council has authorized an outlay of $11,000 to aid the operation of the 1999 Festival. The funds will be drawn from commercial property taxes.

The festival committee plans to help fund future festivals by attracting more and larger corporate sponsors, according to Barron.

Costs for this year's Venetian Festival approached $50,000 with nearly half being paid to fireworks operator, Zambelli Internationale.

Several sports competitions, and daily music concerts in Odmark Pavilion were presented free of charge this year.

The council also approved expenditure of $5,530 to match a Michigan Waterways grant. Low water levels forced the city to dredge the marina. The dredging, that was completed earlier this summer cost $11,060. Council also approved the transfer of a liquor license from Nanny's to WBF, Inc.

A public hearing was set for Monday, Aug. 2 to discuss changes to the city code for zoning and planning penalties, and a site plan review for a multi-family housing unit on May Street.

In other news, the raffle for a brand new 20-foot Four Winns 200 Horizon inboard/outboard boat and trailer has been pushed back to Thursday, Aug. 19.

The raffle was originally scheduled for July 24 during the Venetian Festiveal, but organizers moved the date back because all the tickets had not been sold by the original drawing date.

The drawing is now scheduled for between 8-9:30 p.m. in the Odmark Pavilion Band Shell in East Park, coinciding with a concert performance by Chautauqua Express.

A limited number of raffle tickets are available. They are $20 each or three for $50. The winning ticketholder need not be present to win.

The boat, which was donated by Four Winns, is one of the few revenue-raising events connected with the Venetian Festival.

SCRAPBOOK

Two ways of playing baseball

Sunday's game proved to be an exception

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following was compiled by Cynthia Postmus, with help from the Charlevoix Public Library, from old Courier news stories. Stories are reprinted in their entirety, exactly as they appeared originally from the Wednesday, July'13, 1921 edition of the newspaper.

Charlevoix baseball fans witnessed a game of ball between the Loeb Farms team and the Charlevoix city team on Sunday last that will leave a lasting impression on their minds -- clearly demonstrating two methods of playing this national game -- as it has been played in previous games and as it was played on Sunday last.

Baseball as it should be played, is a good clean sport and when played in any other manner, is not only a disgrace to the community, but disgusting to the average spectator. From all we can learn, Sunday's game came under the latter classification.

The trouble was apparently brewing from the time the first ball crossed the home plate, and reached a climax in the ninth inning. Men of average intelligence apparently lost their heads and only the efforts of those who were real sportsmen prevented a free-for-all-fight.

The list of casualties, as the game proceeded, grew to proportions that compared favorably with a southern race riot, and had it continued many innings more, our local hospital would have been filled to capacity.

Friends of years are friends no more. Charges of unfair methods and bribery were exchanged, with or without foundation. Can this be baseball? We think not.

The Casualties

Hinckley, Charlevoix catcher, ankle spiked and fingers split.

Frank Newasic, Loeb Farms 1st baseman, both bones of leg broken between knee and ankle.

Whiteford, umpire, hit in the ear by foul tip.

Leon Foster, catcher for Loebs hit on forehead by foul tip, knocked unconscious for fifteen or twenty minutes, remaining in a semi-unconscious condition for several hours.

Two spectators hit by foul balls and more or less hurt.

The game ended in the eleventh inning. Score 10 to 8 in favor of Loeb Farms. Spectators estimated at 2,000 witnessed the game.

As a result, Sunday baseball in Charlevoix is being looked upon in an unfavorable light by many, including those who were opposed to it as well as those who were in favor of it. The reason is apparent and as long as men of mature age and judgment lose control of themselves as some did in last Sunday's game, not only Sunday ball but all ball games will be looked upon with disfavor. Play the game as gentlemen or keep away. "Don't be a rag-chewer; look how the moth is despised."

'Mr. Charlevoix,' Ralph Hamilton dies

By Doug Drapal

Ralph S. Hamilton

The city of Charlevoix is sadder today as it mourns the passing of Ralph S. Hamilton.

Also known as "Mr. Charlevoix" and "Mr. Kiwanis," Mr. Hamilton bought smiles to the faces of friends and acquaintances with his quick wit, keen sense of humor, and colorful recollections of the history of the town he loved so well.

"He always had a smile on his face, a sparkle in his eye, and a laugh in his voice," said Mick Smith.

A true Charlevoix native, he was born in a house on West Garfield Street on May 12, 1904. He died July 28, 1999 at Boulder Park Terrace Nursing Home.

Mr. Hamilton, and the late Bob Miles, were known Charlevoix's foremost historians and storytellers. "Ralph was a very special piece of Charlevoix's history," said Ken Weller, a long-time friend and fellow Kiwanian. "He not only knew the detailed history of Charlevoix. He lived it. Ralph, himself, was an integral part of our community's history." .

"He was just a very gentle fellow, a true gentleman" said Jeanine Wallace. "He was very funny, witty and charming. He always made you feel good when you talked with him. He would always walk away with a smile on his face."

Friends say he knew everything about everybody in town because he loved Charlevoix, including all the year-around residents and "summer" people, too.

Hamilton's earliest stories go back to his days as a youngster living with his family on Belvedere Avenue. Ralph liked to say he was always dusty in those days because he ran barefoot along all the dirt streets in town. "Life was rough," he wrote in a letter to a great-grandson, "We went barefoot in the summer to save our shoes for winter." He also recalled that during the first decade of the 1900's, "There were only three cars in Charlevoix. One cranked on the side. All were owned by the wealthy."

As a teenager, Ralph made a living helping the resorters with odd jobs. He also came up with ingenious and clever, money-making ideas. One time, Ralph and his brother, Ray, decided to hold a community dance and charge admission. They rented the old bank building on the corner of Bridge and Clinton Streets, hired a band from out of town, and invited one and all to come, dance, enjoy the music and have some fun. They anticipated a fine turnout and a big pay day.

Changing of the guard: Acacia gets new commander

Rear Admiral James D. Hull, USCG Commander, Ninth Coast Guard District presided over a change of command ceremony for the Coast Guard Cutter Acacia last Friday.

Commander Karl. L. Schultz, USCG, recently completed a three-year duty as commander of the Charlevoix-based ship.

Schultz's next assignment will be as Coast Guard Liaison Officer to the Department of State in Washington, D.C. He and his wife, Dawn Marie, and their children Kelsey, Lindsey, Annaliese and Eric intend to reside in Fairfax, Va.

Assuming command of the Acacia is Lieutenant Commander Michael W. Shomin. A native of Muskegon, he and wife Linda and their son Kyle Michael, 6, will make Charlevoix their home for the next three years.

Town mourns passing of resident historian

> "He always had a smile on his face, a sparkle in his eye, and a laugh in his voice,"

> -- Mick Smith, longtime friend

Just before the crowd was to begin arriving, the band started to rehearse. The group played so poorly Ralph and Ray realized that nobody would come in if they heard that noise. Always the innovators, the brothers told the band to move quickly up to the third floor of the building and start playing there. Ralph set up a table and collected money at the first floor entrance. The way the boys figured it, by the time folks trudged up two more floors and heard the "music" they would have a captive audience. People would be joking, partying, having fun, and would soon forgive the lousy music. It worked. Not one person demanded a refund! Ralph and Ray laughed all the way to the bank, but their career as dance promoters was over.

Ralph later studied business and bookkeeping at McLaughlin-Davenport Business School in Grand Rapids and via correspondence courses by mail.

In 1926 he married Margit Cherney. The couple moved to Grand Rapids for a few years, and Ralph got a job selling insurance door-to-door. "Mom used to say she had to change the cardboard in his shoes every day," said son, Nick Hamilton. Pounding the pavement didn't suit the senior Hamilton.

During the Great Depression, Ralph left Charlevoix to learn the oil business in Oklahoma. He spent one winter working on a pipeline, at a gas station, and even got involved with some land purchases before realizing what was most important to him.

Come spring, Hamilton walked into the boss's office and declared, "I wouldn't give you one square foot of Michigan for the whole state of Oklahoma. I want to go home." And so he did.

Back in his hometown, Ralph got a job pumping gas and bookkeeping for Bill Wallace at the White Star Gas Station. The introduction of federal income tax provided another opportunity to earn a living. Ralph first handled income tax filings for local fishermen, then for other individuals and businesses in the community. It was the beginning of a career that would span more than 60 years.

"He was my first and only accountant for 35 years," said Jeanine Wallace. "I was audited twice and Ralph came with me to the IRS and proved that nothing was wrong." Ralph continued to work into his 90s because his clients would not let him quit. "He would tell me his eyes were going bad and he was going to retire," Wallace recalled with a laugh. "So I kept buying him stronger and stronger reading glasses."

Hamilton also served as deputy county clerk and road commission clerk for more than twenty years. In addition, he served two terms on the Charlevoix City Council.

Described as a dyed-in-the-wool Democrat, Hamilton's office walls were covered with political buttons and photographs. He was also a prolific reader and an avid stamp collector, especially fond of first-day-issues.

In 1948 Hamilton became a charter member of the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club. The close association would last more than 50 years.

"He was 'Mr. Kiwanis'", said Merle Vandenburg, a fellow Kiwanian for more than 30 years. Merle recalled Ralph's initial effort to lead a Kiwanis fund-raising campaign to build a community pool more than 50 years ago. Once, when the pool project hit a snag, a new library was also being proposed for Charlevoix. Hamilton convinced club members to change their priority and donate the pool funds in order to add a much needed basement to the library plans.

Hamilton and the Kiwanis then resumed fund-raising for a swimming pool. His vision and dedication was rewarded. Finally his dream was realized. In 1997, Ralph cut the ribbon at the dedication ceremony for the new Charlevoix Community Pool.

Hamilton served in most every official capacity while in Kiwanis including Lt. Governor for Division 22 in 1960. He remained active with the club and attended weekly luncheon meetings until two years ago.

Ralph was well known as a leader and motivator. "He never told you what to do, he led by example," said Ken Weller.

"He had an indomitable spirit and always steered even difficult discussions in a positive direction. If something was good for Charlevoix, Ralph was involved."

In 1972, Hamilton was elected president of the reorganized Charlevoix Historical Society and served in various capacities there for more than 20 years. To recognize his extraordinary contributions, the Historical Society established the prestigious Ralph Hamilton Circle. Contributors of at least $100 are listed permanently on a plaque displayed at the Harsha House.

A highlight of Ralph's life occurred when Charlevoix Mayor Josh Barnes proclaimed April 22, 1997 "Ralph Hamilton Day." Ralph was feted by family, friends and community leaders at a dinner held in his honor at the Grey Gables in Charlevoix.

Nick Hamilton shared some final thoughts about his father. "I never heard him say a bad thing about anybody. He was just a great guy. I couldn't have asked for a better dad."

Good-bye, Mr. Charlevoix. We are all going to miss you.

End of the Rainbow?

By B. J. Hetler

The Rainbow Shoppe is looking for one or more angels.

The non-profit resale shop's lease on the 9,000 square-foot building at One Van Pelt Place will not be renewed when it expires in April 2000. The owner has put the building up for sale.

"We're just astounded right now," said board vice president Rita Orlowski.

Orlowski said the 18-member board is looking for an angel or angels to buy the building and permit the Rainbow Shoppe to continue as tenants.

Board treasurer Barbara Jensen said their first choice would be to continue leasing if someone buys the building. The next choice would be to have the funds to buy the building themselves.

The resale shop provides funds to meet the needs of the area communities' children, elderly, adults, and non-profit organizations. People donate clothes and household items, and the Rainbow Shoppe staff sorts, displays and prices the items. The money they take in is given to the communities.

"We're not about making assets," Orlowski said. "We give out what we get in, after expenses."

It has eight paid staff members and 200 volunteers who help with the donations and stock the three-floor building.

The Rainbow Shoppe's outreach program contributes funds to area organizations, such as Charlevoix High Band Camp, Camp Quality, the Ministerial Association, the Senior Center, Memory Walk for Alzheimers, Youth for Christ, and Crisis Pregnancy.

The Rainbow Shoppe contributions reach out to the needs of other communities, such as East Jordan and parts of Emmet County. In 1998, it contributed $64,526, which is 37 percent of the money the shop took in.

More than seven organizations and three individuals are supported monthly.

The Rainbow Shoppe began 17 years ago with seed money from 10 of the Charlevoix community's churches. Each church gave $150.

Rainbow Shoppe board members (from left) Barbara Jensen, Phyllis Gill and Rita Orlowski hope that if the building sells, the resale shop may continue to lease. (Photo by B. J. Hetler)

Within one year, the seed money was paid back to the churches. It has contributed almost a half-million dollars to various communities since then, Orlowski said.

The board attributes the Rainbow Shoppe's ability to help others to its loyal and dedicated volunteers and its staff. The items donated are checked for cleanliness and are reasonably priced.

The building has been owned by Dan Iannotti for 27 years. He said he doesn't want to see the Rainbow Shoppe have to leave, but he is retired and he and his wife are no longer able to lease.

Iannotti has known the staff at the Rainbow Shoppe for many years. He describes them as the "world's nicest leasees."

The Rainbow Shoppe board continues to help those who need it, while it hopes the building will remain its home.

Fireworks report may be ready next week

By B. J. Hetler

A report on the abrupt termination of the 69th Venetian Festival's fireworks on Saturday, July 24, may be completed as early as next week.

City of Charlevoix Fire Chief Doug Carver is preparing the report for the city, and will forward it to City Manager Michael Wiesner. The report will cover the circumstances involved in the decision to terminate the display.

The fireworks were stopped after about two minutes by Petoskey Fire Inspector Art Shaw. The decision was affirmed by U.S. Coast Guard Chief Jim Shull. The two said the wind shifted and they saw debris and glowing embers falling onto boats and the audience along the southwest shore of the harbor.

But the Venetian Festival committee, a community group that organized the festival and the fireworks display, said the termination was premature. The Zambelli Fireworks Internationale company that shot the fireworks suggested alternatives to Shaw, but the suggestions were denied, said festival committee president Dan Barron.

Barron said the investigation that the festival committee launched is mostly completed.

"We've got a pretty good picture," he said. "People will draw their own conclusions."

It is unknown if the fireworks display will be rescheduled for later this year, Barron said.

"We would love to reschedule, but there are financial considerations," he said.

The committee spent $10,000 for a tugboat from Escanaba to transport the display barge into Round Lake. The entire display was approximately $50,000, but Zambelli is working with the committee on the outstanding expenses, Barron said.

The non-profit festival committee plans fund-raising activities throughout the year. It is looking at arrangements for next year's festival.

OPINIONS

I will remember summer of '99

EDITH GILBERT

Perhaps you didn't notice that my column did not appear as scheduled in the Courier last week. It could be you were in the same pickle jar that I was in — entertaining house guests!

House guests are something you look forward to all winter and when it's over (and everyone who entertains agrees) the weeks are just one big blur. Three different groups from New York, California, and Virginia overlapped their visits this summer. It was fun to observe the interaction between relatives, who were once again reunited. The older generation reminisced, while the younger generation formed new memories. Thank the Lord everyone stayed healthy.

Only one youngster, Claire, was bitten by a bee on her big toe, but fortunately a kindly nurse stepped in and applied ammonia instantly.

In spite of the heat — yes, this has been one hot summer — everyone had a good time. Even though swimmers complained about the dead fish on the beach, every beach towel in the house went through the washer and dryer more than once. Golf clubs and tennis rackets still clutter up the porch. Wet bathing suits dry in the sun. Pokemon, Legos, Crazy Bones and children's books fall like apple blossoms throughout the house. The place looks like a Christmas tree with lights on in every room.

Fast Forward: Answer the phone. Answer the door. How did the neighbor's cat get into the house?

Time for breakfast, time for lunch who's here for dinner? Set the table, shuck the corn, slice the tomatoes, start the charcoal, load the dishwasher, "let's all go to the Dairy Queen," watch the sunset! Repeat!

Wait for the bridge, buy fudge, check out the boats, enjoy the concerts, watch the Venetian Festival Parade. Wait for the bridge. Who has arrived? Who's coming for dinner? Unload the dishwasher. At dusk, visit on the porch and watch the roller bladers skate by. Ready for bed?

Look at the pictures of kids tubing in Oyster Bay! The gang going down the Jordan. Oops, my sister tips over the canoe! Open the mail. Answer the phone. "Yes, we will go on the Beaver Islander cruise sponsored by the Historical Society." We're out of milk. Who has the car keys?

Half the summer is now over. My neighbor's beds are all filled. We won't get together until September to compare notes. Some will report that this was the best family visit they ever had. Others will swear, "never again!" As for me, the summer of '99 will be like a bowl of fresh rose petals, whose fragrance will be enjoyed all winter long.

Letters to the editor

Venetian president extends thanks

Editor:

I would like to convey, on behalf of the entire board of directors of the Charlevoix Venetian Festival, Inc., our gratitude for the efforts of countless individuals, businesses and public bodies and agencies, in their assistance and support of the 69th Annual Venetian Festival. The Festival, which was extended into eight days of continuous activities, could not have become a reality without their dedicated efforts.

The United States Coast Guard and the City of Charlevoix merit special recognition. The Coast Guard once again performed its many tasks in a caring and professional manner. We are proud the United States Coast Guard calls Charlevoix "home."

We thankfully acknowledge the City of Charlevoix as the foremost supporter of "Venetian." The 69th Annual Venetian Festival could not have been a resounding success without the hard work and dedication of the city manager, department heads, staff and employees of the city. The commitment of the City of Charlevoix to the Venetian Festival exemplifies the finest qualities of a small town community, for which we are truly grateful.

Sincerely,
Daniel B. Barron
President
Charlevoix Venetian Festival, Inc.

Man has long used medicinal plants and herbal remedies

By Roger Knutsons

Ear to the ground

Just what is a medicinal plant? Probably any plant that any human during our recorded history has used to alleviate a health problem. A Peterson Field Guide to Medicinal Plants for the Eastern and Central U.S. lists almost 500 kinds of plants, which are essentially all the common plants. A rare plant is not likely to have been used as medicine. An herbal remedy seems to be any tea, decoction, tincture, extract, capsule or pill made from any part of the medicinal plant. It is clear that there are a lot of medicinal plants and a much larger number of potential herbal remedies.

A book listing poisonous plants will include many of those in the medicinal plants books. And surprisingly, an edible plant book lists many of the same ones. Often part of a plant is toxic or considered to be medicinal, yet another part of the same plant at another season of the year is edible. Rhubarb provides a fine example. We eat the leaf stems of the plant, often without knowing that both the leaves themselves and the below-ground parts of the plant are toxic enough to cause death. Nearly always the amount is seldom better. For example, a diet consisting solely of onions for a number of days would destroy your red blood cells, to say nothing of your social relationships. We might consider that medicinal, but not beneficial.

Why are so many plants used as medicine? They were available. And during the parts of human history before pharmacies, if you wished to relieve your suffering you could eat a plant, eat an animal, or lick a rock. Plants were most readily available. Often because you would feel better after eating some part of a plant it was easy to ascribe the cure to what you had eaten. Nearly every common plant in the world has been used in that way during human history and thus become a medicinal plant and ultimately an herbal remedy. To pick a specific example from the Peterson guide, stinging nettle has been used as a "blood purifier," diuretic, astringent, for anemia, gout, glandular disorders, rheumatism, poor circulation, enlarged spleen, mucous discharges of the lungs, internal bleeding, diarrhea, dysentery, and more recently against prostate cancer. What that suggests is that nettle and numerous other plants have been used as potential treatment of the most common ailments humans suffer. This does not mean that nettle is a magical plant curing everything, but only that people suffering from those ailments used it and afterward felt better. We do not know how many people used the same plant for the same condition and felt no better or even died. Without careful research neither death nor feeling better can be ascribed to the action of stinging nettle. It was just available and people tried it.

Most of the world's plants are in some part edible, and many of them are nutritionally valuable. Most of the world's plants will not kill you if you eat them. A very small number of the world's plants contain substances that might be helpful in the treatment of specific diseases or conditions. Approaching herbal remedies with some caution would be advisable.

Committee lauded for best Fest

Editor:

I would like to commend the 1999 Venetian Festival Committee for the superb week of entertainment and activities that were held in Charlevoix this entire week. I truly feel that it was the best Venetian ever!

I especially appreciated the fine entertainment -- The Contours (Motown) and Maximum Effect from Saginaw, etc. -- which made Venetian top-notch and certainly drew record crowds. I hope this continues in future years.

I have been an avid fan of Venetian for over 35 years ever since I moved to Charlevoix and I found this week to be the best ever!

I also hope the problem with the fireworks this year does not deter the possibility of having them next year. Fireworks launched from a barge on Lake Charlevoix, just past the Coast Guard station would be excellent. People could stay right downtown in the park and have a fabulous view of the fireworks from that vantage point.

Thanks again for all the efforts in making this Venetian week the best.

Sincerely,
Pat Drost

Boss's article stirred memories of by-gone days

Editor:

Marilyn Boss's excellent article on the summer employees of yesteryear certainly brought back memories from the 1950s years. I worked at Joe Williams' cigar store on Bridge Street where the present Bazaar store is located.

Summer officially arrived when the chauffeurs all arrived within a few days of one another to place their newspaper and tobacco orders for their employers. The fact that all but one of them were black and we were all white did not prevent the foundation of many fast and long-lasting friendships, both at the store and throughout the town. Race just wasn't an issue.

Marilyn's mention of John, or Johnny, Wilks brought back the most vivid recollection. Johnny was one of the most dignified and gracious men I've ever known, invariably polite, but with a wicked sense of humor. How many times did he cause a commotion downtown when people would run into the store and exclaim, "There's a chauffeur driving through town with nothing but a parakeet in his car!"

It was true. Whenever he went out without Mrs. Gilbert or her guests, along went his pet parakeet perched on his shoulder, big as life. He took the bird everywhere, and it never once flew away. He baffled everyone and would not give up his secret lightly. Finally, Dorothy Armstrong, who worked at the store, conned him into telling us how he did it.

Johnny smoked Viceroy cigarettes, and he taught the bird to play with them by lifting them out of the pack one by one. There was something either in the smell of that particular tobacco blend or the filter itself that held the bird's attention. As long as the filter ends were exposed in Johnny's breast pocket, either uniform jacket or shirt, the bird stayed right on his shoulder as if transfixed and never moved. It didn't work with any other brand.

He drove everywhere, walked everywhere, and heads turned and women screamed and little girls burst into tears, and Johnny just walked into the store and almost killed himself with laughter. The parakeet just stayed where it was with an eye cocked on those precious filter-tip cigarettes.

It would have made a great ad campaign.

Dentist's kindness brings smile back

Editor:

Recently my wife and I visited Charlevoix, a most charming place.

Unfortunately, I broke a tooth upon arriving, and I needed immediate dental service. After several attempts to locate a dentist who would see me in a reasonable period of time (so as not to lose precious vacation time in Michigan), I was indeed fortunate to locate the dental practice of John Merrill, D.D.S., on M-66 across from K-Mart in Charlevoix.

Dr. Merrill was extremely understanding and performed a painless procedure allowing me to continue my journey after just one hour in the office.

He and his professional staff were most cordial to a visiting stranger. I would like the people of Charlevoix to know you have a fine ambassador in your fair city.

Kudos to Dr. Merrill and his wonderful assistants.

We look forward to our next visit to Charlevoix and will always remember the kindness and courtesies extended to me.

Sincerely,
Lawrence R. Marra, Jr.

Tips hat to Tip of the Mitt

Editor:

On July 20 I attended the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council's Annual Meeting and 20th Anniversary celebration. It had been 12 years since I left the position of Executive Director and moved out of state. I was very impressed by the growth and success of the Watershed Council, unprecedented in the state of Michigan. It carries on the legacy of its first visionary fund raiser Horace M. Huffman, Jr. who was fondly remembered at the 20th anniversary celebration.

When I came to the Watershed Council in 1983 as the solo part-time employee the organization had 141 members and a budget of $28,000. By 1987 we had grown to 5 full-time staff; our membership surpassed 1000 and our budget had tripled. I left the organization in the capable hands of Gail Gruenwald, our staff attorney, expecting her to just maintain the organization we established.

To my great surprise, the organization has doubled and now has 10 full-time staff and over 2000 members. It is doing an effective and comprehensive job at protecting water resources. Congratulations to Gail, the Board of Directors, the staff, the volunteers and to the Northern Michigan community who see the value in supporting an organization that is working to protect the area's most precious asset, the beautiful jeweled necklace of lakes and rivers decorating northern Michigan.

Sincerely,
Carol Wagner

Funeral Mass was held Saturday, July 31, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix, the Rev. Thomas Neis officiated. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Ralph was born May 12, 1904, in Charlevoix, the son of Sam and Dora (Billington) Hamilton. He attended McLachlin-Davenport Business School in Grand Rapids, which is now Davenport College.

On Aug. 16. he married Margit (Czrny) Cherney in Middle Village Mission. She preceded him in death July 11, 1983.

ARE YOU GOD'S WIFE?

A little boy about 10 years old was standing in front of a shoe store on the roadway, barefooted, peering through the window, and shivering in the winter cold. A lady approached the child and asked, "Why are you looking so earnestly in that window?" "I was asking God to give me a pair of shoes," was the boy's reply. The lady took him by the hand and went into the store and asked the clerk to get a half dozen pairs of socks for the boy. She then asked if he could give her a basin of water and a towel. He quickly brought them to her.

She led the little boy to the back of the store and removing her gloves, she knelt down and washed the child's feet and dried them with the towel. She bought him two pairs of shoes; placed one pair on his feet and tied the other in a package for him to take with him. She patted him on the head and said, "No doubt, my little man, you feel more comfortable now." As she turned to leave the lad caught her by the hand, and looking up into her kind face with tears in his eyes, answered with these words: "Are you God's wife?"

There's an adage that says, "People don't care how much we know until they know how much we care." The little boy in the story didn't need a lesson in personal hygiene, or about the importance of being properly clothed against the winter cold. While those would be valuable instructions in their proper time, what the little boy needed was more urgent and practical than mere talk about cleanliness and proper attire. He needed to be cleaned up and outfitted with the socks and shoes.

As Christians we can sometimes be more concerned with informing people about the value of having clean and properly shod feet than with providing them with shoes. We should not wonder that people care little about the nuances of our doctrine if we ignore their practical, physical needs. No doubt there will be a point at which the "instructions" will need to be given about how to properly care for their feet, etc. But first we must pave the way for our message with practical acts of services and benevolence.

Jesus told his disciples, "I tell you the truth, anyone who gives you a cup of water in my name because you belong to Christ will certainly not lose his reward" (Mark 9:41). I tend to think that the cup of water is not the significant thing here, but rather ministering to practical needs as part of the larger context of what it means to be a witness for Christ. Remember the words of the saint of old who said, "Preach the gospel all of the time, and when necessary use words." Be "God's wife" to somebody in need today!

DME says it is complying in cleanup

By B. J. Hetler

A Charlevoix company cited for inadequate cleanup of toxins argues that it is complying with requests and cleaning up the environmental contamination.

DME Company at 06342 Ferry Avenue is a tooling manufacturing company, owned by Cincinnati Milacron. The Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ) has requested the cleanup of soil and groundwater because of toxins.

The major problem is the presence of vinyl chloride, a colorless gas. A chemical derived from vinyl chloride is used in making plastic products, wire and cable coatings and packaging materials.

Most of the vinyl chloride breathed in or swallowed leaves the body within a day's time. But extremely high levels can damage the liver, lungs, kidneys and heart. If it is spilled on the skin, it will numb the skin and cause redness and blisters.

Lake Charlevoix water was tested by MDEQ recently and the water found to contain low levels of the chemical.

"Lake Charlevoix water is okay," said Elaine Pelc of MDEQ in Gaylord.

But contaminated groundwater is seeping into Lake Charlevoix. The groundwater has formed puddles in some beach areas near the company site. Pelc said the puddles tested higher than expected for the chemical, but that the puddles are shallow so risk is low, depending on exposure.

Vinyl chloride has been found in the air near plastics industries, hazardous waste sites and landfills.

The toxin entered the soil from a dump that has been on DME's property for many years, and from a lagoon used at one time by the company to dispose of spent solvents, used oils and coolants.

DME Company is working on removing the soil from the dump. MDEQ has also requested that DME clean up the lagoon, but the company proposes placing deed restrictions on the area instead.

DME has honored each and every remedial commitment made over the years, DME's lawyer stated in a letter to the MDEQ. It has expressed its willingness to perform response activities and responds to all requests in a timely manner. DME estimates that it has spent $200,000 on the cleanup, the letter stated.

But the Lake Charlevoix Association and environmental groups say DME's responses are inadequate and slow.

The Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council states that an investigation has confirmed the presence of vinyl chloride and other chemicals on the properties along Matthews Lane near the company. DME is located in a manufacturing and residential area.

The environmental groups state that although DME is excavating and incinerating some contaminated soil from its dump, it has not been willing to treat the contaminated underground water.

DME states that it is troubled by MDEQ's recommendation to immediately install a treatment system to address groundwater contamination. DME instead recommends a pilot study to look at effective alternatives.

Steve Hansen, president of the Lake Charlevoix Association, said he would like to see DME do two things.

"I would like them to start with effective treatment of the plume, not just the soil, but stop the contamination from going into the groundwater, and into the lake.

"The second thing I'd like to see is a study of the old lagoon."

The next step is up to the MDEQ.

Millage committee established

By B. J. Hetler

A committee to pass the school millage is in the initial stages of planning for the election in October.

"We're getting subcommittees assembled," said Bill Trubilowicz, co-chair of the citizens committee, along with Jay Balasz.

The co-chairs served on the 26-member School Facilities Committee. That committee researched the needs of Charlevoix's schools, designed three options, and made a recommendation to the Charlevoix school board.

The recommendation, which was approved by the school board, is to build a new high school and auditorium on a new site. Grades five and six will be combined into an upper elementary and moved into a remodeled high school with middle school grades seven and eight. The upper elementary and middle school grades will be in separate wings of the building. The K-4 elementary school will be upgraded.

Three subcommittees have been identified, Trubilowicz said. They are fundraising, voter registration and theme subcommittees. Other subcommittees will be formed as they are identified.

The committee will go into high gear the day after Labor Day. "We'll be actively campaigning to pass the bond proposal," Trubilowicz said.

The theme of the campaign centers on the need to build the facilities to properly prepare our children for their future and for our future, he said.

The bond proposal is for $18,825,000. The project calls for 2.76 mills. If passed, the millage will increase property taxes on a home with a taxable value of $40,000, by $110.40 a year.

The school board has submitted an application to the state of Michigan for approval to put the bond proposal in front of the voters, said superintendent John Sturock. The election is planned for October 11.

The citizen committee is looking for approximately 60 volunteers to help with the campaign. Anyone interested is asked to call and leave their name with the school office at 547-3200.

New contractor for Big Rock

The largest contractor involved in the Big Rock Point restoration project will bow out of its contract with Consumers Energy.

NPS will be replaced by Townsend & Bottom Engineers & Constructors (T&B) in August. NPS employs 64 crafts people and 16 support staff, said Curt Jurgens, NPS maintenance and construction manager. For most people involved, the only difference will be the name on their paycheck, according to a spokesperson.

The contract between Consumers and T&B retains all those employees at their current or comparable packages.

T&B president Bob Shilander will oversee management of former NPS employees on-site. There shouldn't be any major issues, but a lot of people are concerned about change," said Shilander. "We'll smooth out those concerns as soon as we can."

Though T&B has been in the powerhouse construction business since 1925, Big Rock Point is the company's first decommissioning plant. The company was involved in dry fuel storage at Palisades power plant.

"It's a new twist on an old experience," Shilander said of the decommissioning work. He was site manager at Palisades from 1987 to 1991.

Student bids, 'God vie Charlevoix, halla Sweden!'

It's summer in Charlevoix! The sun is shining and temperatures are soaring. The lakes, beaches, parks, shops and golf courses are filled with teenagers enjoying the very best of northern Michigan.

Ethan Phillips

While summer fun is on the mind of most, Ethan Phillips, 16, is busy packing wool sweaters and flannel shirts and thinking about starting his junior year in high school -- in Sweden.

Phillips is one of 12 high school students from across the United States recently chosen to spend a school-year in Europe. Last spring Ethan read a pamphlet about the "junior year abroad" program sponsored by the world-wide Youth For Understanding Foundation.

The Charlevoix High School student jumped at the chance to live and study in another country. "I really wanted to travel and get some new experiences," Ethan said. "I am anxious to meet new people and learn what it's like to live in another culture."

The application process started in May. It involved getting two letters of recommendation from teachers and one from a Charlevoix community member, a one-to-one interview, psychological testing, a physical and a few inoculations, and selecting a host country.

Sweden was his first choice, followed by Austria and the Slavic nations.

He got an acceptance notice and a passport in June, but didn't receive his travel visa for Sweden until late July. As his August 2 departure date approached, Ethan worried if the documents would arrive in time. When NATO bombs destroyed the Chinese embassy in Kosovo, the Swedish embassy nearby was also damaged. Sweden immediately stopped issuing travel visas to Americans until cooler diplomatic heads prevailed several weeks later.

Phillips will live with host parents Rolf and Suzzanne Johanson and their four children on a dairy farm outside the town of Skelfetea, just 70 kilometers (about 43 miles) south of the Arctic Circle. Rolf and Suzzanne won the Nobel Peace Prize for environmental science in 1981.

Ethan expects to be busy in school. His academic schedule will include classes in the basic three R's, reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic, plus French, Spanish and Swedish languages, and a program in "humanitarianism."

"Humanitarianism includes sociology and philosophy and humanities," Ethan said. The program also requires students to spend time visiting homeless shelters and soup kitchens. "It provides training for becoming a better person, learning and working to help others, and an understanding for making the community better, too. It should be a good experience."

Ethan's itinerary included departing Charlevoix at 4 a.m. on August 2, driving to Traverse City, then flying to Chicago, Newark, and finally on to Stockholm.

Once in Sweden, Ethan will be immersed in a language camp for 4-5 days to get acclimated to the Swedish language. "They say everybody there speaks English," he said. " But it's good to know some of their native language. I have an English/Swedish dictionary, so I should be ready."

After the 1999-2000 school year he hopes to travel throughout Europe.

Phillips is an exceptional student and carries a 3.5 grade point average. He is active in several activities at CHS including student council, the Key Club and Spanish Club.

He also works on the Rayders' yearbook staff, newspaper and other school publications. Upon his return, Ethan plans to apply for the National Honor Society and run with the cross country team. He is undecided on a college, but plans to apply to Vassar, Cornell and the University of Michigan among others.

Ethan is the son of Peter and Constance Phillips of Charlevoix. He worked at Terry's Place restaurant for nearly four years.

During his year as a foreign exchange student in Sweden, Ethan will be out of sight, but not out of touch with friends and family. He can be contacted by e-mail at: ethansweden@hotmail.com.

Board grants variance

An Earl Young home at 308 Park Ave., Charlevoix will get a new cedar shake roof thanks to a building variance granted by the Board of Appeals recently.

Owners, James and Sharon Erskine, requested a variance of 6.4 feet to replace the existing non-authentic roof. The new roof would extend the overhang to one foot at the front and sides of the house. The new eaves would be similar to the original undulating style and unique design of Earl Young homes.

The applicants stated that the larger overhangs are necessary to protect the structure's stone walls, windows and window frames from water damage.

The re-roofing will be done by Hawkins Bros. Inc. of Boyne City.

Gallery features renowned artists

By B. J. Hetler

Masterpiece Gallery & Framing is always on the lookout for outstanding art, say the owners of the new gallery on Park Avenue, just west of Bridge Street.

Karen Drake-Puskarich and Gary Faust often find outstanding art when they travel to New York City each year where many talented artists display their works.

The gallery includes the works of Michigan's Todd Warner. The internationally-known sculptor is recognized by his sophisticated, whimsical art. Using clay, wood, steel and paint, Warner creates the flattened, elongated figures of humans and animals. Some of the creations are butlers, cowboys, ostriches and giraffes. The free-standing sculptures range from 12 inches to eight feet tall.

A mother giraffe with her young daughter, titled "Mother May I?" is part of Warner's work shown at the gallery.

Visitors to the Charlevoix gallery on Sunday, August 15 may meet and talk with Warner between noon and 4 p.m. His art will be exhibited in the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair on August 13-14.

The Warners lived in the Charlevoix area for many years before moving to south Florida. They return to Charlevoix often. Todd said he is excited about the new gallery.

"Charlevoix is home to us, and this is a good opportunity for us," he said.

Warner grew up in rural central Michigan, where he spent many hours enjoying animals and nature. He studied art at Central Michigan University.

Masterpiece Gallery also displays some of the works of sculptor Frederick Hart. Hart sculpted the familiar "Three Soldiers" at the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington, D.C. He hand-carved much of the stonework on the National Cathedral. Hart designed and developed "Cross of the Millennium," a processional cross that he presented to Pope John Paul II.

The gallery exhibits "Daughter," a sculpture by Hart that depicts one of the daughters of Czar Nicholas. The sculpture at 44 inches high, is three-quarters life-sized.

Heather Dietrich of Charlevoix and Brooklyn, New York, works at the gallery and says she loves her job.

"It's such a pleasure to talk with the people who come in — it's not really work at all," Dietrich said. She enjoys watching people's expressions when they view Warner's creations.

"The people who are attracted to this type of art have a warmth and happiness about them."

Masterpiece Gallery & Framing began in Indianapolis, Indiana in 1997. This summer it opened in Charlevoix and Bay Harbor. The Charlevoix gallery closes after Labor Day, and plans to reopen next spring. It is now open from 12:30 p.m.-8:30 p.m., Wednesday-Saturday, and 12:30 p.m.-5 p.m. on Sunday. The telephone number is 547-2562.

Hospital board members re-elected

Three area residents were re-elected to three-year terms on the Charlevoix Area Hospital Board at the hospital's annual meeting July 20.

Sulane Hamilton of Charlevoix, Richard Fish, D.D.S., for Boyne City, and Mary Jason of East Jordan were unopposed in their reelection.

Other business included the presentation of the hospital's financial report by treasurer Richard Fish D.D.S., the Hospital Guild annual report by guild president Margaret Landman, and the president's annual report by hospital president Bill Jackson.

"It's the best year in the hospital's history, and we're real pleased with that," said Jackson.

The hospital billed patients a total of $22,529,807 for all services, but due to contractual and charity care adjustments, should receive $15,563,937 from patients. Other income totaled $360,921, for a total operating income of $15,924,858.

Operating expenses for the year totaled $15,330,038. Operating income exceeded operating expenses by $594,820. Non-operating income totaled $291,208 including total contributions of $183,522, for a total of $886,028 for future needs.

Jackson said to the 40 people attending the meeting that despite the hospital's continued growth, there are concerns for the future.

"There's a cloud on the horizon, and that's the effects of the Balanced Budget Act of 1997," Jackson said. "Overall, in terms of real dollars, we're looking at a reduction in Medicare reimbursements nationwide of $71 billion over the next five years. Our share of that will be about $2 (at Charlevoix Area Hospital).

"We're being proactive as an industry and as an individual hospital," Jackson said.

The American Hospital Association and the Michigan Health and Hospital Association are lobbying legislatures and educating decision makers on the affects these cutbacks will have on hospitals throughout the nation, Jackson said.

"We at Charlevoix Area Hospital have met with our U. S. Representative Bart Stupak and Senator Carl Levin and explained how these reimbursement reductions will impact us," Jackson said. "We're starting to see some improvement on the part of the legislature."

Everyone needs to work together on advocacy initiatives to make our legislators aware of the impact on rural hospitals from further Medicare reimbursement cuts, he said.

Guild president Margaret Landman reported that in 1998 the 62 members of the guild volunteered 7,538 hours of service to the hospital — equal to four full-time employees. The guild raised $8,063 in 1998, with $6,000 going to the hospital's general fund. The remainder was used to purchase needed equipment for the hospital including a large wheelchair. The guild also provided four $400 continuing education scholarships for anyone in the medical field.

, Hospital members also voted to change the Articles of Incorporation and Bylaws to convert the hospital from a membership corporation to a directorship corporation.

Lions' White Canes coming this week

Members of the Charlevoix Lions Club will be out and about town Friday, Aug. 13 and Saturday, Aug. 14 promoting their annual White Cane Fund Drive.

As a symbolic reminder to the public, each Lion collecting donations will carry an official white cane. Donations help support the Michigan Eye Bank and Transplant Center; the Michigan Leader Dog Training Center and Puppy Search and Development Program in Rochester, Mich.; and the Welcome Home for the Blind in Grand Rapids.

Locally, Lions provide glasses for needy individuals with special eye problems. Lions Club members also collect used eyeglasses that are then distributed in third world countries.

The White Cane Safety Program was initiated by the Peoria, Ill. Lions Club more than 70 years ago. Today, the white cane with its red bands is recognized worldwide as a means for identifying and protecting the sight-impaired when they are crossing streets, or otherwise moving about.

Charlevoix Lions Richard Joseph and John Dixon are co-chairing this year's fund-raising event.

Storm damage?

Here's how to file an insurance claim

Storm damage? Here's how to file a claim.

The heavy storms over the weekend caused home and auto damage around Charlevoix.

Here are a few tips to remember when filing a claim with your insurance company:

- Have your policy number ready. This will speed the filing process.
- Contact your agent or insurance agency directly. Most agencies have 800 numbers open 24 hours a day, seven days a week to report damage to homes.
- Describe the damage in detail to relay as much information as possible to the insurance company. The information you provide will determine how the company processes the claim, and will guide the agent in recommending how you should proceed.
- Because of the unique nature of each claim, how your claim is settled depends on a number of variables, like the severity of the damage, the type of construction, and the type of damage. For minor damage, your insurance company will often take care of everything by phone. For more severe damage, like structural damage to your home, an agent may need to see the damage themselves.

Storm fells 150-year-old Oak

Michigan Avenue residents were in shock Saturday morning in the wake of an incredible storm that battered Charlevoix overnight. What they couldn't see from the street was this huge oak tree, estimated to be at least 150 years old, in the backyard of Chuck and Mary Adams. The tree fell onto the garage and house of their next door neighbors, Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Van Duyne. A large plate glass window in an upstairs bedroom was smashed and glass landed on the bed and baby's crib. Fortunately, no one was occupying the room. (Courtesy photo)

Fund-raising jet boats to stop at Ferry Beach

More than 50 jet boats participating in the 300-mile Grand Tour endurance ride will stop for lunch at Charlevoix's Ferry Avenue Beach11 a.m.-noon, Thursday, Aug. 5.

The three-day journey starts in Mackinaw City and will conclude in Grand Haven with overnight stops in Glen Arbor and Ludington along the way.

The event is held to benefit the Leader Dogs For The Blind program. Participants were each required to collect a minimum of $500 in pledges. They will be greeted at the dock by future Leader Dog puppies.

Ferry Avenue Beach marks the 50-mile point of the Michigan Jet Sports Boat Club's second annual tour along the Lake Michigan coastline.

Leader Dogs For The Blind is a Rochester, Michigan-based nonprofit organization that helps hundreds of visually impaired students ranging from 18 to 90 years of age each year become more self-sufficient through the use of guide dogs. Students receive program services free of charge although the actual cost to the school averages more than $19,00 for each graduating team.

Website helps parents monitor internet

The Federal Communications Commission has launched an internet website that can guide parents along some tricky and perilous spots on the information super highway.

The easy-to-use new site provides parents information on ways their children can reap the benefits of today's most popular communication technologies — broadcast and cable television, the telephone and the internet — while protecting them from harmful or inappropriate material.

The site gives parents easy-to-understand information about communications and to provide guides to obtaining a "chaperon" for their children as they explore the vast landscape of the internet. The site is www.fcc.gov/parents-information/.

Noting that some parents, while excited about the opportunities that the internet offers, are often overwhelmed by a medium that seems too vast to control and too complicated to understand, FCC chairman William Kennard announced during the inauguration of a Parents, Kids and Communications Page on the FCC website.

The website has information on how to block 1-900 calls and other information services, and on how to obtain a cable "lock box" to block out the channels that you do not want your children to see.

Although the FCC does not have jurisdiction over the content of internet pages nor over the content of email sent over the internet, the site provides a starting point for parents investigating software programs that provide filtering capabilities.

The site also includes a section explaining the TV ratings system and the V-chip. With the V-chip, parents can use the new TV ratings system that is in place to filter out what they do not want their kids to watch, and then program the chip to block them.

Kennard noted that "helping parents use technology in the home is only one part of using it responsibly.

"We also have to look at how the internet is being used away from the home in our nation's schools and libraries," he said.

Cable television system operators generally make their own selection of channels and programs to be distributed to subscribers in response to consumer demands.

Cable subscribers may request a "lock box" from cable operators to prevent viewing of any channel on which objectional programming may appear. Cable operators are required to make lock boxes available for sale or lease to customers who request them. Lock boxes can also be purchased from other commercial distributors.

Doing business without promoting is like working in the dark – nobody knows how to find you when they need you.

Handle breakdowns safely

Because even the best maintained vehicle can develop a mechanical problem, it is critical that motorists know how to handle breakdown situations safely, AAA Michigan advises.

The first rule when your vehicle begins to malfunction is not to panic. Signal and pull completely off the road onto the shoulder. Avoid any sudden or abrupt maneuvers.

Once on the side of the road, turn on your emergency flashers. Use extreme caution when exiting the vehicle. If necessary, exit from the passenger side of the vehicle to avoid the risk of being struck by traffic.

As soon as possible, set up reflectors, flares or other signal devices to alert passing motorists.

If waiting for assistance and the temperature permits, return to your vehicle and lock all doors and roll up windows. If someone other than a uniformed police officer stops, roll down the window only enough to ask them to telephone the police, your auto club, or a service station.

Since surroundings and hazards vary, use your best judgement in deciding whether to stay with your vehicle or go for help.

A cellular phone or citizen's band radio is a good investment that can be used to summon help in the event of a breakdown or emergency.

Passing motorists who have cell phones and sense help is needed should be good Samaritans, especially on freeways, and call 9-1-1 to report breakdowns or other emergency situations.

Grant awarded

The Charlevoix County Land Conservancy recently received a $1,000 grant to improve the organization's offices. The grant was awarded by the Great Lakes Aquatic Habitat Fund.

"This grant will help us with the office basics necessary to broaden our membership and involve more local people in land protection," said Jo Anne Beemon, executive director of the Charlevoix County Land Conservancy. "Our goal is to get local people involved and excited about working to protect the unique and beautiful places in Charlevoix County.

Competition for the spring 1999 funding cycle was tough, according to Wil Cwikiel, director of the fund. "All 70 applicants requested funds for important citizen initiatives to protect the waters and wetlands that make the Great Lakes unique. It was difficult to decide which ones to fund.

The Charlevoix County Land Conservancy was among 20 organizations that received funding.

The mission of the CCLC is to advance community land stewardship and to protect significant agricultural, scenic and natural land in Charlevoix County.

For more information about the Charlevoix Land Conservancy call 237-9335.

Exhibit features Charlevoix's artists of past

More than 80 works of art created by 12 of Charlevoix's most accomplished and versatile artists will be exhibited by the Charlevoix Historical Society.

"Charlevoix Artists of the Past" will be on display from 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. Friday, Aug. 13 and Saturday, Aug. 14 at the Depot Museum. Admission is $2 per person.

Works in oil, watercolor, pastel, and pen and ink gathered from private collections will be on display under one roof for the first time. The artwork spans the 20th century with most pieces depicting Charlevoix area scenes.

The purpose of the exhibit is to honor the legacy of those who found inspiration in the city and its environs, and to encourage future generations to continue that legacy, according to a spokesperson.

Featured artists include:

P.D. "Don" Campbell, former proprietor of the Campbell Boot Shop on Bridge Street. Campbell painted many historical and maritime scenes, and after trips to Arizona and California, he painted western scenes from memory. He continued painting until a month before his death in 1963.

Harold E. Kohn, a former Congregational minister, inspirational author, lecturer, spiritual counselor, and accomplished artist. Kohn gained national recognition for his pen and ink nature-based illustrations, many of which appeared in his books. His wood-burned murals and watercolors of the changing seasons are highly prized.

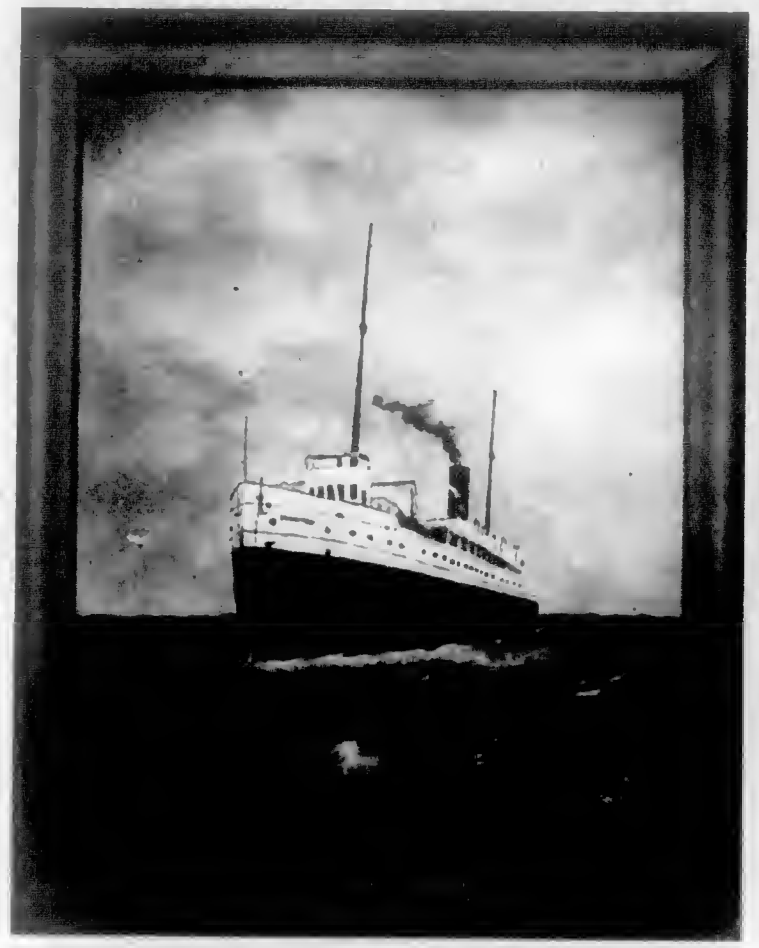
Charlevoix-born George E. Smith worked as an illustrator and layout artist for Esquire magazine, a designer of World War II bond posters for the War Department, a naval architect, and a designer of seasonal homes in Charlevoix and Palm Beach, Fla. He was a multi-talented, enormously popular artist who worked equally well in a variety of media.

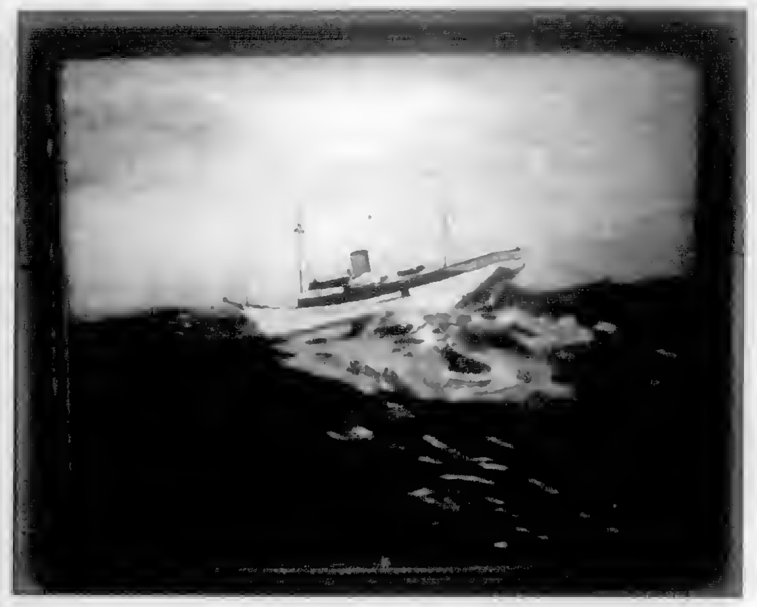
Other prominent artists on display are: Wayne Belding, designer of the Charlevoix-the-Beautiful crescent script logo; Irene Young, wife of the architect Earl Young, and the inspiration for several of his creations; Manie Fessenden; Helen Armstrong-Redfield; Rosa Nettleton; Raymond Knight; Eleanor M. Brow; Lyle V. Miles; and Charles Hampton.

A free children's workshop on painting and wood block printing will be offered 1-4 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 14. Pre-registration is advised, call 547-7023.

Benefactors and sponsors of the exhibit include: Mary and Charles Adams; Dr. and Mrs. Jay Balasz; Mona and Michael Bergeon; Haggard's Inc.; John Cross Fisheries; McKeown Motors; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pew, Cynthia and Roger Postmus; Susan and Stewart Boal; Bullfrog Light Co.; Central Rexall Drug Store, Inc.; Charlevoix Kiwanis Club, Dry Harbour Motor Sports; Mary Feindt; Lexalite International Corp.; Virginia Roundtree; Mr. and Mrs. William Sanderson; Site Planning Development Inc.; The Sunglass Shoppe of Charlevoix; and Trademark Clothiers.

The Charlevoix Historical Society received a matching grant for the exhibit from the Cheboygan Area Arts Council, a regional re-granting agency for the Michigan Council for the Arts and Cultural Affairs.





Artwork by 12 of Charlevoix's most prominent artists from the past will be featured Aug. 13-14 at the Depot Museum including paintings of the steamer "Manitou," by Peter D. Campbell (left), and the yacht "Sylvia," by George E. Smith (above). (Courtesy photos)

Help available for seniors

Many times senior citizens are targeted by individuals and companies to purchase expensive goods and services.

These companies may try to pressure seniors into buying products or services that they do not need and/or cannot afford. The Legal Hotline for Older Michiganians is a great resource for consumers considering purchases of insurance, trusts, home repairs and other high-cost goods or services.

The hotline can help consumers determine if the deal is too good to be true or if the company or sales person is acting in an ethical way. The hotline staff also hears about disreputable companies doing business around the state and can help prevent seniors from being swindled or taken advantage of. The Hotline also advises seniors on other legal issues and problems.

The hotline can be reached from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday, (800) 347-5297. When calling, the receptionist will ask for your name, telephone number and some background information. The receptionist will schedule a telephone appointment for you with a hotline attorney, usually within one or two business days of your call.

The service is free for Michigan residents age 60 and over. Donations are accepted.

Coast Guard Academy accepting applications

The United States Coast Guard Academy is now accepting and processing applications for the Class of 2004. Appointments are tendered solely on the basis of an annual nationwide competition with no congressional nominations or geographical quotas.

Applications must be submitted before Dec. 15. Candidates must arrange to participate in either the SAT I or ACT prior to or including the December 1999 administration.

Appointments are based on the candidate's high school record, performance on either the SAT I or ACT, and leadership potential as demonstrated by participation in high school activities, community service and part-time employment. Most successful candidates rank in the top 25 percent of their high school class and have demonstrated proficiency in both mathematical and applied science.

Candidates must be unmarried at the time of the appointment, have no legal obligations, and must have reached age 17 but not 23 by July 1, 2000. Candidates must be assured of high school graduation by June 30, 2000.

Coast Guard cadets obtain an excellent undergraduate education at no personal expense. In addition, they receive pay and allowances for living expenses. The academy curriculum emphasizes engineering and science, leads to a bachelor of science degree, and establishes a solid foundation for a challenging career. Academy graduates are commissioned as ensigns in the United States Coast Guard.

Under the Department of Transportation, the Coast Guard performs a variety of missions including search and rescue, maintenance of aids to navigation around the globe, operation of icebreakers, enforcement of maritime law, boating safety and marine environmental protection.

For more information, visit the Coast Guard's website at www.cga.edu, call (800) 883-8724, or write Director of Admissions, U.S. Coast Guard Academy, 31 Mohegan Ave., New London, CT 06320.

Now hear this! Swimmer's ear can be prevented

We've probably all experienced swimmer's ear: that full feeling in the ear after diving, swimming or bathing, or the intense itching and sometimes painful condition that may follow days later.

Swimmer's ear can be very uncomfortable, but can also be prevented, according to the Michigan State Medical Society.

Swimmer's ear develops after water has been trapped in the ear canal for a period of time. Bacteria begin to grow in the water which then infects the tissue of the ear. Medical intervention is necessary if the infection becomes advanced and involves lymph nodes in the neck and throat and causes the ear to drain a milky white liquid. Treatment typically involves antibiotic drops for the ears, and sometimes oral antibiotics.

The good news is that swimmer's ear doesn't have to develop. Upon feeling the fullness in the ear, the American Academy of Otolaryngology suggests administering inexpensive over-the-counter ear drops available in most drug stores and supermarkets to help dry the water and free the affected ear from water blockage.

The solutions are alcohol-based antiseptics prepared just for the purpose of preventing swimmer's ear. You also may consult your physician about homemade preparations that are safe for those who frequently experience water in the ear.

The Michigan State Medical Society recommends that you call your doctor about any concerns about itching and/or pain in the ear that may or may not be associated with swimmer's ear.

'Stars' unbeaten, win tournament

A Charlevoix-based team, the Bay Area All Stars, went 5-0 to capture the four-team Charlevoix Invitational (fast pitch) Softball Tournament last weekend.

The All Stars, managed by Charlevoix native Scott Kelly, defeated Ormsbee Motors of Cheboygan, 4-2, in the championship game. Winning pitcher Keith Potter struck out 14 in tossing a four-hitter. Wally King once again led the All Stars at the plate with a double and his third home run of the tournament.

"The Bay Area All Stars would like to thank Ike Boss and the City of Charlevoix for hosting the Charlevoix Invitational once again after a layoff of several years," Kelly said, adding the All Stars' gratitude to its Charlevoix sponsors: Charlevoix Foot Clinic, Pat McKeown Ford, BC Pizza and BASES.

The All Stars opened the tournament with a 6-1 victory over Ormsbee Motors. King and Steve Speigl collected two hits apiece to back winning pitcher Jim Potter.

Tracy Boetsma's eighth-inning triple brought home the winning run as the All Stars topped Fettig's Landscaping of Petoskey, 4-3, in the tournament's second game. Keith Potter, who struck out 14 for the pitching victory, had a pinch-hit RBI single, breaking a 2-2 tie in the seventh inning. King added a triple and a single.

The All Stars remained unbeaten in the tournament with a 3-0 victory over the West Michigan Merchants of Grand Rapids. Keith Potter fired a two-hitter, striking out 10. Boetsma accounted for all three of the All Stars' runs with an inside the park homer and an over-the-fence round-tripper. Speigl added two hits.

In a semifinal contest, Bay Area nipped the West Michigan Merchants, 7-6. Jim Potter picked up the pitching victory with relief help from Keith Potter. King led the All Stars with a triple and two singles, while Kelly ripped a pair of triples.

Ormsbee Motors finished the tournament 3-2, while Fettig's went 1-3 and the West Michigan Merchants finished 0-4.

The All Stars, who are 15-3 in tournaments and exhibitions, are scheduled to travel to Grand Rapids for a four-game exhibition series with Kamphuis Pipeline Aug. 7-8; to Ludington on Aug. 14; and to Benton Harbor for a three-game exhibition with Eagle Products of Indiana and the Midland Metros on Aug. 21. The team is pointing to its final destination, the Class A National Tournament in Rockford, Illinois, Sept. 2-6.

Camaraderie, competition mark Kuhn Memorial race

By Fair Winds
Charlevoix Yacht Club

More than $6,000 was raised by sail boaters to benefit Camp Quality and cancer-stricken children.

Fifteen boats faced light, variable winds in the Jim Kuhn Memorial Sailing Race and benefit on Saturday, July 17 in Boyne City. A variety of boats including six J-22s, two J-24s, a Pearson 26, S-27.9, Catalina 30, Pas Trend 32, Tripp 33, A-Scow, and an E-Scow came to race from the Charlevoix and Boyne City yacht clubs.

Bob Wood of the Little Traverse Yacht Club commandeered the race committee boat.

There are two tallies to this race. The Jim Kuhn Race is scored on each boat's handicap or its one-design finish. The Camp Quality Race finishers are determined by their handicap or one-design time and the amount of money each boat raises. The J-22s sail according to one-design rules while the other boats sail with their respective PHRF handicaps.

Sailors described the winds as "fluky, light, capricious, challenging" and in terms not fit to print in the Courier. Winds filled in from the northwest, clocked to the southwest and moved to the east. By the end of the afternoon, winds had moved the all the compass points at least four times. Most boats finished the race by 4 p.m.

In the Jim Kuhn Memorial Race Slipper took first in Jib and Main fleet, followed by Jessie and Diamond Girl. In J-22 fleet, H.S. Moisture Missile was first to cross the finish, followed by Swine Flew and Gecko. In Spinnaker fleet it was Sabrosona first, then Sunburst and Night Moves.

The J-22 fleet's Gecko, H.S. Moisture Missile and Swine Flew were the top donation-getters for Camp Quality.

After the competition, race organizers hosted a cook out for skippers and crewmembers at the pavilion in Boyne City. Sandy Huggins, a talented 10-year-old from Harrisville, Mich., inspired and entertained the crowd by singing The Hinky Dinky Double D Farm, and telling several jokes. A chanteuse extraordinaire, Sandy embodies the spirit, hope and optimism that this camp is all about.

The Jim Kuhn Memorial Sailing Race is named for the late Jim Kuhn, an avid sailor who died of cancer in 1991. The event is organized as a benefit for Camp Quality, a one-week, residential camp for Michigan children who have cancer. More than 60 children from all corners of the state attend this camp from Aug. 15 to 21 on the grounds of Camp Daggett. Children participate in various activities including outings on a chartered schooner, swimming, games and craft activities.

Winds still challenge

By Fair Winds
Charlevoix Yacht Club

Unpredictable winds blowing on most Wednesday evenings continue to haunt but not deter sailing competitors this summer.

A season high 35 boats competed July 21 when light winds and flat water tested skippers' boat handling skills and patience.

Six racing fleets sailed out on Lake Charlevoix in a light, east-southeasterly breeze. The breezes remained variable moving to the south then shifting to the west by the fourth leg of the race.

Sailors described the air as having "corridors of wind," and "separate winds," which made the upwind and downwind legs difficult to plan.

Most notable in this race were the 15 J-22s, most of which hit the starting line without collisions or expletives.

Fleet C had an impressive showing of seven boats that sailed through the J-22 fleet on the first windward leg, though the 22s had started 10 minutes earlier.

Cheemaun, from the JAM 198 & higher fleet, had the best corrected time for both JAM fleets, crossing the finish line in a time of 1 hour 51 minutes.

In Fleet A (Spinnaker 150 & lower), Kamikaze crossed the finish some 40-some seconds ahead of Gotcha. Her corrected gave her a lead of more than four minutes.

In Fleet B, Our Thyme II had a beautiful finish, coming over the line 11 minutes before J Hawk. Cabaret, Babe, M3, Bald Eagle and Saffron followed closely behind.

Fleet C (Spinnaker 198 & higher) experienced a close and tight race in each leg. Blasen III passed Original Sin to take the lead at the second windward mark and held on to win. Jesse finished 30 seconds later followed by Lost Vermonter, Cygnus, Tireless and Sandpiper.

In the JAM 198 & higher fleet, Cheemaun took first place, followed by Red Hot and Apothecary. In JAM 195 & lower fleet, Flash sailed solo, finishing with a corrected time of 1 hour 58 minutes.

The J-22s had an impressive start although it was difficult to predict eventual positions after the first windward leg. The boats at the top of the fleet were able to locate and stay with those "air corridors." During the last two legs, many middle positions shifted. Some moved beautifully on the close-hauled course, while others flew by with their chutes downwind. The top three positions were Hussy, Superfluous and H.S. Moisture Missile, followed by Reckless, Swine Flew, Paleface Lite, Jubblies, First Date, Rock Steady, Gecko, Crazy Horse, High Maintenance, Indigo, and Habanero.

The following Wednesday, July 28, was hot and overcast with a light north-northwesterly breeze. The starting line favored the committee boat end, creating a crowded and harried start for most of the fleets. Boats pushed for a favorable position on the line, and as sailing books tell us, it's often the boats with the clear air that have the best start.

The first windward leg brought a breeze-best described as inconsistent, with wind shifts and light spots. In Fleet A, Kamikaze raced boat-to-boat with Gotcha on each of the five legs. On the last leg, Kamikaze had to tack to duck Lost Vermonter who was on starboard tack. Gotcha then sailed below Lost Vermonter and ended up below the layline allowing Kamikaze to reach the finish line just three seconds ahead of Gotcha. Mint Julep crossed the finish third.

In Fleet B, Our Thyme II took first place by almost three minutes. Babe was next, edging Mi Joy by seconds. Cabaret, M#, Bald Eagle, J Hawk and Saffron followed.

In Fleet C, Lost Vermonter had an excellent start and stayed ahead for much of the race, and sailed across the finish line three minutes ahead of Blasen III. Four minutes later, Tireless finished. Original Sin, Cygnus, Sandpiper and Jesse followed.

In JAM 198 & higher, Cheemaun finished the course in 1 hour 36 minutes corrected time, followed by Apothecary. Flash once again sailed in solitary splendor in the JAM 195 & lower fleet. She finished with a corrected time of 1 hour 35 minutes.

Hussy, Superfluous, and H.S. Moisture Missile vied for position throughout the J-22 fleet race. The downwind legs saw the greatest change of position for most of the boats. Some sailed into holes, while others stayed in steady air. At the finish, H.S. Moisture Missile sailed across the finish 30 seconds ahead of Superfluous. Hussy was another six seconds behind, followed by Swine Flew and Reckless.

Habanero sailed an admirable race crossing only three minutes behind the lead boat. Then came Paleface Lite, Gecko, High Maintenance, First Date, Indigo, What's-Her-Name, Jubblies, and Crazy Horse.

It's great to see the large number of sail yachts competing in the summer series. The spinnaker runs are especially beautiful in the warm light of these summer Wednesday evenings.

Good spots to see the fun are Depot and Ferry Beaches, even better, is the view from a boat in Lake Charlevoix.

Three earn Belvedere golf scholarships

Hard work at the golf course and in the classrooms has rewarded three Charlevoix High School graduates with four-year scholarships.

Keith Grunch, Todd Schaperkotter and Jeremy Rafacz, all summer employees of the Belvedere Golf Club, earned the scholarships starting this fall.

The scholarship awards were announced recently by Rick Tomkinson, president of the Belvedere Golf Club.

Keith Grunch, who will major in physical education at Aquinas College in the fall, was awarded a $5,800 scholarship. Todd Schaperkotter, entering Purdue University to study engineering, will receive a $4,600 scholarship. Jeremy Rafacz, due to begin his pre-med studies at Western Michigan University, was given a $3,800 scholarship.

This is the second group of students to receive the awards since members of the golf club established the Belvedere Golf Club Scholarship Fund through the Charlevoix County Community Foundation in 1995. The first scholarships were awarded to Chris Mikulski, Bob Sommerfeld and Dan Pardee in 1997. They will continue to receive assistance with educational costs until they complete their undergraduate degrees.

Golf club employees and children of employees are eligible for the scholarships, and candidates are selected on the basis of academic performance, community service, and leadership skills.

The Belvedere Golf Club Scholarship Fund is an open-ended fund. Persons interested in making contributions may do so at any time. Gifts to the fund qualify for both a tax deduction and a Michigan income tax credit.

More than 90 funds are now managed by the Charlevoix County Community Foundation – including 30 scholarship funds. The Foundation was established in 1922 by local citizens who wanted to build a reserve of charitable capital to serve the area's needs. To date, the Community Foundation's assets have grown to more than $6.5 million. More than $1.4 million in grants and scholarships has been distributed to benefit people who live and work in Charlevoix County.

For information about the Community Foundation, the Belvedere Golf Club Scholarship Fund, or any funds the Foundation holds, call (231) 536-2440.

Participants in the annual Townie-Belvedere softball game met the same fate as racing silkworms... they ended in a tie!

For the first time in its 39-year history, the teams were tied, 18-18, after seven innings.

Most Valuable Players were Belvedere's Steve Reese and the locals' Kyle Smith.

This year's inductees to the local Hall of Fame included F. "Butch" Mullen and Charlevoix's Warren "Jeep" Belding.

Next year, the annual softball game will become an official Venetian Festival event. It will be dedicated to the memory of Mr. Carlos Reese.

East Jordan man hurt in rollover car crash

An East Jordan man was injured in a one-car, roll-over crash Saturday, July 24.

Ron Peck, 40, of East Jordan was treated at Charlevoix Area Hospital for an arm laceration.

The accident occurred at approximately 10:15 p.m. on Ellsworth Rd. about one mile west of East Jordan in South Arm Township, according to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department.

Richard Hoffman, 34, of Ellsworth was driving a 1970 Pontiac GTO east bound when he failed to negotiate a curve, lost control, and rolled the vehicle. He stated he was not injured in the crash.

Hoffman and Peck, a passenger, fled the accident scene on foot, police said.

Evidence at the scene indicated that someone from the vehicle was injured.

Approximately 90 minutes later, Hoffman and Peck arrived at the Charlevoix Area Hospital by another vehicle.

Speed was a factor in the crash, The accident remains under investigation.

MDOT suggests alternate I-75 route

Motorists traveling south on I-75 are being encouraged to take a detour route while 9.5 miles of the expressway is widened from Grayling to the I-75/US-27 split.

The project is to crush, shape and resurface the roadway, which will be widened from two lanes to three. The project is scheduled to be completed in late October.

Lans closures along the stretch are scheduled Tuesdays-Fridays. Both lanes of traffic will be open from Saturdays-Mondays.

The alternate route: Exit I-75 at M-93 (exit 259) and turn right. Follow M-93 south until it ends and becomes Military Road. Take Military Road to Four Mile Road, turn left and follow the road back to I-75 south.

HOW TO KILL A BUSINESS
... in ten easy steps

1. Don't Advertise
Just pretend everybody knows what you have to offer.

2. Don't Advertise
Tell yourself you just don't have time to spend thinking about promoting your business.

3. Don't Advertise
Just assume everybody knows what you sell.

4. Don't Advertise
Convince yourself that you've been in business so long customers will automatically come to you.

5. Don't Advertise
Forget that there are new potential customers who would do business with you if they were reminded.

6. Don't Advertise
Forget that you have competition trying to attract your customers away from you.

7. Don't Advertise
Tell yourself it costs too much to advertise and that you don't get enough out of it.

8. Don't Advertise
Overlook the fact that advertising is an investment in selling ... not an expense.

9. Don't Advertise
Be sure not to provide an adequate advertising budget for your business.

10. Don't Advertise
Forget that you have to keep reminding your established customers that you appreciate their business.

FCC launches area code info campaign

In order to minimize confusion and answer consumer questions, Federal Communications Commission chairman William Kennard has launched an area code consumer information campaign.

The campaign will explain to consumers the reasons for recent area code changes and how the FCC plans to significantly reduce the frequency of area code changes.

It is stressful, costly and often frustrating to have to switch to a new telephone area code. For most of this century, Americans were accustomed to homes and businesses with just one main telephone line.

Over the past two decades, however, the use of wireless telephones, fax lines and internet access lines — each with their own number — has exploded and the pool of available numbers is quickly becoming exhausted.

Even small businesses often have dozens of phone lines and homes with two or more lines are common.

But increasing demand for numbers by consumers and businesses is not the main reason for the recent increase in area code changes.

The main reason is that the numbering system was designed in and for a monopoly environment. As a result of the FCC's policies in accordance with the 1996 Telecommunications Act, the telecommunications markets are now becoming increasingly competitive. New telephone companies need numbers to provide service.

The good news is that many new telephone companies are seeking to compete.

The new competitors, which include wireless telephone services and paging services, need telephone numbers before they can do business. A key part of any numbering solution will be to find the best way to utilize numbers that are not now being used.

Interested internet users can find a "consumer alert" and a list of frequently asked questions on area code issues posted on the FCC's internet website, www.fcc.gov.

The FCC website is linked to the North American Numbering Plan Administrator website, which provides information on the status of all area codes. Additionally, FCC officials are joining local phone companies and state, local and consumer representatives to provide information on area code changes.

The FCC is also working closely with the states in considering various proposals to address the area code challenge.

In May, the FCC launched a formal inquiry into the most economical way to increase the efficiency with which telecommunications providers use telephone numbers.

This process will lead to a new system of assigning telephone numbers that will take us well into the next century. The need for a new system is pressing: of the 215 area codes now in use, more than 70 may need new area codes within the next year or so.

Americans have long enjoyed the most reliable and highest quality phone network in the world and the FCC has committed to preserving those qualities.

More consumer information is available by calling the FCC, (888) CALL-FCC, or by visiting its website, www.fcc.gov. The FCC internet page includes the complete consumer alert on area code issues and a page of frequently asked questions.

Fuel accident forces downtown shutdown

Firefighters closed three blocks of Bridge Street and evacuated downtown shoppers last Wednesday evening after gasoline and diesel fuel was accidentally pumped into Charlevoix's sewer system.

The activity occurred after an employee of Ward Brothers marina pumped about 16 gallons of mixed gasoline and diesel fuel from a boat into a lift station normally used to pump sewage. The mixture eventually entered the city sewer system.

Shortly after 6 p.m., a loud booming noise was heard from the basement of Maison & Jardin, an interior design and home furnishings store at 228 Bridge St. The force shook items off the shelves, and an iron sewer cap was blown into the air and broke in half on the cement floor, according to M.&J. owner Brenda Teague. Several customers, and employees Kibbie Batchelder and Angie Ely were in the store at the time. "We were startled and scared," Teague admitted, "I thought the furnace had blown up." She called 911 immediately.

Minutes later Charlevoix firefighters were at the scene. They determined that there was no explosion and investigated reports of a "smell of gas" emanating from several businesses in the area. Fire department shift commander Joe Schwartzfisher said it was not an "explosion." Rather, a large buildup of mixed vapors caused a pressure back up and concussion.

Scene commander Bob Roloff, directed firefighters to establish a

Presque Isle County nixes legal action against Charlevoix

By B. J. Hetler

A potential lawsuit against Charlevoix County by Presque Isle county was averted recently when that County's commissioners voted down a motion for legal action.

A Presque Isle county commissioner who asserts that Charlevoix County isn't adhering to a solid waste agreement between the two counties, drafted a resolution he hoped his board would pass. The vote on Friday, July 30, was four-to-four, a tie vote being a defeat.

The July 14 resolution that commissioner Wayne Vermilya drafted states that Charlevoix County is denying expansion of a household waste landfill, and not providing for future landfills in the county. The result is the county's inability to accept waste from Presque Isle County, in violation of the counties' December 8, 1993 waste disposal agreement, the resolution states.

Presque Isle County's board chairman, Gary Nowak, voted against the resolution.

"It's always been my contention to hold off on any lawsuit," Nowak said. "Instead, we need dialogue. Charlevoix County is on the track of solving the problem — I'm not really that concerned."

Charlevoix County is updating its solid waste plan. The plan lays out the criteria, regulations and future solid waste guidelines for the county. It is scheduled for updating every five years, and submitted to the state for approval. Presque Isle County's Vermilya is concerned because the draft solid waste plan has no criteria for siting future property for landfill use, he said.

"Charlevoix County has to be more responsible." Vermilya said. "They have to step up to the plate. They're obviously not complying with the agreement."

But Charlevoix County planning director Larry Sullivan's recommendation to Charlevoix's solid waste plan committee will meet that concern.

"I'm recommending that future plans have provisions for county-owned and operated landfills," Sullivan said. Counties must seriously address the waste management issues.

"It's a matter of public health and safety," Sullivan said. Counties must have a workable plan for waste disposal and the cost must remain affordable.

"Otherwise, you're going to have people taking their trash out to the back forty and dumping it."

The resolution also accused Charlevoix County of not promoting recycling, resulting in more safety perimeter and advise shoppers, employees and pedestrians to leave the downtown area as the search for the source of the odor continued. Bridge St. was closed to vehicle and foot traffic from Park to Clinton streets.

MichCon and city fire department personnel soon discovered a "sheen of something on the sewer water," and traces of gasoline in the sewer system. As a safety precaution, firefighters added a foam solution to the sewer system to help contain any potentially dangerous fumes. Several fire hydrants in the area were opened and used to flush the storm sewer system.

The odor of gasoline was obvious even as the diluted sewer water traveled throughout the city's system to the pump station and out to the water treatment plant.

Tom O'Haver of Charlevoix noticed the smell of gasoline at the Captain's Watch Condominiums on Park Road.

The evacuation disrupted businesses busy with peak season tourists and customers, but store owners did not appear to mind the inconvenience.

"I was just very happy that nobody was injured," said Teague.

Most businesses closed for the night after being told to evacuate. "But we reopened and were really busy," said Jeryl Murdick of Murdick's Famous Fudge. "Everybody came in and wanted to know what was going on and why all the other stores were closed. Business was great, and we were really happy everybody was safe."

Her brother, Gary Murdick, was confident all along that everything would turn out all right. "Our firemen are very reliable, very professional," he said. "They were here in a hurry and did everything they could to make things safe."

By 8:30 p.m. Roloff allowed the streets to be re-opened. Officials monitored vapor levels at a sewage pumping station throughout the night. By Thursday morning, dilution and treatment had made the vapor level undetectable.

Schwartzfisher stressed that all of the mistakenly pumped fuel was contained in the city sewer system and that no gasoline entered Round Lake or surrounding waterways.

"There were no injuries, no one was overcome by fumes," said Schwartzfisher. "We got the fuel flushed out and everything under control without incident."

"We're working on it," Johnson said. "The county should have some form of recycling."

The county expects to release the results of a recycling survey mailed to area residents and government officials shortly. The survey results will help to determine opinions on recycling and help the county decide on a recycling program.

The Presque Isle county commissioners have directed the prosecutor's office to keep in contact with Charlevoix's county commissioners and to update them on the draft of Charlevoix county's solid waste plan.

Reps. talk issues, share opinions

State Reps. Andy Neumann and Michael Hanley shared opinions on business taxes, schools, Internet filters, pay raises and other issues during a brief visit with the Courier editor last Thursday.

Neumann

Hanley

Neumann, D-Alpena, is the first Democrat in more than 100 years to represent Charlevoix County in the state house. His district covers the northern most area of the lower peninsula including Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Presque Isle and Alpena counties. Hanley, D-Saginaw, is the House Minority Leader.

They agreed that elimination of the Single Business Tax over a 23 year period will result in an additional tax burden on individuals and families. Costs for public services will be shifted from businesses to residents. It is a complicated process that will benefit only tax accountants, they said.

They also spoke about Democratic proposals designed to strengthen schools including: hiring 5,000 new teachers to reduce class size; repairing and modernizing classrooms; instituting a core curriculum; and creating after school programs to enrich student learning and providing safe recreational opportunities.

Both Neumann and Hanley both support "local, community control" on decisions relating to installing Internet filters on computers available in libraries for public use. "Children should not have access to pornography via public library computers," said Hanley.

Neumann who earns approximately $56,000 as a freshman state representative, said he will donate a recently approved annual pay raise of $1,862 to non-profit organizations in his district. He gave $465.50 to the Charlevoix Youth Club last spring, and the same amount to the Cheboygan County Humane Society this summer. He will make similar donations in each quarter this fiscal year.

Hanley and Neumann blasted the Michigan Economic Development Corporation's recent decision to boost the pay of its President and CEO, Doug Rothwell. Rothwell received a raise of $81,600. He now earns an annual salary of $189,600. "That's ridiculous," said Hanley.

Pageant winners

Child care permit approved

The Charlevoix Planning Commission approved a request Monday for a special use permit to allow a new child care facility on May Street.

Rod and Jody Amick have purchased the former Bible Baptist Church building. They are converting the structure in order to comply with state licensing requirements for the operation of a child care facility. The Amicks and their three children will reside in a portion of the renovated building.

The facility will accommodate up to 12 children ages 3 to 12 years, plus one helper, during the hours of 7 a.m. - 5 p.m.

At the Aug. 9 special meeting, Rod Amick stated that he would upgrade the landscaping and construct a lattice fence along a property line, build a dog run to maintain cleanliness for his family's two small pets, remodel and construct several rooms inside the building, and install playground equipment including a jungle gym, sand box, and teeter-totter.

Amicks plan to open by Aug. 30.

Family lost old barn, found new friends

Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Charlevoix, Banks, and Ellsworth Fire Departments and the Charlevoix Ambulance for their quick response and assistance when we lost our barn to fire on Sunday, July 11.

The image of fireman Chad Collins carrying one of my kittens to me, ever so gently, as the fire raged behind him is forever embedded in my memory.

To me, a true fireman, EMT, or first responder has skill and compassion in the midst of tragedy. Every single person who responded exuded those qualities.

We would also like to thank the strangers who stopped to help with animals and then disappeared, to the neighbors who took in my animals and cared for them and asked nothing in return, to the friends who sent "comfort food," or cards, or just phoned to show their concerns and make offers of assistance.

Our barn may have been a total loss, but the newly found friends more than make up for the lumber that was burnt.

Forever grateful,
Vickie Flowers and family

Venetian great,even without fireworks

Editor:

Venetian is over for another year. It was Marvelous! So many good things happened and there was so much for everyone to do. However, I must speak up about my feelings concerning the fireworks.

I do not understand how anyone who witnessed the devastation two years ago can ever watch fireworks again. I get knots in my stomach just thinking about that night, and I will never watch fireworks again. I know, as many, many others in this city do, the families that will never be the same again. I know nurses, rescue workers, and doctors who will never be the same again after that traumatic night.

This Venetian Festival was one of the greatest. The boat parade was the climax of all the events. After the boat parade, I, and many others walked home. Fireworks are not necessary.

I was not too surprised that something went wrong with the fireworks. I don't think they are meant to happen in Charlevoix again. Is God trying to tell us something?

A concerned citizen,
Nan VandenBerg

Venetian was fun for seniors

Editor:

We would like to send our most grateful thanks to all of those who helped us in any way with our booth for Venetian weekend. Our volunteers were wonderful and worked in the hot sun, rain and wind to make this one of our great fund-raisers. The home-made baked goods were welcomed by all customers, as were the hand-made types of crafts offered for sale, along with the sloppy joes, etc.

This was the first year that the Venetian week included Bingo in the Park, and we were happy to assist in giving the public an afternoon of fun. We especially want to thank all of those merchants who were so kind and willing in donating items which were used for bingo prizes, along with the monetary prizes. Those contributing include: Disciple Books, Flowers by Colleen, Family Affair Yarns & Crafts, Rocking Horse, McDonald's, A Touch of Spring, Water Front Salon, Village Inn Pizza, Barb's Hallmark, Pizza Hut, Flap Jack Shack, New Creations, Dairy Queen, Central Drugs, Bridge St. Bazaar, Murdick's Fudge and Subway. We would especially like to thank the Leslie T. Shapton, Unit No. 226, American Legion, for the use of the booth.

Our Charlevoix Senior Center receives no millage for operations, so expenses must be funded by our low dues, contributions and fund-raisers. The fund-raisers included daily lunches at the center, Meals on Wheels, weekly bingo, in addition to two delicious dinners each month — all open to the public.

We also wish to publicly thank all of the merchants, churches, motels and offices who have been kind enough to display our fliers for the dinners. This has helped in alerting the public to the activities of the Charlevoix Senior Center. Our monthly newsletter has expressed our thanks prior to this, but we felt we would also like to publicly give our grateful thanks to all of those who have assisted in helping us maintain the Charlevoix Senior Cetner as a place for all ages to enjoy friendship and all types of activities.

Yours very sincerely,
Charlevoix Senior Center Board of Directors
Rosalyn Goldstick, secretary

Wedding

Christine Marie Grunch of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho and Greg Victor Halberg of Lake Crescent, Wash. were married July 10, 1999, in Charlevoix.

The Rev. Jerry Rice, a longtime friend and mentor of the bride, came from his home in Sugar Creek, Mo. to officiate. The outdoor ceremony was held in the gazebo at the Belvedere Club on Lake Charlevoix with more than 150 guests in attendance.

The bride is the daughter of Rick and Nancy Grunch of Charlevoix. The bridegroom is the son of John and Betty Halberg of Port Angeles, Wash.

Mary Jane Grunch and Elizabeth Grunch served as attendants for their sister. Dan Richardson was the best man; Marc Hill and Matt Blank were the groomsmen.

The groom's sister, Karen Halberg, came from Peru to play guitar for the ceremony; she sang the Spanish song, "Eres Tu." Joining her were musicians Tom Carey, great uncle of the bride; Jaimie Malik, one of the bride's students; and Maggie Murray.

The readings were done by the groom's brothers, Jim, Sean and Rick Halberg, and sister Kristin Halberg; the bride's brother, Keith Grunch; and Amy Russell, an aunt of the bride.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by both families at the Charlevoix home of Rick and Nancy Grunch.

The bride graduated from Coeur d'Alene High School in 1987 and from New Mexico State University in 1992.

She earned a master's degree in teaching from Whitworth College in Spokane, Wash., in 1995. She is currently teaching Spanish and coaching volleyball and softball in Owosso, Mich.

The bridegroom graduated from Western Washington University in 1992. He is an assistant track coach at Central Michigan University, where he is also working on his master's degree.

A second reception for the newly married couple was held July 17 at the Lake Crescent home of the groom's parents.

Petrie clan holds 51st reunion

More then 125 descendants of John A. Petrie gathered for the family's 51st consecutive annual reunion on July 31, 1999.

Relatives came from as far away as California, Texas, and Florida as well as Michigan and states in between. The weather was picture perfect for the festivities held at Kathy and Tom Graham's farm on Wilson Road in Charlevoix County. Folks brought food and left with pictures and memories. Plans are already underway for the year 2000 bash.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

By The Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum
First Congregational
United Church of Christ

"WHAT IS OF TRUE VALUE?"

A colleague of mine told me not long ago about a friend who was battling cancer. She had had several operations gone through radiation and chemotherapy, but her future was still uncertain. Over coffee one day, this woman joked how she fantacized about faking her own death and arranging for her funeral service to be videotaped so she could watch and hear the nice things she hoped people would say about her. Then she paused, returned to reality, and said, "Nah, it would probably be too depressing to realize how few people knew the real me." What a commentary on life that is!

What this woman longed for, of course—what we all long for if we're honest—is more than video tape and compliments. What we long for is to be known, to be understood, to be accepted, to be honored, to be cherished for who we are. It's part of what it means to belong to the kingdom of God.

What is the kingdom of God, if it isn't the joy that comes from remembering that our relationships are what matter more than anything else. It's the knowledge, as well, that when the storms of life are raging around or within us, there are people who care; and even when death touches our lives, that we don't have to be afraid of the future, either our own or the ones we love.

Most importantly of all, it's believing that there is One who knows and understands the "real you," someone who cares for you so much that He sent his Son into the world so that we might know the fullness of God's love for us and for all. To rephrase Paul's words in Romans:

The kingdom of God is the assurance that God is at work in all things for the good, ...and that neither death nor life, nor anything in all creation can separate us from the love of God we have in Christ Jesus. (RM 8:28,39)

That in the end is what really matters, what is of true value.

Puppies, trainers welcome fund-raisers

By B. J. Hetler

Puppies in training for a career as leader dogs waited patiently at Ferry Beach with their human handlers last Thursday. They were on the beach to greet more than 50 water sports enthusiasts who were riding their personal watercrafts 300 miles on Lake Michigan. The group was raising funds for Leader Dogs for the Blind.

Dillan, a six-month old Golden Retriever puppy lives with Laura Smith in Charlevoix. Smith brought Dillan to Ferry Beach to meet the members of the Michigan Jet Sports Boat Club. Smith, who is a Lion's Club member, is Dillan's host family and he will live with her until he is old enough to be a leader dog.

The club's members were participating in the second annual grand tour, riding their sports watercrafts along the coastline from Mackinaw City to Grand Haven.

Sharlene Westmoreland of Orlando, Florida is in her second year as a staff member for the club.

"The riders raise and pay $500 to participate in the tour," Westmoreland said. "Last year we raised $10,000 for Leader Dogs."

Leader Dogs for the Blind is a non-profit organization based in Rochester, Smith said. It's purpose is to provide trained leader dogs to the legally blind so they are able to be more mobile. It serves the entire country and provides more than 400 leader dogs nationwide. Leader Dogs for the Blind accepts dog donations and has it own breeding program. Puppies and young dogs are placed in host family homes until they are old enough for a career as a leader dog.

Dillan is Smith's third puppy. When Dillan is ready for training the parting will be difficult, but it's something host families must face, Smith said.

"You have to remember it's not your dog."

Bruce and Carol Hutchins from Traverse City waited for the jet sports club members at Ferry Beach with their puppy, Hannah. They are hosting their 10th puppy.

"You have to go into it with the knowledge that it's only for a year," Carol said.

Giving the puppy up after a year is emotional, she said. But she once met a woman who is blind who was matched up with a puppy the Hutchins had raised.

"Seeing them together made it worth it," Carol said..

This year the Michigan Jet Sports Boat Club raised $25,000 for Leader Dogs for the Blind.

High school adds teacher

A new Spanish and history teacher begins the school year at Charlevoix High School.

Jennifer Peters, who is originally from Traverse City, comes to Charlevoix from Ionia where she has taught for two years.

The school decided to add another teacher due to students' interest in Spanish, and the room for Spanish and history classes in the curriculum.

The school board will discuss a raise in sports ticket prices at its next meeting on Sept. 23. Athletic director Keith Maske told the board that ticket prices are lower at Charlevoix schools than other area schools, and that they have not been reviewed by the board for many years. If approved, the prices for gate tickets would increase from $3 to $4, and season passes would increase from $65 to $75.

Two men hospitalized after party

Two men required emergency hospitalization after ingesting the so-called "date rape" drug, GHB, at a party early Friday morning.

A group of about 15 visitors from out of town were attending a party on a private beach near Ferry Avenue.

Around 3 a.m. it started to rain and the crowd began to leave. Two men were found non-responsive and someone called 911. Police and an ambulance team responded, found the men, ages 19 and 31, and transported them to Charlevoix Area Hospital.

One man required treatment in the Intensive Care Unit. Both men were released later on Friday.

Police investigators believe the men had consumed alcohol and the depressant drug, GHB.

Also known as the "date rape" drug, GHB is a relatively new drug and is classified as an illegal and dangerous substance. "It is a crime to possess GHB," said Charlevoix Police Chief Dennis Halverson. Possession with intent to deliver is a felony. This is the first case involving GHB in Charlevoix.

Further investigation of the incident will be handled by the Straits Area Narcotics Enforcement (SANE) team, according to Halverson.

Police arrested one other man at the party for possession of marijuana.

Telephone communications featured personal touch

By Marilyn Boss

Many in the younger generation today may think that the "touch phone" is the greatest thing, and it is. But they will never have the privilege to know what it was like to have the personal touch of a telephone operator working on the big switchboard downtown in 1940.

The telephone switchboard in Charlevoix was located upstairs in the building on Bridge Street where Trademark Clothiers is currently located: I remember going up there and watching the women work. It was fascinating.

Rollie Lewis's law practice occupied the front two offices on the second floor overlooking Bridge Street. He was one of three lawyers in Charlevoix at the time. They were all that were needed to handle all the business in town. No one thought of suing anyone back then. What a difference today.

The rest of the second floor was devoted to the telephone company operation. Telephone operators there had to be right on-the-stick, for they provided a much needed service to the townspeople who depended on them.

When a person first picked up the telephone, the operator would say, "Number, please." You would then state your desired number, and she would plug into that number on the board in front of her.

The plug had a long, covered wire attached to it. The operator would reach over and push the plug

Nature's Path makes a move

By B. J. Hetler

Nature's Path Natural Food store recently moved to a location that is more convenient for downtown customers.

The store moved from M-66 north to 110 Mason St.

"This location is convenient for walk-in customers," said Gladys Johnson, the owner of the business.

Nature's Path opened in December 1997. Gladys said she knew that she wanted to start a business since she was 16 years old. She later decided her venture would sell all-natural vitamins, minerals, herbs and other health-conscious products.

Gladys and her husband, Paul, became interested in natural food and supplements when they began ordering natural vitamins and minerals through the mail for their family. The interest in selling the products grew as they began to feel the benefits of them.

"When you take a product you believe in, it's a good business," Gladys said.

Nature's Path offers literature, as well as its other products. The Johnsons educated themselves about their products by being avid readers of natural food books, magazines and pamphlets.

"Education is the best part, knowing what you need and how much," Gladys said.

A recent article in one of the store's magazines spoke about the potential adverse health effects from fluoride. Some experts say it may cause cancer in some people. Nature's Path sells toothpaste without fluoride, Paul said.

The Johnsons do not give advice to customers who have a health question, Gladys said. Instead, she refers them to a practitioner who uses natural techniques and medications.

Paul usually staffs the store and welcomes customers who want to take the time to talk about various products. The store offers a free magazine.

Nature's Path Natural Food owner Gladys Johnson and her husband, Paul, enjoy their new downtown location. The store is located at 110 Mason St., next to the Charlevoix Courier office. The hours are 10 a.m.-5 p.m., Monday-Friday, and 10 a.m.-3 p.m. on Saturday. The telephone number is 547-8004. (Photo by B. J. Hetler)

Nature's Path Natural Food sells skin care, shampoo, organic cereal, teas and rice, as well as vitamins and minerals. It plans to sell organic bulk foods soon.

The hours are 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., Monday-Friday, and 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. on Saturday. The telephone number is 547-8004.

Organized by the Charlevoix Council for the Arts, this fair is the second oldest juried art fair in Michigan. It has a reputation for presenting outstanding new and established artists. Long considered among the premier outdoor fine arts fairs in the Midwest, the fair attracts an ardent following of collectors and gallery owners from throughout the country.

Nearly 150 artists in town for Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair phy, printmaking, and mixed media from 147 exhibiting artists, the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair is a visual feast offering to please all tastes. From contemporary to traditional, abstract to representational, and functional to non-functional, the blend of artists and varied range of media presents a vibrant show full of longtime favorites and exciting discoveries.

Art

True to the tradition of the Charlevoix Art Fair, there will be more than 25 first-time participating artists this year. Judi Ekholm, from Sister Bay, Wis. will present her bold and romantic images of landscapes and gardens executed on fine Belgian linen with English oil paint. She uses an oil painting technique similar to the Old Masters, with many layers of paint and glazing. Ekholm's paintings range in size from small florals to large scale major works with vast depth. Her works can be found in more than 500 international collections.

Several jewelers are new to this year's fair — Fred and Martha Lindquist Blevins of Cadillac, Matthew Darling from Vail, Colo., and B. J. Jordan from Sarasota, Fla.

Peter Draughton, a photographer from Toledo, Ohio will also make his first showing at this year's fair.

Gijsbert vanFrankenhuyzen, illustrator of Michigan's Official State Children's Book "The Legend of Sleeping Bear," and the recently released "The Legend of Mackinac Island" will return to this year's art fair with originals from each book as well as many other oils and acrylics.

An Art Fair program including a map to assist in locating specific artists will be available at a booth located near the steps facing Bridge Street. The program and admission to the Waterfront Art Fair is free.

Official Art Fair T-shirts will be sold to benefit the Charlevoix Council for the Arts. On Saturday morning, a quartet organized by Charlevoix musician Steve Stargardt will entertain the crowd with a performance of classical music.

The Congregational Church will sell coffee and muffins in the park near the Odmark Pavilion from 8 a.m.-10:30 a.m.

A delicious Chicken Salad Luncheon will be available in the lower level of Christ Episcopal Church, located on the corner of State and Clinton streets.

In its 41st year, the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair's legacy is all that it provides to the children in the Charlevoix area all year long. The fair helps provide inspiration and opportunity for aspiring young local artists and fosters their appreciation of the arts.

Art Fair proceeds also provide: college scholarships for area students majoring in art; art and music camp scholarships; performances by professional dance troupes and drama companies; music concerts; purchase of original artwork for display in schools; art and music workshops, meet the author programs; and grants for the purchase of art, music and drama equipment.

Charlevoix City Fire and EMS teams were called to the scene. Young was no where to be found at the scene. He was later located at his home located approximately 1/4 mile from the crash scene.

He was transported to the Charlevoix Area Hospital and treated there for cuts and a back injury.

Police suspect speed and alcohol were factors in the crash which remains under investigation.

Historian seeks information on Foster Boat Co.

A Charlevoix-based boat company is the subject of an information search being conducted by an area historian.

Geoffrey Reynolds, a local history writer and regular contributor to the Courier is gathering information and photographs on the history of Foster Boat Company (1940-1953) and its employees, the Harry G. Foster family, and any surviving boats built by the company.

Originally based in Grand Rapids, the Foster Boat Company relocated to Charlevoix. The firm manufactured plywood row boats, Snipe Class sailboats, outboard motorboats, and pontoon boats. It also ran a canvas fabrication operation.

At the start of World War II, the company was enlisted to make boats for the U.S. Navy and tents for the Army. Foster operated several fabrication plants in Charlevoix. Plants were located on Ferry Avenue, where Foster Boat Works condominiums now stand; on Cherry Street, the site of the old Inn garage; and in Petoskey, where Curtis Wire Products is now.

After the war Foster entered the pleasure craft market, but was outdone by larger companies like Chris-Craft.

Reynolds welcomes contributions and assistance on the project. Persons familiar with the company's past are asked to contact him at: 14302 Spruce Hollow Drive, Holland, Mich. 49424, (616) 786-9685, or Betsy Reynolds at the Harsha House Museum, P. O. Box 525, Charlevoix, Mich. 49720, (231) 547-0373.

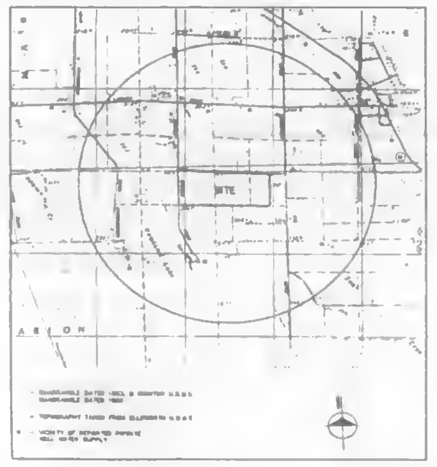
Official Notice

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR A CONSTRUCTION PERMIT FOR A NEW SOLID WASTE TRANSFER FACILITY

Part 115, Solid Waste Management, of the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Act, 1994 PA 451, as amended, Section 11510 (2) (b), provides for a notice of application for construction permit for a solid waste disposal area.

On July 15, 1999, the Department of Environmental Quality received a construction permit application from Waste Management, Inc., for a proposed Type A Solid Waste Transfer Facility at the Cedar Ridge Recycling and Disposal Facility (landfill). The landfill is located in the NE1/4 of the NW1/4, Section 19, T33N, R7E, Eveline Township, Charlevoix County. The landfill is located approximately five miles southeast of Charlevoix and one mile southwest from the Village of Ironton.

The solid waste transfer facility will be constructed to receive solid waste from hand unloaded vehicles and mechanical compactor trucks. Incoming solid waste will be dumped onto a tipping floor and then compacted into open-top transfer trailers. The transfer facility will be operated from 7:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on Monday through Friday, and 7:00 a.m. through 1:00 p.m. on Saturdays.



The complete application package consisting of the application, environmental assessment, hydrogeologic investigation report, and hydrogeological monitoring plan may be reviewed at the Department of Environmental Quality, Waste Management Division, Grayling Office, 1955 North I-75 Business Loop, Grayling, MI 49738, from 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday except holidays (telephone number 517-348-6381) or at the Charlevoix County Courthouse Annex, 203 Antrim Street, Charlevoix, MI 49720, (telephone number 231-547-7200).

If significant public comment is received on this project, the Department of Environmental Quality will schedule a public hearing to take additional comments on the proposal.

The Department has until November 13, 1999, to make final decisions on the construction permit application.

Special gifts help set pool auction record

The bidding was fast, furious and record-breaking at the 10th annual auction-benefit for the Charlevoix Area Community Pool.

The auction of several special gifts along with many distinctive and unique items generated $75,000, according to co-chairs Suzanne Budd and Bruce MacArthur. The proceeds exceeded the 1999 goal of $40,000 and topped last year's total by $33,000.

The $35,000 received above this year's goal will be used for the pool's contingency and endowment funds, said David Smith, president of Charlevoix Area Community Pool. The 1998 auction proceeds were used to pay off the mortgage on the pool building.

"As our unique, community oriented pool is not a tax supported organization," said Smith. "We need to supplement our income with donations and fund-raisers such as the pool auction. We depend on the generosity of our benefactors to keep swim lessons affordable for the general public in this area, and to encourage aquatic safety."

Two generous gifts were presented by Helen Paul, treasurer of the Grand Traverse Band of Chippewa and Ottawa Indians.

A $10,000 gift completed the fund-raising goal required to secure a matching $20,000 challenge grant for the pool's endowment fund with the Charlevoix County Community Foundation. A donation of $5,400 will provide swimming lessons for fifth and sixth grade students at Charlevoix Elementary School.

Bernice Olds Roe-Smith, a Charlevoix summer visitor, presented a special gift of $2,000 for swim lessons for Beaver Island fifth graders.

The highest ticket items for sale at the auction were a $10,000 Charlevoix Country Club social membership, and a trip on the Southdown (Medusa) Challenger valued at $5,700.

Another item, accommodations in a luxurious New York City high rise apartment for a long weekend, attracted two winning bids of $2,800 each, for a total of $5,600.

Michael Bost of Petoskey served as auctioneer.

More than 170 guests attended the dinner and auction held Sunday evening, Aug. 1 at the Charlevoix Country Club.

A Charlevoix resident with a broad range of office experience joins the Charlevoix Courier, effective Aug. 9.

"I love Charlevoix," said Valerie Pedersen. "It's home."

Pedersen moved to Charlevoix from Palm Desert, California 15 years ago. She is happy to find a position here that she enjoys.

"I'm thrilled," she said. "I have a front row seat — right downtown."

Pedersen works in the Charlevoix Courier's front office. She greets visitors, handles bookkeeping, manages classified advertisements, and is responsible for various other office functions.

Valerie Pedersen

Pedersen's position at the newspaper involves a great deal of interaction with people, something she enjoys. Previous employment experience includes work as an insurance personal and commercial lines representative, retail sales, and in the secretarial field. She also worked as a homemaker. She has two children, Sean, 20, and Danielle, 13.

Outside of the office, Pedersen enjoys participating in sailing races throughout the summer months. She is a runner and waterskier. She learned a love for photography from her father, and enjoys photography and writing feature stories. Pedersen attends classes at North Central Michigan College and is interested in workplace counseling.

Many of the people who visit the Charlevoix Courier are acquainted with Pedersen from her years in the community. They know they can count on a smile from her when they come in.

"I tend to be people-oriented and know a lot of people in the community," she said. "I'm grateful for the opportunity to be working in Charlevoix."

City Council approves airport weather system

Pilots will get accurate 24-hour weather information from Charlevoix Municipal Airport by 2001.

On August 2, Charlevoix City Council approved funding for installation and operation of an Automatic Weather Observation System (AWOS) that will update weather reports and improve safety for aircraft in the area.

Installation is contingent on approval by the Bureau of Aeronautics (AERO) which will visit the airport later this year to determine if siting is possible.

Information updated every minute will include wind direction, temperature, dew point, ceiling heights, and precipitation heights. AWOS readings will be taken at the airport and sent by satellite to the national weather network and a Pilot Weather Briefing System.

The City must pay 10 percent of the cost for procuring and installing the equipment. This is estimated at $11,000. The City must also pay 50 percent of the operational costs, estimated to be $4,000 annually. The City must also insure the equipment, and provide two dedicated telephone lines and electricity. These expenses are estimated at $1,500 - $2,000 per year.

Once the system is installed, residents can also call and get weather information, according to airport manager Loraine Luepnitz.

If all goes well, the system should be operational by spring of 2001.

In other action, council re-scheduled public hearings on amendments to portions of the City Code for Sept. 20; tabled discussions on a proposed 24-unit development on May Street, and a development on Ance Road until Sept. 7.

into the proper receptacle to make the connection. To reach another country, you would tell the local operator, and she would connect with the overseas operator, and make sure the call went through. If a line was busy, she would tell you to try again later.

Now, if you needed a certain doctor and could not reach him. She could probably tell you that Dr. McMillan or Dr. Armstrong was at so-and-so's house, and she could put your call through there.

The operator would cut in on any call for emergencies. The parties would hang up and she would put the emergency call through. If you needed to reach the police at night, she would turn on a switch that would activate a red lightbulb up on the street corner by the lodge. When the police saw the red light they would call her to learn where they were needed.

To get the correct time of day, you picked up the phone and called the operator. She would gladly tell you. If a child picked up the phone, the operator could help them directly with whatever problem they had.

All the operators had a very pleasant manner. It was enjoyable to have them there, ready to help in their congenial way.

My aunt, Marie Ikens Rabach, was one of the operators during those years. She once told me a story about a prominent, inebriated resident who asked to be connected with Adolf Hitler in Germany. The man wanted to tell him to end the war. The operator was able to reach Germany, but naturally, could not reach the fuhrer.

Lillian Hansen was the chief operator in 1940. Later, Mabel Martini was the head operator for years. Other operators were Margaret Poole, Betty Pearl, Hilda Cooper, Dorothy Southwood, Ruth White, Helen Boileau, Edythe Davey, Frances Olmstead, Addie Glossenger, and Alma Halverson.

Lester Johnson was the manager of the phone company in the 1940s. William (Spike) Goss was assistant manager. Spike and Robert D. Miller were the linemen. It was nice to have a lineman who knew everyone and the exact location of every house. He could come directly to your home and fix any problem.

There was really something pleasant about small town telephone service in the past. The people who worked there were really appreciated. They were valuable assets to everyone who lived in Charlevoix.

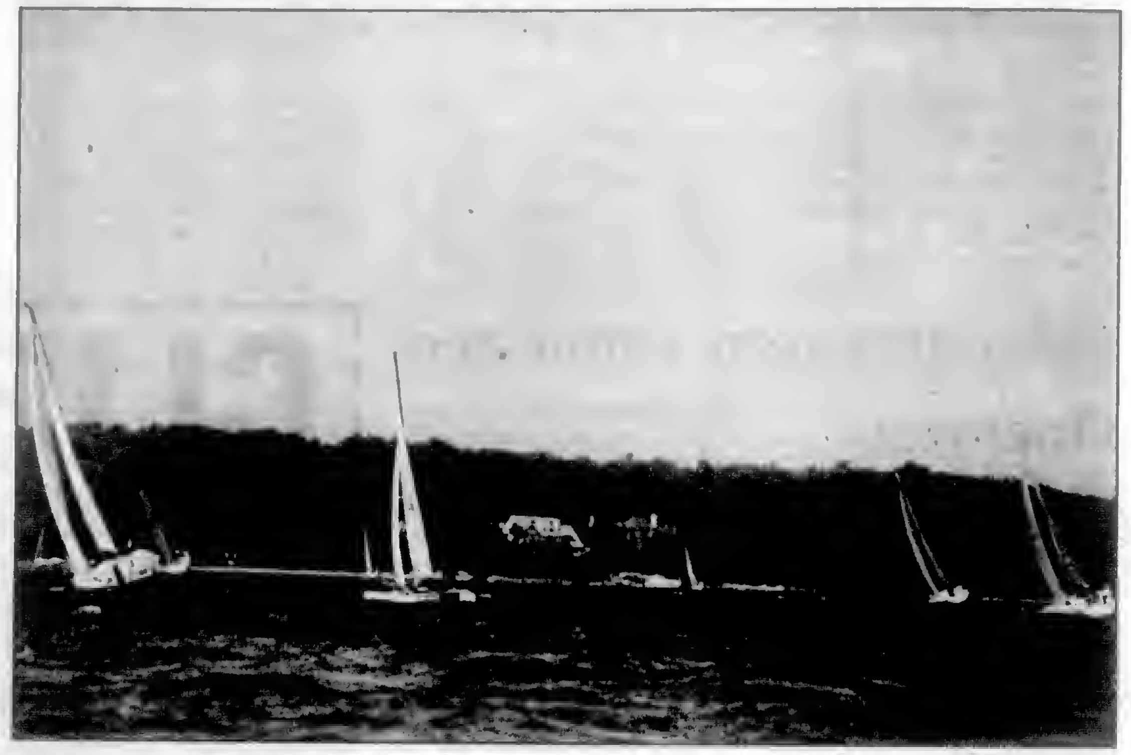
Gotcha, Babe take fifth race

By Fair Winds
Charlevoix Yacht Club



Left: Competitors heel with the winds during Wednesday evening sailboats races on Lake Charlevoix. Above: Brisk winds have filled sails each week during the Charlevoix Yacht Club's '99 racing season. (File photos)

Participants braved heavy showers and 20-knot winds during the fifth race of the Summer Series last Wednesday.

Sailors donned foul weather gear and life jackets as a storm front moved in at the start. The wind was steady for the first two legs of this windward-leeward course and lightened by the third leg. By the fourth leg the wind had reached 12 knots with frequent headers and lifts throughout the course. The winds calmed by race's end and a magnificent rainbow arched across the sky, framing the downwind spinnakers.

In Fleet A (Spinnaker 150 & lower), Gotcha crossed the finish line more than a minute (corrected time) ahead of Kamikaze. Mint Julep followed a minute later.

In Fleet B (Spinnaker 153 to 195), Babe sailed a spectacular race, staying in clear air after an excellent start. Though one crewmember got drenched by water collected in the reefed mainsail, Our Thyme II crossed the line second three minutes later. Mi Joy was third with a corrected time two minutes behind.

Cabaret dueled with Our Thyme II until hitting the mark at the end of the first downwind run. She had to do a 360-degree penalty turn and dropped to fourth place. J Hawk, Bald Eagle, M3, and Saffron rounded-out the field.

Tireless sailed across the line first in Fleet C (Spinnaker 198 & higher), followed by Lost Vermonter, Blasen III, Cygnus, Original Sin, Jesse, and Sandpaper.

In JAM 198 & higher fleet, Apothecary, who often performs best in heavy air, sailed over the finish line 10 minutes ahead of Red Hot. In JAM 195 & lower fleet, Flash, lived up to her name, finishing the race in 1 hour 25 minutes corrected time.

A J-22 fleet skipper requested redress. The race committee determined that the boats in this fleet could not all have a fair finish due to the moving committee boat at the end of the race. The race committee will decide when the race for this fleet will be re-scheduled.

Stay tuned!

Fish are bitin' in area lakes

The recent cool weather that followed an extended period of ninety-degree temperatures is helping anglers net some big fish on Lake Charlevoix and Lake Michigan.

Big bass are hitting leeches and crawlers, especially in the south arm of Lake Charlevoix near East Jordan. A trophy-size, 5 pound smallmouth bass was even taken on a spinner, according to Mary Ann Hodack of Frye's Bait and Tackle in Charlevoix.

Walleyes are plentiful in Dutchman's Bay near East Jordan and in the south arm, especially at night. Pike minnows may be the secret to landing a limit catch.

Lake trout weighing 6-7 pounds are biting at 60-70 feet in Lakes Charlevoix and Michigan.

Golf program wraps up '99 season

The Charlevoix County Junior Golf program concluded its fifth summer of providing golf lessons and competition to the youth of Northern Michigan. The Charlevoix Country Club hosted the final event of the year, the Tournament of Champions and the pizza awards party.

David Shearer posted a best score of 38 to win the age 14-and-older flight. York Smith captured the 12-13 flight, Kris Bartling won the 10-11 flight, and Mike Heckendorn, Brock Yenglin, Ty Telgenhoe, Conner Louiselle and Alex Molter all tied for the 8-9 championship.

Individual skills champions: putting-Emilee Covin (8 year olds), Nathan Tripplehorn (9), Kris Bartling (10), Joel Keehn and Jarod Kirby (11), Mitchell Klooster (12), York Smith (13), Brian Jakeway (14), Chad DeKorte and Nick Cole (15-older). Chipping-Emma Maynard, Zita Anderson and Nathan Tripplehorn (9), Kris Bartling and Kyle Smith (10), Billy Brodin (11), Adam Bizzel (12), Sam Chulick (13), Cody Britton and Mike Kelly (14) and Nick Cole (15-older).

There were 195 junior golfers registered for this year's program. The popularity of the program has drawn youngsters from many neighboring communities and recently the National Junior Golf Association has named the Charlevoix-based program one of the top 16 in the nation.

Executive Director Dean Davenport was especially pleased with the improvements made this year.

"Our mentor program had over 35 adults that committed to attending each session and that allowed for a safe teaching and playing environment," Davenport said. "Both the Belvedere and the Charlevoix Country Club provided incentives which rewarded our mentors, and, as a result, our program improved."

Davenport also cited the teaching professionals that donated their time: Steve Braun and Marty Joy from the Belvedere; Joan Waha from Dunmaglas; Jerry Roman from the Charlevoix Municipal Course; Steve Good, Sarah Stone, T.J. Montgomery and Terry Walker from Charlevoix Country Club.

All the aforementioned courses plus Antrim Dells provided course time for teaching and playing sessions even during the busy summertime, Davenport said.

"The Charlevoix Recreation Department and Director Ike Boss have provided us with administrative help which has enabled us to handle the tremendous amount of paperwork associated with having 195 golfers," Davenport said. "The secret to our success is simple: caring adult mentors, devoted teaching professionals, and local courses willing to set aside prime time for youngsters all of which combine for an outstanding junior program."

Rayder golf tryouts

Charlevoix High School students interested in playing on the varsity or junior varsity golf teams this season are invited to tryout at 3:30 p.m. Monday and Tuesday Aug. 16-17 at Belvedere Golf Club.

Boys and girls will participate in an 18-hole qualifier each day. Each athlete must have a physical turned in to the high school office before beginning practice.

For more information call coach Jim Glynn at 347-6484.

Lake association meeting, ice cream social

The 29th annual Lake Charlevoix Association meeting will feature an old fashioned ice cream social, guest speaker, election of officers, and more at 7 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 12 at the Lake Charlevoix Yacht Club. Agenda includes a welcome from president Steve Hansen, a short business meeting, a question and answer session, and a talk by Scott McEwen from the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council. In this picture, Leon Vercruysse delivers a taste of things to come to fellow board member Ralph Parker. The Charlevoix Yacht Club is located at 209 Ferry Street. (Courtesy photo)

English brass band to perform at pavilion

An evening of world class music plus complimentary ice cream awaits Charlevoix area residents.

The BNFL Brass Band will perform classical overtures, traditional marches and the latest scores from stage and screen from 7 - 9 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 18 in the Odmark Pavilion in East Park in downtown Charlevoix.

In addition to the musical entertainment, BNFL and Big Rock Point employees will hand out ice cream to the first 1,000 people in attendance.

"The Brass Band is recognized as one of the finest musical groups in the world," said Jerry Slade, BNFL project manager at Big Rock Point. "We are pleased to be able to arrange their visit to Charlevoix so that our neighbors can enjoy their talents."

The Brass Band is based in England. The band's roots trace back to 1946 when it was formed as the Leyland Motors Band. The band has won numerous contests including being named the British Open Champions in 1994 and earning two All England Masters Championships for brass bands.

The concert will be sponsored by BNFL Inc. with support from Consumers Energy's Big Rock Point Restoration Project. BNFL was awarded a contract in January to remove major equipment and buildings from Big Rock as part of the project to return the former nuclear plant to a green field.

The Brass Band has performed around the world. In addition to the stop in Charlevoix, the band will perform this year in South Carolina, Tennessee, Idaho and Washington. The 28-member band is led by musical director Richard Evans.

In the event of rain, the concert will be held in the Charlevoix Congregational Church located at the corner of Bridge and Mason streets.

Big Rock workers laud safety record

Employees at Consumers Energy's Big Rock Point Restoration Project achieved a significant safety accomplishment on August 3 — they completed 22 years of work without missing a day due to injury.

Big Rock Point site general manager Ken Powers says the accomplishment is important to him and all employees at the plant.

"Nothing is more important than our employees looking out for each other and ensuring that each and every one of them goes home to their family safe and sound after work," he said.

Powers noted that the accomplishment was especially significant because of the nature of the work performed by employees changed when the plant ceased operation in 1997 and site restoration activities began.

"The safety challenges when dismantling the plant are quite different from when we were operating the plant," said Powers. Metal and concrete cutting, asbestos removal and extensive use of scaffolding are all activities that are currently being performed that were not necessary while the plant was operating. Site restoration activities at Big Rock Point began shortly after the final shutdown in 1997. The plant is scheduled to be returned to a green field by 2005.

"For employees to remain focused on the job at hand is a testament to their commitment to safety and continues the tradition of Big Rock Point performing with safety as our number one priority," Powers said.

The last lost time injury recorded at the plant occurred on Aug. 3, 1977 when an employee broke his ankle while descending stairs.

Big Rock Point was the world's first high power-density boiling water reactor and an important research site for the nuclear power industry. The plant was shut down on Aug. 29, 1997, after 35 years of service, making it the nation's longest running nuclear plant.

Due to its many contributions to the nuclear and medical communities, Big Rock Point was named a Nuclear Historic Landmark by the American Nuclear Society.

SCRAPBOOK

GIANT SEAPLANE VISITS OUR CITY

LANDS HERE SATURDAY ON LAKE TRIP

(Editor's note: The following Scrapbook feature was compiled by Cynthia Postmus, with help from the Charlevoix Public Library, from an old edition of the Courier. The story is reprinted in its entirety, exactly as it appeared on July 17, 1921.)

Lieut. P. N. L. Bellinger, Commander of Famous N. C. 1 in Charge of Huge Plane

The giant seaplane, "Santa Maria," eagerly looked for by hundreds of people in this vicinity, landed in Pine Lake near the Inn, Saturday afternoon about six o'clock. The arrival of the beautiful flying boat was unexpected, no notification being received until about an hour before she reached the harbor. This was a disappointment to many, as plans had been made to welcome its arrival by a large delegation of citizens.

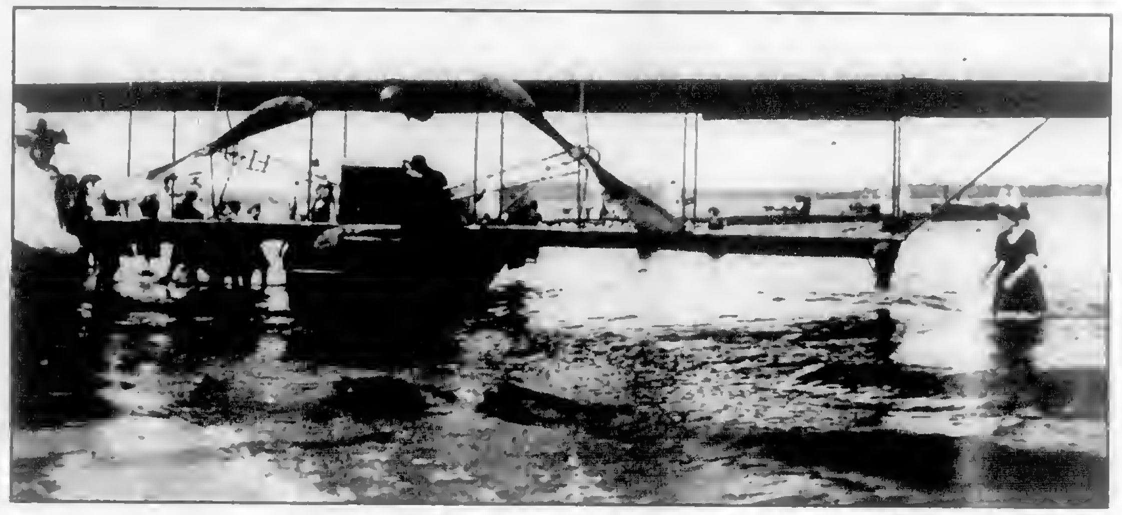
On board were Lieutenant Commander, P. N. L. Bellinger, U. S. N., who commanded the N. C. 1 during her famous transatlantic flight; Dr. James W. Inches, city physician of Detroit; Jack Bins who won world fame when he set out his celebrated S. O. S. wireless from the ocean liner Republic was rammed by an Italian vessel in the night twelve years ago, and thereby saved the lives of 5,000 passengers of the two vessels by calling the Baltic; C. F. Redden, president of the aeronautic airways; Ed Musick, pilot; Charlie Barbour, assistant pilot, and W. W. Richards, helper.

The seaplane remained overnight and Sunday morning shortly after ten o'clock made a flight to Boyne City with a party consisting of E. B. Ward, president of the Association of Commerce; Judge F. W. Mayne, Miss Adeline Holley, A. I. Livingston of the State Savings Bank. Mr. and Mrs. Ira Adams and A. J. Usher, representatives of the local press.

The flight to Boyne City and return was made in twenty-five minutes, and it is beyond us to describe the trip in a manner that it is entitled to. We will say however, that while we knew Charlevoix and its surroundings were beautiful as seen from earth, the view from an altitude of eight hundred feet surpasses anything we have seen or can imagine. We have been asked "how we felt" as we shot through the air at a speed of eighty to ninety miles an hour. We experienced no strange sensation at all. It seemed that we remained almost stationary, and the earth was moving below us. In fact the trip was almost over before we realized it. But the memory of that ride will remain ever with us.

During the forenoon a sister ship of six passenger capacity arrived here and during the day made numerous flights with passengers.

Both seaplanes left the city between six and seven o'clock in the afternoon for Traverse City, and will continue their flight from there to Chicago, stopping at various points enroute.



The sea plane, Santa Maria, thrilled Charlevoix residents upon its arrival here in 1921. It landed in Pine Lake. Local dignitaries took a short flight on the giant flying boat which hit top airborne speeds of 80-90 milesß per hour. (Photos courtesy of Charlevoix Historical Society)

Can't sleep? Read this!

Research has shown that nearly 43 million Americans suffer from sleep disorders. Most are unaware, costing them an estimated 17.2 billion dollars in health care costs annually.

In 1998 the average American got 247 hours less sleep per year than the average American in 1971.

"Many people have trouble sleeping and don't know where to turn for help," says Tor Stave, assistant director at the Sleep Research Institute in Washington, D. C. "We've published a booklet that can help them with their situation."

The new booklet, "Getting the Sleep You Need," gives information and suggestions on what to do when you can't sleep.

Booklets are available for $5 each From RFC, Sleep Booklet #SL-950, 2124 Broadway, PMB #104, New York, N.Y. 10023. Information is also available from the Institute's Internet web site: www.institute-dc.org.

Golfer aces life's challenges, provides inspiration for all

By Doug Drapal

Smmmaaaack!

It was the sound of a driver making perfect "sweet spot" contact with a golf ball, launching the white sphere out onto the green grass of the fairway.

Brian Douglas had just teed off toward the sixth hole at the Charlevoix Country Club. He was among some 195 boys and girls competing in the Champions Tournament, the season finale of the 1999 Charlevoix Junior Golf Program.

His ball didn't travel nearly as far as those of his three playing partners, yet he was smiling and happy with his shot nestled safely in the short grass. While his final score wouldn't be good enough for a winner's trophy, Douglas' participation in the summer golf program earned him a spot on top of the real "leader" board.

An old duffer once quipped, "golf is not a game that is meant to be fair," nor is life sometimes.

Most golfers have a bag full of excuses to use when shots and breaks don't fall their way. Brian looks at every shot with an innate enthusiasm. He plays the game differently than most golfers. He uses only his left arm. Since birth, Brian has had limited use of his right arm and hand due to cerebral palsy.

Brian, 14, started playing golf five years ago and just finished his second season of junior golf. He credits his good friend, Cody Britton, for encouraging him to join the fun and the program. Now, he plays twice a week; on Sundays at Ye Nyne Olde Holles Golf Club in Advance with his parents, and once-weekly during the junior golf season at one of northern Michigan's premier golf courses like Belvedere, Antrim Dells, Charlevoix's Municipal Course, and the Charlevoix Country Club.

Brian Douglas

Learning the game of golf is a daunting task for everyone. Brian was no exception. "It was kind of hard at first," he said, "I used to care that I couldn't hit the ball very far or straight." But after a couple of seasons of instruction from junior golf's volunteer professionals and tips from mom and dad, "I'm more consistent now, I can hit it straight (most of the time)." Most importantly, "I can outdrive my mom," Brian said laughing.

He may be a bit shorter off the tee than most, but he can even things up in a hurry with his chipping and putting skills.

Brian says all the junior golfers have been very supportive. Program organizers pair youngsters with different students and a volunteer adult mentor each day. Mentors

Speaker: preserve Lake Charlevoix

By B. J. Hetler

Improving and preserving the health and beauty of Lake Charlevoix depends upon the help of every person in the area, said Scott McEwen from the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council.

"We shouldn't be expecting everyone else to do it," McEwen said. "A lot of things depend on individual decisions made in everyday life — how we dispose of used motor oil, for instance. It shouldn't be dumped on the edge of the lawn, but put in a gallon jug and taken to a gas station or oil change station. Household hazardous waste needs to be taken to drop-off stations."

Help needed to preserve Lake Charlevoix

McEwen is the water resource program director for Tip of the Mitt. He spoke to the members and guests of the Lake Charlevoix Association on Thursday, Aug. 12, at the Charlevoix Yacht Club.

The non-profit, environmental Lake Charlevoix Association is involved in a new state-funded study of the Lake Charlevoix watershed. The purpose of the three-year study is to maintain and improve the water quality in the watershed. A watershed is a drainage basin that includes all of the lands, wetlands, streams and lakes in a geographical area.

"We're embarking on an unbelievable journey with Lake Charlevoix," McEwen said of the study. "We'll study the problems and the challenges in the watershed and come up with preventive measures."

Lake Charlevoix is the second largest lake in the region, the association states. It covers 17,260 acres and has two major inlets, the Jordan and Boyne rivers, and seven tributaries. The shoreline runs for more than 59 miles. The cities of Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan sit adjacent to the lake's shoreline, along with seven townships.

"The biggest problem for Lake Charlevoix is polluted run-off," McEwen said. "Sediment, nutrients from fertilizers, oil from parking lots, all contribute to polluted run-off."

Roads that cross over streams are the biggest contributor of sediment and sand. Sand destroys the fish habitat, and limits the growth of algae and plants. Tip of the Mitt and other environmental groups will take an inventory of all road and stream-crossings.

Anglers trample banks which causes soil erosion, pushing sediment into the lakes. One solution is to have a main point of access to the lakeshore, perhaps a wooden stair structure that anglers will use, McEwen said.

A great deal of the trash gathered from the water and beaches isn't coming from boaters, but from city streets. There is nothing to stop a cigarette butt or other refuse from ending up in the lake. Trash doesn't go to a waste water treatment plant, he said. Rain water carries the litter as it runs into streams, rivers and, eventually, the lakes.

The wetlands are a major part of keeping Lake Charlevoix clean, McEwen said. They are a natural sponge that trap the nutrients found in storm water and sediment. They work as a natural filter to purify run-off.

McEwen spoke about the impact of development on the lake. Development takes out plants and algae that fish need to survive. As lakes become more developed, the fish will disappear.

But Tip of the Mitt isn't against all development.

"There is a way to live more sensitively on the lake, and how we manage our individual waterfronts plays a role in Lake Charlevoix's quality," McEwen said.

"We're saying leave the lake as good a place as we had here, to our next generation."

Teen-age golfer greets life, sport with can-do attitude provide support and stress social skills, honesty, responsibility, etiquette, and especially empathy for all golfers struggling to master the many fundamentals of the game and life.

"I really like the junior golf program, it's amazing. I like meeting new people and making new friends," Brian said. "It's just a lot of fun getting out there and playing on all the beautiful courses."

His enthusiasm for golf and life is infectious.

"Brian didn't let his physical limitation impact anyone else in the program," said Dean Davenport, Charlevoix junior golf's executive director. "The young man has a great attitude. He has gained self-confidence and lost his inhibitions. He inspires all others around him."

For sources of inspiration, Brian looks to golfer Tiger Woods and baseball major leaguer Jim Abbott. Abbott was born without a right hand. He developed into a star quarterback in high school. He later gained fame as a pitcher at the University of Michigan. He helped earn a gold medal for the United States baseball team at the 1988 Olympic Games.

A highlight of Brian's life occurred a few years ago. He met Abbott, then with the California Angels, before a game at Tiger Stadium in Detroit. "He told me I can do anything I put my mind to," Brian said, "and I believe him." That meeting, "was one of the best things that ever happened to me."

Brian is a freshman at Boyne City High School. He is looking forward to the new school year and plans to join the golf team. Again this season he will assist the football program there by helping video tape practices and games from the press box. In school, his favorite class is wood shop. He recently built a beautiful television console and stand, according to his proud mother.

He also enjoys playing basketball, football and video games. He is learning to play drums, and eventually wants to try skydiving. Brian likes to draw with pencils, pens and ink, especially super hero characters. So, a career as an artist or cartoonist may be in his future. To earn spending money Brian cuts lawns and baby sits occasionally. He would like to get a part-time job at a golf course.

Still a growing boy, Brian takes physical therapy twice a week, primarily stretching exercises to strengthen his right side. Friends and coaches have been very supportive and have even offered to help design a weight training program.

"It's nice to live in a small town like Boyne City where most people are friendly, helpful and understanding," he said.

Someday, he would like to talk with groups of children and young students who have physical limitations and let them know they can accomplish whatever they want to do.

Brian lives in Boyne City with his parents Jim and Susan Douglas and brother, Andy. His dad is an Intensive Care Unit nurse at Northern Michigan Hospital. Mom teaches first grade in Boyne City.

Brian appears to gain strength and self-confidence by facing and conquering challenges, and by appreciating what other people may take for granted.

As Jim Abbott said, "You can do whatever you want to do. There is no limit."

Brian Douglas is living proof.

Family reunions, picnics pack days of summer

EDITH

EDITH GILBERT

Family reunions and Charlevoix celebrations are as popular today as surfing the internet. Motels and hotels are filled with smiling families, who flock here from all over the United States. Finding a vacation home to rent is as difficult as finding a perfect Petoskey stone. The popular Pavilion at Depot Beach is a much sought-after gathering place for family picnics, and this summer it was reserved every day, according to the Charlevoix Department of Recreation.

I recently attended the 85th birthday party of my friend, Mary Engelman, who summered up here ever since she was a toddler, and has a deep love for Charlevoix. Her husband, Bob, hosted four generations, totaling 34 family members, to celebrate the occasion with her. Happily settled in at the Edgewater, Charly's Chef, Paul Carter, prepared a delicious meal in the private conference room, which also serves as a private gathering place for breakfasts. During the evening birthday celebration, Mary was toasted and sung to by her adoring family.

Nor was this Mary's first memorable birthday celebration in Charlevoix either! I recall that when she turned 40, Bob surprised her by hiring the Charlevoix High School Band. (There are probably a number of former young musicians still around, who remember this incident with amusement). With the cooperation of the Police Department, the uniformed band escorted Mary from the family's Michigan Avenue "cottage" to the former Beach Hotel. Here, guests were entertained with a grand performance of "This Is Your Life," which of course included Mary's five children.

There's an amusing story connected with the Michigan Avenue "cottage" that bears repeating now. For fifty years, Mary's mother, Lilly Straus, brought her family north every summer. Here they enjoyed the cool breezes off Lake Michigan, swam, rode horseback, played tennis, dined and gambled at the posh Colonial Club, usually referred to as Cook's. On rainy days the children played on the covered porch, while grownups either played bridge, or were taken in chauffeur driven cars to shop at Polly Kay's on Bridge Street. The only walking people did then was on the golf course! T'was a gentle life.

When Lilly Straus passed away in 1965, the family gathered together to decide, among other matters, what to do with the summer place. Should they keep it and continue to head north every summer or should they sell? What a shock it was to her heirs when they discovered that their mother did not even own the house! All these years she had been renting from the original owners.

Although she could have, by this time, bought the place three times over, on the other hand she never had to bother with repairs, maintenance, opening and closing the place. Everything was taken care of for her, including window washing and lawn service. Today, of course, we have such services in gated communities that make life easy for the owners of second. homes, still Mary's mother was far ahead of her time.

Before the Engelmans left Charlevoix to return home to Chicago, they obtained permission from the present owners of 418 Michigan Ave. to have a group picture taken on the steps by photographer, Terry Salmonson. If you happen to be on their Christmas card list, you may receive a photograph of this very special Charlevoix reunion.

Home place is where part of us lives forever

Ear to the ground

By Roger Knutson

I wanted to show the kids what the place looked like.

It had been almost 30 years since I had walked around on that ground. I had driven by more than once and looked from the road at the familiar farmyard and grove that bounded much of my childhood world. I knew where all the rocks and trees were and where every fence had been.

Each of the hundreds of trees retained its own distinct image; the giant cottonwood that still held the end of a chain connected in memory to a dog long since dead, and the strangely tall chokecherry that had somehow survived in the middle of the grove.

Each building was filled with what it had contained 40 years before; from the tiny pumphouse with its smell of grease and fuel to the once huge barn with stalls, feed bins and mangers downstairs and a giant sweet smelling loft piled with hay and filled with hidden corners.

By the time I left the farm the barn had not been in use for about five years, but the old hay was still there and the roof was tight enough to keep it just as dry and sweet as the childhood memory.

What did it look like now? Was the hay still there? What had become of the sad little pile of kitten bones (residue of a marauding tom cat) under the west side of the roof?

As we approached the driveway I saw the space the barn had occupied; the barn I had painted as a last gift to the place just before leaving for the navy in 1953. In that space a pile of ashes gave off just visible wisps of smoke.

Two days before, when the wind had been right, the present owners had set fire to the unused barn to get rid of it. They could foresee no way it might be useful to them and had torched it.

For a few minutes, I was outraged. Thought finally conquered emotion and I realized it was their barn and they could do with it as they would.

I have since thought of the old barn, and I still haven't come to terms with its destruction. I probably never will.

I don't quite know what to think about the whole event, but I have come to believe that I understand the feelings of a nameless plains Indian when he watched from a hilltop as a nameless immigrant dug the point of his plow into the prairie sod and altered forever an important part of the Indian's home place.

Home place is where part of us lives forever, and if the place is gone, we are diminished as surely as we are diminished by the loss of family or friend.

A highlight of groundbreaking ceremonies at the future site of the Griffin Hockey arena on Aug. 11 was a donation of $125,000 by the Petoskey-Harbor Springs Community Foundation. Barbara MacKenzie (right), the foundation's chairperson of distribution, presents a check to Bob Waugh, Char-Em Hockey Association president, Patty Gullon (left) of the Little Traverse Figure Skating Association, and Jeff Rizzo (right), Char-Em Adult Hockey Association president. The site is part of 77 acres originally donated by John and Janet Watson to the Little Traverse Conservancy. Project developers are Ira and Barbara Green. The arena will be home to hockey leagues, figure skaters, speed skaters and will offer open skating to the public. The facility is scheduled to open in October. (Photo by Doug Drapal)

Library seeks new 'friends'

All persons interested in organizing a Friends of the Library group are invited to a meeting from 6 p.m. - 7 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 26 at the Charlevoix Public Library.

"Friends" provide volunteer support and vitality to most community libraries. Charlevoix has been without a Friends of the Library organization for several years. This is an opportunity for a new beginning for Friends here.

"We need people of varied backgrounds with advice, time energy, and leadership skills to help," said Charlevoix Public Library Director Marybeth Wallick. "We are looking at a building project and especially need people with a construction and maintenance background."

For additional information call Wallick at 547-2651.

Waterfront Art Fair offers variety of selections

A beautiful day shone on 134 artists exhibiting their works at the 41st Annual Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair in East Park on Saturday.

The second oldest juried show in Michigan was a success again this year, Beth McGraw, an art fair coordinator, said.

"It went real well," McGraw said. "We're pleased with how things went and with the quality of art that was there."

Patrons stopped by the coordinator's booth and said they had been coming to the show for 20 years, and that it keeps getting better, McGraw said. She credits the volunteers of the Charlevoix Council for the Arts.

The fine art fair exhibits offered glass sculptures, printmaking, watercolors, jewelry, oils, ceramics, photography, and more. Artists from New York, South Carolina, Wisconsin and Florida, joined Charlevoix and other Michigan artists in displaying their works.

Christ Episcopal Church served 175 chicken salads homemade by the women of the church. They raised $1200 to go to mission work, Barb Jensen said.

The First Congregational United Church of Christ held its annual benefit during the art fair. The womens' fellowship donates "attic treasures" and hand-crafted items to sell, Cara Hochhalter said. The funds raised go to various charities.

Proceeds from the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair are invested in the children of the Charlevoix area. Children receive art scholarships to colleges, camps, and workshops, and benefit from music and dance performances.

I think I can, I think I can ...

Above: Jackson Crommie, 3, had his mind on something other than art at Saturday's Waterfront Art Fair. Through his determined efforts, Jackson succeeded in pulling his wagon up the hill. Jackson is from Malibu, Calif. and was visiting Charlevoix with his grandfather, Harold Mumau. Below: Annie Meier, 7, stayed cool and comfortable in her bright green Waterfront Art Fair T-shirt. Annie helped with Saturday's art event at East Park. She is the daughter of Jerry and Kathy Meier. Kathy Meier has served on the Charlevoix Council for the Arts for several years. (Photos by B.J. On December 28, 1946 he married Mary Ann Dean in Charlevoix. Harvey worked for the Charlevoix School system and later for Norton Standard Station for 16-1/2 years until it closed.

Mr. Hamilton was a member of the Community Church of God in Charlevoix. He loved fishing and woodworking. Harvey enjoyed playing sports in his younger days and as the years went on he grew to be an avid sports follower.

A graveside service was held Aug. 16 at the Barnard Cemetery in Marion Township. The Reverend Stephen Guthrie of the Community Church of God officiated.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Community Church of God.

The family was served by the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Alzheimer 'Memory Walk' slated for Charlevoix Saturday, Aug. 28

Hundreds of Charlevoix County residents are expected to walk to fight Alzheimer's disease in the 1999 Memory walk on Saturday, Aug. 28. The 3.5-mile walk will begin at 9 a.m. in East Park in downtown Charlevoix, rain or shine.

Funds generated from Memory Walk are used to provide free services to everyone seeking help from the Alzheimer's Association.

This year marks the 10th anniversary of the Northwest Michigan Chapter of the Alzheimer's Association. In that time, the number of community support groups has grown from one to 14, one of which is located in Charlevoix County. The local chapter has also sponsored many educational forums and has developed an extensive resource library in the county. Each week an average of 40 people call the Helpline & Referral number and nearly 25 people visit the chapter office for information, training and education.

"These people may be your friends, neighbors, family or perhaps even you," said chapter executive director Chris Weaner.

"People need other people especially during the times of crisis. A diagnosis of Alzheimer's disease is one of life's crises. Referrals to needed services, support for making tough choices, support from others sharing the same struggle... that is what the Alzheimer's Association is all about," said Weaner.

The Northwest Michigan Chapter does not receive state or federal funding but relies on special events such as Memory Walk. The community's participation enables the association to continue expanding research for patient independence, better ways to deal with behavior and memory changes and improvements to assist caregivers.

Alzheimer's disease is a disorder of the brain that gradually destroys mental capabilities such as memory, judgment and the ability to reason. It will affect nearly 14 million Americans by the middle of the next century. It is fatal and incurable. One of the first warning signs is memory loss.

For registration information call 1 (800) 337-3827 or (616) 929-3804.

Charlevoix Venetian Festival

To the Residents, Businesses, Families and Friends of Charlevoix

As the summer of 1999 draws to an end, we wish to make a final public acknowledgment of the watershed year experienced by the Charlevoix Venetian Festival and the extraordinary efforts by the entire community which made the Festival possible.

Management of the Venetian Festival was conveyed this past spring by the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce to a community based nonprofit corporation, Charlevoix Venetian Festival, Inc. Within a short period of time the community provided input and an ambitious program of activities emerged.

The 69th Annual Venetian Festival was then extended, for the first time, into eight days of activities. Numerous events made their debut, including the "Rhythm of Venetian Music Festival" and the "Venetian Games." The Festival was, by virtually all accounts, an overwhelming success.

Literally hundreds of volunteers and businesses, together with public bodies, rolled up their sleeves in support of "Venetian." Although the list of such "Friends of Venetians" is too numerous to acknowledge within this article, we extend our heartfelt gratitude to everyone who helped the 1999 Venetian Festival become reality. Thank you.

We do wish, however, to recognize certain contributors whose support was exceptional. The financial foundation for the Festival was built upon significant contributions by the following official sponsors:

Big Rock Point Restoration Project
Charlevoix State Bank
Citizens Bank
Pat McKeown Ford
Pepsi-Cola of Northern Michigan
Skyline Erectors
Southdown, Inc.

The following individuals, businesses and groups also merit special recognition for their generous contributions, which ranged from $500 to $11,000:

Richard Andresen
Beaver Island Boat Company
Thomas G. Bickersteth & Associates
Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce
Charlevoix Country Club
Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course
Charlevoix Recreation Department
City of Charlevoix

Trademark Clothiers
John Upjohn

Once again, thank you one and all for your wonderful support of "Venetian." We are looking forward to the 70th Annual Venetian Festival in the year 2000, the planning for which is well underway. Until then, best wishes.

Art & Sol offers fun for kids, break for parents

By B. J. Hetler

Art & Sol is just plain fun. The children who come up the sidewalk lined with pinwheels and other toys know that right off the bat. Adults following them take a memory trip into their childhood.

Walk into the front door of the new art boutique on Bridge Street, and if you aren't a child you wish you were. Colorful, little chairs are lined up on the enclosed, windowed porch waiting for kids with paint brushes, crayons, paste and other tools of creativity.

Visitors will find something to create while they spend some time in a world without worries and pressures. This is the goal of owner Liz Kalish-Wittenberg and the boutique's assistant, Kammi Richardson.

"We want the little kids to go crazy here," Liz said. "It's a place where all of your troubles are gone."

Every Tuesday and Thursday, Art & Sol holds art classes for ages four-12 that range from pottery painting and drawing to jewelry and candle making. In the fall, the classes will be held every day after school. Parents are not allowed, Liz said, not only to give parents time to themselves, but because it is better for the children.

"Children are most creative when they're working with other children," she said. "It's a child-friendly spot."

Creativity comes naturally for kids, but if a child needs coaxing, Liz gives the one-on-one personal attention to the children who need it. She has an education in child psychology.

Liz likes to teach creative techniques that children are able to do at home. This summer she held art classes at Ferry Beach, and she works with the parks and recreation department. She also teaches art to the Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts.

Liz moved to Charlevoix in May from Clarkston with her husband, James, and their four-year-old daughter, Rachel. Her desire to have an art boutique began when she was a child. She also has a boutique in Clarkston. The biggest challenge of owning her business is finding the fun items she remembers she loved as a child.

Art & Sol's shop has many of those items. Visitors will find an array of candy, candles, jewelry and bath products.

Art & Sol offers "Kids Night Out" from 6:30 p.m.-9 p.m., every Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights. This provides a unique opportunity for parents to drop the kids off for a few hours of creative fun, while they take a break and enjoy time to themselves.

The boutique offers pottery painting and other art classes for adults as well. Drop-ins are welcome and Liz participates in the area senior centers. Adult fine art classes will be held in the fall.

Attention Businesses:
Beware of "Bogus" Billing

Each year, businesses lose millions of dollars to "bogus" Yellow Pages billing schemes. Often bearing the famous (but never trademarked) walking fingers logo, misleading and fraudulent yellow pages solicitations look like bills – and they routinely get paid by many unsuspecting businesses nationwide. Examine your bill carefully before you pay it.

What to look for on a "Bogus" Bill

This universally recognized logo was never trademarked by AT&T, so anyone can use it.

If it's a solicitation, not an invoice, federal postal law requires that it must state this very clearly.

If it's a "Bogus Bill" solicitation, not an invoice, it must state "THIS IS NOT A BILL"

"Amount Due" generally between $100 and $400.

Again, look at the fine print stating that the form is a solicitation, and not associated with your phone company.

Pro to play 100 holes to benefit Charlevoix's junior golfers

Last summer local pro golfer Steve Braun played 100 holes in one day and by doing so raised $2,300 for the Charlevoix County Junior Golf Program.

Now, the Belvedere Golf Club professional is about to tee it up 100 times again!

It is all part of the PGA of America's annual fundraiser for junior golf.

The event is scheduled for Monday, August 23 at Belvedere with Braun's first shot slated at 6:30 a.m. Golf fans may view the marathon as Braun completes each round.

Braun has spent the last eight years in Charlevoix, four at Dunmaglas and the last four at the Belvedere course. He has received pledges this year from Belvedere members and some local residents. He welcomes additional support from people interested in helping area junior golfers. "A pledge for so much per hole is all we're asking," he said, "and the cause is a great one."

Dean Davenport, director and organizer of the Charlevoix Junior Golf Program, expressed gratitude for Braun's efforts, "Our only public fund-raiser has been the Supe Classic coming up in late August.

"The pledge money Steve raised last year sent seven youngsters to Ferris State's week-long golf camp. When coupled with the Supe Classic revenue, we are able to be solvent and balance our operating budget. Steve is a key instructor on our staff and his dedication and interest in area juniors is inspiring to everyone connected to our program," added Davenport.

To help conserve his energy, Braun will have a caddy/cart driver for each nine-hole round. Adults from the Junior Golf Mentoring program have volunteered to help, but a few more volunteers are still needed.

Anyone interested in making a pledge of financial support may call Steve Braun at 547-2611. Persons wishing to drive Braun's cart should call Dean Davenport at 547-6433.

Belvedere tourney ends junior golf season

Arris Finkbeiner needed an extra hole to win the 14-and-over flight championship in the final tournament of the 1999 Charlevoix County Junior Golf Program on Sunday, Aug. 8. at the Belvedere Club.

Finkbeiner and Chad DeKorte were tied at 48 after nine holes of regulation play. York Smith shot a 51, the best score among the 12-13 year olds participating in the Sunday league.

Jerry Roman, professional from the Municipal Course, was in charge of the summer league. He thanked Belvedere members, and staff pro and manager Steve Braun for permitting advanced juniors to play in an organized league there on one of Michigan's finest golf courses.

"It was a needed element that allowed our junior program to expand its offering to our older and better players," said Roman.

Jesse beats Tireless, rain storm

By Fair Winds,
Charlevoix Yacht Club

Even with a rain storm looming overhead and inconsistent winds, 31 sailboats competed in the sixth race of the Summer Series last Wednesday evening.

In moderate wind shifts, the sailors raced a seven-leg, mostly windward-leeward course set between Oyster Bay and Foster Boat Works. The course included a reaching leg from Foster to a jibe around the mark at Two-Mile Point and another reach down to Oyster Bay. Lots of spinnaker work was required on the non-jib-and-main yachts.

In Fleet A (Spinnaker 150 & lower), Kamikaze beat Gotcha by three minutes on corrected time, followed by Mint Julep.

In Fleet B (Spinnaker 153 to 195), Mi Joy, sailing with only a crew of three, held the lead from the start to the finish of the race. Our Thyme II, sailing with ringers aboard, and Babe had a "photo finish," crossing the line only six seconds apart. Cabaret, Bald Eagle and Saffron followed close behind.

In Fleet C (Spinnaker 198 & higher), Jesse sailed a beautiful race, crossing the line almost a minute ahead of Tireless. Cygnus was third, then Blasen III, Original Sin, and Sandpiper.

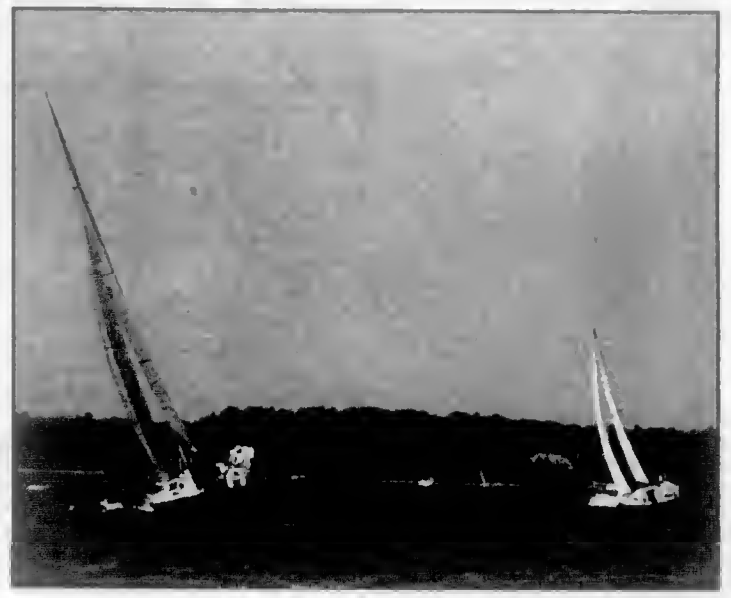
In the JAM 198 & higher fleet, Apothecary crossed the finish almost five minutes ahead of Cheemaun, who was followed by Red Hot. The only boat in the JAM 195 & lower fleet, Flash finished the race in 1 hour 44 minutes.

The J-22 fleet had 12 boats competing, with several veteran sailors joining the crews. Dave Irish skippered H. S. Moisture Missile, High Maintenance, Jubilees, What's-Her-Name, and Indigo.

With only two races left in the Summer Series, there are many opportunities for a change of standing within each fleet. We'll update next week.

Remember — the fantastic eleventy-seventh CYC on the water Treasure Hunt is Aug. 28. See details and entry forms at the Club and try to be there for a sneak preview Friday evening, Aug. 27.

(Former CYC sailing correspondent, A. Nony Mouse, wishes to compliment Fair Winds on a great job. Many thanks for the badly needed break!)



The competition continues to be fierce during the Charlevoix Yacht Club's Wednesday evening races on Lake Charlevoix. (File photos)

Brothers win walleye tourney

More than 50 walleye were netted by 19 teams in the Lake Charlevoix Walleye Tournament hosted Aug. 7 and 8 in East Jordan.

Tom and Todd Harlukowicz of Gaylord earned first place with ten fish totaling 19.29 pounds. They took home a check for $1,100 and wall plaques. Todd also caught the big fish of the tournament. His 3.73 pound walleye brought him a check for $95, and a pair of Redington jigging rods.

Russ and Jason Wiser of Petoskey took second place with seven fish weighing 11.93 pounds. They each earned a wall plaque and split a check for $500.

Third place went to Amos Skrocki and Mattt Mikulski of East Jordan. They weighed five walleye weighing 8.13 pounds.

Tom Engler of Charlevoix and Rick Hoffman of Dearborn received the "Cool Under Pressure" award for moving up the farthest in the standings on the second day. Their four fish catch weighed 6.85 pounds, moving them from 12th to fifth place. They took home a deluxe Thermos cooler.

All totaled, 51 walleye were weighed, totaling 76.69 pounds. Forty-eight of the fish were released alive.

The annual catch and release walleye tournament was sponsored by the East Jordan Area Chamber of Commerce.

Mackinaw slowpitch Aug. 28-29

The Annual Big Mac slowpitch softball tournament is set for Aug. 28-29.

The men's double elimination competition is sponsored by the Mackinaw City Sports Boosters. Entry fee is $150. For more information call Bob Downing at (231) 436-5300.

Big catfish to Frye

Big fish are biting in Lake Charlevoix, but not the kind you might expect.

Ed Frye of Charlevoix caught a 10 pound channel catfish in the south arm of Lake Charlevoix near East Jordan last week. Frye was jigging for walleye with a night crawler harness when the big cat hit.

Rock bass are biting near the Ironton Ferry, bass catches are still good on minnow crawlers at night, and walleye are plentiful but of little size, according to Mary Ann Hodak of Backwoods Party Store, formerly Frye's Bait and Tackle. "Hopefully the perch and salmon will be coming soon," said Hodak.

Beware of phone butler scam

Telephone marketing solicitors are targeting local senior citizens about a device called the "phone butler."

The product, basically an answering machine with caller I. D. capability, is being sold at inflated prices, according to Charlevoix County Sheriff George A. Lasater.

The organization, based out of Phoenix, Ariz., identifies itself as the "Senior Benefit Association." It promotes the machine as "secret service for senior citizens."

Comparable items can be purchased locally for substantially less than the "phone butler."

Eric M. Wendling pled guilty to malicious destruction of property over $200 and minor in possession in 90th District Court Aug. 3. He is awaiting sentencing on the charges.

Charlevoix County deputies developed information that Wendling had been involved earlier in a home invasion in Saginaw County in which firearms were stolen.

This information was relayed to Saginaw County Detectives who obtained a search warrant for Wendling's residence. Officers found a stolen shotgun under his mattress. The butt of the shotgun had been sawed off since the robbery.

Wendling is now facing additional multiple state and federal charges for possession of a sawed - off shotgun, according to Sgt. Don Sproul of the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department.

An 84-year-old Petoskey woman was injured and her car totaled in a one-vehicle crash Aug. 11.

She was trapped in her 1996 Jeep Grand Cherokee when the vehicle came to rest upside down. Sager was suspended upside down by her seat/shoulder belt, and extricated by the Charlevoix City Fire Department.

She was transported by Charlevoix ambulance to the Charlevoix Area Hospital, treated and released.

Bridging city's past and present

By Geoffrey D. Reynolds

"A bridge is more than steel and concrete... it is man's ideas and labor in visible form," said Charles M. Ziegler, state highway commissioner, at the dedication ceremony of the Memorial Bridge fifty years ago last July. Through those years it has remained a part of our community, used and sometimes cursed, daily.

Envisioned well before World War II, the construction of a new bridge in downtown Charlevoix started after the original plans were retrieved by city officials, dusted off, and submitted to the state for another attempt at funding.

On May 17, 1947, contractors, L. W. Lamb of Holland, Leudtke Engineering Company of Frankfort, and the Mt. Vernon Bridge Company of Ohio, began to form the sixth and current bridge.

As work commenced on the bridge observers took up spots along the channel banks to watch the action. Onlookers initially watched the construction of a temporary detour bridge. Then, day-by-day, the removal of the old steel structure, and the pouring of the huge, supporting cofferdams. Eventually they witnessed the placement of the first steel parts in July of 1948. The construction continued throughout the mild fall and winter.

Slowly the bascule bridge took shape, first as an emerging red-orange conglomeration of steel and concrete, later, a shining aluminum painted bridge, ready for use in booming, post-war Charlevoix.

Once completed, the bridge consisted of 400 tons of steel, 95,000 yards of concrete, and 50 tons of working machinery shaped into a structure that measures 223 feet long and offers 90 feet of horizontal clearance to vessels when opened.

On dedication day, July 30, 1949, James Whitley's idea of using the structure as a "memorial bridge" to those local veterans who made the ultimate sacrifice for their country during World War II, became a reality.

As morning dawned, a crowd gathered along Bridge Street and spilled into the adjoining park to witness the event largely organized by local Charlevoix booster Ralph Hamilton.

The ceremony started at 9:30 a.m. with a parade of participants, including the Gold Star families who represented the 22 servicemen lost during the war. They marched from the American Legion Hall and down Bridge Street to their platform seats.

There, commissioner Ziegler gave a solemn opening speech. A wreath was cast into Pine River. Jewish, Catholic and Protestant clergymen offered prayers. As a military tradition, rifle shots were fired to salute the dead, followed by the playing of taps. Finally, a plaque was placed on the west side railing support to mark the occasion for future generations. The festivities concluded later that evening with a dinner hosted at the Argone.

With the new bridge came new bridge tenders. The first three, who also spent time on the temporary bridge were chief Harvey O'Brien, Fred Bergmann, and William Gibson.

Over the years bridge tenders have included: chief Ted Bergmann, Danford Gallagher, Elmer Gibson, Edward Vieau, Leon Pryor, Charles Bergmann, chief Carl Sablesky, Pete Zeitler, Pat McGovern, and John Fratrick.

The current team of tenders are chief Randy Stevens, Carol Fratrick, Pete Couture, and Jim Howe.

(Editor's note: For more information on events that shaped Charlevoix's history visit the Charlevoix Historical Society's Harsha House Museum at 103 State St. Hours are 1 - 4 p.m. Thursday through Saturday. Or, contact executive director Betsy Reynolds, 547-0373.

Training at 'Ridge'

Area riders brought their horses to Timber Ridge Ranch in Ellsworth last weekend for training sessions with horse trainer and breeder Twister Heller.

Heller conducts the clinics, mostly in Arizona from where he hails, to work with horses and riders on special problems. He conducted the clinic with his partner, Mike Laughlin.

"These horses were already broke, but needed more help," Heller said. "The main problem with some was resistance, because they were race horses."

Heller said he likes to use a lot of body control and cultivate a quiet mind in the horse.

"You have to keep the horse relaxed. You can't work with a horse that isn't relaxed."

A big challenge in training horses is matching people with the horse, Heller said. The personalities have to be compatible.

"I like a real quiet horse," he said.

Heller has been working with horses since he was 12 years old. He has a continuous desire to perfect his horse training career.

"I still learn from horses," Heller said. "There are still times when I'll say, 'I never saw a horse do that before.'"

Fun is the focus at Camp Quality

By B. J. Hetler

Six-year-old Justin is a boy with clear, blue eyes and a big, infectious smile. While watching him run around camp and fly into the arms of a volunteer companion, it's difficult to believe he has leukemia.

Justin is one of more than 60 children who came to Camp Quality, a camping experience for children with cancer, to take a break from the stress of the disease. The camp was held Aug. 15-21.

The grounds at Camp Daggett where this year's Camp Quality was held, were full of the sights and sounds of kids talking and laughing. Some of the children and their companions played a perpetual game of softball, while others made crafts, constructed model cars, enjoyed canoeing, took field trips, sang at campfires, danced at a 50s sock hop, and more.

A doctor and nurse were on staff at the camp, but the kids weren't usually with them. More often they were participating in one of the activities, or having laughs and getting hugs from companions.

Companions are volunteers from all walks of life and all ages who come to camp for a week to be with the kids, one-on-one. Many keep in touch with the child and family throughout the year with letters, visits to the hospital, if necessary, and telephone calls.

Angee Vredenburg was a companion for the second year. She said fun is the focus of the week, and not the cancer.

"Seeing the kids happy for a week is great," Vredenburg said. "During the week, you're so caught up with the smiles, you don't think about it."

See CAMP, page 16

Survey: 106th District Rep. is most conservative Democrat

Freshman State Representative Andy Neumann, D-Alpena, is rated as the most conservative Democrat in the state house, according to a recent survey conducted by the publication, Inside Michigan Politics (IMP).

The IMP study provided a litmus test on a wide array of issues covering 30 roll call votes to produce a unique rating system. The purpose was to produce a short-hand identification, a one-sentence abstract on a politician's thinking on a full range of public issues.

Neumann, the first Democrat in more than 100 years to represent Charlevoix County, wound up with a voting profile considerably more conservative than the average for his party.

Neumann

In past surveys, it was found that many legislators whose parties did not necessarily enjoy majority status in the district they represented tailored their voting records to more closely reflect their constituencies, rather than what would normally be expected from the parties they belonged to. That was true again this year for Democrats, but not Republicans.

Neumann was an obvious example of this phenomenon.

In a numerical rating Neumann and Doug Spade, D-Adrian, who last fall both picked up open seats formerly held by Republicans in districts that are marginally Republican, tied as the 52nd most liberal members in the 110-member state house. They are the least liberal, and most conservative house Democrats.

106th District Rep. is most conservative Democrat acccording to survey

Pan Godchaux, R-Birmingham, was the most liberal Republican ranking 50th in the survey.

Neumann even substituted a more conservative bill (H-9) to a Governor Engler-backed Single Business Tax cut bill.

The freshman lawmaker says he is simply doing what he believes is right.

"I was elected by the people in my district.(106th) to represent them and make the best decisions possible for them based on information I gather and what I learn along the way," said Neumann. "I vote my mind and what I truly believe is best for my district. I am the independent voice for northern Michigan and not just towing the party line."

Because he has voted against his own party on a few occasions, Neumann expects to get some grief in upcoming Democratic caucuses. Still, he is confident about his decisions, and he maintains support from Democratic colleagues including House Minority Leader Michael Hanley, D-Saginaw.

Hanley ranked as the sixth most liberal member of the House.

Neumann may need the support.

It is widely held that the Republicans will aggressively target Neumann's 106th District seat for recapture in the 2000 election.

Now playing: Rhondi, Will you marry me?

If there was ever any doubt, romance is alive and well even with the 20-something generation.

Jeff Selik, 25, is an incurable romantic.

He wanted to propose marriage to his girlfriend, Rhondi Keller, 26, in a fresh and uniquely romantic way. So he got creative and bold.

Jeff and Rhondi planned to meet Jeff's sister and brother-in-law Amy and Steven Meretsky on Wednesday, Aug. 11 in Charlevoix. Selik's family has enjoyed summer vacations in the area for the past 15 years.

He wanted to "pop the question" to Rhondi while they were here.

Jeff and Steven brainstormed several ideas. Knowing Jeff and Rhondi were avid movie-goers, Steven came up with a winner.

Meretsky contacted Bill Supernaw, longtime owner of the Charlevoix Cinema III movie theater. He outlined his plan and asked if a special message could be put up on the marquis. Supernaw was happy to oblige the request.

The window of opportunity would be short. Supernaw had three movies scheduled for Wednesday evening. Timing was of the essence.

Selik and Keller had arrived in town earlier in the day. They were strolling along Bridge Street downtown window shopping and drinking slurpees.

Meanwhile, Supernaw was busy replacing his marquis lettering for movies and showtimes.

Selik suggested a walk past the theater to see what was playing that night. Keller agreed.

The couple proceeded down Antrim St. toward the cinema when Keller first noticed "Rhondi" on the marquis. What a coincidence she thought, "A new movie with my name in the title."

In a few seconds the full message was clear: "Rhondi, Will you marry me? Jeff."

"I couldn't believe it," she said. "I didn't know what to think, or what was going on at first."

Amy and Steven were at the theater, video camera in hand, filming the event for posterity.

Rhondi, still a bit startled, enthusiastically said, "Yes!"

The celebration was on, hugs and kisses all around.

The couple has dated each other for two years. "I always knew I wanted to marry Rhondi," said Jeff. "I just didn't know how I would propose, or when." They have not set a wedding date, yet.

Jeff works with Hillside Furniture in Bloomfield Hills, Mich. He is the son of Bruce and Suretta Selik.

Rhondi is an attorney in metropolitan Detroit. She is the daughter of Jerry and Judy Keller.

By the way, the new feature film which opened at the Cinema III that week is the latest blockbuster starring Julia Roberts and Richard Gere — "Runaway Bride."

It is about a beautiful bride who several times gets cold feet and dashes from the altar on her wedding day.

Rhondi assures all that nothing similar will occur at her wedding. "That kind of stuff happens only in the movies."

OPINIONS

The more things change, the more they stay the same

DOUG DRAPAL

It's funny how life can bring you back around to a place you thought you'd left behind...

The other day, while hurrying along Bridge Street on my way to snap a picture or two of some pre-1914 classic cars, a voice unexpectedly shouted out, "There he goes again, Ol' Mr. Manure."

It definitely got my attention, stopping me in my tracks. I turned to put a face with the unrecognized voice.

There, sitting on a green park bench in the shimmering sunlight was a well-dressed, distinguished-looking, silver-haired gentleman, a perfect stranger to me. And he was smiling.

Startled, I conjured up my best impersonation of Robert DeNiro's unforgettable character in the movie, "Taxi Driver."

"Are YOU talking to ME?"

"You bet your sweet grass I am," he replied.

Then I felt the blood in my veins beginning to boil. Somehow, I recalled what Ol' Grandpa D once told me to do at a time like this. "Count to 30 before saying a word."

"Who is this guy?" I wondered as I gazed at him, and why is he calling me bull_ _ _ _? At least he was being diplomatic with his choice of words, but the message was clear, or so I thought.

"Okay. You win. I don't have a clue. Why are you calling me that?"

"Cuz, you're like manure on the farm. You're all over the place!"

He slapped his knee and we both heartedly laughed out loud.

"I saw you at the pool auction, at the school board and city council meetings, at the Venetian parade, at my granddaughter's awards ceremony at Camp McSauba, at the art fair in the park, and at the Historical Society's art exhibit at Depot Museum. I just wanted you to know, you seem to be everywhere, like manure on the farm."

Again we laughed. He had made his point, politely and effectively. No malice was intended, my sensitivity unwarranted.

Still, the experience gave me a strong sense of recognition.

One of my favorite Yogi-isms, coined by baseball hall-of-famer Yogi Berra is taking on a personal meaning for me lately... "It's deja vu, all over again."

Several years ago, I helped publish a weekly newspaper in another northern Michigan community. The duties and responsibilities of a small town newspaper editor are similar wherever you go. Also too familiar are the joys, opportunities, rewards, satisfaction, disappointments, frustrations, pressures, stomach-knots and the ever-present DEADLINES.

Small independent newspapers add value to their community. They provide a local perspective gained through the knowledge and understanding of community needs, happenings, cultural events, and personalities.

To serve the community properly requires a deep commitment of time and energy. It requires gathering as much local information about what is important to the lives of as many varied people as possible. This means attendance is required, with notebook and camera in hand, at meeting after meeting, special event after special event.

It also requires making contacts in the community with everyone from the leaders to the ever-present silent majority, developing accurate and reliable sources of information, opening lines of communication with citizens, coaches, teachers, business owners, schools, clubs and organizations, government official.s Basically anyone who has the potential to impact the community.

Then there is the endless sorting of facts from gossip — distilling news from rumor.

It is a challenge I enjoy. I promise to do my best. I guarantee I will make mistakes.

Several years ago I asked my friend and mentor, Sonny Eliot, a question.

(Yes, THAT Sonny Eliot. The popular, witty, Detroit area television and radio weatherman and celebrity who put the tiny upper peninsula town of Enga-danga-dinga-dine on the map, and smiles on the faces of countless Michiganians.)

"Sonny, what is your secret of success?" I asked.

Without missing a beat, Sonny replied, "Doug, there is no secret of success, but there is a formula for failure — trying to be all things to all people."

He added that we all need to figure out who we are and what we believe in. Then stick with what we learn and do the best we can.

An intelligent man that Sonny Eliot is.

Some things are indeed easier said than done. I am trying to balance my professional need to gather and publish as much news and information as possible even as I heed Sonny's wise admonition.

This is where I need the help, assistance and understanding of you, the readers of this newspaper. Please let me know what you are thinking and feeling about issues that affect our town. I welcome your input and feedback, story ideas and suggestions, criticism, complaints and other contributions. Don't let sore spots fester until they are ready to explode.

Write, phone, fax, stop by the office (any time but Monday P.M. or Tuesday), or, call out my name when you see me hustling from place to place.

Just remember, my name is Doug... not Ol' Mr. You-know-what.

Questions school bonding issue processes

Editor:

Charlevoix taxpayers face an imminent request for school millage — but the hand begging alms is smudged by mendacity from the last such appeal. After endorsing that bond issue, citizens were informed that part of the funds would be diverted to Downtown Development.

This ploy cannot be characterized as anything but blatant fraud on the electorate.

A school flier just mailed out expresses the opinion that public response affirms "...the communities (sic) trust in the results..." of committee work.

Trust is generated by honorable conduct... not by declamations in a publicity handout. Who is the citizen to trust? Those individuals who wasted $8,000 on a land option for schools even before a perk test was performed... or those persons who hid a nonschool subsidy in the last bond issue?

The public does not know who perpetrated the bond issue fraud, and until these individuals are identified there is no basis for trust in school-based proclamations.

Who cooked up the bond issue scheme? Who endorsed it and put it on the ballot? Who knew about it and failed in their public responsibility to disclose it?

When these questions are answered publicly the electorate will be in a better position to determine whether the current crop of school bond proponents are worthy of trust!

Warns of reckless boating practices

Editor,

I'm writing a letter to warn boaters in the Charlevoix area of unsafe and reckless boating on Lake Charlevoix and Round Lake. You may think I'm writing about the boater who violates no wake areas, the boater who endangers others, or the boater who doesn't handle his or her vessel safely or properly. As a matter of fact I am, but it's not the average weekend boater I'm writing about. I'm writing about the reckless boating of the Charlevoix County Sheriff Department.

In three instances, I have personally witnessed unsafe boating practices by the Sheriff Department's water police. First, while my husband and his friend were scuba diving in Round Lake (with the proper flag raised on the boat as a warning signal to other boaters), a sheriff's boat came through the middle of the lake at high speed in response to an accident on shore. The ambulance and ground police had already responded and had the situation under and ground police had already responded and had the situation under control. It was unnecessary, and more importantly very dangerous, to speed through Round Lake with divers down.

I feel the divers were subjected to serious peril by the sheriff.

Secondly, while eating at a waterfront restaurant recently, a boater slipped and fell exiting his boat. Though the boater was not seriously injured, 911 was called and the Sheriff Department responded both by land and water.

The injured person was lying on his boat, being tended to by EMS personnel and regaining his breath, when the water sheriff entered the dockage area at high speed, stopping only feet before the boat the injured person was on, causing a large wake and rocking all boats in the area.

The sheriff did not survey the situation properly and did not need to cause more possible damage. What if the injured person was still in the water? What if he had a neck or back injury that required immobilization?

The wake he caused definitely was unnecessary, unprofessional and reckless.

Finally, the amount of police, Coast Guard and Conservation Officer coverage in Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix over Venetian weekend was overkill. Boaters being pulled over in dinghies for making a 2-inch wake and given sobriety tests.

Sheriffs on personal watercraft later than an hour before sundown (with no lights), and stopping boaters with no evidence of a violation makes me wonder if I live in a police state.

It is bordering on harassment.

Agreed, there are boaters in violation of laws every day, and those people should be stopped, ticketed, arrested, whatever. However, I feel that the "water cops" need to take a look at their own actions as well.

Are they safely operating their vessels? Are they following all the laws? Why is it that the water police can pull a citizen over for no apparent violation while a sheriff in a car cannot? The reason seems to be to torment people who, a majority of the time, are within the law.

I feel there is a double standard at the Sheriff's Department that needs to be examined and rectified.

Boaters in Charlevoix beware.

Suggestions for city parks

Editor:

I had limited time to spend in Charlevoix the past 7 years so I stopped to take a good look this summer.

I am a native, served on city council and school board, owned and operated business places, and with my wife raised 5 children here. I have always had interest in the area and someday hope to retire and return to spend a considerable portion of each year here.

I do like the end result of the recently completed Bridge Park project. The people responsible should be congratulated for their accomplishment. It is a beautiful park plus it developed space for Coast Guard and boat company offices on the lower level without destroying the harbor and bridge view from the park.

I understand the city wants to buy and remove the last remaining building in East Park at the corner of Mason & Bridge streets. This would give even better views of the harbor from the street and sidewalk.

This is a great idea, but I hate to see the three business places eliminated. Can we turn loose the same people who developed Bridge Park and have them design a similar building with the park on top and retain at least two places on the lower level where the ice cream and marine products stores could operate from. This would save two stores and we would have the park also with the views. The city would receive rental income too.

It would be great if we could give parks meaningful names that honor veterans who served in recent wars. We already have one, with Veterans Park at the corner of Belvedere Ave. and Bridge St. It has a plaque for World War I vets. It would be in order to add a plaque on a monument at Antrim St. and Bridge St. and list names of those killed in action.

Name the Chamber of Commerce park for Korean War vets and list names of those killed in action on a plaque placed on a monument. East Park could be for World War II and have a plaque listing those killed placed on a monument. This park has a monument with information about the submarine Escolar showing crew member names. It has a small plaque for Ben Gill of the sub Perch. Add a plaque on the other side explaining the sinking of the Perch, and listing those killed.

Bridge Park could honor Vietnam vets and list those lost. Erect a monument with plaques honoring airmen killed in the B-52 bomber crash in Lake Michigan several miles Northwest of Big Point. Also one in honor of the men lost in the sinking of the Carl Bradley out in Lake Michigan.

One more plaque is needed back in East Park (World War II). The band shell honors Clarence Odmark; we should add a plaque with history of the man. Put his name in large letters across the top of the band shell.

My keys were lost. Because my Glen's values card was on my key ring, the person who found the keys sent them to Glen's general office. The keys were then mailed to me.

TO DAD

"Come on boys let's go - we're headed north to Charlevoix," so into the car we'd fly, Jon & Jerry & Jim.

Depending on the season - off to ski or farm or just be young in Michigan, years ago when we were boys & Dad was nearer then to where we are today.

Now the seasons fly & summers & winters pass along the way but still once a year or so, 'bout now, we hear the cry "Let's go north" & celebrate the seasons of our Dad & looking back together celebrate the seasons of our life each year here in Charlevoix.

60th Anniversary

Winifred and Lawrence McDonough

Lawrence and Winifred McDonough will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary on Tuesday, Sept. 2, 1999.

Winifred (LaFreniere) and Lawrence were united in marriage on Sept. 2, 1939 at Holy Cross Church on Beaver Island before a gathering of some 300 friends and relatives.

Reflecting back to her wedding reception, Winifred recalls even the smallest details. "I will always remember the individual servings of ice cream were each in the shape of a bell, frosted in pink with a green clapper on top."

She also fondly remembers a few special wedding gifts. "The Indians gave us braided rugs. They bought supplies from my dad's general store. He could speak a little of their language, enough to understand what they needed. They were fine people."

In summer of 1939 the Top 'O' Michigan rural electric company provided electric power to Beaver Island for the first time. The workers were invited to attend the McDonough wedding. Progress on the project stopped for a day as all joined the celebration.

The couple honeymooned at Niagra Falls and took a car ferry across to the upper peninsula.

The McDonough's lived in a house Lawrence had built on the island the year before they married. "All of the materials, even the nails came from Preston Feather in Petoskey," said Winifred.

Lawrence sailed as captain of the first ferry boat to Beaver Island, the Beaver Islander and later the Emerald Isle. He was manager of the Beaver Island Boat Company for eight years before his retirement.

The McDonough family grew to include six children. The family moved to Charlevoix in 1973.

Children are sons Gary (Jean) McDonough of Lake St., Louis, Mo., Larry (Kay) McDonough of Grand Rapids, Joseph (Tarry) McDonough of Beaver Island, Kevin (Linda) McDonough of Beaver Island; and daughters Pam McDonough (Dr. Brad) Grassnick of Farmington Hills and Beaver Island, and Kathie McDonough (Jim) Gonyeau of Washington, Mich.

Two sons followed in the footsteps of their father. Kevin is now the Senior Captain, and Joe is engineer of the Emerald Isle ferry.

Lawrence and Winifred also have 17 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

By Rev. Bruce Hamilton
Charlevoix Community Church of God
(This column is reprintedfrom August 29, 1997.)

One sure sign that the change of seasons is on the way is the return of football to the sports scene. Ready or not, it's there more and more in the nightly news and in the papers. Even the high school boys are getting reacquainted with the gridiron.

Back in the good old days of Big Ten college football, when Bo Schembechler coached at Michigan and Woody Hayes held court at Ohio State, the story is told of a visit Bo paid to Woody's office. Bo's attention was drawn to a red phone sitting on Woody's desk.

"What's that Woody?"

"That's my hotline to God."

"I sure could use some good advice right now. Can I try it out?"

"Sure, just run your credit card through the strip at the bottom"

Bo did and really enjoyed the chat.

A few weeks later at Ann Arbor, Woody came to visit Bo. Low and behold on the corner of Bo's desk, there sat a special telephone.

"Hey Bo, what's that?"

"Well, I liked yours so much, I had my own hotline to God installed."

"Say, that's great Bo. There's something I'm working on that I could use a little advice on. Do you mind if I use it?"

Woody reached for his wallet to pull out his credit card. Bo stopped him.

"Go ahead and use the phone, but there's no need for a credit card here. It's not a long distance call."

How much does your own personal relationship with God mean to you? Do you realize the worth of personal worship in your walk with the Lord? I have said this may times over the years. If you rely on the hour or so you spend in a church service on Sunday morning as the sole source of spiritual strength that you receive each week, you will have problems with your faith. It will not hold up when you really need it. But if you go into a worship service and use it as a training opportunity, a chance to obtain the insights and tools you need to apply your faith to the everyday, you will soon discover just how valuable you faith can be.

To continue the football analogy, how effective would a team be if they just showed up on game day and expected to win? You already know the answer to that. The would be overrun in a hurry. To win a football game not only takes the basic physical discipline that daily practice brings to a team, but also studying your opposition, working on different strategies for the different situations you may face in a game and more. It takes a team to win a game as well. The "stars" you read or hear about in the sports sections don't come by their notoriety on their own. They have a supporting cast of linemen and coaches that make it possible for them to "look so good."

That's why you really can't live out the life of faith on you own. The church offers you the tam spirit you need. It's not just the pastor who coaches you. It's brothers and sisters in God's family that are sharing the adventure with you. When you are really immersed in your faith, fully participating in all the possibilities God sets before you, that's when things start to happen.

Look on you weekly worship experience as training camp. Look at those who worship with you as your teammates. When the final "amen" sounds at noon, the game has only begun. You need what you can learn in worship and those you share that experience with to get you through the challenges of a new week.

Kate M. Klingbeil, 9, authored and illustrated this book on Charlevoix. The fourth grader's school project includes interesting information about Charlevoix's past and present history, several colorful pictures of area scenes, and the poem, "Charlevoix The Beautiful." Kate spent part of her summer vacation with grandparents Sue and Bill Klingbeil of Charlevoix. She is the daughter of Dr. Fred and Carol Klingbeil of Chagrin Falls, Ohio. Kate's poem appears below.

Charlevoix The Beautiful
By Kate M. Klingbeil, age 9

I am Charlevoix oh so small,
I'm very pretty in the fall.
The leaves are yellow, orange and red,
they dance way above my head.

I am Charlevoix oh so quaint,
where different people come to paint.
They paint my rolling hills,
and sky where birds fly.

I am Charlevoix a summers dream with so many beautiful lakes and streams.
Fish come here to lay their eggs and when they hatch it's a real big catch.

I am Charlevoix where the world's biggest cherry pie was fed, where the cherries grow a plenty big round and red.

Utility bills get new look

Did you notice anything different about your latest utility bill?

It's larger than ever, but not necessarily as you may think.

The actual dimensions of the card on which billing information for Charlevoix utility users is printed has increased in size. Formerly the bill was on a four-inch-by-six inch postcard. The new bill measures five inches by just over eight inches.

The change was made as a result of an upgrade in the city's computer software systems. The old system software was not Y2K (Year 2000) compliant and a new software package was acquired three years ago.

This data based software will facilitate the city's tax receiving system, operating ledgers and payroll systems, as well as billings for water, electric and sewer. Changes in the appearance of the utility bill is the last of the major upgrades.

The increased size of the card is a function of the computer program. There is no practical need for the change at present. However, if deregulation of the electric power industry occurs in the future the additional space will be needed.

"We will be required to provide the customer with a much more detailed breakdown of utility charges," said Richard Brandi, city treasurer. "More lines of information will require additional space."

A downside of the larger bill is that it costs more to mail. The postcard exceeds the size allowed by the postal service for bulk mail rates.

Charlevoix's nearly 7,000 residential and commercial utility customers can look forward to another change in the future. The bills will be mailed in envelopes to provide privacy of account information.

Book Review

Discovering Beaver Island

Reviewed by Paul G. Connors

"Unspoiled, Unhurried, Unmatched in Natural Beauty," is the way in which the local chamber of commerce aptly describes Beaver Island.

For these reasons, America's Emerald Isle is no longer "Unknown."

For nearly the past decade, the former Irish-American fishing colony has experienced a tourism boom. With the assistance of a strong national and state economy and capable civic leadership, the isle annually attracts thousands of travelers seeking to elude the intrusiveness of today's consumer culture. Once there, however, many visitors encounter the pleasant problem: Where to start exploring?

In Bill and Jeff Cashman's new book "Discovering Beaver Island" (Paradise Bay Press 1999), the authors tramp the nearly 55 square mile island, as well as Garden and High Islands. In a quest to refamiliarize themselves with the environ's more secluded fascinations, the authors provide both newcomers and experienced pathfinders a valuable scenic guide.

As a long-time resident and director of the Beaver Island Historical Society, Bill Cashman has crafted a well-written narrative. Readers are exposed to the "intense wonderment" of traversing a beaver dam along Blue Trail, encountering "a lone deer brunching on quack" near Round Lake, and the spying of an eagle roosted on a dead pine near High Island's Lookout Mountain. Equally engaging are the 440 full-color images that grace the book.

If there is one drawback to this 120-page 8 x 10-inch book, it is the absence of a detailed island map that highlights the noteworthy scenes and descriptive captions of many of the picturesque photographs. Also, one hopes that the format in later printings would include a larger, hardback edition.

This enjoyable book may be purchased at the Beaver Island Historical Society (http://www.beaverisland.net/) and at the Bridge Street Book Shop in downtown Charlevoix.

Family-owned auto wash cleans up in Charlevoix

By B. J. Hetler

A father and son team opened an auto wash in Charlevoix a couple of weeks ago, and the owners say they are busy.

"We've had a good response," Chris Monte of Monte's Soft Cloth Auto Wash said.

For Chris and his son, Nick, this is their second auto wash. The first business is in Gaylord. The Charlevoix location is at 850 Petoskey Ave. The two divide their time between the locations.

Monte's offers several choices and price ranges for its drive-through wash. All vehicles are hand-dried.

"You have to hand-dry," Chris said. "It's not going to look good if you don't hand-dry it."

The Montes know cars, having been car buffs for years. Chris is proud to have owned a 1963 "midnight blue" Grand Prix, 421 four-speed, tri-power, a 1966 Chevrolet Corvette, and a 1947 Cadillac limousine that he made into a street rod.

Monte's provides detailing of cars, including steam-cleaning of interiors and hand-waxing, by appointment. The auto wash is open from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m., Monday-Thursday, 8 a.m. until 7 p.m. on Friday, 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. on Saturday, and 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. on Sunday. The telephone number is 547-8068.

DME promises faster cleanup of toxins

By B. J. Hetler

DME Company will comply with requests to immediately clean up some areas where toxins from an on-site dump have seeped into groundwater, its attorney promised the state.

The tooling company at 06342 Ferry Ave., owned by Cincinnati Milacron, has been removing and incinerating some contaminated soil from the dump, as requested by the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ). But, it has been dragging its feet on treating contaminated groundwater, environmentalists say.

The major problem is the presence of vinyl chloride, a colorless gas, Dan Darnell of MDEQ said. Vinyl chloride, a known carcinogen, is entering Lake Charlevoix at a rate five times higher than the state health standard. The company's site is 450 feet from Lake Charlevoix.

The toxin entered the soil from the dump on DME's property, and from a lagoon used by the company at one time to dispose of spent solvents, used oils and coolants. With time, the toxins have seeped into groundwater.

Contaminated groundwater is migrating off-site onto private properties on Matthews Lane, Darnell said. Levels of vinyl chloride in groundwater on these properties exceed the criteria for drinking water and other activities.

MDEQ notified DME Company that it was ready to proceed with steps to remedy the contamination. The costs incurred would be paid with state funds, after which MDEQ would seek reimbursement from DME.

But DME's attorney, Joe Quandt of Traverse City, recently telephoned Darnell and said that DME would follow the procedures outlined by MDEQ to rectify the groundwater.

"DME has agreed to conduct groundwater treatability studies by the end of October to determine the best treatment to rid the groundwater of contamination," Darnell said.

MDEQ's Elaine Pelc explained DME's proposal.

"DME has promised to treat everything from Matthews Lane to Lake Charlevoix according to the most restrictive criteria for groundwater," Pelc said.

Other contaminated land sits behind DME and the company proposes a deed restriction for that area.

"For the back lots, which are predominately wetlands, from DME to Matthews Lane road, the company wants a deed restriction," Pelc said. The restriction would be attached to a deed. It would notify potential buyers of contaminated groundwater in the area, and that the water was unsafe for drinking.

"The deed restriction would be lifted after the eventual clean-up," Pelc said.

The company will work on the contamination of private properties immediately, and then concentrate on the company's property in the future, she said.

Pelc met last week with the Matthews Lane residents who are concerned about the contamination. The residents were receptive to DME's first proposal to treat soil and groundwater from Matthews Lane to the lake in line with the most restrictive criteria. They were more hesitant about the deed restriction proposal, but Pelc said she thinks they will consider it.

"They want the area cleaned up," Pelc said.

Norwood community day offers something for everyone

Families, friends, neighbors, and kids are invited to enjoy a fun-filled day at the annual Norwood Community potluck, picnic, parade and auction on Sunday, Sept. 5 on Labor Day Weekend.

Activities start at 4 p.m. with a parade along Norwood Road and Center Street.

Adults with horses or other animals, antique or other fancy cars or tractors or other unique attractions are welcome to join the parade. Prizes will be awarded to children with the "most creative" parade entries. Parade line-up will be at 3:50 p.m.

Supper will follow the parade with hotdogs and beverages provided. Everyone is asked to bring a dish to pass, and their own table service and lawn chairs.

After dinner two fund-raising auctions will be held, one for children and one for adults.

Power cables installed for Beaver Island

A project to provide Beaver Island with a reliable power supply for the next 20 years will increase the monthly cost of an islander's electric bill.

The two-stage, $4.3 million project began Aug. 18 with the laying of three new power cables from the Sturgeon Bay area to Beaver Island. The project is being undertaken by Great Lakes Energy, the island's power supplier.

The first stage involves rebuilding nearly five miles of power lines from a substation near Cross Village to Beaver Island. That includes a 27-mile stretch of power cable that runs along the bottom of Lake Michigan from Sturgeon Bay to the island. Three new power cables will be laid along the lake bottom near the existing one providing a total of four underwater cables serving the island.

The underwater cables are to be laid this week, weather permitting. Onshore work expected to take up to 10 weeks to complete has already begun.

The second stage will involve totally rebuilding the backup power plant on the island with the addition of two new, larger generators. This work is expected to be completed in November.

The revamped plant will be able to handle an emergency similar to the one that occurred in February when the island's main underwater cable failed.

The loss of one underwater line would not create an emergency with four underwater cables serving the island since each one alone could adequately power the island much of the time.

A special surcharge to help cover the project's cost will add as much as $12.7 a month to an islander's average electric bill. New residents will also pay more to have their power hooked up on the island.

Camp Quality offers fun, respite for kids

CAMP

Vredenburg travels from the Grand Rapids area to volunteer at the camp.

Hank Kuehl from Petoskey has volunteered at Camp Quality for eight years.

"It's a chance to help kids and have fun," Kuehl said.

Eleanor West is Camp Quality's director and has been a part of the camp for 12 years. West is the person everyone goes to for advice, information, or when there is a problem. She handles everything with calm directions, taking time here and there to talk with a child and give a hug.

Camp Quality was founded in Sydney, Australia in 1983. Locations worldwide number more than 50, and the United States has 12 camps. The camps provide a break from the stress of cancer for the children and their families. Children range in ages from three to 17.

There is no cost to the family for any part of the Camp Quality program. It is community-funded by individuals and by corporate sponsorships.

Volunteers work as companions, camp organizers, cooks, and more. Doctors and nurses volunteer their time at the camps.

Parents interested in enrolling their child may telephone Camp Quality USA, at (231) 582-2471.

Donation or sponsorship information may be obtained by calling, or by writing to P.O. Box 345, Boyne City, Mich. 49712.

Kerry Jones, a companion, is full of hugs for Camp Quality campers. The volunteer companions are with the kids for a week and form a special bond. Most companions keep in touch with the kids and come back year-after-year. (Photo by B.J. Hetler)

City taking tree requests

Charlevoix residents and business owners may now call and request shade trees for planting along city streets later this fall. The annual program is designed to replace trees that have gotten old and died, and to fill-in open areas in front of businesses and residences.

The free shade trees will be planted only for property owners who submit their request to the City Clerk, or by calling 547-3270. Reservations for a total of up to 100 trees will be accepted now through mid-September.

City staff will plant ash, callery pear, American elm, and little leaf linden trees. Tree sizes vary from six-to-nine feet in height, with diameters of approximately two inches.

No maples will be planted.

Asiatic long-horned beetles were found recently in Chicago and New York. There is a possibility that the pests, which primarily attack maple trees, could spread here.

Infected maple trees must be destroyed, according to Robert Irving, a member of the Charlevoix Shade Tree Commission.

"There is no other recourse available. That's why it is important to plant a diversified tree species. So please ask for your trees now," said Irving.

Charlevoix is recognized as an official Tree City, USA by the national Arbor Day Foundation. The city has twice received the foundation's annual grand award for outstanding efforts to promote tree plantings.

Police arrest transient house painter

A 57-year-old South Carolina man was arrested Aug. 19 for violation of the Michigan Occupational Code.

Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department made the arrest after receiving complaints from several Marion and Norwood Township residents. The residents complained that people driving unmarked pick-up trucks with out-of-state license plates were coming to their homes and asking to be allowed to paint their barn roofs.

Senior Citizens Center seeking new cook

The Charlevoix Senior Citizens Center is searching for a chief cook to fill the position of Diane Celaschi, who is retiring.

The new cook will have to be a special person, the director Earl Muma said. The center has been fortunate to have Celaschi.

"She's a fantastic cook, and a great asset to the center," Muma said.

The Senior Citizens Center prepares lunches Monday-Friday. It serves more than 20 meals in the center, and another 30-50 meals that are delivered, Celaschi said. Special nutritional meals are prepared for diabetics or seniors on high-protein diets.

Workers and volunteers prepare meals for the community twice each month as fund-raisers. The center also hosts birthday parties and other events, and prepares business lunches in the area.

"We're totally self-sufficient," Celaschi said. "We don't receive any funds from COG (Commission on Aging), or the county."

Celaschi said she shops for the food and looks for savings. A menu is organized once a month. The position is a paid position, and the cook has an assistant.

Celaschi is leaving after four years with the Senior Citizens Center. She plans to be available to help out, but will spend some time traveling with her husband. She said she enjoys the center.

"It's a lot of fun. It's interesting work, because the people talk about when they were growing up," she said.

"I will miss the people and my co-workers. It's a great bunch of people."

Skeet shooter brings home state medal

By B. J. Hetler

Charlevoix's Jason Martin brought home the gold medal in skeet shooting at Saturday's state tournament held in Elk Rapids.

Jason, 12, was the youngest shooter in the junior division. The 4-H Club member shot 40 out of a possible 50 points. The highest score in both the junior and senior divisions was 44.

Jason said he felt "pretty good" about his score. He started shooting skeet about a year and a half ago, and has been coached by his father, Steve Martin.

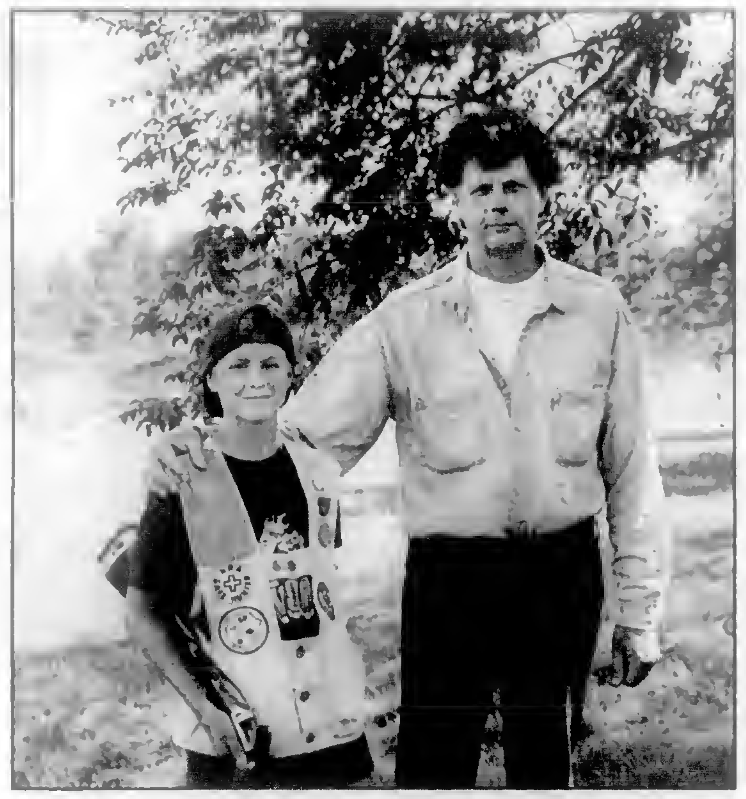
"I'm really proud of my son," Steve said. "He did a good job."

Steve began shooting skeet when he was the same age as Jason. At 14, he gave it up until a couple of years ago. Three days a week, father and son practice at the Rod & Gun Club, where Jason works as a trapper.

Steve is hoping to find four boys to compete on a team with Jason at next year's tournament.

Parents participating in a sport such as skeet shooting have fun together and form a lasting relationship. He has advice for other parents.

"Spend time shooting together," Steve said. "Don't just drop the kids off — kids need to spend time with parents and learn from them."



Jason Martin, 12, won the gold medal in skeet shooting last Saturday. The 4-H member was the youngest shooter in his division at the statewide competition in Elk Rapids. Jason's father, Steve Martin, began teaching his son to shoot skeet a little over a year ago. Jason wears the vest his father wore when he was the same age. (Photo by B. J. Hetler)

Sailing: First Date takes first place

Wednesday evening, Aug. 18 the race committee started the fleet at two mile point and sent them to Pine Point for what was thought to be the first of five legs of the race.

Light wind dropped to calm. The yachts drifted intermittently and caught small zephyrs of faint wind as they made their turn and raised the lighter spinnakers and tried to head south.

The course was shortened and the yachts maneuvered in the whispers of presumed air to place their crews in a favorable position for the finish. Credit Don Bowerman for the foresight to shorten this one.

For the evening, Kamikaze took the gun when her competitors dropped out.

Mark Pirie's Mi Joy took first in the Mid Spin Fleet with the Sabers of Mielke and Herald right behind, followed by Mitch-Mike-Mark in M3 then Babe and J-Hawk, three J-22s that held together through the night.

Karl Jurries tightened up the series scoring in Blasen III in the P-Boat Fleet by pulling a first, with Jesse, Mike Miller in his Original Sin, Tireless, Cygnus and Sandpiper staying the course and finishing the race. Cheemaun captured the gun in the First JAN Fleet, followed by Red Hot and Apothecary.

In the larger JAM boats, Flash Gordon showed the way. Only six J-22 boats came out as several went to Cleveland to compete in the J-22 World's.

First Date took first place followed by Crazy Horse, What's Her Name, Gecko, Paleface Lite, and Jubblies.

Who names these boats anyway?

Till next week, this is A. Nony Mouse, watching the western skies.

State amateur returns to Belvedere in 2003

Historic Belvedere Golf Club in Charlevoix will host the Michigan Amateur Championship June 15-21, 2003. The announcement was made Sunday by Brett Marshall, executive director of the Golf Association of Michigan, the event sponsor.

"We are enthused with the prospect of going back there," said Robert McMasters, president of the sponsoring GAM. "It's a wonderful place with a lot of great memories for a lot of players. We think it's a wonderful thing that Belvedere wants to have the Amateur return."

J. Richard Tomkinson, president of the Belvedere Golf Club membership echoed the sentiments. "We are equally proud to be staging the most prestigious amateur tournament in Michigan at our course," said Tomkinson. "The entire contingent of members of the Belvedere Golf Club, the Belvedere Club board, and the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce are committed to provide a tournament in 2003 that everyone will be proud of."

Belvedere, designed by William Watson, has hosted more Michigan Amateurs than any other club in the state, 38, including 26 consecutive years from 1963-1988.

After the 2003 tournament, the championship will continue to rotate to different sites around the state of Michigan as it has done since leaving Belvedere after the 1988 Amateur.

"Moving the tournament to different venues around the state has allowed us to expose the Amateur to more golfers in different geographic areas than ever before and the level of interest amongst the players has never been better," said McMasters. "We certainly think they (Belvedere) will do an outstanding job and are pleased to have them back in the rotation."

Winners of the Championship at Belvedere reads like a Who's Who of amateur golfers in Michigan history.

Chuck Kocsis of Detroit won the first of his record six Amateur titles at Belvedere in 1930. Kocsis also won there in 1948 and 1951. Bob Babbish of Detroit won his lone Amateur crown there in 1935. Kocsis' brother, Sam, captured the title at Belvedere in 1941 before World War II interrupted the tournament for four years. Louis Wendrow of Lansing won in 1946 when the Amateur resumed following the War.

Glen Johnson of Grosse Isle won the fourth of his five titles at the club in 1958. Bud Stevens claimed two of his three crowns there in 1963 and 1965.

During its 26-year stay at Belvedere from 1963-1988 golfing notables such as Bill Newcomb of Ann Arbor (1967), Lynn Janson of East Lansing (1968), Peter Green of Franklin (1969, 1979, 1986), John Grace of Detroit (1971), Randy Erskine of Battle Creek (1972), Dan Pohl of Mt. Pleasant (1975, 1977), John Morse of Marshall (1978), Steve Maddalena of Jackson (1980), Bill McDonald of Royal Oak (1981), and John Morgan of Birmingham (1985) all earned titles. The last champion crowned at Belvedere was David Van Loozen of Pontiac.

Pool offers scuba diving lessons

Have you ever dreamed of being able to swim amidst schools of fish, search for sunken treasure? Or are you an old "Sea Hunt" fan who always wanted to trade places with Mike Nelson?

If so, you need to first learn how to scuba dive.

Scuba classes will be offered at the Charlevoix Area Community Pool in September.

Scuba diving is one of the fastest growing recreational sports in America and is an activity that can be enjoyed world-wide by persons ages 12 and older.

The Charlevoix Area Community Pool will join with Scuba North, a full-service Naui Pro facility in Traverse City to present the first scuba classes in the area.

Local Naui instructor Murray Kilgore will conduct a week-long open water certification course starting Monday, Sept. 1999.

Classes run 6-10 p.m. each day. They will include academic sessions, pool sessions and open water dives.

Participants need to bring their own mask, fins, and snorkel. Other necessary materials will be provided and are included in the course fee.

Cost of the course is $275. For registration information call Scuba North at (231) 947-2520.

There will be a lunch break, and students are asked to bring a sack lunch.

A testing session for those who complete this clinic will be held in Charlevoix and Boyne City later in September. Dates and time will be announced.

Attendance is mandatory at both sessions, the clinic and testing, to receive the Hunter Education Certificate.

The clinic is free.

Vacation Bible School kids give to 'Habitat'

By B. J. Hetler

Community Vacation Bible School children from eight area churches were educated in the art of giving last week.

More than 78 children donned plastic hard hats and presented a collection of household products to Habitat for Humanity last Thursday at the Charlevoix United Methodist Church. Kristyn Balog, the administrative director for Habitat for Humanity, and president of the board, Beverly Ironside, accepted the donations.

Organizer Cara Hochhalter said the experience was good for the adults as well as the children.

"We feel it is our obligation as Christians to reach out to others in need, and to share resources," she said.

The products were shared among three families, including a family of three who are the next recipients of the new 1,000 square-foot-house on the Boyne-Charlevoix Road. It is being built by volunteers. The land for the home was partially donated and the remainder paid for with contributions, Balog said.

"What we need right now is a mason," Balog said. "We have the volunteers to do the work, but we need a professional."

Habitat for Humanity is an international, ecumenical, Christian housing ministry. Its goals are to eliminate poverty housing and to provide decent shelter to people in need in Charlevoix and Emmet counties. Volunteers typically build one house each year.

To qualify for a house families must be living in substandard conditions and unable to qualify for a conventional home mortgage loan, as well as meeting other criteria. Families work alongside volunteers to build the house.

The two-or three-bedroom homes cost $30,000-$35,000 to build. The finished house is sold to qualifying families with mortgage payments that go back into the fund to build more homes.

Habitat for Humanity may be reached at P.O. Box 827, 2350 Mitchell Park Dr., Petoskey. The telephone number is (231) 348-6926.

More than 78 children from Charlevoix Vacation Bible School attended the presentation of donated household products to the non-profit Habitat for Humanity organization. Eight churches participated in the collection of products. The event was held at the Charlevoix United Methodist Church Thursday, Aug. 19. (Photos by B. J. Hetler)

Police arrest transient man

Arrest

Police located one subject who had several buckets of a tar solution and a paint sprayer in his truck. The subject admitted that there were other relatives in the area also doing the same type of work.

Upon investigation, deputies located photocopies of blank work order/invoices with a company name, but no address or phone number listed. Further investigation revealed that the suspect has a criminal record in at least three different states, including an arrest for "false pretenses."

The suspect appeared the same day in 90th District Court. He pled guilty and paid fines and costs.

"Citizens are reminded to verify any credentials of 'home repairmen' and to use extra caution when being solicited in their homes," said CCSD Sgt. Dan Sproul. "It may also be a diversion to allow an unseen accomplice to enter the home and steal valuables while the home owner is distracted by the 'pitchman.'"

Past investigations have revealed that the repair work is very substandard and is grossly overpriced when compared to what a local business would charge for a better job, according to Sproul.

Board raises ticket prices, passes special election resolution

By B. J. Hetler

Ticket prices will go up for athletic events beginning this school year.

Individual tickets to football, basketball, soccer, and other games will cost $4, up from $3. Family passes are increased from $65 to $75, the school board voted on Monday.

The increase will bring ticket prices in line with other school districts.

Prices were behind Petoskey, Boyne City, and other area schools, athletic director Keith Haske told the board.

Haske hopes to use the extra income towards new coaches for volleyball, cross-country and soccer.

The board adopted a special election resolution for an October 11 millage election, after receiving word from the state that the election was approved.

If passed by voters, the 2.84 mills, or $18.8 million bonded amount, will be used to build a new high school and auditorium on a new site, renovate the high school for middle school students, and update the elementary school.

The proposal increases the property taxes of a homeowner with a taxable home value of $60,000 by $170.40 a year.

John Bishop, of Baird, Cotter & Bishop accounting firm in Cadillac, reported to the board that an audit of Charlevoix schools for the 1998-1999 school year showed the schools financially healthy.

"The schools are in good financial shape," Bishop said. "Especially in light of no increase in state aid."

Despite no state aid increase, a fund balance of $2,881,571 carried over from the prior year helped to pay for expenses, such as wage increases, Bishop said. That excess, combined with the 1998-1999 figures resulted in revenues over expenses by $139,072. The fund balance is $3,020,643.

The board accepted the resignations of Marlynn Hughes as community education director and teacher assistant, and of Janet Freidinger as varsity tennis coach.

It approved the hiring of Debra Devitt as high school counselor. Devitt is a graduate student at Central Michigan University. She held the position of student support counselor at Sanilac Career Center for about a year and a half.

Appointments approved by the board were:

* Mike Dennis as freshman girls basketball coach

* Dean Lazowski as seventh grade girls basketball coach

* Don Potter as eighth grade girls basketball coach

* Tom Morrison as middle school Rayder girls basketball coach

* Pat Klooster, Dan Yenglin, Jiggs Whitley and Mike Smith as middle school football coaches, and

*Suzanne Klinger as community education director.

The Northwind Brass.

Northwind Brass blows here Thursday

The Northwind Brass band, a five-piece ensemble performs at 8 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 26 in the Odmark Pavilion in downtown Charlevoix.

The performance is a continuation of the Thursday night concert series presented by the Charlevoix Convention & Visitors Bureau.

The band includes two trumpets, French horn, trombone and tuba. They combine musical talents and styles to perform compositions of the baroque, renaissance, classical and serious works of contemporary composers.

The group also features a panorama of American pop music spanning the period from the early 1900s to current popular tunes. Among their offerings are selections by Joplin, Gershwin, Porter, Ellington, the Beatles and Sting.

The Northwind Brass challenges its audience to participate in the show by guessing the name of old tunes the group performs.

SCRAPBOOK

PINE POINT STILL BOOMING

Several Contracts for New Bungalows and Cottages Have Been Let

Concrete Sidewalks Are Being Laid — Auction First Week in August

(Editor's note: The following Scrapbook feature was compiled by Cynthia Postmus, with help from the Charlevoix Public Library, from an old edition of the Courier. The story is reprinted in its entirety, exactly as it appeared on July 11, 1911.)

Mrs. Noble, proprietor of the Elston Hotel, is building the first cottage on the shore front at Pine Point. Her lot is number eight just opposite the pier. Her plans are elaborate and show excellent taste, and her house is to be one of the ocean front type of bungalow which prevail at Atlantic City.

The water works system is rapidly being extended to lots where building is now going on or being contemplated to furnish the water supply during construction. The company now has a deep well of purest water and reservoir facilities for fifty families, the plant is so arranged that it can be enlarged to suit the growing needs.

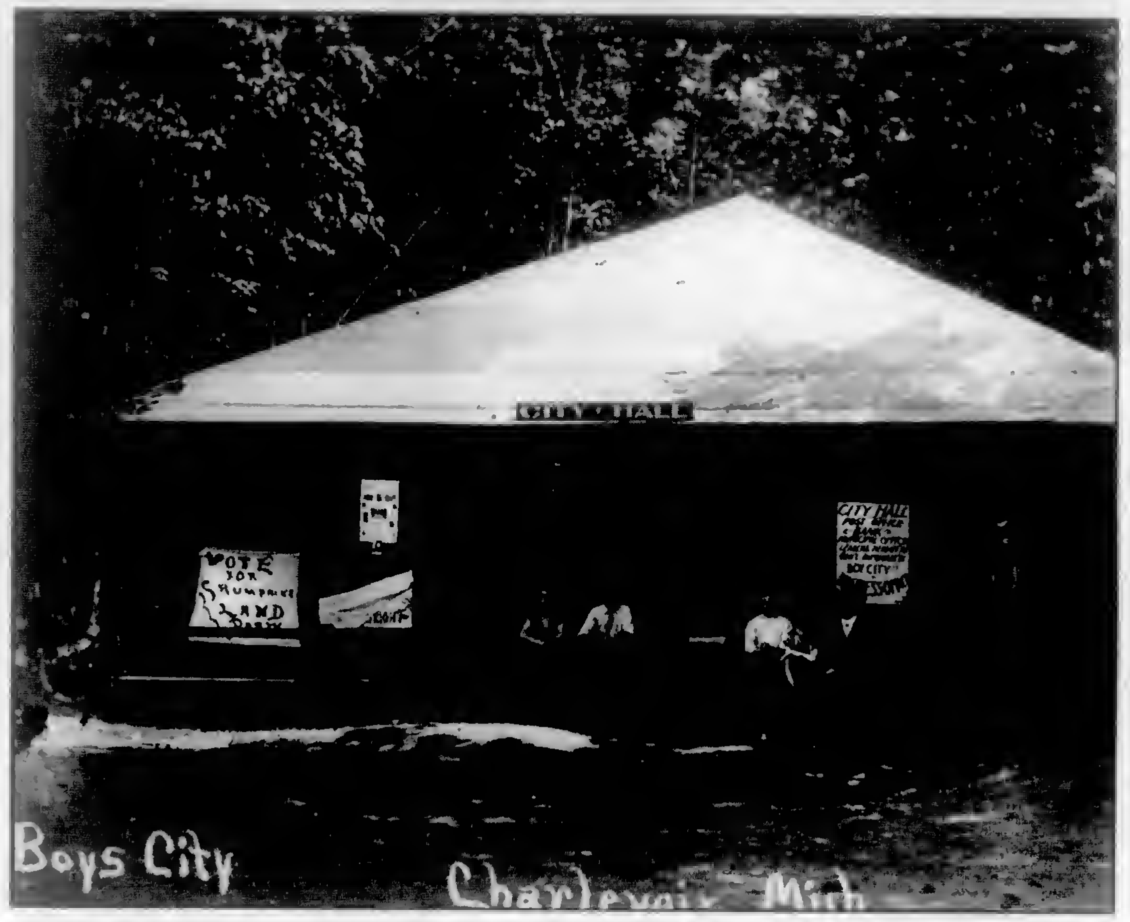
The north part of Central Avenue known as the Shady Drive or the Leaf Tunnel has become one of the sights to be taken in by the tourists. This winding roadway completely roofed by the foliage of birch, elm and maple has all the wildness and charm of a mysterious path in the woods. A tourist from London said that the far famed woodlands of England had no spot more attractive than this embowered passage at Pine Point.

W. F. Bridge, county surveyor of Lake County, and of East Chicago and Hammond, Ind., is this week letting the contract for his bungalow on Birch Crest Avenue. Mr. Bridge, who is a frequent visitor at Hubbard's Woods and Lake Forest, two delightful suburbs of Chicago on the north shore, has selected Pine Point as a place to build his summer home. Anyone familiar with Mr. Bridge's good taste will appreciate the compliment when he said, "Pine Point is naturally the most beautiful summer home location I have ever seen in my extensive travels."

The new flag pole at Pine Point is attracting a great deal of attention, and can be seen from the boat shortly after leaving East Jordan The flag is the same size as those of the Chicago Club and the Inn, but being on the natural elevation of Pine Point and topping a magnificent pole makes it much more conspicuous than the others.

One hundred-twenty-five feet of concrete sidewalk has already been laid leading up to the concrete pillars which are to mark the entrance of Pine Point.

The next sale of lots by auction will take place Thursday, Friday and Saturday, August 1, 2 and 3.



Until 1875 Pine Point was an area carpeted with wildflowers. In 1908, Chicago Juvenile Court Judge Willis Brown leased the land and set out to build a camp where boys could develop their citizenship. In the summer of 1909, more than 1,000 boys from YMCAs, church and school groups attended a tent city there. The camp developed its own post office, bank, daily paper, politics and businesses with emphasis on church-related entertainment. In 1910, the camp was incorporated as National Boy City but it folded after two years. Several of the campers are pictured here resting on the steps of City Hall.

School security is everyone's responsibility

By B. J. Hetler

School security was the focus of school representatives and law enforcement officials when they met to talk about emergency measures for everything from a tornado or a gas leak, to a bomb threat or physical violence.

"No special incident happened here," said City of Charlevoix Police Chief Dennis Halverson. "But most schools are looking at security and talking with local emergency providers.

"Security is a major issue. It's in the forefront of topics in the educational community."

Also attending the Tuesday, Aug. 24 meeting held at the city offices were Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater, Charlevoix Fire Chief Doug Carver, Charlevoix schools superintendent John Sturock, elementary school principal Dick Swenor, middle school principal Dennis Van Guilder, and high school principal Gary Grundman.

Emergency procedures were outlined so the schools know how emergency personnel responds to incidents.

The meeting was standard procedure and a follow-up to a meeting last spring, Sturock said.

"We generally do this to make sure we're prepared for what might occur," he said. "We make sure we have the information we need to work cooperatively."

Sheriff Lasater complemented Sturock for requesting a meeting with law enforcement officials. He said the sheriff's department would volunteer guidance at training sessions at the schools. He believes the training should be for all school staff.

"Training should include not just the teachers and administration, but support staff, janitors, cooks, and playground attendants. They're more likely to see something," Lasater said.

In part, the training teaches staff how to respond to a theft, vandalism, or bomb threat. It shows ways to identify students who may be having trouble.

"Early identification of students in need is an important component," Halverson said.

Halverson agrees that it isn't only teachers that need to be aware.

"Everyone is responsible to check on each other to identify students that need help," he said.

Counselors are important for students. Grundman said the high school has two counselors for students to talk with. The school has not had any major security problems, he said, but the schools are considering surveillance of the parking lot.

Symphony event nets $29,000 for Charlevoix Hospital

Charlevoix Area Hospital received a donation of more than $29,000 from its development council which orchestrated the inaugural "Symphony on the Green" at Bay Harbor Equestrian Club last month.

The event featured the Traverse Symphony Orchestra and Katia Skanavi, the Van Cliburn International Piano Competition finalist. All proceeds from the concert went to benefit the hospital.

Event organizers plan to make "Symphony on the Green" an annual fund-raiser.

The event was sponsored by: Bay Harbor Company, Charlevoix State Bank, Citizens Bank, Crown Motors, Federico's Jewelers, Gary Faust of Masterpiece Gallery in the Bay Harbor Marina District, Bank One/NBD, Lexalite Intentional Corporation, and Southdown Inc.

for the high school parking lot," Sturock said.

Technology may play a part in security measures, but the schools do not anticipate a need for canine assistance. Dogs have been used in the past when a demand for them arose, but neither the schools nor the police see a need to use them, otherwise.

A great deal of the security problem is inherent in the design of the school buildings, Halverson said.

"Schools were never designed from a security standpoint. They're community centers with numerous entrances and exits."

The issue of security requires a balancing act, Halverson said. When is security too much, and when is it not enough?

"Kids shouldn't go to school afraid," he said. "Whatever we can do to assist with that, we'll do."

The school representatives and law enforcement officials will meet monthly throughout the school year.

Campaign kicks-off for new and remodeled public schools

The campaign to pass an $18.8 million bond for Charlevoix Public Schools kicked-off on Thursday, Aug. 26.

The kick-off meeting held in the Consumers Power Building on U.S. 31 North, was attended by more than 50 people and was a "raging success," Bill Trubilowicz said.

Trubilowicz is co-chair with Jay Balasz of the Citizens for Quality Schools campaign committee.

"This campaign is not about bricks and mortar," Trubilowicz said. "It's more about improving the facilities to prepare our children for the future, and for the technology of the 21st century."

The committee is asking voters for 2.84 mills at the October 11 election. Voters must register by Sept. 13.

The millage would raise the property taxes of a homeowner with a taxable value of $60,000, by $170.40 a year.

If passed, the $18.8 million will be used to build a new high school and auditorium on a new site, remodel the current high school as an upper elementary and middle school, and remodel the elementary school.

The campaign committee plans many activities to reach the voters with information.

A summer of theme party celebrations

EDITH

EDITH GILBERT

When was the last time you went to a costume party that took off like our northern lights? Well, people are still talking about two summer birthday parties that will long be remembered.

An American Indian/Hiawatha theme held sway at the Chicago Club in honor of a very peppy Anne Dickerson, who celebrated her 80th birthday. The Hiawatha theme was a salute to Anne's great grandfather, the renowned poet, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

Leaving no stone unturned, Anne's two nieces planned this enchanting event for a year. Guests, dressed in feathered headbands, beads and blankets, entered the casino through a leather opening attached to a teepee.

The casino at the Chicago Club was decorated with live shrubs and trees reaching up to the ceiling. Stuffed bear, deer, wolves, porcupine and a wild turkey with wings spread wide, turned the plain cottage dining room into a northern woodsy atmosphere. A peppy band played until 2:30 in the morning. The imaginative dinner menu naturally reflected the native theme as well. Smoked whitefish and salmon, corn chowder, homemade Apache bread, and delicious range-grown venison, wild rice and blue corn tempted the palate. Many appropriate toasts and loving speeches were given during the evening.

The theme for the second birthday celebration in honor of Joan MacGillivray's 70th birthday was "A Midsummer Night's Dream." Her love of Shakespeare is well known to her family and her daughters designed stunning invitations. Two hundred guests were invited to celebrate the occasion in either black tie or medieval costume.

Valet parking attendants drove guests up the hill where they rubbed shoulders with Henry the VIII, ladies-in-waiting, knaves, pages, and jesters. A shaft of moonlight reflected on Lake Charlevoix below.

Tents decorated with lanterns covered the upper driveway, which was sprinkled with sparkling confetti. Tall rustic, candlelit centerpieces were flown here from Atlanta by daughter Katie. Italian lights were looped gracefully throughout the garden.

Food stations were strategically placed with tempting hot and cold choices. Peppy music invited guests to dance, only to be interrupted by skits, poems and songs sung on bended knee to Joan, who was seated on a throne. Celia Roy remarked that, "All ladies would celebrate a 70th birthday party if they looked like Joan!"

As guests departed, they were given specially designed red T-shirts with the Shakespearean quote, "For She Art Wise As She Is Beautiful."

Joan beamed until just after all the guests left, when "the Midsummer Night's Dream" turned into a midsummer's nightmare! About 2:30 a.m., July 31, a near hurricane swept through Charlevoix.

It has been reported that the wind sounded like an on-rushing train. Decorated tents tipped over and blew across the lawn. Trees crashed. Large pieces of sculpture toppled to the ground. Lights were a tangled mess. It was a blessing the storm held off as long as it did for no one was injured and it took several days to repair the damage.

Storm or no storm, it's been a long time since Charlevoix has seen the likes of theme parties such as those described above.

Happily, I know of several more that are being planned here to help ring out this century and ring in the new.

As the author Thomas Mann put it so neatly, "Time has no divisions to mark its passage, there is never a thunderstorm or blare of trumpets to announce the beginning of a new month or year. Even when a new century begins it is only we mortals who ring bells...."

Election, selection processes separate best from rest

By Roger Knutson

Ear to the ground

As we attempt to determine who would be the best to fill a particular public office we often subject the candidates to an extremely rigorous set of processes. We elect to national office people who have leaped an impressive set of hurdles: primary campaigns, lengthy fund-raising efforts and grueling election campaigns.

A sort of election goes on in the natural world as well. It is usually called selection rather than election, but there are characteristics in common. Like election, selection is a winnowing process which begins with many potential candidates for survival and finishes with an exceedingly small set of successful survivors. Like election, selection is a grueling process that asks the best of the candidates and is merciless in its decision about who wins.

For a million maple seeds produced by a forest tree, probably only a few thousand will ever germinate, and of those few thousand there may be ten that survive their first year.

Some years ago we noticed the abundance of maple seeds that germinated in our lawn every spring and decided to leave a small corner of the yard unmoved to see how well they would do if we didn't cut their heads off each spring. Out of what were literally hundreds of seedlings in the first year, only 12 survived to be a foot tall. That small corner of the yard certainly hasn't room for more than a single tree of any size, so if left to fend for themselves, all but one of those small trees will eventually be choked out by its fastest growing or widest spreading sibling.

Even the weeds that plague our lives are involved in that same struggle for space and that same process of selection.

Giant ragweed usually gets started in agricultural fields or waste spaces. By summer's end it may be a plant eight or nine feet tall. It starts the growing season as a carpet of seedlings. There can be as many as 2,000 plants per square yard when they are a few inches tall.

By midsummer there may be only 200 left in that same space, and by the end of the growing season only 50 will reach maturity and produce seed for next year's crop. The other 1,950 didn't grown quite fast enough to hold the space they began in and as the plants increased in size, the slightly slower ones were shaded and crowded out of existence. No wonder weeds grow so fast!

One out of thousands or even millions is the usual selection rate for plants as they grow from seed to maturity. The longer-lived and larger plants like trees have the most impressive selection statistics.

An oak tree may live for three centuries and produce bushels of acorns each year for most of that time. On the average only a single one of those acorns will survive to replace the parent tree. If we assume conservatively that a large oak produces 4,000 acorns per year, that single survivor is one very select oak; the best or luckiest of 1,200,000.

All that we see around us when we look at the plants that survive without our help in the natural world are the selected few, the elect, the one in a million. We should be so lucky with politicians.

Seniors must be on the lookout for scam artists

By U.S. Sen. Spence Abraham

It's unfortunate, but these days all of us have to be on the lookout for scam artists -- people who make it their business to trick others out of their hard-earned incomes. Perhaps no form of fraud is more troubling than that committed against older Americans -- and seniors living on a fixed income in particular. But they are out there. And senior citizens need to be particularly watchful in dealing with people and organizations trying to sell them goods or services relating to Social Security or Medicare.

Some scam artists try to trick seniors into paying for goods or services they don't need, or that they could get for free elsewhere, by making it look as if they will be in trouble with the government if they don't buy them immediately. A few years ago, Congress took an important step toward stamping out these kinds of frauds against older Americans. It made it illegal for anyone to falsely claim an affiliation with Social Security or Medicare. But a loophole in that law allows scam artists to charge unwitting consumers for services that Social Security or Medicare would provide for free.

A woman from Iowa recently reported falling victim to a Social Security scam. She received a mailing from a company called Document Service. That letter began: "Read Carefully: Important Facts about your Social Security Card." It went on to say that the woman was required to provide Social Security with any name change associated with her recent marriage and get a new Social Security card. It then urged her "to do this immediately to help avoid possible problems where your Social Security benefits or joint income taxes might be questioned."

Concerned, the woman paid $60 to the company. But she could have gotten the same services for free from Social Security.

Too many seniors are paying fees to dishonest organizations for everything from new Social Security cards to changing an account name after marriage -- services the government provides free of charge.

I am working with a number of my colleagues to pass legislation called the "Social Security Consumer Protection Act." This bill would require that solicitations like these prominently display the following "IMPORTANT PUBLIC DISCLOSURE: The product or service described and assistance to obtain the product or service is available free of charge from the Social Security Administration or the Department of Health and Human Services."

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

By Rev. Bruce Hamilton
Community Church of God
(This column is reprinted from July 23, 1997)

Paging Dr. Joy, Dr. Dennis Joy. This is to inform you that your patient is actually making a serious effort to follow your instructions this summer.

The doctor has been lovingly after me for a long time to get into some type of regular exercise routine. Well, when the warm weather finally arrived, I made up my mind that it was past time to try (not to mention a sweet saint saying one Sunday morning, "Why pastor, you certainly have filled out over the winter").

So, I've been walking. Not necessarily the leisurely kind of sauntering that so many of us are prone to do in the summer. I'm faster than that (about 20 minutes for a mile), and I'm even beginning to explore power walking. In my first month, I actually managed a little over 50 miles. So far this month, I'm sneaking up on 30 miles, but there's still time to stay on the pace.

What I've come to enjoy about walking is what you can see when you get those feet up and moving. What has surprised me about walking is how the same territory can look different depending on what time of day you cover it. For instance, in the morning there is this red wing blackbird who has a problem with hats. When I wear a hat she chases me and sings a very worried song. When I don't wear a hat, she let's me go by her part of my walk without a peep. In the early evening, there's a pair of swallows that love to engage in an aerial dogfight over my head when I pass their segment of the block.

We have a pond on our road. In the morning there's this Momma Duck who just recently hatched a huge clutch of eggs. She watches over her brood in a very proud fashion that is clearly visible to all. At night, there are frogs that sing (and they don't sound anything like those croakers that advertisers are using for beer commercials).

I had forgotten about how much fun watching clouds can be. When I was a kid, there were more than a few of us who liked to look up at the clouds and see what kind of shapes we could imagine them to be. It kind of renews your faith in being young at heart when you do something like that again.

I am quite envious of several neighbors who clearly have superb green thumbs. Their summer flower gardens are a tapestry of changing color that is wonderful to behold. It's so neat how they have them planted, where as one flower fades from the scene, a new variety takes its place to fill the gap.

And then let's not forget why you and I visit like this. Walking is a wonderful time to open your heart to the wisdom and wonders of the Lord. From over in Isaiah, this verse has popped into my head on more than one occasion, "They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength. They shall mount up with wings like eagles. They shall run and not grow weary. They shall walk and never faint..."

Yes, Dr. Joy, I'm really trying hard this summer. But what's more important, I look forward to daily walks in God's marvelous creation and the time it can give us all to renew our strength from Him.

Children can head off heart problems now

There are no shuffleboard games or talk of arthritis at this cardiology clinic, where people are trying to lower their cholesterol and stave off a heart attack. Because while their problems are more typical of the geriatric crowd, these heart patients are still studying geometry and playing Nintendo. They're kids.

Studies have established that kids who have cholesterol, blood pressure and weight problems grow up to be adults with a higher risk of heart-related illness. And scientists have reported that they can find cholesterol deposits in the arteries of children as young as 10.

So, with heart disease at No. 1 on the list of adult killers, doctors are paying more attention to the importance of starting kids on a heart-healthy path early. An ounce of prevention in childhood, they hope, will cut down on the number of grownups who need a pound of cure.

At the University of Michigan Health System in Ann Arbor, kids who are most at-risk for heart problems later in life are learning exactly that kind of prevention at a new clinic designed just for them.

Called the Pediatric Cardiology Prevention Clinic, the center works with children and teens who have high cholesterol, high blood pressure, weight problems, or a family history of premature heart attacks and strokes.

"The goal of our clinic is to help reduce the risk factors for cardiac disease in our patients. We teach the patients and their families ways to change their lifestyles so they can decrease their risk of developing heart disease later," says Caren Goldberg, M. D., M. S., one of the center's three doctors.

Goldberg's colleague, Margaret Samyn, M. D., says the clinic is unique because each child sees a doctor, a nutritionist and an exercise physiologist on each weekly visit.

"We take on the role of being the advocates for the kids. We try to explain to them in terms they can understand why it's important that they have a healthy lifestyle as children, so they can avoid heart attacks and strokes and things that their parents or grandparents might have had," said Samyn.

Each Friday, the clinic's physicians are on the lookout for development of early heart problems and signs of more serious disease, including kidney and thyroid problems. The nutritionist works with the children and their parents to design a better diet that can help them lose weight and reduce cholesterol and blood pressure.

Meanwhile, the exercise physiologist encourages the whole family to engage in physical activity, and teaches the child or teen to keep track of his or her exercise habits in a diary.

Through the repeat visits, the young patients develop a friendly relationship with each clinic staff member. This breaks down the fears that usually accompany a trip to a heart specialist, and frees the

Raffle winners

Venetian Festival board members Dan Barron (from left) and John Winn join boat raffle winners John and Cathy Nicholson of Belmont in East Park last week. Cathy purchased three raffle tickets during the second week of July to win the brand new 20-foot Four Winns speedboat. The winning ticket number was 484, and was drawn by Charlevoix's "Outstanding Citizen" of the year, Bill Price. The boat was purchased at a significant discount by the Venetian Committee from Four Winns. The raffle raised $15,000 for the Venetian Festival. The Nicholsons said they are thrilled to win and had wanted a boat for their family. (Photo by B. J. Hetler)

Charlevoix County Land Conservancy acquires Sedge Marsh Preserve

Wildlife habitat will be preserved locally now that the Charlevoix County Land Conservancy has acquired the "Jordan River Sedge Marsh Preserve, according to Jo Anne Beemon, director of the conservancy.

"This lovely little piece of the vast carex marsh at the mouth of the Jordan River is one of the most beautiful, serene and ecologically critical places in Charlevoix County," Beemon said.

"This is where the bald eagle hunts and osprey fish."

Marshes are excellent habitats and breeding grounds for water fowl, home to fur-bearing animals, and spawning areas for fish.

The marsh acts as a filter for the waters entering Lake Charlevoix and acts as a giant sponge to control flooding.

"We are especially happy because this little preserve borders the new Jordan River Watershed Center where young people and adults will watch eagles practice nest-building. Students will learn about the history of the Jordan River, it's unique qualities and the need to care for its resources," said Beemon.

"This sedge marsh preserve is an important and valuable component to the broader goals for protecting the Jordan River Valley," added John Richter, president of Friends of the Jordan. "It is a welcome asset to our focus on education and a more proactive stewardship in our communities."

Elizabeth Hoffman, a Charlevoix resident and retired teacher, donated the funds needed to acquire the marsh preserve. She is a graduate of East Jordan High School and taught elementary school there for seven years.

The Conservancy is located at 108 Park Ave. in Charlevoix. For more information call 237-9335.

Commissioners benefit from comradery at conference

By B. J. Hetler

Two Charlevoix county commissioners were among the representatives from Michigan's 83 counties who attended the Michigan Association of Counties annual summer conference on Mackinac Island last week.

Commissioners Carl Price (District 1) and Jim Behling (District 2) attended the Aug. 22-24 conference.

"The thing I got out of it the most was talking with commissioners and administrators from other counties," Price said.

The Grand Hotel was the site of workshops held to discuss topics pertinent to the counties. Topics included the state's recent implementation of its sentencing guidelines, nursing home Medicare payments, and solid waste plans.

The state revised sentencing guidelines in part to implement consistent sentencing throughout the state, Scott Dzurka said. Dzurka is the legislative coordinator for the Michigan Association of Counties. The new guidelines also eliminate early releases under "good time" or good behavior.

Other reasons for revised guidelines are an attempt to cap the escalating corrections annual budget that now stands at more than $1 billion, Dzurka said.

The sentencing guidelines workshop educated commissioners and administrators in the reactions of judges and prosecutors to the new guidelines, Dzurka said.

Commissioners Price and Behling attended the solid waste plan workshop and received an update on the state attorney general's opinions on a number of issues. Jim Sygo, of the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality, was a workshop speaker.

Included in the opinions is the right of counties to impose surcharge fees on waste disposal in private landfills, Sygo said.

Counties may mandate local recycling programs, contrary to the waste disposal industry which has said counties may not mandate recycling.

The waste disposal industry says that counties may not direct waste disposal only to specified disposal areas, but the attorney general's opinion states that counties may specify disposal areas, Sygo said.

The attorney general's opinion is not binding, and the courts will probably get involved.

"Basically, the disagreement is with the solid waste industries," Behling said. "It sounds like it'll be in the courts for awhile."

Penny Drury spoke at the nursing homes and Medicare payments workshop. She is the administrator at Grandvue Medical Care Facility, Charlevoix County's public care facility.

Drury explained how Medicare cuts affect county care facilities. The cuts are part of the national Balanced Budget Act, Drury said.

"Grandvue is losing $100,000 in Medicare in 1999," she said. Medicare cuts affect private care facilities, too, but not to the same degree.

"All beds in a county facility are open to Medicare and Medicaid," Drury said. "Privates can refuse to take patients.

"County homes are the safety net for the more expensive, more difficult resident that private facilities won't take," Drury said.

The cuts are a major financial loss to Grandvue, but it is not in financial jeopardy, Drury said. The loss will not be as large in future years.

Michigan Association of Counties' communications director, Doug Warren, said the conference was a success.

"The conference was an education," Warren said. "The speakers did a fine job. It was a time for counties to share ideas and pass on what works and what doesn't. It's invaluable."

Clinic puts children with heart problems at ease formation openly. Tests, medications and other potentially scary things are reserved for more serious cases.

Kids

"I think the biggest challenge of the clinic is instilling in the patient a desire to actually have a healthy lifestyle," explains Samyn. "Kids will come in and say, 'My friends are having French fries, and I don't want to have a salad — I feel like a freak having to eat salads all the time.'"

That kind of societal pressure to indulge in unhealthy eating habits, combined with the increased tendency for kids to spend time on passive activities like computer games and television, is exactly what's putting American kids at risk for later heart attacks, she says. Even moderate obesity can keep at-risk kids from following their parents' path.

When it comes to teenagers, smoking is another major risk factor that the clinic's professionals look to curb. As with weight, they urge gradual reduction in the amount a teen smokes each day — making it easier to quit for the long term.

"We ask the kids to do it step by step, one cigarette at a time, and to come in and tell us the progress that they've made," added Samyn.

All in all, both doctors say, the clinic puts the emphasis on working with at-risk kids, teens and parents to stop heart problems before they start, "It is much easier to change those lifestyle habits — to learn a healthy diet and to learn exercise habits — during childhood," says Goldberg.

Marching band attends camp

The Charlevoix High School marching band is currently attending a six-day music clinic at Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp.

The annual clinic, held Aug. 30 - Sept. 4 on Blue Lake's campus in Twin Lakes, Mich., will help the band prepare a Disney theme show for its half-time performances during the fall football season.

4-H fun at the fair

The popular Emmet-Charlevoix County Fair, held Aug. 24-29, drew many Charlevoix County 4-H Club members with their livestock, sewing and baking projects.

First place blue ribbons abounded for the kids participating in the competitions. The judging was held for horseback riding, the care and feeding of steer, pigs and other livestock, expertise in small animal care, sewing and baking skills.

"We had some outstanding folks from Charlevoix County," 4-H Club director John Wurm said.

"The kids really enjoy it and get a lot out of it."

The fair brings an end to a year of work for the 4-H Club members.

Belvedere pro shoots 100

Steve Braun, the golf professional at Belvedere Golf Club shot 100 and was very happy about doing so.

Of course, 100 was not Steve's score for a round. It was the number of golf holes he played on Monday, Aug. 23 to raise money to benefit the Charlevoix County Junior Golf Program.

Throughout his long career as a golf instructor, Braun has posted many great scoring rounds and some satisfying tournament wins as both an amateur and professional. By his own admission, the satisfaction he receives by playing the 100 holes for pledges is equal to any of his many golf victories.

Steve teed off on the first hole at Belvedere Golf Club at dawn and played very good golf through 5 p.m. He shot a 74 for the first round and followed with scores of 73, 75, 74, and 76. He finished with a 40 on the final nine holes. He then parred the century hole.

Braun was pleased with his consistent play throughout the five-plus rounds. "I played steady all day which surprised me," he said. "I have been so busy working this summer that I have played very little."

His challenge went a little smoother and easier this year thanks to the help of many adult mentors from the junior golf program who assisted as cart drivers, caddies and helpers. The volunteers included George Fritz, Rosemary Carradi, Richard Doty, George Lochner, Barry Pierce, Dave Fowler, and Dean Davenport.

Belvedere pro Steve Braun (left) rides along in a golf cart with volunteer driver Dave Fowler during Braun's 100-hole marathon last week. (Courtesy photo)

Davenport, who organizes and directs the Charlevoix Junior Golf Program, praised the local golf pro. "Steve is a tremendous asset to our program. His love of golf and his interest in getting youngsters involved in the game goes back a long way. We're very fortunate to have Steve Braun in Charlevoix," said Davenport.

The event was all part of an annual PGA of America fund-raiser for junior golf. Braun is among a handful of professionals nationally who take the time to participate in local challenges.

Through his efforts this year, Braun hopes to net more than $2,500 for the Charlevoix Area Junior Golf Program. Last year Braun generated over $2,300 to the program. The funds from the 1998 marathon plus proceeds from the annual Supe Golf Classic permitted seven junior golfers to attend a week-long golf camp at Ferris State University earlier this summer.

Financial support for the marathon is made by pledges, either per hole or for the event in total. Fifty percent of the total funds are earmarked for the Charlevoix County Junior Golf Association. Thirty-five percent stays in the PGA Foundation, fifteen percent goes to the Michigan section PGA Junior Golf Program.

Contributions are still being accepted and may be made by calling Steve Braun at 547-2611.

Rayders tee off with fifth-place finish

The season is in full swing for the Charlevoix High School golf team. The Rayders opened the season by tying for fifth place in an 11-team field at the Russ Harvey Memorial Golf Invitational.

David Shearer, a freshman, fired an 82 to lead the Rayders. Jon Sell shot 87, Dennis Avery carded an 88, and Craig Siwarga posted a 91. Charlevoix totaled 348.

Lake Fenton outdistanced the field by scoring 314. Columbus Academy shot 338; Inland Lakes came in at 341; Harbor Springs had 347; and Mt. Pleasant tied for fifth at 348.

Charlevoix also dropped their first two Lake Michigan Conference matches. The team shot 347 to Traverse City Christian's 321 at Belvedere on Aug. 23, and combined for a 183 against Traverse City St. Francis (171) and Manistee Catholic (176) at Interlochen Golf Club on Aug. 24.

Shearer shot a team-best 43, Sell followed with 45, Siwarga 47, Alan Brooks, a sophomore, had 48 at Interlochen.

Charlevoix bounced back to defeat Boyne City by 35 strokes, 163-198, at Belvedere Golf Club last Thursday.

The Rayders had three medalists in the match. Sell, Avery and Shearer each scored a 40 to tie for the best round of the competition. Siwarga also played well. He shot 43.

"The entire team played very well," said Coach Glynn. "All members of the team are improving and working hard. Time will tell."

For the season, the team has a record of 1-3 overall, 1-1 in the Great Lakes Conference.

The team plays today at Inland Lakes, on Tuesday, Sept. 7 at TC Christian, and Sept. 8 at home against Inland Lakes and Petoskey.

Charlevoix High School students can still join the golf team according to coach Jim Glynn. Call him at 547-3206 for information.

Vogelheim leads Charlevoix to soccer tournament title

Freshman Spencer Bryan scored a goal in double overtime of the first-round game Friday and Charlevoix High School went on to win the Boynton Soccer Invitational in Leland last weekend.

The tournament opened the 1999 season for the Rayders.

Jon Boss scored twice and Ryan Vogelheim added a goal as the Rayders surged to 3-0 before Buckley came back to tie the game.

Bryan's winning kick put Charlevoix into Saturday's championship game. Mike Ricks assisted on the play.

Boss had two goals and an assist. Vogelheim had one goal and two assists.

Andy Granath played a strong game on defense along with Zack Dennis, Tick Baker and Brad Long.

Vogelheim, a senior, scored three goals and had an assist to lead the Rayders to a 4-1 victory over Reed City in the championship game on Saturday.

Reed City was ahead 1-0 when Vogelheim put a left-footed kick into the left top corner of the net to tie the contest. He later maneuvered past the opponents and scored again on a breakaway to put Charlevoix ahead 2-1. He then added a third goal to increase the lead to 3-1.

Boss scored the final goal. He also had an assist on a Vogelheim tally. Trevor Kline and Ricks each picked up an assist.

Chris Tilley was outstanding in goal making several difficult saves in both games.

Buckley won the consolation game 3-1 over Leland.

Charlevoix plays at Pine River on Thursday, Sept. 2.

Harriers' season off to a running start

Charlevoix High School's boys and girls cross country teams opened the 1999 season finishing seventh and eighth respectively in the Benzie Central Cross Country Invitational last Saturday.

Josh Popenhagen led the Rayders with a time of 18:00, good for 11th place overall in boys Class C-D.

Jason Jacques of Jonesville was the fastest runner in the class with a time of 16:32. Allendale won the boys C-D race with 57 points; followed by Hesperia, 82 points; McBain, 103; Bear Lake, 109; Jonesville, 112; Shelby, 139; Charlevoix scored 174 points; Atlanta, 215; Newberry, 232; TC St. Francis, 309; and Walkerville had 339.

The Lady Rayders did not have a runner in the top 13 finishers, yet the team scored 198 points. Sutton's Bay edged Meridian 114 to 116 to win Class C-D. Shelby scored 127; Newberry, 132; Bear Lake, 136; Jonesville, 143; Hesperia, 197. Following Charlevoix were McBain, 255; Atlanta, 256; TC St. Francis, 258; Mio, 307; and Walkerville with 320.

Kim Landadne of Atlanta was the top individual finisher at 20:54.

The Charlevoix Rayders run next on Sept. 8 at Grayling.

Turnovers doom Rayder gridders in season opener

The Charlevoix Rayders' gave up the ball on three fumbles and one interception resulting in a 39-0 thumping at St. Ignace in the season opener last Friday.

St. Ignace scored on a punt return and a long pass. Defensively, they kept the Rayders pinned deep in their own territory during most of the first half. St. Ignace lead 27-0 at halftime.

For some reason, the Rayders didn't seem ready to play when the opening whistle sounded.

"We were on our heels all night," said head coach Todd Klinger. "They were very fast and aggressive, and we made a lot of mental mistakes."

Charlevoix also committed nine penalties in the game.

Charlevoix's defense improved dramatically in the second half. At one point the Rayders kept the Saints from scoring on a drive from inside the ten yard line. Hal Evans made several key tackles.

"We kept playing hard throughout the game. This is a disappointment, but we'll be back and ready for Benzie this week," assured Klinger.

The Rayders' high scoring offense lay dormant this game gaining just 63 yards on the ground, 41 in the air, and six first downs.

Ryan Leitner rushed 14 times for 47 yards. Adam Wood completed four of nine passes for 41 yards and one interception. Brian Cornett had one reception for 24 yards. Ben VanGuilder caught two passes for 17 yards.

"We're going to work hard and get on the winning track," Klinger said. "We will come to play."

The Rayders can start this Friday, Sept. 3 when they host Benzie Central.

"It should be a tough, physical game."

Game kicks off at 7:30 p.m.

The junior varsity lost to St. Ignace 32-14.

SCRAPBOOK

George Burns Recalls The Old Days

A Graveyard of Sunken Ships in Early Era

By Fran Martin

(Editor's note: The following Scrapbook feature was compiled by Cynthia Postmus, with help from the Charlevoix Public Library, from an old edition of the Courier. The story is reprinted in its entirety, exactly as it appeared on August 1, 1951.)

If, some dark summer night, residents at Oyster Bay should think they are seeing the sails of old schooners or hearing sea chanties on the night air, George Burns, 96, pioneer resident who has lived on the Bay for half a century, wouldn't be a bit surprised.

After all, such things as ghosts and eerie sounds are expected in a graveyard and Oyster Bay is a graveyard for old ships.

Located three miles from Charlevoix on the north side of Lake Charlevoix, the bay is about one-third of a mile wide and runs about a mile inland creating an inlet protected from the prevailing west and northwest winds. Because of the protection it afforded, sailing vessels often were tied there when not in use.

THE BAY became a graveyard quite by accident, Mr. Burns relates and now there are six vessels which are identified and two smaller unidentified fishing boats whose last resting places is the bay's bottom.

Probably the first vessel to go to its watery grave there was the Jennie Muller, a two-masted 206-ton schoner which had been built in Chicago in 1866 and had plied the lakes with tan-bark and other wood products. One day while she was being loaded off what is now Boulder Park, a sudden summer squal came up, snapping the ship's line to the tug, James Martin, which was holding her and leaving the Mullen high and dry on the beach.

THE LATE Capt. Tim Smith hauled the vessel off and claimed her for the salvage bill. It was stored at his boat yard on the south side of Round Lake and later towed to Oyster Bay after the canvas and other parts had been stripped from her.

The hull of the 117-ft. schooner can still be seen, below the water just west of the middle of the bay.

Lying close by the Mullen to the north and east is the old Joseph Gordon, a 56-ft. steam vessel which was built by Capt. Louis Guard in 1881 and operated by him as a passenger vessel between Charlevoix and East Jordan. The beam of the boat was only 11 ft. and one time when she was being loaded at the Ironton dock she capsized. She was buried about 1912.

TO THE NORTH end of the bay is the 133-ft. three-masted schooner, the T.Y. Avery, built in Chicago in 1865. For years she sailed the lakes carrying tanbark and lumber.

As the vessel's sailing days came to an end she was towed to the bay by the Humes brothers, William and Herbert, her riggings removed for use on the schooner, Peoria, and left to a watery death.

Later the hulls of these three ships were burned to the water line.

Near the west shore are two smaller ships, the Pottowatmee and the Onekema.

The first was a 48-ft. steamer built in 1871 at Frankfort by George Water who is now 95 years old. He visited here recently and is still going strong. She was operated as a passenger boat between the city dock and the railroad depot by the late George Smith. The late William Parmalee also owned the boat at one time. She went to her grave about 1912.

The Onekema, 57-ft. steamer, was built at Northport in 1883 by J.V. Emery and was also used as a passenger boat. She was buried about 1908.

The Beaver Queen, lying to the south of these two was a sailing scow. She was built at Beaver Island and used to haul tanbark, lumber and other wood products.

THE STORY is told of the time her owner built a cabin on her, covered it what tar-paper and sailed her to Chicago, a foolhardy thing to do but sailors of those days were known for their daring deeds. She was towed to Oyster Bay in 1918, and like her predecessors, later sank to the bay's sandy bottom.

The bottom of Oyster Bay was littered with sunken ships for decades. Most still remain beneath the calm waters. This abandoned vessel awaits its eventual watery grave. (Photo courtesy of the Charlevoix Historical Society)

Another ship which barely missed such a fate was the steamer, Beaver, operated on the Beaver Island run for may years by the late Capt. P.D. Campbell. The ship was towed to the bay after it burned at Wilbur's dock in 1915 but after three years was sold to John McCann of St. James. He sold it to a Wisconsin firm which converted it to a towing tug.

As if in retaliation for earlier wrongs, the ship took the life of a sailor when a boiler tube exploded a few years later.

Another ship in Lake Charlevoix some miles from the accepted graveyard is the three-masted schooner, the Ebenezar, which lies off Chula Vista toward Boyne City. When this ship's days were ended it was towed to the spot and sunk to form a base for a dock.

The man who remembers when all these ships were brought to the Bay on their last voyages is George Burns, who has owned the farm at the north end of the bay since 1986 and who has lived there since 1906.

Born in Montreal Dec. 25, 1854, he came to a farming community south of here which was later named Barnard, for his father, Barnard Burns. He operated a livery stable here for many years, leaving the business in 1906 to settle on his farm.

Despite his age, he is in fair health and still enjoys reminiscing about the days when Charlevoix was young.

"The man who fails to advertise just because conditions are a little uncertain is on par with the farmer who refuses to feed his cows because the price of butter has gone down."

FOOTBALL

The 1999 Charlevoix football team may start slowly but look for consistent improvement as the season goes on.

The team is so young and inexperienced, that third-year head coach Todd Klinger isn't sure how good the team will be this year, but he expects improvement on last season's 4-5 record.

The Rayders have just seven returning lettermen, six seniors and one junior, on the 24-man roster, and each will be called on to contribute and perform.

"We're young and fairly inexperienced," said Klinger, "and we've got talent and experience at some key positions."

Klinger is relying on veteran seniors Adam Wood, Adam Kline, Shay Hutchinson, Brian Cornett, Brad Nortley, and Russ Ward, plus junior Ben Coen to provide leadership.

On offense, last year the Rayders had little trouble scoring points. They averaged 29 points per game. Their trouble was stopping opponents who tallied more than 34 points.

Klinger plans to run an I-formation with a 50-50 balance of rushing and passing.

"We've got good experience offensively at quarterback and fullback," said Klinger. "Our line has decent size, averaging over 200 pounds, and a good mix of experience and youthful enthusiasm. Offensively, we should be a team to be reckoned with. We should be explosive, be able to move the ball, and score."

Offensive strength begins at quarterback where Adam Wood leads a potent air attack. Wood threw for more than 1,500 yards, with 17 touchdown passes and only six interceptions as a junior.

More of the same is anticipated this year if a corps of inexperienced receivers lives up to expectations.

"We've got new kids at the receiver positions," said Klinger. "They're young and talented. They can step in and contribute right away."

The primary targets for Wood will be flanker Brian Cornett and junior wide-receiver Ben VanGuilder. Receivers coming out of the backfield will be fullback Ben Coen, and junior tailbacks Ryan Leitner and Troy Smith. The offense also features sure-handed tight ends Shay Hutchison, Tony Williams and Hal Evans.

Coen is the key to the running game, according to Klinger. He will get most of the carries. VanGuilder, Leitner and Smith will rotate at tailback.

An inexperienced offensive line will be anchored by Adam Kline, a 6-3, 260-pound tackle. Nick Schwein, a sophomore, will snap the ball at center, seniors Russ Ward and Brad Nortley and junior Matt Horon will see playing time at the guard positions, and Mike Simpson, a junior, and Rob Boss a sophomore will play tackle. Jeremy Anderson, a senior transfer student from Oklahoma, will also battle in the trenches at tackle.

A special offensive weapon will be place-kicker Sean Stockman. The star soccer player will handle extra points, field goals and kickoffs in games that do not conflict with the soccer team's season

Defensively, Klinger plans to utilize an eight-man front — four down linemen, and four linebackers.

"We'll run an aggressive, attacking defense. We'll utilize our increased speed and quickness, and pursue to the ball," Klinger said. "We won't be as big as we were last year, but we'll be much faster."

"'Eleven men to the ball ... in a bad mood,'" that's our motto on defense this year."

Kline, Ward, Nortley, Anderson and Boss will key the defensive line. Hutchison, Coen, and Horon will be at the linebacker spots. Cornett, Ward, Leitner, VanGuilder, Smith, Evans, and junior Jeremiah Teuscher should split playing-time in the defensive backfield.

"It's important that we get off to a good start in the first two games against St. Ignace and Benzie Central," said Klinger. Charlevoix hasn't beaten St. Ignace in five years or Benzie in three years. The key game in the Lake Michigan Conference will be Sept. 17 at Harbor Springs, says Klinger.

"I don't know what the season will bring, but these kids work hard and show a great work ethic. They're developing into fine young men, tough competitors, with outstanding character," summarized Klinger.

Adam Wood and Brian Cornett are team captains. Adam Kline and Ben Coen are co-captains.

Assistant coaches are Brandon Bruce, Steve Hopkins, and Don Jess.

Bruce calls the defenses, coaches linebackers and offensive linemen. Hopkins assists in calling defenses, coaches defensive secondary and offensive receivers. Jess, a former All-State quarterback played four years at Alma College. He is a volunteer coach responsible for special teams.

BASKETBALL

Otter brings new attitude, style, system to hardwood

The 1999 Charlevoix High School varsity girls' basketball team is comprised of (front, from left) Lauren Silberhorn, Leslie Hoffman, Jennifer McClellan, Danielle Vogelheim, Kathryn Ricks, Taya Drost, Lisa Miller, Krista Swenor; back, assistant coach Lisa Carlson, manager Shandra Spencley, Kelly Ward, Abby Schaperkotter, Sara Parrish, Lindsey Carland, Kerstin Larsen, Meghan Vogel, Kristy Shindorf, coach Jason Otter, assistant coach Charlie Kohs. (Photo courtesy of Petoskey News-Review)

There is a lot that is different with the Charlevoix girls basketball team this year, and it all starts with the head coach.

Jason Otter, 27, takes over the reins and he promises a fresh approach to the game he loves so well.

Otter is in his first year as a varsity head basketball coach. He comes to the Rayders with a wealth of hands-on playing and coaching experience. He is a former star player at Merril High School near Saginaw. He went on to play college ball at Austin Peay University and Milligan College in Tennessee. After graduation, he went on the road with the Harlem Road Kings, a team with a playing style similar to that of the Harlem Globetrotters. He also played one season of semi-pro basketball in Australia, before an injury ended his playing days and steered him into coaching.

Otter served as assistant varsity boys basketball coach at Saginaw Arthur Hill High School before coming to Charlevoix.

The new coach brings with him an intensity and love for the game of basketball.

"I am used to winning and success," Otter said. "I expect in time we'll do well here, too."

He takes over a team that hasn't had much success in recent seasons. He is anxious to turn things around in his first year.

The team has five seniors and four returning lettermen, a senior transfer student and some very talented underclassmen.

The foundation of the Otter program is open communication with his players and hard work, plenty of it.

"If you're open and honest, things will work out," he said. "Communication is the key."

For the first time in years, the school gym was open all summer for players to stay sharp and in condition, and hone their skills.

Look for the Rayders to play an up-tempo brand of ball. They will be small, quick and aggressive. Their new system will de-emphasize zone defense and go more man-to-man.

It is a new system that will take a little time for some of the players to get used to, according to Otter. "If we get them doing things in practice, we will experience success down the road."

"We might struggle at first," he said, "it'll be a transition, but the older players will show leadership. My job will be to stay positive and encourage the team."

Charlevoix will start a fairly young team and will use almost all the players, every game.

Key players are returning seniors Lindsey Carland, Taya Drost, Sara Parrish, and Kristy Shindorf. Kerstin Larsen, a senior, transferred in from the Upper Peninsula. She will be eligible to play after the team's first six games.

Juniors Leslie Hoffman, Lisa Miller, and Megan Vogel will be called on to provide scoring punch.

Sophomores Danielle Vogelheim and Jennifer McClellan are each expected to step in offensively and defensively.

Freshman Lauren Silberhorn, a very athletic, mentally tough player, severely injured a knee this summer and is doubtful for the season. Sarah Parrish currently has an ankle injury. Abby Schaperkotter, a junior, who led the junior varsity in scoring and rebounding last year, starts the season injured, but is expected to return.

Coach Otter commented briefly on his players:

Lindsey Carland - "A good post player, plays hard, all the time."

Taya Drost - "One of our better shooters, plays guard, she is quick defensively."

Leslie Hoffman - "Plays point or shooting guard. She does everything well. She's one of our better shooters and ball handlers. She is a leader who sets a good example for her team mates.:"

Kirsten Larsen - "Another all-around good player. She really gets after people defensively, a slasher on offense."

Lisa Miller - "Plays guard or forward. She's a great team player with a positive attitude. Plays well on defense."

Sarah Parrish - "Our tallest player (5-foot-11). She is a good defensive player and rebounder with a good outside shooting touch."

Kristy Shindorf - "Can play both forward positions and post. "She's a hustler, a banger, a good rebounder when she stays aggressive."

Jennifer McClellan - "Very mature for her age, she'll play point guard. She is our leader, our most vocal player. She will improve steadily as the season progresses."

Megan Vogel - "Plays forward. She is a scorer. Led the team in points last year. Lots of potential, good hands, athletic, a very good all-around player."

CROSS COUNTRY

Youngsters ready for challenges

Cross country coach Ken Plude says his boys and girls teams are both young and inexperienced, and he is anxious to see just how far they will progress.

Charlevoix has a long tradition of successful teams and Plude has watched many young runners develop into talented runners over the course of a season.

The season started with the squad's annual outing to Beaver Island. Since 1982 the Rayders have used the camping and training trip to help promote a sense of "team" among the athletes who compete in an individual sport.

"It's a great opportunity for team bonding, teamwork, and creating a sense of unity," said Plude.

The Beaver Island trip isn't a requirement, it is a reward for select runners. Runners have to earn the right to attend the camp.

"They have to run 200 miles during the summer, attend practices, volunteer to help at the Jeff Drenth Memorial Run during Venetian Festival, and more," said Plude.

Twenty-four girls and 14 boys spent several days on the island in August.

Plude likes what he sees from his young runners, and admits it will be tough to fill some spots left open by graduation last year.

"I already see signs of progress. The big thing is their lack of experience, and the big question is 'how fast will they learn.'"

Four of the best girl runners graduated including an all-stater.

Last season the Rayders started slowly, finishing 20th of 25 teams in their first invitational of the season. They improved steadily throughout the year and finished seventh in the state in 1998. The team proved to be composed of scholar-athletes, too. The team grade point average was 3.864.

Nearly 30 girls are on the team in 1999. Seven will run in most meets with the top five scoring points.

Only three experienced runners return this season including:

Heather Probert, a sophomore, the fastest ninth grade girl in school history.

Laura Schairbaum, a senior, a team-leader "and one of the few experienced runners," according to Plude. Laura earned academic all-state honors and was honorable mention all-conference last year.

Senior Tiffany Fisher, a strong runner, she also qualified for the academic all-state team.

Plude expects a contribution from a newcomer to the team.

Erika Kammermann, a senior, and a former Rayder basketball player decided to run cross country this fall.

Liz Ulrich, a freshman, is expected to provide good depth. "She's gonna be tough to beat," said the coach.

"We have 12 to 15 runners fighting for seven spots. Only Laura Schairbaum has a spot sewn up," said Plude.

The girls finished second in the conference last year to Elk Rapids. "On paper Elk Rapids is still the team to beat," said Plude, "they should be the favorites again."

The boys team is also very young but it has six of its top seven runners returning. They did lose Jeff Popenhagen, who qualified for the state finals.

The 1998 team finished seventh in the region and second in the conference to East Jordan, the eventual state champions.

"We have the very best region in the state. The top three teams go on to the state finals. We finished fifth last year."

The Rayders have a good blend of experience and youth, according to Plude, and are ready to make a good run in the regionals this year.

The team will be led by seniors Jon Tebeau, Luke Whitley, Allen Keehn, Jerred Hodge, junior Will Wright, and sophomores Josh Popenhagen, Zach Bajos, Zach Hopkins, Elijah Pace, and Gordie Selph.

Most of the team will be fighting for a spot on the varsity.

The first major test of the season comes Saturday, Sept. 11 at the "Charlevoix Classic." The traditional event starts at 9:30 a.m. It is held on an obstacle course on Plude's back yard. He and neighbor Jim Heise host the annual event which attracts 22 teams and more than 800 people.

Teams will also be focusing on two home meets, the Claire Martin Invitational on Oct. 9, and the Conference championship on Oct. 19.

"We'll work hard, have some fun, and see what happens," said Plude.

Paul Gelderblom is the team's assistant coach.

The Charlevoix golf team heads into the 1999 season filled with optimism and uncertainty.

Sixth-year coach Jim Glynn is looking forward to a good season, as well as a few more good players.

Glynn is faced with a unique problem this year, barely enough players to field a team. "For the first time ever we're light in the number of players who came out for the team. We're thin, not weak."

This is especially puzzling considering the outstanding success of the Charlevoix Junior Golf Program. "Everybody on my team came out of junior golf, it's a tremendous experience for the young players," Glynn said. "A lot of really good players participated this summer."

In recent years, Glynn had to cut the team down from more than a dozen players to eight. This year, just eight players tried out for the team.

Graduation hit the Rayders hard. Last year's standout, Keith Grunch, a consistent scorer in the 70s, is now a scholarship golfer at Aquinas College. Letterman Andrew Moats graduated.

The team also lost Jennifer Rowe. The golfer and star soccer player injured a knee during the summer and will not play golf this season.

Additionally, Glynn lost letterman Tyler Lieberman, who will spend this school year in Brazil as an exchange student. Senior, two-year letterman Steve Pirie did not come out for the team either. He chose to concentrate on academics and preparations for the coming ski season.

The golf team is optimistic, like a half-full glass. It has four returning lettermen on the eight-member squad.

Veterans include senior Jon Sell, juniors Craig Siwarga and Chris Smith, and sophomores Dennis Avery and Allen Brooks.

Newcomers are sophomores Nick Cole and Bill Foster, and freshman David Shearer.

Shearer has the potential to be a very good player, according to Glynn. "He is a very good athlete," Glynn said. "If he continues to work hard, he may develop into one of the finest players in the area."

"We have a young, and a solid team overall," said Glynn. "We have a good cohesive unit and the kids have a good work ethic."

Like most low-scoring golfers, "We have a good short game," he added.

The coach is looking forward to consistent improvement by all his players as the season progresses. "We should have a pretty good season."

The Rayders finished third in the Great lakes Conference a year ago. Harbor Springs won the championship and the regional and has everyone back. Traverse City St. Francis finished second last year and also has its entire team returning this season.

In league competition, six players from each team shoot and the top four score. In invitationals five shoot and four score.

The team will play 16 competitions this season. The conference championship will be held at Belvedere Golf Club on Oct. 5.

The welcome mat is still out for Charlevoix students who wish to play on the golf team. Persons interested in joining the program should call coach Jim Glynn at 547-6484 or 547-3206.

Hoops' key: young players' development

Danielle Vogelheim - "Lightening quick. Aggressive offensively, good shooter, drives the ball up the court. Very coachable."

Shandra Spencley is the all-important team manager. "She is energetic and a hard worker."

"We have a totally different coaching system," said Otter, "This team has unlimited possibilities. The key will be how well our young players develop."

Jim Parrish will assume assistant coaching responsibilities this season.

The Rayders were near the bottom of the league standings in recent years. Otter expects improvement, but is realistic that, "Harbor Springs, Boyne City and Elk Rapids will be very tough."

The junior varsity team, coached by Lisa Carlson is still welcoming new players. Students interested in playing on the team should contact coach Carlson at 547-3222.

SOCCER

Leadership, talent fuel optimism

Talented players plus Leadership plus Experience plus Good Coaching equals Success.

It's a simple formula that could produce the best boys soccer team at Charlevoix High School in several years.

Unlike most coaches at any level, Josh Block, doesn't hedge and downplay his team's chances to have a successful season this year.

His confidence comes from having known and worked with the Rayders' six seniors during the past five years. Block, now in his fourth season as varsity coach, began teaching soccer to the boys when they were eighth graders. He has watched them hone their soccer skills, mature physically, and most importantly, develop leadership abilities.

"I'm optimistic," Block said, "This is the most talented, most mature team we've had since I took over the soccer program. It's great to finally have some upperclassmen."

Last season the team had just three seniors.

This year's seniors are Ryan Vogelheim, Jon Boss, Michael Ricks, Andy Granath, Sean Stockman, and Chris Tilley.

Block expects the team to be "pretty solid overall, with a few holes to fill as the season progresses."

Team strengths will be stopping shots on one end of the field, and an ability to score goals on the other.

"We have a great goalie this year in Chris Tilley," Block said. "He attended a lot of soccer camps during the summer and played in some travel league. He's ready for a big year."

A year ago, Tilley took over between the posts and improved with each game. He earned All-District honors.

The coach praised Tilley's style, "He is aggressive at the net and isn't afraid to sacrifice his body to make a save."

The 1999 Charlevoix High School varsity soccer team is comprised of (front, from left) Kevin Schmidt, Joey Granath, Craig Stockman, Tony Shearer, Jon Boss, Trevor Kline, Roscoe Serrels, Spencer Bryan, Travis Smith; back, coach Josh Block, Phil Morris, Tick Bakker, Kiel Tilley, Andy Granath, Chris Tilley, Sean Stockman, Michael Ricks, Ryan Vogelheim, Brad Long, assistant coach Ryan Ellis. Not pictured, Zach Dennis. (Photo courtesy of Petoskey News-Review)

Senior Andy Granath will be called on to sweep the defensive zone. "Andy is the backbone of our defense," said Block. "He is quiet, aggressive and dedicated. He really gets the job done back there."

Look for most of the team's scoring to come from the seniors, too.

Last year's leading scorer, Sean Stockman is a center halfback or mid-fielder. He earned All-District and All-Region honors.

Vogelheim, a forward, was All-District last year. He also played summer ball this year. Forward Michael Ricks has tremendous speed and is another good scorer, according to Coach Block. The trio is expected to carry the scoring load again this season.

Boss, a forward, is a solid player offensively and defensively who will score goals, too.

Experience is the key to the seniors' success.

"The seniors know the game. They know where the ball is going to go. They all have good, quick shots, good fakes. These guys set great examples for our younger players."

A surprise starter on the varsity is sophomore mid-fielder, Roscoe Serrels. One of the smallest players on the squad, Serrels is also one of the most aggressive.

"He really understands the game," said Block, "and he plays defense as well as offense."

> The seniors know the game. They know where the ball is going to go. They all have good, quick shots, good fakes. These guys set great examples for our younger players.
> — Josh Block

Other starters include juniors Tick Baker on defense, and Zack Dennis, a mid-fielder and defender; sophomore Kiel Tilley a forward and mid-fielder; and freshman Brad Long a mid-fielder and defender.

Block also expects contributions from his bench: Tony Shearer, a junior mid-fielder and forward; sophomores Joey Granath and Kevin Schmidt, both mid-fielder/forwards; and freshmen mid-fielders Spencer Bryan, Trevor Kline, Travis Smith, and Craig Stockman.

Another addition to the squad is Tomasz Barczynski, an exchange student from Poland.

Last year the team finished with a 11-7 record. Block expects improvement this year. The Rayders opened the 1999 season by winning the championship in the Leland Invitational tournament last week.

Perennial powerhouse Elk Rapids is again the team to beat in the Lake Michigan Conference. Look for the Rayders, led by the seniors, to challenge for the conference crown.

Red Fox Regatta: Celebrating a great tradition

By B. J. Hetler

Red Fox Regatta organizers say a record 104 sailboats raced in the annual event on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 4 and 5.

Eleven fleets competing for best time were challenged by light winds on Saturday that caused officials to shorten the race from Charlevoix to Young State Park. The original destination was Boyne City, another several miles southeast.

Race participants later gathered at the park in Boyne City for a cookout. The main topic of conversation among the sizeable crowd concerned the winds dying out just before the finish line, causing a mass of sailboats dead-in-the-water at the finish.

Classes of competition were boats with and without spinnakers. The J-22 boats were a major class, as were the catamarans. One of the catamarans capsized, but it was soon righted. No one was injured.

The Red Fox Regatta began in the mid-1960s. Racers originally started in Horton Bay, maneuvered a course in Lake Charlevoix, and raced back to Horton Bay, said long-time regatta enthusiast Josh Barnes. It was the tradition for race participants and friends to stop at the Horton Bay Red Fox Inn for dinner.

Barnes competed in the regatta until approximately six years ago. He still volunteers his help to the regatta activities, and doesn't miss

New state law allows teachers to suspend students

By B. J. Hetler

Teachers may suspend students for up to one day without permission from a school principal under a new state law.

The law was created under Public Act 103 and falls within the state school code. Charlevoix Public Schools have revised its student conduct policies pursuant to the law's requirement for all state public schools. The suspension must be for an offense defined by the local school code.

Any teacher who suspends a student, even for one hour, must immediately report the suspension to the principal and send the student to the principal. The state also requires that the teacher "as soon as possible" after the suspension ask the parents or guardians to attend a conference.

The new law may prove to be controversial.

Brenda Bryan is co-chair of the PTO and a teacher assistant. She sees potential problems with the law.

"It's too hard on teachers," Bryan said. "Some parents may stand with the child and the teacher takes the blame alone. I think we need a referee, so there's not a lot of blame on one person."

School superintendent John Sturock said the law is a reaction to the violence that has taken place in schools in other states, such as Columbine High School in Colorado. He said a few teachers from large school districts convinced legislators that they needed the authority to suspend disruptive students. The law is a blanket law that isn't needed in Charlevoix, he said.

"It's another example of government over-legislating," Sturock said. "There's only a few places that need these measures, but now it's statewide. It takes away local control and what we were doing was working."

High school teacher Ken Plude said he doesn't see a big problem in Charlevoix, or a need to change procedure.

Charlevoix Public Schools' revision of its students' conduct code adds teachers to the list of superintendent, principals and board-appointed hearing officers who have the authority to suspend a student.

Student misconduct that may call for suspension includes:

- willful violation and/or persistent disobedience of any published regulation for student conduct;
- willful misconduct which substantially disrupts, impedes, or interferes with the operation of any school;
- willful misconduct which substantially impinges upon or invades the rights of others, or;
- disobedience of an order of a teacher, police officer, school security officer or other school authority, when such disobedience could result in disorder, disruption or interference with the operation of any school or invasion of the rights of others.

A colorful spinnaker billows out on Lake Charlevoix during the Red Fox Regatta. The regatta was held on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 4 and 5. More than 100 boats started at Charlevoix and ended at Young State Park on Saturday. They returned to Charlevoix from Boyne City on Sunday.

attending the event.

"The Red Fox Regatta is the event of the year," Barnes said. "It attracts boats from all over. It's the wrap-up of the summer season."

This year's regatta chairperson was Mark Snyder and the commodore was Tom Barnes, both of Charlevoix.

"I think of it as a big family reunion," Snyder said. "We get all sorts of people. We had a boat from as far away as Iowa."

The regatta continued on Sunday when racers sailed from Boyne City back to Charlevoix, aided by somewhat stronger winds.

Snyder said he was pleased with this year's regatta.

"It was probably one of the most relaxed, enjoyable years I can remember, and there were no problems."

Letters to the editor

Property tax rate is not fair

Editor:

My great-grandfather, George T. Riddle, built our cottage in 1902.

For nearly a century literally hundreds of children in this extended family have enjoyed summers in Charlevoix. Six generations.

However, not one of them ever attended Charlevoix schools, not once, not even for one day.

Why is it then that the local residents/voters force my family to pay three times the school taxes they do?

How outrageous! How inequitable! How un-American in its basic concept.

How humiliating for local residents to expect visitors to pay more for their children's education than they do.

When will they have the sense of fairness to tax all property owners at the same rate?

Sincerely,
John R. Bradbury

Thanks Tribal Council and Foundation

Editor:

Many thanks to the Grand Traverse Band Tribal Council and the Charlevoix County Community Foundation for their financial support.

Beginning this fall, all students in the second and fifth grades at Charlevoix Elementary School will receive water safety instruction. I am so much obliged for the transportation that will be provided through the Charlevoix Public School system.

All children can benefit from education in water safety. There isn't a monetary value on drown-proofing our children. Swimming is an exercise that even a child who may be disadvantaged by other means is given an equal footing with their peers.

Though this has been a great summer for swimming lessons in our surrounding lakes, Charlevoix Elementary School feels fortunate to provide this educational program this coming school year.

Sincerely,
Gayle Gennett,
Charlevoix Elementary School Counselor

Thanks all for wonderful summer

Editor:

This has been the most delightful and wonderful summer in Charlevoix that we can remember since we moved here in 1967. The temperatures have been warm, and the rain has fallen often enough to keep our lawns green and our flowers flourishing.

However, other things made this a delightful summer, and for those things we owe thanks to many people. We hope we don't miss anyone who helped make our summer so pleasurable.

Thanks to:

— the City Band who gave us so many marvelous evenings of grand music and spent so many of their summer playing and rehearsing

— Dave Smith who thrilled us with his beautiful voice when he sang our national anthem and other selections

— the city crews who kept our parks and downtown clean and mowed and trimmed

— the Convention and Visitors Bureau who brought us so many evenings of super musical entertainment

— Dan Barron and his superb Venetian committee who gave us the best Venetian ever

— BNFL for sponsoring and bringing their band from Manchester, England for everyone's enjoyment, an evening of humor and sensational music — people who endured the traffic jams with a good nature and even occasionally let someone squeeze out into traffic from a congested side street

— the ones who planted, weeded, and watered the petunias which made our out-of-town guests "ooh and ah"

— all the young people who graciously waited tables, helped prepare the good food, made ice cream cones and fudge, and worked in the retail shops with a smile and pleasant words

— all of the boaters who let us gawk at their beautiful crafts and decorated them so beautifully for the Venetian boat parade

— those who run and work for our recreation department, providing a variety of safe entertainment for our youth.

We could go on and on, and we know that we have left people out; that those reading this may well say, "Why didn't they mention this or that?" We urge you to write up your own wonderful memories of Summer, 1999.

We hate to see this summer come to a close, but we do remind ourselves daily that our kind of friends and neighbors make Charlevoix a great place to live... even in the winter.

Very truly yours,
Howard and Rosemary Horton

BNFL says thanks

Editor:

BNFL, Inc., the Reactor Decommissioning Major Component Removal group at the Big Rock Restoration Project would like to thank the following people/organizations who gave their generous support thus making the BNFL Brass Band feel welcome in our community:

Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce and Big Rock Restoration Project for their sponsorship.

Charlevoix High School band, especially band director, Raef Rittenhouse for lending the band many of the instruments used during the performance.

Ray's Guitar of Boyne City for locating many hard-to-find instruments.

Petoskey High School band, especially Karl Brien and Barry Bennet for donating their conga drums.

First Congregational Church for the savory meal they provided to the band members.

Radio stations including KHQ, Interlochen Public Radio, CMU Public Radio, and the PEAK.

And last, but definitely not least, the entire town of Charlevoix for their warm welcome and outstanding attendance.

Sincerely,
Gerald B. Slade

Volunteers needed for Exceptional Riders

This exceptional rider is all smiles as volunteers lend their hands and support. (Courtesy photo)

The Exceptional Riders Program is preparing for its fall season.

The hour-long classes for the physically, mentally and emotionally challenged of all ages are full at this time, but volunteers are needed.

Classes will begin Wednesday, Sept. 15 and will meet every Wednesday through Nov. 3.

Students are taught to ride a horse. They are not just taken on a "pony ride." Each student is assisted by a volunteer horse leader and depending on the student's ability, one or two side walkers.

Every session requires approximately 30 volunteers to lead horses, assist students and help with many other jobs around the barn and class area.

"One difficulty for handicapped persons has been a lack of confidence in their own abilities," said program director Barb Lane. "Put that person on horseback and they gain a new perspective. For some it is a new-found mobility. For others it is the challenge of controlling such a large and powerful animal, and the physical and emotional rewards appeal to all. For the volunteer, the smiles you see on the students' faces warms your heart for days after

This year the program will be held at the Pace-Setter Farm, located five miles off M-66 on Marion Center Road.

Exceptional Riders will host an open house at Pace-Setter Farm at 7 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 3.

For more information about the program, or to volunteer, call Barb Lane at (231) 347-3300.

Sorority donates home tour proceeds to hospital

The Charlevoix Kappa Sigma Chapter of the Beta Sigma Phi sorority recently donated $8,000 to the Charlevoix Area Hospital. Proceeds from the sorority's Charlevoix home tour held July 14 made the donation possible.

Kirsten Cochran, home tour chairwoman, said $3,200 will go to the hospital's obstetrics department and $4,800 to the hospital's general building fund.

"The O.B. department had a wish list that they gave our sorority," said Cochran, "and we hope these funds will go torward fulfilling that list."

Obituaries

Esther Bleha

Esther Bleha, 87, of Charlevoix, died September 6, at Charlevoix Area Hospital of a heart attack.

Born Evelyn Esther FitzGerald on December 11, 1911 in Oberlin, Ohio, she grew up there and attended Oberlin High School, where she won a rare award for athletic achievement. She also won an academic scholarship to Oberlin College, graduating in 1932 with a degree in social work.

She first came to Charlevoix in the summer of 1930 to work as a waitress. It was then she met Charles Bleha. They were married in 1933. With the exception of the World War II years, when she returned to Oberlin, she spent nearly all of the rest of her life in Charlevoix.

True to her Oberlin roots, her life affirmed the values of religion, education, and community service. She was a long-time member of the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix, where she sang in its choir, directed the Sunday School, and was a member of several of its women's clubs.

She taught at the Charlevoix Elementary School from 1954 until 1972. Educated as a reading specialist, she taught mainly first and second grades. One of the great joys in her later life was the gratitude of her former students.

She was very civic minded. Among her many activities, she was especially devoted to the local Girl Scouts and the Charlevoix Garden Club, where she was past-president. She greatly enjoyed growing flowers and arranging them.

She is survived by her husband of 67 years, Charles J. Bleha; two sons, Thomas Bleha of Arlington, Virginia, and John Bleha of Cincinnati, Ohio, and their wives; seven grandchildren, and one great-granddaughter.

A memorial service will be held at 11:00 a.m., Saturday, September 11, at the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix. The Reverend Philip G. Schairbaum will officiate, and interment will take place in Brookside Cemetery. The family asks that in lieu of flowers, gifts be given to the First Congregational Church or to the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Nellie Elizabeth Keiser

Nellie Elizabeth (May) Keiser of Charlevoix, Michigan passed away to be with her Savior on September 5, 1999 at Bortz Health Care Center in Petoskey.

She was born to Sadie (Royce) May and Ervy May in Alanson, Michigan on June 22, 1912.

She was married to Willis Grant Keiser, in Charlevoix on December 11, 1938. He preceded her in death on September 28, 1998.

Mother's life work was her children, husband and working in her church.

She is immediately survived by son James R. Keiser of Douglas, North Dakota, daughter Sally Rusnell and husband Dale of Anchorage, Alaska, son Gerald E. Keiser and wife Kristina of Levering, Michigan, brothers Gordon May, Robert May, and Donald May, six grand-children and many great-grandchildren.

Friends called for visitation at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix on Tuesday, September 7, 1999.

Services were held Wednesday, September 8, 1999. Interment to follow at Brookside Cemetery in Charlevoix. The Reverend Jerry Polk will officiate.

Luncheon will be at the East Upright Church of God on E. Upright in Charlevoix immediately following the interment services.

Any memorial donations may be made to the East Upright Church of God in mother's name. Envelopes will be provided.

Waterfront Salon's new digs prove more convenient for clients

"I'm very happy with the new location," said hair stylist and owner Vicki Seymour. "It's easier for people to find and get to without stairs."

Seymour moved her business from its downstairs location in the Nanny's Restaurant building to 1516 Bridge St. in June. She has been in Charlevoix for more than 20 years, and said her clients have followed her to the new location.

Seymour has owned Waterfront Salon since late 1995. She likes the freedom of owning her own business and being her own boss.

The full-service salon specializes in hair color and foil highlighting. Seymour has 15 years of hairdresser experience. Other stylists are Glenda Wilhelm and Charity Closson.

Nancy Hosper is the nail technician with 21 years of experience. Services include manicures and special treatments, such as gel and acrylic nails, and pedicures.

Waterfront Salon's telephone number is 547-6848. Its hours are 9 a.m. until 5 p.m., Monday-Friday, 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. on Saturday, and evenings by appointment.

CYC summer sailing season comes to an end

By A. Nony Mouse

The summer series drew to a close on Aug. 25 as the CYC yachts found air to run one of the longer races of the year in western Lake Charlevoix.

Pete Funck in Kamikaze torpedoed his opposition with a three-minute win over Mintie and that big red boat.

Our Thyme II captured a first with a 47-second victory over Mi-Joy (Hey! It's for sale.) In a two-hour race. Babe, Cabaret, J-Hawk and Baldie followed with Chiffon and M3 bringing up the rear.

Blasen took the gun from Tireless in the P-boat fleet with Cygnus, Jesse, Lost Vermonter and Original Sin finishing very close behind.

Frank "Top Gun" Ochs clipped Cheemaun by one minute with Red Hot capturing third in the Jam Boat fleet. Just another P-26 showing how it's done around the buoys.

The J-22 fleet brought 10 boats to a short line, as three of them discovered at the start. It's painful to be forced into irons as the committee boat and watch the rest of the fleet sail away. Hey guys! The rest of the club is watching you at the start like hawks to plan our starting maneuvers. We decided not to go into irons.

For the summer, Kamikaze takes the Blue Flag with only six points in six races, That's right, six first-place finishes. I'm glad Pete's not in my fleet. Gotcha (the red boat) and Mint Julip take flags.

Mi-Joy and Our Thyme tied for first with the tie-breaker going to Mark Pirie with Babe taking third place.

Blazen took the tie-breaker and the Blue Flag from Tireless and the Lead Sled fleet with Cheemaun and Red Hot winning the flags.

The J-22 boats have one more race to complete their summer before we move into the Red Fox weekend and then start the Fall Series. That's right. We race in October, you fudgies. Go home. We want our lake back. Why, those J-22s even race in November and Cliff Biddick likes to sail at Christmas. This is a great club.

The 1999 Summer Series is all wrapped up with the conclusion of the makeup race for the J-22 Fleet. Fair skies and nice breezes gave way to lighter and more variable air as the race progressed.

Superfluous simply sailed away from the rest of the fleet and the weird light air shifts to finish over 30 minutes ahead of second place in an outstanding performance! By the time second place Swine Flew and the other boats crossed the line, their speed was measured in furlongs per fortnight rather than miles per hour. After some four more minutes, High Maintenance crossed pulling down third place honors.

Trailing, in order were Gecko, HS Moisture Missile, Paleface Lite, Habanero, Hussy, Jubblies and First Date. Reckless was found guilty of attempted thievery (of room at a mark, to which she was not entitled) and scored DSQ. Whatshername retired while neither Indigo nor Crazy Horse started. It was just one of those crazy evenings when the breeze shifts to make you a hero one moment and then get revenge the next.

The final Summer Series J-22 standings; the scores include only the best six of eight races for each yacht.

1. Superfluous, 13 points; 2. Reckless, 18; 3. Hussy, 21; 4. HS Moisture Missile, 23; 5. Paleface Lite; 6. Gecko, 34; 7. Swine Flew, 36; 7. First Date, 36; 9. High Maintenance, 44; 10. Jubblies, 50; 11. Crazy Horse, 51; 12. Habanero, 64; 13. Whatshername, 68; 14. Indigo.

By the time you read this, we will have sailed Crawford Triangle and Red Fox and be ready to start the first race of the Fall Series! My, my how time do fly by!

Watching the western skies...

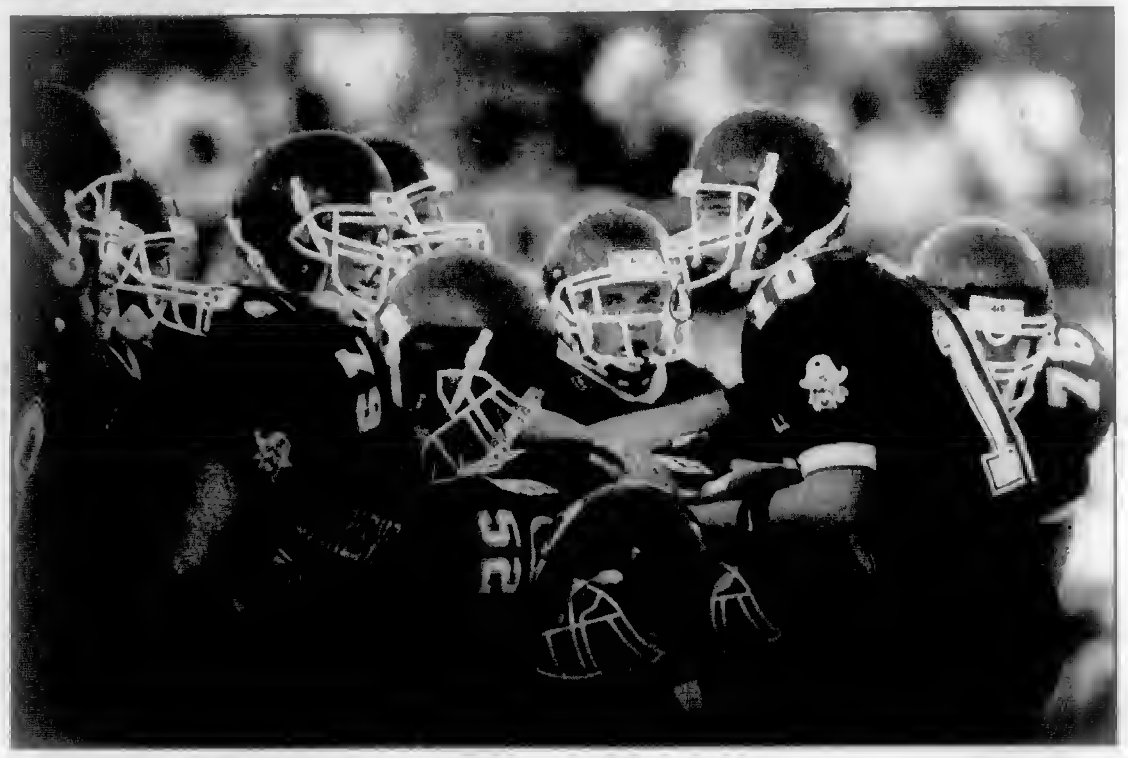
Gridders drop home opener



Senior quarterback Adam Wood rallies the Rayders in the huddle during Charlevoix's 32-16 loss to Benzie Central. (Photo by C. J. Winnell)

Junior tailback Ryan Leitner gained 211 total yards and scored a touchdown on a 42-yard pass, but it was too little, too late as Charlevoix lost 32-16 to Benzie Central at home last Friday.

Benzie took the opening kickoff and marched down the field to score en route to a 20-3 first quarter lead.

Sean Stockman, a star soccer player for the Rayders, kicked a 29-yard field goal for Charlevoix's points.

Benzie added another touchdown in the second quarter to up the score to 26-3.

Adam Wood tossed a short pass to Leitner who dashed 42 yards to score with no time remaining in the first half to cut the lead to 26-10.

The Rayders played Benzie even in the second half. The teams traded touchdowns. Brian Cornett caught an eight-yard pass from Wood. The final score was 32-16.

"We came back pretty well in the second half," said coach Todd Klinger. "I like the way the kids improved as the game went on. We're still young. We only start three seniors on offense and three on defense. We made mistakes, but they're correctable. I feel pretty good going into the league schedule."

Shay Hutchison rallied the Charlevoix defense in the second half. The senior linebacker made three solo tackles and eight assisted in the game.

Ben VanGuilder had one solo and eight assisted tackles. Nick Schwein made two solo and six assisted tackles. He also recovered a fumble.

Klinger also sited the aggressive play of sophomore tackle Rob Boss.

"Rob is playing with enthusiasm and intensity," he said. "If he continues to improve, he will be something special in the years to come."

For the game, Leitner picked up 168 yards rushing on 18 carries. He had two receptions for 43 yards and one touchdown.

Wood, the senior quarterback, hit on eight of 16 passes for 115 yards, two touchdowns and one interception.

Cornett, a senior, caught two balls for 15 yards and one touchdown. He also had one interception. VanGuilder snared one pass, good for 35 yards.

Troy Smith caught two passes for 13 yards. Ben Coen had one catch for nine yards. He also carried the ball seven times for 30 yards.

Charlevoix (0-2) begins Lake Michigan Conference play on Friday, Sept. 10 at East Jordan.

Soccer team wins two, remains perfect

Recent wins over Harbor Springs and Pine River gave the Rayders' a 4-0 record overall, 2-0 in conference play.

It's the best start ever for soccer coach Josh Block. While the coach is pleased, he knows his talented team can play better.

"We're struggling," Block said, "we're not playing up to our potential, yet."

It is not the final results, rather the slow starts that concern Block.

The conference opener at home against the Harbor Springs Rams was tied 1-1 at halftime on Jon Boss' tally. Three straight second half goals and outstanding goaltending propelled Charlevoix to a 4-1 victory.

Michael Ricks gave the Rayders a 2-1 lead. Ryan Vogelheim put the team ahead 3-1. Ricks scored the final goal.

Sean Stockman, Boss, and Ricks each had an assist.

Chris Tilley turned in another outstanding performance in the nets, "He made some big saves," said Block. "He had a really good game."

Ryan Vogelheim scored early, but the Rayders trailed 2-1 at halftime in a game at Pine River on Sept. 2.

Sean Stockman booted two second-half goals to win the game, 3-2.

Tomasz Barczynski had an assist.

Charlevoix plays again on Thursday, Sept. 9, at Northern Michigan Christian Academy; Monday, Sept. 13, at home against Suttons Bay; the Sept. 14 game at East Jordan has been canceled.

Freshman medalist leads Rayders

David Shearer dropped a 30-foot putt on the ninth hole at Belvedere Golf Club to card 39 and lead Charlevoix to a 170-199 win over Elk Rapids. Shearer, a freshman, earned medalist honors in the Lake Michigan Conference match.

Other Rayder scorers were Jon Sell, 42; Craig Siwarga, 43; Dennis Avery, 46; Chris Smith, 47; and Nick Cole, 58.

"Our team shot a good, solid score (170)," said coach Jim Glynn. "The guys have a good work ethic and like to practice, and it will show as the season goes on."

Glynn noted Siwarga's recovery from a hand injury has improved his scoring recently.

On junior varsity, Allen Brooks shot 46. Bill Foster had 51.

Charlevoix hosts Petoskey and Inland Lakes today, Wednesday, Sept. 8; and travel to Inland Lakes on Sept. 15 for a match with the Bulldogs and East Jordan.

Frosh beat East Jordan

Natashia Kleiber scored 27 points to lead the Charlevoix freshmen to a 67-19 win over East Jordan in the consolation game of the 5th annual Petoskey-Kiwanis Ninth-Grade Girls' Basketball Invitational last week.

Erin Burns added 14 points, Ashley Ager had 12.

Petoskey beat Boyne City, 39-30, in the finals.

Charlevoix hustles to victory over Ellsworth

In a game marked by contrasts, Charlevoix out-hustled and out-played perennial powerhouse Ellsworth to win a girls' basketball game 51-36 last Thursday.

Jason Otter was making his home debut as head coach of Charlevoix, seeking his first career win. Ike Boss, sitting on the Ellsworth bench was looking for career victory number 397.

The Rayders have suffered losing seasons recently. The Lancers win the league championship annually and have a reachable goal of winning a state title.

Charlevoix fields a small, inexperienced team. Ellsworth is loaded with tall, upperclassmen.

Charlevoix introduces new offensive and defensive systems. Ellsworth sticks with a tried and true blueprint for success.

On this night, Otter's young team proved better in most every aspect of the game.

"Our players have worked very hard for this," said Otter. "They deserved to win tonight. This is a great win for the team. They needed it to build confidence and prove that all their hard work really does pay off."

Boss was more succinct, "We just got out-hustled tonight. But, we play them again in 12 days (Sept. 14) at home, we'll get 'em then."

The Rayders jumped out to a quick 8-0 lead and led 19-6 at the end of the first quarter. Leslie Hoffman, Meghan Vogel, Tara Drost and Kristy Shindorf ignited the defense with several steals and rebounds that prevented Ellsworth from getting any uncontested shots.

Vogel scored six points, Hoffman had five points, and Kristy Shindorf and Jennifer McClellan each added four points in the first stanza.

A stifling defense held Ellsworth to just four points in the second quarter and Charlevoix took a commanding lead, 27-10 at half-time.

Ellsworth's 10 total first-half points were the fewest scored in a half during regular season play in Ike Boss' 24 years as head coach.

Charlevoix continued to play well in the second half. The Rayders were never challenged in this game. At one point they led by 22 points, 38-16.

Hoffman, a junior, hit three three-pointers and led Charlevoix with 14 points for the game. She also had seven rebounds.

Jennifer McClellan played an outstanding all-around game. She finished with 10 points, 11 assists, seven rebounds, and three steals. Kristy Shindorf scored 12 points and Meghan Vogel had 10 for the Rayders.

Kim Strange led all scorers with 25 points for Ellsworth.

"Ellsworth is a very good team, and they have a great coach," said Otter. "They got off to a cold start. We hustled and played aggressive team-defense, just like we practice."

"It was nice to see Leslie (Hoffman) shoot so well. She is in the gym every day practicing for 30 minutes on three's. She sets a great example."

Charlevoix won the junior varsity game 48-46.

Krista Swenor scored 13 points and had 10 rebounds. Kathryn Ricks added six boards and five assists.

Elly Essenberg scored 22 and had nine rebounds for Ellsworth.

Charlevoix dropped their season opener at Gaylord St. Mary's, 49-36 on Aug. 31.

The young Rayders trailed by a point, 27-26 at the half. St. Mary's outscored Charlevoix 17-5 in the third quarter and went on to post a 13-point win.

"Everyone was in foul trouble," said Otter. "We lost Vogel late in the second quarter with a sprained ankle. They took advantage (of her absence) in the second half."

Kristy Shindorf was the leading scorer for Charlevoix with 10 points. She also had six rebounds and five steals. Lindsey Carland grabbed nine boards. Sophomore Jennifer McClellan dished out seven assists.

"We worked really hard. This is a new system and it's gonna take some time for the team to get used to it," Otter said. "We've got plenty of room for improvement."

Charlevoix's junior varsity also lost.

Charlevoix travels to Ellsworth on Sept. 14 and to Boyne City on Sept. 16.

Charlevoix man stable after crash

A 63-year old Charlevoix man remained in stable condition Monday after being injured in a nearly head-on crash on Marion Center Road Sunday afternoon.

Robert Kern was driving southbound in a 1996 Dodge van shortly before 3 p.m. He attempted to make a left hand turn into a driveway near the crest of a hill. His vehicle was struck by a northbound 1991 Dodge van driven by Joshua Leese, 17, of Charlevoix, according to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department.

Both vehicles were totaled.

The drivers were alone when the crash occurred. Both men were transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital and treated for multiple injuries. Leese was treated and released.

The Sheriff's Department was assisted at the scene by the Charlevoix City Fire/Rescue Department. The crash remains under investigation.

Smoke, no fire at Big Rock

Sparks from a cutting torch used to remove a steampipe in the contaminated sphere at Big Rock Point Nuclear Power Plant caused smoke in a small area when they fell onto a cloth cover that had surrounded the pipe.

"There was never any danger," spokesman Tim Petrosky said.

The incident occurred at 10:44 a.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 1.

The procedure could be performed by cutting the pipe with a saw, Petrosky said, but it would not be as efficient.

The nuclear plant's fire watch personnel were on the scene during the process that took place as part of the plant's dismantling procedure.

Charlevoix Township Fire Department responded to a call from Big Rock.

"According to procedure we called the Charlevoix Township Fire Department," Petrosky said.

Chief Curt Thompson and several other township fire fighters responded.

"It didn't involve us doing anything," Thompson said. "Big Rock put it out."

The department was on the scene for approximately a half hour. No injuries were reported.

SCRAPBOOK

1940s reminiscence

By: Marilyn Boss

In taking a memory stroll down Bridge Street in the 1940s, I begin at the foot of the south hill, with the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce building. It was used earlier as an open bandstand, and had toilets and showers on the bottom level for the use of boaters.

The Chamber was known as the Board of Commerce. Those in charge at the time had French windows installed, and made the building into a very unique structure. The present building was built in about 1960.

When I was 10 years old, my best girlfriend was Sara Coleman. She lived down the street from me, and in the summer we would ride on our bicycles down the hill to see her dad at the Chamber. His name was Stewart Coleman, and he was the high school English and literature teacher. He also coached the "Coleman's Cats," made up of boys in the lower grades. When they reached high school, they were good players, one of the secrets to Charlevoix's successes in the later basketball teams. Mr. Coleman would chat for awhile, and then reach in his pocket and bring out a dime. We would then ride over to Mont's ice cream stand and buy a nickel ice cream cone for each of us.

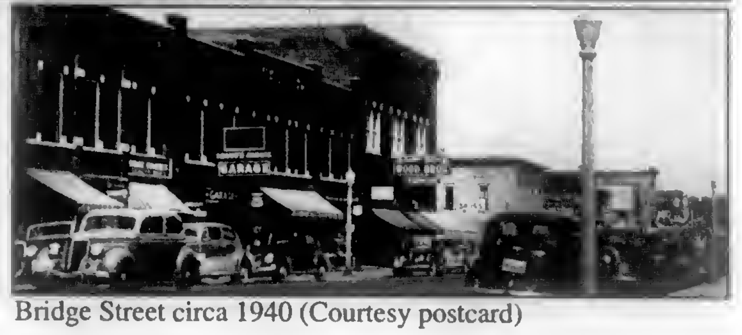
Next to the chamber building, was McFarland's Restaurant, owned by Pete and Lila McFarland. They had the restaurant open in the summer months, and they did a very good business. On the whole south side of the building was a painted sign which read "Welcome to Charlevoix the beautiful, Michigan's resort city on three lakes." They had a big bunch of bananas in the front window, and were famous for their mile high pies. Across the street, beginning with the corner of Antrim and Bridge was the post office, with the See apartments above it, next, was the Gamble's store, where you could buy tires, batteries and appliances.

Dallas Henry and his wife, Dorothy, had a barber and beauty shop, which they each ran. Outside the shop was a shoe shine chair, set on a big box. The men who wanted a shine would sit down and put their foot on a a pedestal, which the shoe shine boy would pull his stool up to. Many resorters would leave their black and white shoes there to be shined, and picked them up later. It was the shoe shine boy's responsibility to keep the barber shop floor swept and cleaned continually through the day, in exchange for the privilege of operating the stand.

Next to this building was a small nine-foot wide room, owned by the Brown family, which was used as the Greyhound bus terminal. Then, the big building next to this was Brown Motors, which sold Dodge and Plymouth automobiles. They even had an elevator which transported cars to the second floor for storage. Ben Brown, the owner lived upstairs in an apartment. They also had a thriving bicycle business, where they sold and rented bikes. There was a front entrance off Bridge St. to get cars into the paint and body shop, and an entrance off Mason St. to repair automobiles. Mr. Brown enjoyed selling bicycle parts. Although he had an extensive business, he enjoyed selling the bike parts himself.

Next door, in the Masonic building, was Wood Brothers Hardware, which carried everything from soup to nuts.

They had shelves which went all the way to the ceiling. They had a ladder which fastened to the ceiling, with wheels on the bottom of the ladder. It rolled on a track in the ceiling, which took it the full length of the south side of the building. I remember watching them climb nimbly up and down that ladder. Clarence and Forrest Wood owned the store, and Forrest was also one of the first electricians in Charlevoix. They had an entrance to the store from the Mason street side, with wide doors and a ramp going down grade into the room where customers could enter the store.



Bridge Street circa 1940 (Courtesy postcard)

They had their little blue 1938 Ford pickup parked inside the building on a piece of tin, so the snow they tracked in wouldn't ruin the floor. Dale remembers both Clarence and Forrest buying new 1946 Dodge automobiles from their friend, Mr. Brown next door. It was told that Clarence built a nice motorboat in the stall where he normally parked the pickup. When he tried to get it out, it wouldn't fit, because of the ramp, which went uphill. He had to make some modifications to get it out. They employed a nice fellow named Walt Taylor, who worked for them for years.

Dale remembers that kids who had projects they were building, would go to him to help them with the parts they needed. If a boy wanted a go-cart, he had to build it himself out of bits and pieces. It looks like the good old days are back, as the present owner of the hardware, Mark Greyerbiehl, has the store stocked from top to bottom, as a hardware store should be.

On the north corner of Mason and Bridge was Fesseden's drug store, where all the daily local scuttlebutt was exchanged. Above that, was the Masonic Hall, which is in use to this day. Next month, we will continue our stroll down Bridge Street.

Summer school provided fun and enrichment for students and teachers

While many schools closed their doors for the summer, Charlevoix Middle School was bustling.

Students studied measurement by making pizza, improved their reading skills and oral presentation skills, received individualized lessons, and took trips to the Charlevoix Public Library.

Charlevoix Public Schools recently completed another successful summer season. Forty-eight students from grades 3-10 completed hands-on coursework in reading, math, and the ILS (Integrated Learning Program).

Funding for the program was provided through 31.A At-Risk monies.

Students and teachers alike enjoyed the relaxed atmosphere and the added treat of having Fridays off from school to spend time with their families, visit relatives, work at various jobs in town, or just have summer fun.

"It's always a pleasure to see students eager to come to a summer program," said Gayle Gennett, elementary school counselor. "They reunite with friends they have missed and have the added advantage of getting a head start on the school year. Hats off to Charlevoix for offering an enriching program for our kids!"

School year off to a smooth start

By B. J. Hetler

Teachers crammed to memorize the names of new students, aides helped elementary school youngsters find the correct bus, middle school students hustled into the building comparing teachers and classes, and the excited chatter of high school students leveled off as assignments were doled out. A new school year started in Charlevoix.

The board also held its first meeting of the school year on Monday. Reports from principals, Dick Swenor, Dennis Van Guilder and Gary Grundman indicate a smooth start. High school athletic director Keith Haske said sports are strong and underway.

"All of the principals feel good about the start of school," superintendent John Sturock said.

Still, with a major school facilities construction and improvement program slated for a vote next month, an important question remains unanswered.

"Where's the land?"

That was the question asked by a member of the audience. The land would be the site of a new high school and auditorium that Charlevoix Public Schools want to build.

The purchase of land by Charlevoix Public Schools is part of the $18.8 million bond proposal that will be in front of the school district voters at a special election on October 11.

The proposal also calls for remodeling the present high school for upper elementary grades five and six, and middle school grades seven and eight, and remodeling K-four of the elementary school. Supporters of the proposal say the district needs new and remodeled buildings to house new technology for the students.

If passed, the proposal will raise property taxes on a house with a taxable value of $60,000 by $170.40 a year.

A site has been chosen and negotiations are pending, superintendent John Sturock said. An offer was made and the board awaits a response. Any further details would be premature until an agreement is made, he said.

The board hopes to have an answer by the end of this weekend.

Community pool job helps student dive into career

A part-time job in a business development office helped a young Charlevoix man make some important decisions about his future and his career choice.

In 1996, the summer after his junior year at Charlevoix High School, Jess Wood, started working as an office assistant with a loosely organized group of visionaries who wanted to build a public indoor swimming pool to serve the residents of Charlevoix. Today, Wood, 20, is a junior at Central Michigan University, majoring in commercial recreation. He also teaches several swimming classes at the new Charlevoix Area Community Pool (CACP), one of the recreational jewels of Charlevoix County.

Wood continued to work at the office after school through his senior year. He helped with fund-raising mailings, wrote letters, stuffed envelopes, answered phones, and became a valuable member of the core group that eventually saw their dream become a reality.

The community pool opened in summer of 1997, soon after Jess graduated from high school. While continuing to work at the pool, he enrolled in several swimming classes at CACP including lifeguard training.

He attended Western Michigan University for a semester then returned home and enrolled in classes at North Central Michigan College in Petoskey. In the spring of 1998 he completed a certified water safety instructor class at the pool and learned how to teach swimming lessons to others.

"I discovered that I really liked working with people," Jess said. Though the majority of Wood's students are elementary school children, he enjoys teaching anyone who wants to learn how to swim.

"It may sound a little sappy, but I feel like I'm making a difference in their lives, teaching them something that may actually save their life someday."

Wood transferred to Central Michigan University, intending to Charlevoix Hospital offers yoga, self-acceptance class

A program designed to help individuals discover what is happening inside of themselves, emotionally and physically will be presented from 7-8:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 16 at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

"Yoga and Self-Acceptance," a free, introductory program on yoga will be a two-way, interactive broadcast teleconference on RE-MEC, the telehealth network that links Charlevoix Area Hospital with Munson Medical Center in Traverse City. It will be held in the large classroom on the lower level of Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The presentation will be made by Sandra Carden, a certified yoga instructor and therapist. She is the director of Union Yoga in Traverse City. Carden teaches yoga classes through the Vital Choice at Munson Medical Center and with the Change of Heart Program, and offers yoga therapy to cancer patients.

Carden says personal appearance tells a story outwardly about how one feels inside. How a person feels can easily be interpreted by others in how one walks, stands, looks, and moves. A better self-image comes from one's core.

As a person makes even small, subtle, physical postural adjustments psychological and emotional changes also occur, according to Carden.

Program participants will learn how to empower themselves physically by using their own emotions, feelings, thoughts and ideas.

To register for the program call Connie Roland at 547-8570.

School bells ring in a new year

The first day of school was a flurry of activity at Charlevoix Public Schools. School opened on Tuesday, Sept. 7. The new school year is already in full swing. Pictured here are some scenes found at the schools on opening day.

(Lower left) A mixture of eagerness and apprehension were visible on the faces of many students on the first day of school. These kids clamoring off a school bus appear eager to start the day.

(Lower middle) Two middle school students quickly jumped back on their bikes when school let out after the first day of class. Warm temperatures allowed students to start school in summer clothing.

(Lower right) Kindergarten student Austin Themm is comforted by his parents, Geoff Themm and Carla Blacker, who try to convince him that school is fun.

VOICES

Four weddings and a storm

EDITH

EDITH GILBERT

Northern Michigan is becoming more and more a favorite wedding site for little weddings, big weddings, indoor weddings, outdoor weddings, church weddings, and garden weddings.

When selecting a wedding site for a reception, there's no problem finding a place that seats less than 125 people, but there is a big problem when guests number more than 150 people.

Believe it or not the only facility we've found (and we've thoroughly checked the whole area) is the Knights of Columbus Hall, and when that's taken, the only other choice one has is to rent a tent.

Renting a tent in woodsy Northern Michigan can also create it's own problem. With so many trees one often needs to set up three or four tents instead of just one big one. This was the situation for one of our lakeside weddings this summer.

Everything was set up the day before on Friday -- the tents, the speakers, the dance floor, when suddenly during the night a near hurricane hit the area. The bride's parents and assorted guests were up all night leaving messages on the answering machines for Stafford's Hospitality, the caterer, Taylor Rental, the tent people, and the Eminence Band.

"We need help! Our tent has blown clear over the roof of our house! The dance floor and speaker system are soaked!"

Fortunately no tall trees fell to the ground and help started to arrive at 7 am Saturday morning. Seating was rearranged, back-up band equipment arrived and by the time the afternoon receiving line formed under the pines, one would never have guessed that there had ever been a problem. Smiling guests greeted the unflappable couple completely unaware of the near disaster that had transpired at the reception site during the night.

A Michigan Avenue outdoor wedding, on the other hand, was blessed with perfect weather. The lovely early evening ceremony took place in a gazebo overlooking a sunset on Lake Michigan.

Guests dined in a beautiful garden setting that reminded everyone of a "Great Gatsby" scene.

The bride and groom chose to dance their first dance on the large, second story porch for the benefit of their guests. On the ground, only the dance floor was tented and lively music ceased at ten o'clock in consideration of the neighbors.

The following month another Michigan Avenue neighbor held a wedding for their youngest daughter. The ceremony took place in a church in Petoskey.

Guests released live butterflies before the bridal couple were driven back to Charlevoix in, guess what, the Petunia Truck! Then on to the Charlevoix Country Club, where a friendly florist had spent three days creating gorgeous huge floral arrangements for the reception. Welcoming speeches made everyone appreciate the solemnity and joy of this occasion. .

Finally during the delightful weekend of the fourth wedding, guests were first invited at 8:30 pm on Friday evening for a ride on the Emerald Isle. Boating on the water at night in Charlevoix is always an iffy proposition, but as luck would have it, starry skies twinkled on tranquil waters. Not a breeze stirred and out-of-town guests danced to lively music unaware of their good fortune.

The following afternoon the religious ceremony took place in a charming small church in Bay Shore, followed by a reception located again at the Charlevoix Country Club.

Guests were deeply touched by the warm appreciation both the bride and groom eloquently expressed to their parents, siblings and guests, for past and present kindnesses.

I've been told that numerous plain and fancy weddings are already planned for next summer -- day time, night time, indoor and out.

Whatever! Still I like to remind my readers of the trusted saying, "All weddings are the same, but no two weddings are alike!"

A garden is like an education

By Roger Knutson

Ear to the ground

A vegetable garden can be the source of continuous education as well as a bit of fresh food.

Each year I try to grow a few things that I haven't ever grown before, which usually contributes much more to education that it does to food.

After most of this gardening season is over, I can state with some certainty that Globe Artichokes do not grow well in northern Michigan. I started a dozen or so plants in the greenhouse during late winter, and by the time I put them out they were the size and appearance of sturdy thistles.

Contrary to what happens to most plants, my artichokes have been getting smaller all summer. By now each of the plants has three or four pale and dying leaves.

Maybe the days are too long, maybe the soil is not just right, maybe the air is too dry or too damp; I'll never know. Sweet potatoes do not do well either, even if given an early start, they are languishing. The leeks seem to be holding up, and may make something of themselves before frost. Maybe next year I'll try peanuts.

Each year I also let a few of the volunteer plants produced by seed from last year's crop grow and thrive if they will. Three years ago I planted a row of cilantro. When it finally went to seed I collected enough coriander to get me through the next decade, and now each year cilantro comes up all over the garden.

Each year I also get a few renegade offspring of the hybrid tomatoes I planted the year before. If a tomato plant looks healthy, I just can't find it in me to hoe it up. Second generation plants from hybrid parents are almost always less successful than their elders. Volunteer squash are most interesting because all varieties of squash can cross pollinate.

You never know when you might just get a new and valuable kind of squash. I spotted a half dozen plants that looked like squash coming up in places where I had not planted squash. "Let them grow," I thought, "Who knows what I might get?"

Those plants have demonstrated a vigor in growth that is unmatched by anything I planted. Those half dozen plants now cover about three fourths of the garden, and have yet to make anything but vines and a few peculiar looking fruits intermediate between zucchini and pumpkins. Oh, yes, there was one golden yellow bowling ball sized fruit that looked promising. When cut open it consisted totally of pulp and seeds.

None of these strange fruits taste any better than they look.

Maybe next year.

Among the garden volunteers that have been most successful this year are the finest crop of weeds I have ever observed.

I relaxed for a couple of weeks in midsummer and the weeds, ever watchful, took over large parts of the garden that were not already occupied by the squash from hell.

Someone asked me a couple of weeks ago, "Why do weeds grow so fast?" Having watched a practical demonstration of just how fast, I can say that it is because weeds have been practicing fast growth for millions of years. Think how good the Lions or the Pistons would be if they had practiced that long!

This year's crop of food from the garden has been limited, but the education output has been greater than most years. Just like with the Lions or the Pistons or the Tigers: Wait 'til next year.

Letters to the Editor

Mouse writes, seasonal resident roars

Editor:

We would like to comment on last week's CYC sailing article by A. Nony Mouse in the Courier, wherein it is stated "We race in October, you fudgies. Go home. We want our lake back."

Those are unkind remarks to the tourists and summer residents without whom Charlevoix could not survive.

Our Lake Charlevoix home, built by local builder, Jay Heininger, was one of the fine homes featured in the 1997 home tour which raised thousands of dollars for the hospital and community pool. Our car was used in the Venetian parade. We have a Glen's card, frequent the area restaurants, have an account with Charlevoix Floral and have met Grandma Friskie and Auntie Barb. Our daughters have worked summers at the local bookstore and ice cream parlor.

We support the local merchants as much as possible. Certainly our tax dollars aid in bettering the Charlevoix community and schools. Our downstate home has been sold and we plan to live in Charlevoix permanently.

How many of the J-22 sailboaters are true locals? With narrow-minded comments by A. Nony Mouse one can be sure Charlevoix the Beautiful will never be Charlevoix the Friendly.

Perhaps Charlevoix should not worry so much about who will weed the petunias as much as appreciating the fudgies and summer residents who come to see them.

Mike and Denise Schlitt,
Charlevoix

P. S. We plan to use "your lake" as often as possible.

Residents seek to halt housing project

Dear Editor:

As neighbors of May Street in Charlevoix, we want the residents to be aware of the proposed 24-units of public housing to be located next to Mayfield Village.

The proposed plan was presented to the city back in 1991. The plan failed because the developer could not get any federal funding at that time. This property was rezoned by the city from R-1 (single family) to R-4 (multiple-family) at that time.

The city zoning ordinance states if construction doesn't begin in 12 months, the area zoned by the city would lose that status and revert back to the former zoning. In this case, R-1.

Eight years have passed and nothing has been done with this property. The neighbors surrounding this property have been under the assumption the land in question has already reverted back to R-1 and should be treated as such.

The city planner, Mr. Harsch, would like the city council to treat this property as R-4. We have been researching and arguing the zoning law since July.

We are also wondering exactly what federal funds are to be used and who determined the actual need study for this project. It's hard to believe developers can use taxpayers money for projects not needed.

We checked with Mayfield Village and they do not have a long waiting list and most of those were from downstate.

We feel very emphatic about the drastic changes made in the past eight years on May Street and our neighborhood, especially the traffic. Adding another housing project with 24 more units (could be 24-48 more cars) would certainly make a huge impact on our community.

We would like to have your support (possibly last chance) at the next city council meeting to be on Sept. 20 at 7 p.m. ay City Hall.

Sincerely,
Rhonda Siwarga and Shirley Roloff
Charlevoix

P.S. We are very disappointed that nothing has been publicized concerning this project!

Block earns Moreno Memorial scholarship

Brooke Block, an award winning athlete and captain of the 1999 Charlevoix High School girls varsity soccer team, is this year's recipient of the Alberto Moreno Memorial Scholarship for $500.

Brooke plans to study pre-med at DePauw University in Greencastle, Ind.

Established three years ago with the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, the fund honors Alberto Moreno, an immigrant who instilled a love of learning in his children.

Local residents, descendants of Moreno, set up the fund to encourage others to share his devotion to learning.

The Moreno Scholarship is designated for young women graduates of Charlevoix High School who have lettered in soccer and plans to attend a liberal arts college. This is the second scholarship awarded from the Moreno Fund.

The Alberto Moreno Fund is one of 30 scholarship funds currently held by the Charlevoix County Community Foundation.

Founded by local citizens in 1992, the Foundation receives charitable contributions from individuals and organizations — many of them earmarked for education, health and human services, youth programs, environmental causes, the arts, and other projects that benefit residents of the county.

Since it began, the Community Foundation's assets have grown to more than $6.5 million, and grants and scholarships totaling $1.5 million have been distributed throughout the area.

More information about the Community Foundation and its scholarship funds is available by calling the Foundation office, (231) 536-2440.

Edward was part of the Sundew crew that rescued the only two survivors of the freighter "Carl D. Bradley" which sank in 1958. Edward retired as a Chief Boatswain Mate on May 1, 1965. He was very proud of his 20 years of service in the United States Coast Guard.

He is survived by his wife, Donnis R. Minch of Mancelona; one son, Larry (Carolyn Kohn) Minch of Charlevoix; three grandchildren, Timothy Edward (Renee Allen) Minch of Mancelona, Kevin Harold (Bonnie Thompson) Minch of Traverse City, and Jennifer Lynn Minch of Traverse City; four great grandchildren, Alyssa Nicole Minch of Mancelona, Alexis Nicole Minch of Mancelona, Margaret Rose Minch of Traverse City, and Ryan Patrick Minch of Traverse City; one brother, Harry (Connie) Karr of Greeley, Colorado; and two sisters, Catherine Wilson of Biggers, Arkansas and Betty (Ray) Schump or Greeley, Colorado. He was preceded in death by his parents and one brother, Harold.

The family received friends on Wednesday, September 8 at the Paullin-Penzien Funeral Home in Mancelona. Memorials may be given to Mancelona Baptist Church.

SEP 1999

It's a g'day to buy a 'Walkabout' hat, mate!

Music man, professor Harold Hill sold band instruments. Lee Iococca sold automobiles. Paul Popiel sold gadgets that sliced and diced. Suzanne Sommer used her "talents" to sell thigh masters.

As good as they were, these super sales people would have a tough time topping the sales success of Charlevoix resident, Dane Heckendorn.

Heckendorn, owner and founder of Great Lakes Outback, sells original Australian leather hats and accessories. Lots of them. Listen to his carnival barker-style sales pitch and you'd believe he could sell Australian Walkabout hats to kangaroos and wallabies.

He got the idea to get into the hat selling business seven years ago while visiting a friend who was selling fudge at the Texas State Fair.

At the time, Dane says he was "taking a break" from Polished Productions, a firm he owned that specialized in detailing and cleaning aircraft, boats and cars..

There he was, deep in the heart of Texas, watching a vendor sell Australian-styled leather hats. "This guy was selling one after another, right and left," Heckendorn said. "He should have been selling western-style cowboy hats."

Heckendorn recognized an opportunity. He telephoned his father, George Heckendorn, a professional sales and marketing consultant. "I told him what I had observed. He is a very smart, experienced and successful guy. I respect his opinion." The senior Heckendorn agreed, the venture sounded viable.

Dane picked out a hat for himself, and bought about 40 more to bring back to Michigan. He packed the hats, hat bands and glue in a simple plastic locker box he purchased at KMart, stashed it all in his Mustang LX and headed home.

The hat vendor could see Heckendorn's raw enthusiasm, drive and energy. Dane was no ordinary peddler, he was a true entrepreneur. Heckendorn was offered the chance to become part of the company.

"I knew I could sell these hats. They're a great product for the hunting and fishing market, especially in this area," he said.

His first sales were to two friends, Steve Rozema of Design Tech and Roger Shepard of Vacation Properties Network. From there he set up shop on gas station, restaurant and mall parking lots.

He quickly sold the hats and immediately realized he was in a real business. "I needed a commercial loan to buy more inventory." A lending officer at CB North Bank was somewhat skeptical, but authorized a $7,100 loan with only a seven-day due date. Heckendorn went to sports shows and set up outside the arenas, because he could not get space inside. He sold 300 hats and made good on the loan. The rest is history.

In 1995 he sold 957 hats in nine days at the Wisconsin State Fair, and another 151 hats in six hours at a bow hunter's bash sponsored by rock musician and outdoorsman Ted Nugent.

Heckendorn works 50 shows a year — sports, outdoors and boat shows, state fairs and music festivals — "all by myself." He sells 6,200 - 6,500 hats annually from out of his Chevy Suburban, at his show booth, and by appointment from his home in Charlevoix.

"I am as professional as I can be with a fun product. I don't care about how many I sell. I care about the smiles on the faces of my customers who leave my booth and my reputation that follows."

So, what makes these hats from down under so appealing? Are there really that many Crocodile Dundee wannabees? Dane says it's all in the tanning and dying of the pig skin or cattle leather, the unique styling, the shapability, durability, utility and comfort of the hats.

"Western hats are very selective. Not everybody looks good in a cowboy hat. Not everybody wants to wear one fishing," he says. "These hats can be crushed and beaten, then quickly reshaped to their original state. They're comfortable, water proof, and look great, too."

The leather hats are available in six colors with a variety of hat bands. Most cost $40-$50 each. A couple of styles are made of cotton and lightweight cotton mesh.

Dane recently visited Australia and plans to introduce his own line of hats and leather boots later this fall.

Heckendorn the Hat Man, grew up in Charlevoix, the son of George and Naomi Heckendorn. He is a 1981 graduate of Charlevoix High School.

Part-time job leads to career choice

POOL

Aquatics safety instructor Jess Wood discovered his career calling at the Charlevoix Area Community Pool. He is majoring in commercial recreation at Central Michigan University. (Photo by Doug Drapal) major in theater, but decided to go into commercial recreation instead.

Central Michigan is recognized as one of the top three universities in the country for recreational program studies.

The curriculum at CMU includes classes in resort hospitality, recreation, leadership skills, and programming, event organization, and entrepreneurial business. His electives include several advanced swimming and diving classes.

Upon graduation Wood will serve a full-time, 30-week internship directing a community recreation facility somewhere in the United States or overseas.

His ultimate career goal is to build a community recreation facility that would include aquatics, basketball and racquetball courts, a fitness center, plus arts, crafts, and a music venue all under one roof.

Until then, Jess will split his time between studying, and working as an aquatic safety specialist at the CACP every other weekend, or as much as his schedule permits.

"It is really nice to have the opportunity to work here," said Wood. "The facility is great and my co-workers and people who come here to use the pool are wonderful."

Last June he received a scholarship to attend an intense 10-day, 7 a.m. - 11 p.m. training camp in Fenton, Mich. sponsored by the American Red Cross.

There he received certifications in lifeguard instructor training, automated external defibrillation (AED), and AED instructor training.

Jess is the son of Vance and Toni Wood of Charlevoix.

Up to 20 Charlevoix area residents will have an opportunity to benefit from Wood's extensive training beginning Sept. 24. He and CACP director Al Gooch will serve as co-instructors and present a two-weekend-long American Red Cross Water Safety Instructor Training class.

The certification class is required of anyone interested in teaching swimming lessons. Participants must be at least 17 years old and be able to swim 25 yards using the front, back, breast, side, and elementary back strokes, and 10 yards using the butterfly stroke.

A pre-class water skills test will be conducted at the pool on Friday, Sept. 24.

Thirty-six hours of instruction will be offered at the CACP from 6-10 p.m. on Fridays, Sept. 24 and Oct. 8; 10 a.m.-5 p.m. on Saturdays, Sept. 25 and Oct. 9; and 11 a.m.-5 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 10.

A 25-question multiple choice written test will also be given.

Course fee is $150 per person. Instruction manuals are included.

To register for the Water Safety Instructor Training class, or any of the pool's activities call 547-0982.

Yachting Notes

By A. Nony Mouse

Why is it called the Crawford Trucking Triangle? 'Cause Larry Crawford was sailing the J-22 "Reckless" and, wow, was he trucking!

Now why it's called a triangle when we all saw them sail just a windward/leeward course is a lighter question - light air, that is.

A very smart Race Committee shortened course and took finishes at the leeward (second) mark. A beautiful sight on a perfect summer evening as thirty-eight vessels competed in Friday's warm-up to the Red Fox Regatta.

They ranged from cruising yachts to pure racing machines such as the catamarans that put on such a great show over the entire weekend.

Listed in division order, we have Booma taking top honors in Division 1, the Jim and Main fleet. Flash, Apothecary, Loup de la Mer and Cheemaun followed.

In Division 2, the smaller spinnaker yachts, Bandit was up to its old tricks, saving its time by over three minutes on Blasen III and Tireless, who were right together. Trailing them, it was Our Thyme II, Original Sin and High C.

Reckless, with Race Sponsor Larry Crawford aboard, earned the smell of cordite in Division 3, the J-22 Fleet. Superfluous and Pale-face Lite were also in the money with H S Moisture Missile just seconds later. The Swine Flew, Gecko, High Maintenance and Habanero crossed in that order.

The mid-sized spinnaker fleet put on a very pretty show in Division 4 with Relentless, Mi Joy and Under Shot in the money, in that order. Gotcha! and Spar Wars II were close. Farrago, Youdal, Mint Julep and Babe lagged a bit.

I enjoyed the wide range of ratings in Division 5, the fastest of the spinnaker yachts. Flying Toaster, Li'l Iodine and Surprise took the honors by a wide margin on corrected time, trailed by Sensation, Kokomo, Mental Floss, Major Woody, Bramble, Lickety Split and Inn-Ovation.

Anyone watching would never have guessed those results as the actual order of finish was Kokomo, Surprise, Sensation, Flying Toaster, Li'l Iodine then a long gap followed by Bramble, Mental Floss, Major Woody, Lickety Split an Inn-Ovation..

Missed that lovely slurrp sound when the catamarans' spinnakers drain back down that tube! They did not have a fleet in Friday's race but, next year?

Special thanks to Crawford Trucking for their sponsorship and to Gloria, Kim and Nita for the great after-race evening hospitality! Also to Pam and Bev, super T-shirt sales moguls!

Junior golf volunteers get reward for valuable service

Too often the hard work and efforts of volunteers go unnoticed, but that is not so for the 35 adults who contributed valuable services to the Charlevoix's junior golf program this summer.

Charlevoix Country Club manager Ron Braniecki helped host a golf scramble at the club to recognize and thank the volunteers, recently.

"We hosted the junior golf program four times this summer and it was obvious that the mentors helped the large number of young golfers to get the most out of the golf fundamentals and course etiquette presented by the teaching staff," said Braniecki. "We enjoyed having them and were pleased to salute their efforts by hosting them at our course."

Junior golf executive director Dean Davenport also praised the mentors who aided the 195 junior golfers who participated in the 1999 program. "The volunteers walked holes with our golfers, helped with registration, and aided in skill testing," said Davenport, "We couldn't have run the program without them."

The scramble team of Berry Pierce, Rick Luther, Dick Doty and Karen Pierce won the event by one stroke.

The golf event was followed by a luncheon and a session to evaluate this year's program and plan for next year.

Golfers place second at Belvedere

Charlevoix finished second in a three-team, non-conference match last Wednesday at Belvedere Golf Club.

Petoskey won the event 163-180.

The Rayders' team tied with Inland Lakes but earned second place by way of the fifth scorer.

"It was an off day for our team," said coach Jim Glynn. "We can and should shoot better than 180. I expect more from the whole team. Chris Smith really helped today, and Allan Brooks' score (48) locked up second place. It goes to show just how important every player is on this team."

Charlevoix falls to East Jordan, 36-19

Charlevoix's offense showed signs of life Friday by executing several plays for big gains, but penalties, injuries, and a solid East Jordan football team were too much to overcome.

The Rayders lost to the Red Devils, 36-19 in their conference opener.

Ryan Leitner finished with 208 yards from scrimmage — 105 rushing and 103 receiving — his second straight 200-plus yard game.

Quarterback Adam Wood completed 11 of 14 passes for 214 yards.

Charlevoix outgained East Jordan 318-303 in total yardage.

East Jordan opened the game with a 78-yard scoring drive to go ahead, 8-0. The Rayders responded quickly. Wood hit Leitner with a screen pass and the junior tailback took it 80 yards for a touchdown and cut the lead to 8-6.

East Jordan marched 64 yards for another score and led at halftime, 16-6.

Ben VanGuilder scored a touchdown on a 44-yard pass from Wood early in the third quarter and the Rayders sliced the lead to 16-12.

The Devils scored on a 10-yard run and on a 15-yard fumble return to up their lead to 29-12 at the end of three quarters.

Leitner scored again on a one-yard run, Sean Stockman kicked the extra point to end the scoring for Charlevoix.

East Jordan scored once more and the game ended, 36-19. East Jordan improved to 3-0, Charlevoix dropped to 0-3 for the season.

Stockman 3, Forest Area 1

Charlevoix remained undefeated on the season as Sean Stockman scored all three goals in a 3-1 win over Forest Area on Sept. 7 at home.

Chris Tilley stopped every shot he faced and the Rayders led 2-0 at half-time. The teams traded second-half goals and Charlevoix earned their fifth straight victory.

Zach Dennis and Roscoe Serrels each assisted on a Stockman goal.

Charlevoix kept their perfect record intact with a 4-1 win at Northern Michigan Christian Academy on Sept. 9 .

Mike Ricks started the scoring for Charlevoix. Sean Stockman, Tomasz Barczynski and Jon Boss also kicked the ball into the net.

Jon Boss had two assists, Serrels and Dennis had one assist each .

Chris Tilley played well between the pipes, allowing just a pair of goals to the two Northern Michigan Soccer League foes last week.

Coach Josh Block was pleased with his team's performance. "We've been winning, but this was the first really good game of soccer we have played this season."

Charlevoix hosts a very tough Roscommon team on Sept. 17 at Kipke Field, and plays at Forest Area on Sept. 21.

CROP walkers help 'de-feet' hunger

By Rosemary Horton

Many people in Boyne City, Charlevoix, and East Jordan are looking through their closets, searching for just that right pair of boots that are "made for walkin'" as they prepare for the Charlevoix County CROP Walk on Saturday, Sept. 25.

The 16th annual CROP (Christian Rural Overseas Project) Walk to help combat world and local hunger will start from three different locations. All three routes will end at the Ironton Congregational Church. The East Jordan Rotary Club will serve a hot dog lunch to all the walkers.

Boyne City participants will begin their hike from Whiting Park and walk to the Ironton Ferry. After crossing Lake Charlevoix on the ferry boat, they will continue on a short distance to the Ironton Church.

East Jordan walkers will start at Elm Pointe and walk along M-66 to Ironton. Charlevoix participants will begin from the May Street door of the high school, proceed down May Street to Stover Rd., then to M-66 and on to Ironton.

There will be a rest stop along each route. A "sag wagon" will drive the routes and pick up any one who cannot complete the walk. Each route is approximately six miles in length.

The walk begins at 9 a.m. and participants are encouraged to come early to register, turn in pledge money, and obtain a bright orange vest to wear for safety's sake.

This is a walk. Bicycles, skate boards, in-line skates, etc. are not allowed. Parents may push children in strollers, or pull them in wagons. Wheelchairs arc also permitted.

To obtain a sponsor form contact your local church or call Kay Smith in Charlevoix at 547-2920; Diana Walls in Boyne City at 582-6485; or Marge Teske in East Jordan at 536-3128.

The mayors of Charlevoix, Boyne City and east Jordan have declared Saturday, Sept. 25 "CROP Walk Day."

Please come join in the walk and help "de-feet" hunger on our planet.

Funnel clouds, water spouts

Alleged child pornographers face court dates

By B. J. Hetler

Two alleged child pornographers will appear at preliminary examinations this month in the 90th District Court in Charlevoix.

Roland Reed Ray, 77, of 09361 Mount McSauba Road in Charlevoix township will appear at 3 p.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 28, on charges of promoting child sexually abusive activity, a felony punishable by up to seven years in state prison and/or a $50,000 fine, and with possession of child sexually abusive material, a one-year misdemeanor and/or a $10,000 fine.

Rigoberto Vega, 61, of Kinde in Huron county will appear at 2 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 23, on charges of criminal sexual oonduct, third degree, a 15-year felony, and committing child sexually abusive activity, a 20-year felony.

Ray and Vega allegedly exchanged pornographic photographs of boys. Police found multiple photographs throughout Ray's house when they used a search warrant to investigate. Ray was arrested on Saturday, Aug. 28, by Charlevoix County Sheriff's deputies.

Vega is accused of criminal sexual conduct with a minor male inside Ray's house on Venetian weekend, in late July.

He was arrested by the Huron County Sheriff's Office in Kinde. He subsequently turned himself in to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office on Friday, Sept. 10, and was arraigned in Charlevoix district court.

Judge Richard W. May set a $20,000 cash or surety bond which was posted on Friday. Vega requested a court-appointed attorney which was approved by the court.

Ray is also free on bond with orders from Judge May not to have contact with anyone under the age of 18.

Petoskey attorney Daniel J. Hartman was hired by Ray to defend him.

The Charlevoix prosecuting attorney will present evidence at the preliminary examinations, and the court will determine whether to bind Ray and Vega over to the circuit court for trial.

Anyone having information that would assist the sheriff's office is asked to call Sheriff George T. Lasater or Sgt. Don Sproul at (231) 547-4461.

Chain letter scam hits area

The Charlevoix Area Sheriff's Department is warning residents to beware of a new mail scam involving chain letters.

The sender assures the receiver that by mailing $1 to six addresses on a list they may potentially earn $50,000 or more.

The receiver is also asked to mail 100 copies of the chain letter to a list of 100 names which must be purchased from the original sender for a cost of $18 to $55.

The people benefiting from this scheme are the people selling the mailing lists, said Sheriff George T. Lasater.

The Sheriff advises against participating in this ruse and reminds citizens that chain letters are a violation of the United States postal laws.

Sheriff's office offers home security check program

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office is providing a security check program for county residents.

Persons who will be absent from their homes for a period of time may contact the sheriff's office to obtain a security check form.

Residents who have applied for this program in the past must resubmit a request again this year.

This program adds to security coverage of homes. It does not take the place of private security programs, advises the sheriff.

Holy Island, a history of summer

By Geoffrey D. Reynolds

Located south of Ironton on the somewhat winding and narrow South Arm of Lake Charlevoix is a small and quiet section of land known as Holy Island.

Originally, the eleven acre island contained untouched white poplar and evergreens not seen by many people of the area. But this spot was not always as peaceful as it may appear today. Historically it is filled with strange happenings and is connected with a very colorful figure of our area.

Holy Island, as it became known, was virtually unknown to many inhabitants that resided in towns around the lake until about 1855. In that year James Jesse Strang, King of the Mormons of Beaver Island, and his "Saints" designated the island, then situated in Lake Mormon, as their place of ritual and feast.

The event was to be called the 'Feast of the First Fruits' and was to be held on the first Sabbath after the full moon each August and continue for several days. The event would be held to celebrate future feasts and possibly a headquarters for a future Mormon colony to firmly establish the religion on the mainland.

On July 15, 1855 a conference of the Church was held to discuss Lake Mormon (Lake Charlevoix) area persecutions and dispossession of Strang followers. Attending that meeting were approximately fifty Mormon followers who ate roast ox and other large animals, enough to feed all the participants. Unexpectedly this dream of Strang's came to an end in 1856 with his assassination, and with it the plans for a yearly feast.

With the death of King Strang so went the Mormon dominance of Holy Island. Not until the 1880's did the island see frequent visitors again. This time the part-time inhabitants consisted of summer resorters. This second wave of islanders included Col. O.F. Wisner, of Charlevoix, and Nelson Daniels, of Wacousta, Michigan. As owners of the island they made many improvements to the vegetation entangled interior and shoreline, thus making it attractive and livable.

After clearing the rubbish from the island, Wisner and Daniels apparently sectioned it off and sold individual lots in an attempt to form a resort community. Plans were made for a large clubhouse as well as a central avenue connecting the two shorelines of the island. During the 1920's the main section of the Pine River bridge that spanned the river from 1878-1901 was purchased by island owners and placed there for automobile traffic, after it had spent many years as the East Jordan bridge for M-66.

Today, Holy Island resembles the resort community Wisner and Daniels envisioned, but still maintains its quiet and secluded setting, much like King Strang saw it in the 1850's.

Board OK's land purchase for new high school

By B. J. Hetler

The Charlevoix School Board unanimously approved the $250,000 purchase of 74 acres for the site of a new high school. The land is located on Marion Center Road in Marion Township.

The vote was taken at a special board meeting held on Friday, Sept. 17, at the high school. The new high school will be built if an $18.8 million bond proposal passes at an Oct. 11 special election. The proposal calls for 2.84 mils for 20 years.

The 74 acres lie between Clark and Veenstra roads. The parcel is more than double the size recommended by consultants, but board president Allen Telgenhof said the district will benefit in the long-run.

"I'm very happy about it," Telgenhof said. "We have the ability to put another school out there, down the road."

The board chose to purchase 74 acres because it is planning for the long-term, Telgenhof said. It shows leadership and vision and will help future boards.

Co-chair of the Citizens for Quality Schools committee, Bill Trubilowicz, was present at the meeting and applauded the purchase.

"I feel wonderful," he said. "It's unbelievable what a good site this is. Seventy-four acres will serve the community for the next 100 years."

The Citizens for Quality Schools is the committee that is pushing for the school millage.

The purchase of the land was not contingent on passage of the bond proposal. The school district will use the land now or have it for the future, Telgenhof said.

"We felt strongly enough that this is the best piece. If the proposal is defeated, I would anticipate coming back with another proposal.

"We didn't want the purchase of land contingent on the bond passing. We wanted to keep the politics of where the land was situated out of it."

Voters became confused and too caught up in votes being dependent on the board's choice of land location during the last bond election, Telgenhof explained, and this board didn't want that to happen again.

Superintendent Dr. John Sturock and three board members, Telgenhof, Dennis Halverson and Barney Way, visited and considered 11 parcels of land in and near Charlevoix.

"The committee worked hard," Sturock said. He commended the members of the board who researched and negotiated the land purchase.

The following criteria were used to make a decision:

- Location
- Development potential
- Transportation
- Land features
- Utilities
- Acquisition cost

The bond proposal budget for land for construction of a new high school is $1.6 million. The land budget includes the purchase price and site preparation, Telgenhof said.

The parcel is an economical choice, considering the purchase price and the estimated costs of site preparation, he said. The acreage is currently used for growing corn by the sellers, Stella Alexander and Susan Reese.

Putting in a sewer will be the most expensive part of site preparation, but at this point, it looks like costs may be $1.2 million, instead

Art Reibel dies at Castle Farms

Long-time notable Charlevoix resident Arthur Reibel, owner of Castle Farms, died of a heart attack at the age of 66 on Sunday morning at his residence.

Reibel was found at 8:10 a.m. outside of his home by a tenant at Castle Farms. An investigation by the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office and an examination by county medical examiner, Dr. Reed Freidinger, revealed that Reibel died of natural causes.

Reibel was a person with dramatically diverse interests. He was a lawyer and then a 90th District Court judge for Charlevoix and Emmet counties in the 1970s. He resigned as district court judge after two years when the Michigan Judicial Tenure Commission charged him with neglecting his judicial duties and pursuing personal interests.

of $1.6 million, Telgenhof said.

As well as construction of a new high school on a new site, the $18.8 million bond proposal calls for upgrading the elementary school for grade K-four, and remodeling the current high school for fifth and sixth grade upper elementary students and seventh and eighth grade middle school students.

A homeowner with a house valued at $120,000, would pay an additional $170.40 a year in property taxes if the bond proposal passes.

Reibel later hosted outdoor concerts that drew complaints from neighbors about the heavy-metal groups' performances and the unruly crowds.

Castle Farms and Reibel evolved into hosting antique shows, art fairs, and, most recently, a chicken meal catering business.

Castle Farms is located on M-66, south of Charlevoix. It is on the National Register of Historic Places.

City marina packed them in all summer

Boaters filled every slip at the Charlevoix City Marina for the entire summer.

"It was very brisk," harbor master Hal Evans said. "All slips from the 26th of June 'til Aug. 22 were full every night. It was jam-packed."

The marina has 62 slips, 12 that are seasonal and 50 that are transient. Boats in transient slips may dock up to 14 days.

Evans manages the marina with up to five employees during the peak of the summer.

The slip fee base rates start at $19.50 per night for boats up to 25 feet. Rates go up approximately $1 per foot after that, Evans said.

The trend this year was bigger boats than in previous years. The average size of a boat was 30-40 feet.

During the Venetian Festival in July, the marina hosted four, 100-foot yachts, Evans said.

A new 103-foot yacht christened "Lad" was rumored to be actor Mel Gibson's boat. Evans did not say who Lad belonged to, but he did say it wasn't Gibson's.

The marina closes on Sept. 30, ending a busy season.

"It was really good," Evans said. "Weather-wise and boater-wise."

Business sizzled in Charlevoix

Charlevoix area businesses prospered under the summer heat that brought many visitors to the north country.

Mike and Sue Kiteley enjoyed their first year of entrepreneurship, having taken over the Kiteley Berry & Farm Market on Brock Road from Mike's parents, Charles and Carmen Kiteley, this past spring. The couple moved from Tennessee to operate the farm.

Business was steady all summer and meeting people was part of the fun, Mike and Sue said.

"I really like it," Sue said. "People share recipes and talk about their lives."

"They all seemed like good people," Mike said. "We had a lot of repeat customers." Many of the customers had been coming to the farm during the more than 10 years that Mike's parents operated the business. A large percentage come to pick their own in-season berries.

Kiteley Berry & Farm Market sells strawberries, raspberries, and a variety of fresh produce. This season was especially good for strawberries and sweet corn, Sue said.

A local fish market reports a good season. June Cross, an owner of Cross Fisheries in Charlevoix, said the market sold out of whitefish, its number-one-seller, a couple of times.

Cross Fisheries supplies many of the city's restaurants and restaurants in Bay Harbor and Traverse City. Steady walk-in customers keep the staff working hard at the market as well. The most demanding times are the Fourth of July, Venetian Festival and the August Waterfront Art Fair.

Retail and accommodation businesses had a profitable summer. The Clothing Company on Bridge Street served many customers, manager Pam Beer said.

"We sold out of everything after Sidewalk Sales," she said. The store is open seven days a week throughout the year. It sells casual summer and winter sportswear. Beer said the hot weather brought more people into town.

Steve Bennett, an owner of the bed-and-breakfast Mac Dougall House, said business was substantially better this summer than in the past.

"We met total capacity better than in the past," Bennett said. The five-bedroom establishment is family-run. The "no vacancy" sign was posted more than usual, he said.

Bennett didn't experience a shortage of staff because his family helps with the business. But many area businesses could not find the help needed for the season.

With summer over, fall will bring more visitors. Bennett said The Mac Dougall House is full for October.

Many businesses are taking advantage of the end of the summer season break and preparing for fall and Applefest visitors. Applefest is a popular Charlevoix event held on Oct. 8-10 in East Park.

A. Nony Mouse tenders apology

Editor: To Mr. & Mrs. Schlitt

Please accept my apologies for the comment regarding "fudgies" which appeared over the byline A. Nony Mouse in the September 15th issue.

I agree that it was not in good taste. I would like you to know that I, Josh Barnes, writing as A. Nony Mouse, did not write or submit the portion of the Courier combined submissions that contained that comment. Since it did appear over my byline, my apology still stands and I hope you will accept it.

On a side note, as a recent import (1964), I only considered myself a fudgie during the years before that when I visited the area to sail and ski. I think most would agree with me, that you are definitely NOT fudgies! But, like me, you also can never be "native."

(Editor's note: Unbeknownst to the Courier and Mr. Barnes, more than one writer used the pen name, "A. Nony Mouse," when submitting CYC's Yachting Notes this summer. We regret not smelling a "mouse" impersonating the "Mouse.")

Would stand in line to vote YES

Editor:

As the mother of two children attending Charlevoix Elementary School, the bond issue is very important to me.

The need for change hits home every time I drive past the portables that house two sections of fifth grade and know that next year my daughter has a fifty-fifty chance of attending class in one of them.

The overcrowding is also obvious when I walk past a temporary third grade classroom constructed of moveable walls in the middle of the resource center.

I am not reassured to know that in two years I will send a child to begin her middle school education in a building that was already outdated when her father attended it twenty five years ago.

Our schools are blessed with dedicated educators, numerous volunteers, involved parents and, most importantly, a deserving student body. What a shame to subject these resources to our substandard facilities. A popular argument is that the building doesn't matter, only what goes on inside it. I say that physical discomfort distracts even the most gifted student.

Charlevoix is a town that takes pride in its community. How many of us turn out every May to plant petunias and brave the line for a hot dog afterward? How about all the decorated cars and store fronts last spring when the Rayders had their incredible season? We sure rushed to stand in line to purchase tickets to cheer them on in East Lansing.

I hope Charlevoix residents will turn out in full force on October 11 and show pride in our community's students by voting YES on the bond issue.

Sincerely,
Robin Morgridge

Supports school bond proposal

Editor:

Late last winter I was asked to be part of a Citizens Committee to evaluate facilities options for Charlevoix Schools. The committee met every week from March through June, thoroughly studied many options, and produced an excellent facilities plan for our schools, but more important for our children. This plan relieves the overcrowding at the elementary school, renovates the existing high school facility for use as a combination middle school/upper elementary, and provides for a new high school with an auditorium. It is a solid, long-term plan that provides educational benefits for our students at every level.

I believe the Committee made the right choice in its recommendation to the School Board. I hope that the voters will make the right choice and vote YES on the October 11, 1999 School Bond Proposal.

Sincerely,
Cheri Hoffman

Jerry Lewis applauds support

Editor:

The people of Charlevoix have done it again! They really pulled for us this year and helped make the 1999 Jerry Lewis MDA Telethon a winner with $53.1 million in pledges and contributions!

By taking part in local MDA events, by calling in pledges to the Telethon broadcast on WPBN/WTOM-TV, Channel 7/4, by helping "my kids" in other ways, Charlevoix Courier readers have made a huge difference for families throughout Michigan and across the nation.

They've helped speed MDA-funded research at University of Michigan, Wayne State University, Michigan State University and around the globe. Moreover, they've helped maintain the national network of clinics that resulted in MDA becoming the first organization honored by the American Medical Association with a Lifetime Achievement Award "for significant and lasting contributions to the health and welfare of humanity." In Michigan MDA has eight clinics offering the best in patient care.

For making the 1999 MDA Telethon a bell-ringer, thanks, Charlevoix!

Sincerely,
Jerry Lewis
National Chairman
Muscular Dystrophy Association

Supports affordable housing

Editor:

As an advocate for affordable housing for all residents of Charlevoix and Emmet counties I would like to respond to a letter to the editor published in the Sept. 15 Courier regarding the development planned next to Mayfield Village in the City of Charlevoix.

I agree with the writers of that letter that the City must clarify zoning issues and stand by their decision. This is needed to further community support and trust in local government.

The justification noted for not needing affordable housing was a short waiting list at Mayfield Village. However, if you search a bit further you will find working homeless families living in area homeless shelters and domestic violence shelters for many, many weeks, people staying in camp grounds for months at a time, vacancy rates at complexes at all time lows and families being forced to double up in single family units. The need for affordable housing is at critical levels for many.

Local governments and planning groups must begin to designate land for affordable housing development to ensure the stability of northern Michigan families. They work here, their children go to school here, they spend their money in our stores, and they volunteer their time and talents investing in our community. We must invest in them and provide affordable housing opportunities.

Respectfully,
Victoria Morgan
Executive Director
Charlevoix Emmet Housing Coalition

Neumann helps small businesses offset Y2K

A two-year state tax credit for expenses that small businesses incur making their computer systems Year 2000 compliant will be proposed by State Representative Andy Neumann (D-Alpena) of Michigan's 106th District.

Neumann will introduce the legislation when the House of Representatives resumes the 1999-2000 session in late September.

"Unlike major corporations who can rely on in-house information technology divisions to ensure their computer systems are Y2K compliant, small businesses often have to hire outside consultants to ensure their computer systems will be operational on January 1, 2000," Neumann said. "Small business owners are paying for their Y2K costs out-of-pocket. My tax credit will help them recoup some of their expenses, and help them stay in business."

Neumann's plan would create a tax break for small businesses with 15 or fewer employees with sales of $300,000 or less for the 1999 and 2000 tax years. Businesses would be able to claim a credit equal to 75 percent of their Y2K expenditures.

County adds new bus, new route

A new route will soon be added by Charlevoix County Transit and a new bus equipped with a lift will travel it.

The "circle service" route will commence in Boyne City and continue on to Boyne Falls, Petoskey, Charlevoix and return to Boyne City.

The service seeks to accommodate workers and others who may be unable to drive or choose not to.

Federal and state funds will cover $56,000 of the $75,000 cost of purchasing the bus and operating it for one year.

Officials are researching the needs of employers to determine the frequency of running the route. The route will include stops at North Central Michigan College. Plans are to have the bus route running before winter.

Asbestos removal project halted until next summer

The work on asbestos removal from the high school is completed for this year, and will resume next summer.

The removal of the asbestos, originally constructed into the building in the early 1960s, began last June when the school year ended. Asbestos has been removed from approximately 23,000 square feet, and the job is half done, said school superintendent John Sturock.

The areas of removal were on the western side of the school. They include the ceiling in the gym and the corridors near the gym, principal Gary Grundman said.

"The library, the offices, and some classrooms need to be done," Grundman said.

In the meantime, air monitors remain active and a consultant checks the school for safety twice a year, Sturock said.

A Lansing firm, Hazard Bestos, removed the asbestos.

East Upright church considers name change

The Charlevoix congregation of the Church of God, located at 203 East Upright Street, which has been an established Pentecostal/charismatic ministry in the community for the past 12 years, feels that it is a time for a change.

They are seeking a name that will better communicate their mission and ministry statement to the area. They desire to make themselves known as a church that is giving hope to all people through sound Biblical teaching and Christ-centered worship.

More than 40 suggested names were submitted to the committee who had the task of choosing three names to present to the church body for a vote.

A celebration and announcement will be made to the community when the final selection has been made.

The East Upright Church of God is affiliated with the Church of God, Cleveland, Tenn., which has more than five million members in 137 countries.

Final Blessings

My prayer for each of you this day is that God will grant you the following:

Enough happiness to keep you contented
Enough trials to keep you strong Enough sorrow to keep you human Enough hope to keep you happy
Enough failure to keep you humble
Enough success to keep you eager
Enough friends to give you comfort
Enough wealth to meet your needs
Enough enthusiasm to look forward
Enough faith to banish depression
Enough determination to make each day better than yesterday.

Marching band attends Blue Lake music camp

Fifty-five members of the Charlevoix High School Rayder marching band completed their second annual band camp at Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp just prior to the opening of the school year.

The group worked hard and had a great time, according to members of the band.

The band worked on a complete halftime performance for the home football season.

They will debut the show this Friday, Sept. 24 when the Rayders host Traverse City St. Francis.

Shannon Nystrom, drum major, will lead the 80-member band onto the field as they perform a Disney-themed show that features The Lion Sleeps Tonight, Hakuna Matata, Colors of the Wind, and Friend Like Me.

The Rayder drum line will feature an entertaining new cadence by University of Michigan percussion instructor Mike Morrison titled, Those Pesky Mosquitoes!

At camp, band members worked in full group rehearsals as well as sectionals and spent time mapping out coordinates on the field. By midweek the group began performing the music as they marched.

By the end of the week, the music and marching elements were fully integrated and ready for field review.

Social highlights at Blue Lake included evening campfires, and a Friday entertainment extravaganza/dance held in the Alumni band shell.

Each section of the band performed a special ensemble number prepared during sectional time. Instructor Riccardo Selva put together a student jazz ensemble for the occasion.

The band members also had the opportunity to watch the 250-member Brighton High School marching band prepare their fall show.

Rayder brass and low woodwinds musicians (left), under the direction of instructor Don Rittenhouse, practice tones during sectional rehearsal. Chris Golski (right), a seventh grade tenor sax player, is marching ready!

Atchison joins community foundation staff

Since it began in 1992, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation has grown to become a $6.8 million charitable organization that makes grants of more than $100,000 each year. Now, the Foundation's staff is growing too.

Catherine Shepherd Atchison will serve as Program Officer, acting as a liaison to area nonprofit organizations, community programs, and civic leaders to address local needs and enhance Foundation grantmaking.

A Charlevoix native, Ms. Atchison is returning to northern Michigan after living in Texas for the past several years. She received her BA from Albion College and earned a Master of Arts degree from Michigan State University. She brings experience in working with several volunteer-based organizations, including the Peace Corps and youth employment training programs.

Catherine Atchison

As Program Officer, she will work closely with the Community Foundation's Youth Advisory Committee, a group of high school representatives from throughout the county who oversee their own $1 million fund and make grants to support a variety of youth projects.

"I'm delighted to work with such a dynamic, grassroots organization," Atchison says. "This is an amazing resource for a community of our size, and I'm excited about the prospects of helping target Foundation assets where they'll have the greatest and most lasting impact."

During the next few weeks, Ms. Atchison will travel around the county, meeting with various civic groups and organizations to become more familiar with their programs and assess their needs.

That "fact finding" will be good preparation for the Community Foundation's next round of grantmaking, which takes place later this fall.

For the time being, Atchison will make her home in Charlevoix. Her husband Michael, a Petoskey native, plans to practice law in the area. "It's great to be back in northern Michigan," Atchison concludes. "I'm eager to get to work."

More information about the Charlevoix County Community Foundation is available by calling (231) 536-2440.

Red Fox Regatta Results

The Northwest Michigan summer racing season came to a close over the Labor Day weekend with the Red Fox Regatta.

A record-breaking 104 sail yachts from ports both near and far participated. The light air on Saturday became no air as the slower boats caught up to those already becalmed near the shortened course finish line.

The primary result, an unbelievable number of simultaneous, or nearly simultaneous finishes.

The second result, an equally unbelievable consumption of beverages after the race as over 400 skippers, crews and spectators joined in the Boyne City festivities.

Overall results with Saturday and Sunday finishes in brackets:

Sunday's nice breeze made the final day just perfect — especially if you finished in the money. The ties on overall position were broken by best finish position and, if still tied, shortest total corrected elapsed time. Multiple high position scores mostly represent DNF (Did Not Finish) which this report now does.

September 8, 1999

Despite the dire warnings of twenty-knot winds and scattered thunder showers, it turned out to be just another perfect evening in paradise! The race committee was not as kind as the weatherman was as the race went on and on, despite the diminishing breeze. Thus, the first to finish was the J-22, Reckless, almost two hours after her start. Aren't we pushing the dusk envelope just a bit with these racing machines with no batteries?

The next J-22, First Date, was less than a minute back, followed by H S Moisture Missile. Swine Flew led the rest of the fleet as Superfluous, High Maintenance, Paleface Lite, Gecko and Jumblies trailed, in that order. Crazy Horse did not start. The J-22 Fleet races one-design and must conform to class rules. Their start is at 17:55, unchanged.

The two Jib and Main Fleets have been starting together and will continue to do so at 18:00. They are, however, now being scored as one. Flash was first to finish by more than enough to save her time over Bald Eagle. Booma and Our Thyme II trailed while Apothecary did not finish.

The P-26 Fleet is racing the fall series in their own class with the start remaining at 18:05. Elapsed times are being corrected for rating differences. On corrected time, the final result was Jesse, Blasen III, Original Sin and Cygnus. Sandpiper did not finish.

The other Spinnaker Fleets are combined for the Fall Series and will now be starting together at 18:10. With the two classes now being scored as one, Kamikaze, Gotcha and Babe finish in the money. Mint Julep, M 3 and J Hawk follow.

The J-22 Fleet hosts Wednesday, September 15th, followed by The JAM Fleet, 9/22; The P-26's, 9/29, the A & B Fleet, 10/6 and All Fleets on 10/13.

Come visit us at CYC Friday evenings starting at 6 p.m. We need Hosts for the fall Fridays, please call 547-4872 if you'll volunteer. It's easy and fun!

As a final note, many, many thanks for all who helped make the Crawford Trucking Triangle and the Red Fox Regatta such a success. Hats off to Larry Crawford for sponsoring the Triangle, to Mark Snyder as Red Fox Chairman, and to all the other sponsors! The 104 yachts in the Red Fox provided enough appetites to consume over 400 meals and eleventy-seven beverages ably served by Ray and Melissa Argetsinger (food), Kim Taylor and Nita Martin (beverages). A special thanks to our Social Chairman, Gloria Barnes.

September 15, 1999

And another perfect evening in paradise! The breeze held throughout most of the race with clear skies on this delightful late summer day.

The first J-22, First Date, crossed the line at 7:30:25, followed nearly two minutes later by H S Moisture Missile with Paleface Lite over next, just 4 seconds behind. Gecko, only trailing by 19 nosed out Swine Flew by just 2 with High Maintenance, Reckless, Thunderstruck and Superfluous also only seconds back. Just a fantastic finish sequence for these eight boats that all finished in a time span of only one minute and twenty-five seconds. Crazy Horse and Jumblies trailed them by over four minutes.

In the larger Jib & Main Fleet, Flash was first to finish and, again, saved her time over Bald Eagle. Hog-tied (welcome!) lagged back a good bit.

In the other JAM Fleet, Our Thyme II followed Booma across the line but Apothecary, crossing third, moved up to second on corrected time. Cheemaun and High C rounded out the fleet finishes.

In the P-26 Fleet, on corrected time, the final result was Blasen III, Jesse, Original Sin, Cygnus and Sandpiper.

Girls' team runs to victory, boys place second

Charlevoix's girls placed five runners in the top 15 places and won the East Jordan Invitational while the boys finished second on Sept. 14.

The girls team had 55 points. East Jordan was second with 83 points, Elk Rapids third with 92.

Liz Ulrich, a freshman, led the Rayders with a time of 22:41, good for seventh place overall. Other varsity runners were Erika Kammermann, ninth, 23:11; Laura Schairbaum, 10th; Heather Probert, 14th, 24:38; Tiffany Fisher, 15th, 24:42; Betsy Tebeau, 21st, 25:24; and Kelly Sullivan, 35th, 27:49.

East Jordan dominated the boys' run with a score of 17 points. Red Devil runners placed first, second, third, fifth, sixth, 10th, and 15th. Charlevoix finished with 72 points; Kalkaska was third with 140 points.

Josh Popenhagen finished seventh with a Rayder-best time of 18:17.

Other results were Luke Whitley, 13th, 19:16; Gordie Selph, 14th, 19:17; Jerred Hodge, 18th, 19:41; Jon Tebeau, 20th, 20:03; Zack Bajos, 24th, 20:28; Allen Keehn, 25th, 20:30.

The top 15 girls and boys received medals.

Amy Kurtz won the girls' junior varsity race in a time of 26:22. Jayme Murray finished second, 26:36.

Zach Hopkins was fifth, 19:41, in the boys' JV run. Abe Dhashaleer was 13th, 21:59; Will Wright finished 14th, 22:10; Dustin Mervyn, 18th, 24:34; and Mike Grossberg, 19th, 26:05.

"Our teams are going great right now," exclaimed coach Ken Plude. "The senior boys are starting to take on leadership roles, especially Jon Tebeau and Luke Whitley. They're being more disciplined in stretching exercises and cool downs. They're becoming good role models for everybody on the team."

Though cross country is considered an "individual" sport, Plude continually stresses the value of teamwork, respect and dignity among every member of the team.

This "team" concept was never more apparent than in this meet.

After most of the runners had already completed their runs, several went back onto the course and shouted encouragement to sophomore Leslie Pollard.

Pollard, a newcomer to the cross country program, finished her first 5-K race much to the delight of her teammates.

"A team is only as good as its last runner," said Plude. "And we're a pretty good team right now."

Ellsworth edges Charlevoix in rematch, 57-52

Ike Boss picked up his 398th career coaching win as Ellsworth topped Charlevoix, 57-52 on Sept. 14. Ellsworth's victory evened the season series with Charlevoix, who won the first meeting 51-36.

The teams battled throughout the back-and-forth, closely-officiated game.

Charlevoix maintained an early lead before Ellsworth jumped ahead, 14-12, at the end of the first quarter. Ellsworth led 31-27 at halftime.

The second half started with a flurry of foul calls against Charlevoix. Jason Otter, the Rayders' first-year coach was ejected after being whistled for two quick technical fouls for questioning the referees' calls against his team. "I am sorry it happened (the ejection), it won't happen again," Otter said. Assistant coach Jim Parrish and JV coach Lisa Carlson handled the sideline duties for the rest of the game. Otter also had to sit-out Charlevoix's game against Boyne City on Sept. 16.

Ellsworth opened a 13-point lead at one point in the third quarter. Charlevoix fought back, but Ellsworth hung on for the five-point victory.

"They're (Ellsworth) a solid, well-coached team," said Otter. "We did what we wanted to do, except we couldn't get the ball inside. Our girls played hard. That's what we asked them to do. We'll continue to improve as the season goes on."

Charlevoix dressed only eight players for the game and played without starting point guard Jennifer McClellan who was out ill. Three players who did play had just returned. "We had to leave some players in when we should have taken them out. We press a lot and they got a little tired."

Danielle Vogelheim was high-scorer for the Rayders with 13 points. Leslie Hoffman had 11 points.

Amy Drenth, a freshman, scored 15 points and grabbed six rebounds for Ellsworth. Kim Strange played a fine all-around game with 13 points, five rebounds, four steals, and three assists.

Ellsworth defeated Charlevoix in the JV game, 48-46.

The Rayders Rachel Newcomb led all scorers with 19 points. Kelly Ward scored nine points. Krista Swenor had seven points and eight rebounds. Rachel Kanine made five steals.

Aubry Burk scored 18 points and Kelly Essenberg had 12 for Ellsworth.

Rayders lose at Boyne City

Charlevoix dropped to 1-4 on the season, losing to Boyne City, 59-44, in the first conference game for both teams on Sept. 16.

The Rayders started the game slowly and fell behind 32-20 at halftime.

"We came out a little flat," said Jim Parrish. "Our minds seemed to be someplace else. We moved the ball pretty well, but got into foul trouble early."

Parrish was coaching in place of head coach Jason Otter who sat out the contest as penalty for being ejected from the team's previous game two nights earlier.

A lack of depth hurt the Rayders who dressed just eight players.

"We press alot and we picked up a lot of fouls," said Parrish.

Meghan Vogel fouled out. Kristy Shindorf and Lindsey Carland played with four fouls.

"This was an off-game for us."

There were several bright spots for Charlevoix.

Danielle Vogelheim played an excellent game. She scored 12 points on some nice baseline shots and grabbed several rebounds.

Shindorf netted 11 points, Leslie Hoffman had seven, and Carland added five points in her return to action after a recent injury.

Kathryn Ricks was called up from the junior varsity to fill-in in the team's injury-depleted backcourt. The sophomore point guard scored six points, hitting all six of her shots from the free throw line.

Nicole Kurtz was the high-scorer for Boyne City with 19 points, Maggie Doherty had 13.

Charlevoix plays at Harbor Light Christian Academy on Thursday, Sept. 23, at Petoskey on Saturday, Sept. 25, and at Harbor Springs on Tuesday, Sept. 28.

Soccer winning streak ends

The Charlevoix soccer team's winning streak was snapped at six matches in a 5-3 loss to Sutton's Bay at home on Sept. 13.

Momentum shifted back and forth throughout the contest. It was a closely played match early on as Sutton's Bay led 1-0 at halftime. The Norsemen went ahead 2-0 before the Rayders stormed back with three unanswered goals to take a 3-2 lead midway through the second half.

Sutton's Bay tied the game, and went ahead 4-3 on a penalty kick. Their final tally came with :40 left in the game.

Jon Boss, Sean Stockman and Ryan Vogelheim scored for Charlevoix. Michael Ricks assisted on two goals, Vogelheim on one.

"Sutton's Bay is a good team," said coach Josh Block, "but they caught us on a bad day. We had too many ups and downs. We played really well. The problem is we're waiting until the second half before we play to win. We need to start games like we started the second half. The guys have to realize, it's not good enough to play well in just the second half."

Charlevoix played without Tomasz Barczynski, one of their top offensive weapons. He missed the game due to a foot injury. "It hurt us not to have him," Block said.

Rayders lose close contest

Charlevoix lost its second straight match, 3-2, to Roscommon, the defending conference champions.

In another close contest, Charlevoix made their mission even more difficult. Five Rayders were "yellow-carded" by the referee at various times for overly aggressive play. Each had to sit out for 10 minutes.

Forward Spencer Bryan was hit with a red card infraction and was ejected from the match. He will also be ineligible to play in the team's next match. Charlevoix was forced to play one man short (11-10) for an extended period late in the game. However, the boys rallied. The increased offensive pressure, tightened their defense and did not allow a goal.

Ryan Vogelheim scored an unassisted goal. Michael Ricks also scored, assisted by Sean Stockman.

Barczynski missed his second game due to injury.

Charlevoix hosts Harbor Light Christian Academy on Thursday, Sept. 23, and at Harbor Springs on Tuesday, Sept. 28.

Siwarga's eagle helps Rayder golfers defeat East Jordan

Craig Siwarga, a junior, scored an eagle (3) on the par five 486-yard fifth hole at the Mallard Golf Course as Charlevoix beat East Jordan, 166-177, on Sept. 14.

Siwarga blasted a driver and three-wood to reach the green, and dropped a 10-foot putt. He birdied the ninth hole to finish with a 39.

David Shearer, a freshman, made three birdies and was the match medalist with a score of 38.

Jon Sell shot 44, Craig Smith 45, Allen Brooks and Dennis Avery each had 50.

"They all played well," said coach Jim Glynn. "We had a fine team score (166)."

Charlevoix lost the JV match 182-212. Nick Cole carded a 52, Kreg Wager, 54; and Bill Foster had 56.

The varsity is 3-1 in conference play, 4-4 overall. They play at Gaylord on Sept. 24 and host Kalkaska on Sept. 29.

Rayders lose at Harbor Springs

Harbor Springs scored 23 unanswered points in the first half and went on to defeat an injury depleted Charlevoix team, 30-6, last Friday.

The Rayders entered the contest severely short-handed. Five players, including star running back Todd Leitner were injured and did not play.

The list of wounded grew when Ben VanGuilder dislocated a hip after making a spectacular catch of an Adam Wood pass in the second half. He will miss the rest of the season. VanGuilder had scored on a 63-yard pass play earlier in the second quarter for Charlevoix's only points.

The Rayders defense played better in the second half allowing only one score, a 39-yard touchdown run.

"We never got out of the shadows of our end zone all night," said coach Todd Klinger, "they had great field position. Their defense shut us down and we couldn't move the ball.

In the game, VanGuilder had three receptions for 85 yards and the touchdown. Shay Hutchison caught two passes for 12 yards.

Wood completed nine of 17 passes for 104 yards and a score.

Troy Smith had 11 rushing attempts for 29 yards. Ben Coen picked up 10 yards on four carries.

Defensively, Coen made 15 tackles and Matt Horan had nine.

A Charlevoix man was taken to the hospital with multiple injuries and fractures after a motorcycle accident Friday afternoon.

David M. Wager, 33, was riding westbound on Old US-31, 1/4-mile west of Maple Grove at approximately 2:45 p.m. when he ran off the roadway while entering a curve, according to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department.

The 1984 Honda Gold Wing he was driving ran off the shoulder and into a ditch. The motorcycle rolled several times and came to rest partially on top of Wager.

He was later transported to Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey where he underwent surgery.

ABC's '20/20' focuses on Kiwanis project

A special program on Iodine Deficiency Disorders (IDD) and the aggressive worldwide service project by Kiwanis Clubs to eradicate the disorders will air on ABC News' "20/20" program this Friday, September 24.

Local Kiwanis Clubs, including the Kiwanis Clubs of Charlevoix, Boyne City, and Petoskey, all work year long to raise money to help fight mental retardation caused by iodine deficiency in countries less fortunate than the United States.

More than 1.5 billion people – half of whom are children – are at risk of iodine deficiency. They live in an environment where iodine has been eroded from the soil. This arises from glaciating, compounded by the leaching effects of snow, water and heavy rainfall.

The iodine deficiency in the soil leads to deficiency in all forms of plant life. Hence, populations that rely on subsistence agriculture are "locked into" iodine deficiency. Iodine deficiency stunts physical growth and ability. It causes mental retardation. It diminishes individual and national productivity. It leads to stillbirths and infant deaths.

The prevention is simple: iodine supplementation. All a person requires to combat deficiency and lead a life free of its effects is the equivalent of one teaspoon of iodine distributed evenly over a lifetime.

The combination of helping salt producers to iodize all salt, monitoring the quality of control programs, and raising awareness through public education represents a permanent solution to the problem of Iodine Deficiency Disorders. This is the international service project of all Kiwanis Clubs worldwide.

The Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix is joining thousands of other Kiwanis Clubs around the world in a Worldwide Service Project to make everyone aware of iodine deficiency disorders as a global health problem by the year 2000.

Members of the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club raise money through numerous projects such as installing 9-1-1 house number signs; the Mackinaw Crossings Hollywood Production; I.D.D. Community Collections; and collections at weekly club meetings, and then donate the funds to the Kiwanis Worldwide Service Project. The Kiwanis Club sponsors the Key Club at the Charlevoix High School.

Students have collected several thousand dollars on their own. The Kiwanis district raised more than $7,000 so far since the program began in 1995.

Charlevoix Public Schools welcomes new teachers

The Courier presents comments from the Charlevoix Public School district's 14 new teachers about their backgrounds and their first week of school.

We will introduce them to you, a few at a time, over the coming weeks.

The background information and the photographs are courtesy of the Charlevoix Public Schools.

The new teachers are:

Rachel S. Brooks
Third grade

I am very excited to join the wonderful team of educators in the Charlevoix School District. I am teaching third grade and am extremely eager to be a part of the school community.

I love it here at Charlevoix Elementary School. The staff and students are wonderful. It's great to be in an environment where learning is such a high priority.

I am very lucky this year to have the pleasure to work with a group of very talented students. We are going to learn a lot together this year.

My first week of school provided a couple of humorous times. We all laughed when I went to pick my kids up from music and found I was waiting by the wrong door. I heard the music teacher tell the kids that I must be hard at work, and I rushed to meet them at the other side.

I also had a bunch of fourth grade students ask me if I was Garth Brooks' wife.

My husband and I have been living in Midland, however, we both grew up in Gaylord and are thrilled to return to northern Michigan.

I earned my Bachelor of Science in Education Degree from Central Michigan University, and am certified to teach the elementary grades with endorsements in science and reading.

My student teaching experience in the second and fifth grades gave me the opportunity to strengthen my teaching skills and to learn valuable strategies from my cooperating teachers. I believe in lifelong learning and am beginning to work towards my Master's Degree (Reading in the Elementary School) this summer.

Since graduating from CMU in December 1997, I have been attending various workshops and conferences to enhance my teaching skills. Immediately after graduating, I began teaching preschool in the Clare Head Start and School Readiness Program. That opportunity provided me with wonderful experience working with children and their families and has strengthened my belief in involving parents as partners in education.

My desire to teach in the public school system led me to Freeland which is where I was employed as a second grade teacher. Although I have had many wonderful and exciting experiences at Freeland Elementary School and will miss the staff, students and community greatly, I am excited to be coming to teach at Charlevoix Elementary School.

I am committed to children and to providing excellent education. My personal teaching philosophy is strongly rooted in helping every child succeed. I believe in meeting student's individual learning styles by providing a variety of classroom experiences.

Cooperative learning, parents as partners, and hands-on learning are important components of my philosophy.

I am very proud to be a part of the Charlevoix School District and community, and am looking forward to making new friends.

Stephen Seelye
Fifth grade

My name is Stephen Seelye and I have been given the opportunity to teach fifth grade here at Charlevoix Elementary School this year.

This will not be my first teaching experience at Charlevoix. I taught the second semester last year in the third grade as a long-term substitute. The students, staff and community here were phenomenal and I'm really looking forward to working with them again.

I feel fortunate to begin my teaching career in such a remarkable school. The staff is very dedicated and always puts students first.

I asked my students if there were any comments that I should tell about their first week. They wanted me to be sure to mention that they are quiet, hard-working, creative, courteous, neat, intelligent, and a one-of-a-kind class. I agree with them 100 percent.

In 1993 I graduated from Boyne City High School. I moved on to Grand Valley State University where I received a Bachelor of Science degree. On the last day of college my car was already packed and I headed straight back to northern Michigan. I love it here and could never call anywhere else home.

Besides beginning a new teaching career, I have some other major events happening in my life.

On July 10, I married my high school sweetheart, Michelle. We had been dating for eight years so everyone told me it was about time.

The wedding was perfect and then we took off for a relaxing honeymoon at Walt Disney World. Michelle will be teaching special education in East Jordan. Finally, we are building our dream home in Boyne City. Things are coming along slowly, but we hope to be in before the snow flies.

Nicole Phillips
Fifth grade

I was raised and currently live in Petoskey. I enjoy reading, playing the piano, tennis, skiing and spending time with my family. I am a teacher because of my love for children and the desire to help them grow.

Charlevoix Elementary School has a friendly atmosphere. It offers a fun learning environment where students feel successful.

The students are hard workers with the desire to learn. They are kind and a pleasure to work and learn with.

We have had fun this first week of school with our classroom pets. They make us laugh and keep us on our toes. We have also enjoyed getting to know each other.

I graduated from Grand Valley State University with a Bachelor of Arts in English and Language Arts.

I have been the fifth grade and elementary music teacher at the Boyne Falls Public School for two years.

I have enjoyed my teaching experiences and have learned with and from all of the students I have worked with. I strive to help each child learn to the best of his or her capability and develop his or her own special skills and talents.

I am very excited to have fun learning with the students at Charlevoix Elementary School.

The Courier welcomes these new teachers and will introduce several more in next week's edition.

Driver hurt in rollover

A Charlevoix woman was injured in a rollover crash on Sept. 15 in Marion Township, according to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department.

Melissa Kuhn, 18, was driving on Marion Center Road about 100 feet north of Black Road at approximately 10 p.m. when her car ran off the roadway on the right side, came back and crossed the center line and rolled over.

Four people were in the car. Only Kuhn was hurt. She was treated and released from Charlevoix Area Hospital.

George Van Pelt: A colorful character left his legacy

By Nancy Ritsema

Among the more illustrious folks who found their way from Chicago to Norwood's high bluff overlooking Lake Michigan in the early 1880's were the George Van Pelt, the Samuel B. Chase and Charles Ferguson families. The three families acquired or built homes which were quite grand by all standards.

Each house had many rooms, including servant's quarters and wide verandahs to catch the summer lake breezes. Barns housed a cow or two, chickens, horses and a number of "turn outs," or wagons and smart looking coaches and buggies.

The Chicago families hired many of the local residents of Norwood to help them and their guests who arrived regularly on boats at the Norwood dock during the summer months. Cooks, cleaning women, drivers for the horses and wagons and buggies, groundskeepers and handymen of all sorts were employed.

George Van Pelt's hired men tended his small orchard of 85 apple, plum, cherry and peach trees and his abundant strawberry and raspberry beds. Jessie Elzinga and Libby Richardson boarded at Van Pelts and worked as their chambermaids. Rose Peirce cooked for them and Henry Wagner, Jim Runyan, Ed Jones, his son Vern and Tink Carman were caretakers or handymen.

Van Pelt's handymen included one character more colorful and flamboyant than all the others. Local handyman Plenny Gennett reacted to events with the unforgettable flourish of his French Canadian heritage.

Plenny's hospitality was boundless when he entertained guests but his generosity lagged when he embarked upon a business deal. It was said you could throw a cat through that Frenchman's pile of wood.

When George Van Pelt complained once about the large open spaces in the cords of hardwood Plenny sold him, Plenny "swing his soft hat majestically about his head, threw it on the ground and jumped on it!" Plenny had issued and invitation to battle when he jumped with both feet upon his hat.

Mr. Van Pelt, a Chicago businessman and well respected public speaker, was silenced in the face of Plenny's indignation. He never again broached the subject of wood piles with the fiery Frenchman.

George Van Pelt came to Norwood in 1883 and purchased the Eagle House Hotel built in 1867. He turned the hotel into his family's summer home and acquired additional property on the lake shore below his home. On the lake shore, he built a beach house and cottage for summer guests and family swimming.

Van Pelt made part of the lake shore south of the old Norwood sawmill available for the community's use and then used his influence to invite well-known political figures of his day to address the Farmers' Friendly Association at the Annual Farmers' Picnic held there each August. Van Pelt was the organizer of the Farmers' Association.

Van Pelt amassed a small fortune in Chicago when he successfully invented and patented shoe lasts. Shoe lasts are foot-shaped blocks or models made of beach wood on which shoes are shaped or repaired. His United Last Company factory manufactured the shoe lasts in Chicago and advertised with catchy slogans such as "I LAST, BUT STILL I DIE."

Though Van Pelt's fortunes began with shoe lasts, it was with roads that his name was best remembered in northern Michigan. He became an articulate if somewhat salty advocate of improved roadways throughout Charlevoix County, the state of Michigan and the nation.

He began a vigorous letter campaign in 1893 for better roads and continued the crusade until his death. The following paragraph, first published in 1898, is an example of his pointed style. It was part of a letter to the editor of the Charlevoix Sentinel.

"Tell your minister that when he is preaching about the road that leads to heaven, not to forget to mention something about the country roads that lead to church, the school house or any other old place around here. Certainly without good roads to go to church or school not as many will hear of the road to heaven."

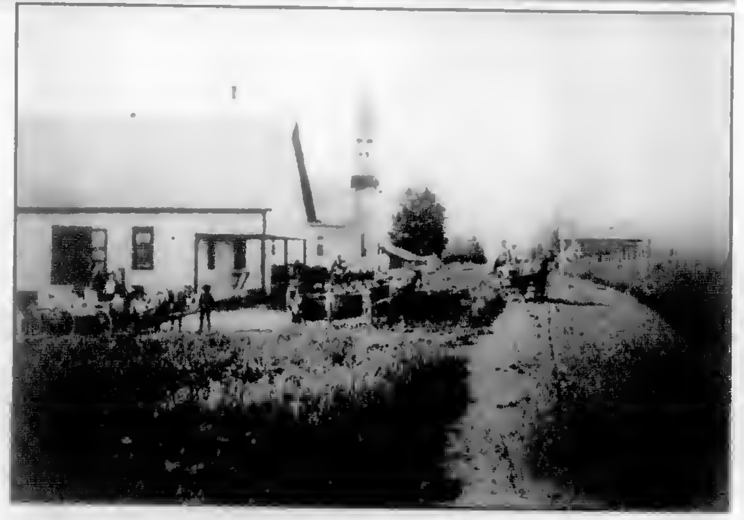
By 1905 Michigan had about 6,800 miles of public "wagon roads", as they were called, which were dirt roads. Only 7,700 miles of road had gravel surfacing, and 245 miles were listed as macadam roads.

These early roads were nearly impassable for the first automobiles during Michigan's spring and fall rains. In summer, ruts and deep holes ruined tires. If automobile travel was to increase throughout the country, better road surfaces had to be developed.

As more and more resorts flourished in Charlevoix County, Van Pelt continued to look to the future and pressed for bicycle paths and good roads. In 1901 he offered cash prizes for the best tree plantings to beautify the "common driveway and bicycle path between Traverse City and Petoskey."

As a long-time member of the Chicago Association of Commerce and a member of the Association's Good Roads Committee, Van Pelt studied road surface paving and was knowledgeable about concrete road engineering. He saw the results of the Bates Experimental Road Tests where 63 different kinds of road materials were tested and reinforced concrete clearly withstood practical road tests the best.

He continued to campaign as "Uncle George" and boldly called for reinforced concrete roads at least 20 feet wide and heavy enough to carry a 16-ton load. He predicted the day would come when a concrete road would connect Detroit and northern Michigan, a proposal first received with amusement and even opposition.



Highway U. S. 31, originally known as M-11, was a dirt road at the turn of the century. George Van Pelt waged a 43-year campaign for concrete roads in the early part of the 1900s. Pictured here is Albert Sneller's creamery in Atwood circa 1900. (Courtesy photo)

At the age of 85, in 1926, George Van Pelt continued his campaign for concrete roads, insisting that Charlevoix County must build a 20 feet wide concrete road around Pine Lake, recently renamed Lake Charlevoix. He strongly criticized the county because there were still, in 1926, so many miles of gravel roads tarred each year instead of made from poured concrete. Van Pelt was convinced that tarred roads were "the ruination of fine automobile finishes and the depletion of the taxpayers' pocketbooks."

George Van Pelt's legacy remains today, a part of the rich and varied history of Charlevoix County.

Last call for free shade trees this fall

Charlevoix residents and business owners may now call and request shade trees for planting along city streets later this fall.

The annual program is designed to replace trees that have gotten old and died, and to fill-in open areas in front of businesses and residences.

The free shade trees will be planted only for property owners who submit their request to the City Clerk, or by calling 547-3270. Reservations for trees will be accepted through September.

City staff will plant ash, callery pear, American elm, and little leaf linden trees. Tree sizes vary from six-to-nine feet in height, with diameters of approximately two inches.

No maples will be planted.

Asiatic long-horned beetles were found recently in Chicago and New York. There is a possibility that the pests, which primarily attack maple trees, could spread here.

Infected maple trees must be destroyed, according to Robert Irving, a member of the Charlevoix Shade Tree Commission.

"There is no other recourse available. That's why it is important to plant a diversified tree species. So please ask for your trees now," said Irving.

Charlevoix is recognized as an official Tree City, USA by the national Arbor Day Foundation. The city has twice received the foundation's annual grand award for outstanding efforts to promote tree plantings.

SEPTEMBER

By Helen Hunt Jackson

The golden-rod is yellow;
The corn is turning brown;
The trees in apple orchards
With fruit are bending down.

The gentian's bluest fringes
Are curling in the sun;
In dusty pods the milkweed
Its Hidden silk has spun.

The sedges flaunt their harvest,
In every meadow nook;
And asters by the brook-side
Make asters in the brook.

From dewy lanes at morning
The grapes' sweet odors rise;
At noon the roads all flutter
With yellow butterflies.

By all these lovely tokens
September days are here,
With summer's best of weather,
And autumn's best of cheer.

But none of all this beauty
Which floods the earth and air,
Is unto me the secret
Which makes September fair.

'Tis a thing which I remember;
To name it thrills me yet:
One day of one September
I never can forget.

Survey: County residents want recycling program

County residents believe that protecting the environment is the strongest reason to recycle, even more so than saving money on garbage bills.

Newspapers are the most common material to recycle, and most people will travel up to 10 miles to drop off recyclables.

These are some of the responses that the county found when it conducted a preliminary analysis from a recycling survey it mailed to residents.

The purpose of the survey was to determine the attitudes of county residents about recycling. The county has no recycling program, but plans to develop one, county planning director Larry Sullivan said.

The survey was mailed to two groups — one a random selection of those who voted in the last gubernatorial election, and the other the elected officials in the county and members of the solid waste committee.

The number of surveys sent to randomly-selected voters was 1,500 and 125 were sent to officials and committee members.

From the 1,625 total surveys mailed, the county received 757 responses. A response of this magnitude enables us to have a very high level of confidence in the answers provided, Sullivan said.

A majority of the respondents currently recycle to some extent, and use a number of drop-off locations throughout northern Michigan to do so.

As to cost, a majority of residents are willing to pay $3 per month for curbside collection, or $2 per month for using drop-off centers. When asked how they would prefer to pay a fee, few wanted it added onto their tax bill. An alternative would be to have a fee added to their garbage bill.

Sullivan said that there will be a more detailed analysis conducted before the county makes recommendations for the exact method of addressing recycling needs.

Mother and child

Captivating images, like this mother and child living in the Peruvian Amazon, will be on display at Koucky Gallery in downtown Charlevoix through mid-October. The photographs are the work of Charlevoix native Nancy Dammann. Proceeds from the exhibition will be used to purchase needed supplies for villagers.

Local photography show to aid Amazon villages

The Koucky Gallery will host a limited edition photo exhibit of people of Peruvian Amazonian communities, beginning Friday, September 30 and running through mid-October.

All proceeds from the sale of the photos, taken by Charlevoix native Nancy Dammann, will be used to buy much needed medical supplies and books for the communities, according to gallery owner Chuck Koucky.

"This year, the flood season hit Amazonia hard," the 24-year-old researcher writes from Dos de Mayo, Peru, where she is living during her one year grant to study the regional fishery and work with villages on sustainable development projects. This is Dammann's third research trip in the Amazonian jungle.

"The nine villages in which I live and work (Dos de Mayo) San Cristobal, Nuevo Dos de Mayo, Tierra Blanca, Yahuarango, Santa Lucia, Santa Maria Dos, Montebello, y Nuevo Cajamarca) were no exception. Rather than a month-long inundation, many villages were

Charlevoix's Koucky Gallery: collections of the unconventional

Since 1986, Nancy and her husband Charles (Chuck) Koucky have owned Koucky Gallery. The first gallery was established in Charlevoix in May of 1986. In October of 1990 they opened their second gallery in Naples, Fla.

Their galleries represent over 250 American artists and craftsmen making up an eclectic and unconventional gallery "signature."

The majority of the artists are carefully selected working artists who give the gallery a fresh selection of works that visitors find very unique.

Contributing extensively to this unique signature are the works of internationally known artists such as sculptors Jack Dowd and Daniel Meyer, jeweler Thomas Mann, and painter Thom Millsap.

Chuck has a bachelor's degree in studio art from Albion College. Nancy earned a bachelor's degree in art history from the College of Wooster in Ohio.

Prior to opening their galleries, the Kouckys were craftsmen. Nancy was a weaver specializing in products for the home and women's clothing. Chuck was a functional potter. They had a private studio and showroom on M-66 south of Charlevoix which they established in 1976. They were also charter members and officers in a cooperative gallery in Charlevoix from 1981 through 1986.

At this time the Kouckys spend the majority of their time at their Naples home. They have two daughters, Lahrin, 17, and Caitlin, 14. Chuck and Nancy spend their summers in Charlevoix and return to Naples in the fall for the school year.

As their girls grow older, they look forward to a time when they can spend more time in Charlevoix. They always look forward to returning to the charm and intimacy of their Charlevoix roots.

The Koucky Gallery, located on Bridge Street in downtown Charlevoix, is open from 10 a.m. - 9 p.m Monday through Saturday, and 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. on Sunday. For more information on the gallery or the Dammann photo exhibit call (231) 547-2228.

Charlevoix to host town meeting on Great Lakes water levels

A panel of environmental experts, scientists and a state representative will gather to discuss the present and future status of the Great Lakes' water levels at a town meeting in Charlevoix.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 30 in the Charlevoix City Council Chambers. The event is sponsored by The Detroit News.

Organizers of the event hope to "connect the newspaper's readers directly with lake-levels experts" who were consulted in an eight-page special report, "Our Lakes in Peril," published Aug. 25.

An open question-and-answer session will follow four presentations.

The program and panel includes:

Local Impacts: State Rep. Andy Neumann (D-Alpena), is minority vice-chairman of the House Great Lakes and Tourism Committee. His district includes Charlevoix, Rogers City, Alpena and other shoreline cities and towns.

Past Cycles: Dr. Frank H. Quinn, senior research hydrologist for the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, prepares lake forecasts used by commercial ships and federal agencies. A fisherman as well as a scientist, Quinn has worked on the lakes since 1962.

Future Cycles: Roger L. Gauthier, supervisory hydrologist for the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, studies past lake swings to predict future water levels. He has sailed with freighters, worked as a ferry pilot and commanded a scientific research vessel.

Solutions: Dr. Michael J. Donahue is an environmental planner and executive director of the Great Lakes Commission, a regional policy group that co-published the new report, "Living With the Lakes: Understanding and Adapting to Great Lakes Water Level Changes."

flooded for three or more months and parts of the forests for six months, making fish a scarce commodity."

These villages are located along the Ucayali River, a major feeder to the Amazon, some 350 miles upstream or four days boat travel from the city of Iquitos.

The following are excerpts from Dammann's interim report to the Pforzheimer Foundation, sponsor of her project.

"I wish I could give you a fuller picture of life here, of its most amazing, incredibly overwhelming beauty, to let you see and feel some of what makes it unique as well as what it has in common with life at home.

"I think of the mist rising off the river at dawn, the children laughing as they swim between their houses during the flood season, of the little girls in Nuevo Cajamarca who braid their hair in crazy spiky braids every night before they sleep, the frog I saw that was larger than my hand, the way men swoop down to pick up the children when they cry, the way people greet everyone, no matter who.

"I want to send you some of the smells and tastes and sounds: The perfumed air I sometimes catch as I walk paths in the forest, the rain you can hear coming several minutes before it reaches you, the sound of fish jumping alongside the canoe as you paddle in the night, the feeling of a fish hitting your arm, leg, or chest as it jumps into the canoe (this happens very frequently, but still always shocks me), the surreal colors of sunsets reflecting off flooded streets and into the houses, the chatter of monkeys and parrots on the paths, the friendships I have made, the amazing stories of life I've been told, and the laughter, and the tears."

Describing her daily life, she writes, "I spend plenty of agonizing moments holding people's hands and desperately wishing I knew more about medicine and healthcare and plenty more wondering how much help I can be when the people here know so incredibly much more than I do. Many of my days have been consumed with simply surviving — ensuring that the family with which I live has enough to eat; trying to keep the swarm of biting ants from invading our house; and desperately searching in the medical handbook, Where There IS No Doctor, to see if I could find cures for the fungus growing on my little sister's foot, my neighbor's bloody diarrhea, the cough which stayed with me for six weeks, the suddenly accelerated heart-rate of one mother, or the gasoline my best friends' son swallowed.

Proceeds from the sale of Dammann's photos like this one of a native woman will be used to purchase medical supplies and books for people in communities in the Peruvian Amazon who were hit hard by this year's unusually high flood waters.

"On one hand, I have seen intense suffering which has underlined the fragility, the tenuousness of life. On the other hand, I an constantly overwhelmed by the resilience of life and reminded that life, at least in the collective sense, will almost always go on, that even in moments of incredible sadness one can still find beauty and even reason to laugh."

Dammann, who will return to Michigan in December, expressed gratitude to the Koucky Gallery for donating the space and time for the show, all the proceeds of which will go to medical and educational projects in the community.

Letters to the Editor

Urges 'YES' vote

As one of the co-chairs of the Charlevoix School Facilities Committee I am very proud of the work our committee did to explore and develop the recommendations that the school board accepted for school improvements. I would like to take this opportunity to highlight some points in our recommendations and particularly discuss the site selection process.

Our committee was made up of 26 members of the Charlevoix community, men & women, young & old, teacher, engineer and business person, all who were willing to accept the task given us to explore the issues and develop three options for improving the Charlevoix school facilities and the costs, benefits and long-term effects of each. Although our charge came from the school board we knew that we were working for the children and citizens of Charlevoix.

This group of 26 started the process with more than 26 different opinions on what was the best solution for Charlevoix. After weeks of meetings and discussions, the group came together to reach consensus on the content and merits of each of the options. After conducting two public forums to gather more information, we all knew that one option was clearly the best choice for Charlevoix.

We presented the options and our recommendations to the school board and the school board accepted them in a unanimous 7-0 vote. Our recommendation and the best solution for Charlevoix is as follows:

Build a new high school and auditorium on a new site of minimum of 25-30 acres.

Move the current middle school and the 5th grade to the present high school to establish a 7-8 middle school and a 5-6 upper elementary program.

Construct an addition onto the elementary school to alleviate overcrowding and provide a new media center.

Utilize the Site Evaluation Criteria that we developed to objectively select the new site from the available properties in the area.

We concluded our work by presenting a written finding that all members of the committee signed in a show of our conviction and solidarity. Not only had we presented the best solution for Charlevoix Schools but because we had started with a different set of data and different people we also validate the work that was completed more than three years ago for the last bond election when that group reached the conclusion that a new high school was the building to build.

Site selection was by far the most controversial issue that our committee tackled as we tried to decide where in-town ended and out-of-town started, the merits of northside vs. southside and if, we should be the group to pick the new site. After much discussion, we developed the site evaluation criteria to enable a subcommittee of the school board to fairly and objectively evaluate each of the sites on 35 weighted individual criteria ranging from land features to location to overall cost. Our committee was able to reach consensus on the fact that if the criteria and the tool was used to conduct the property evaluation that the best site for the new school would be selected as fairly and objectively as possible. We also knew that if a group as large as our 26 tried to pick the site that anyone offering a site would raise the purchase price. Our only word of caution to the school board was to alert them to the fact that the M-66 site suggested in the last election carried political baggage that would likely cause the election to fail.

The school board conducted an extensive search for parcels of land within a three mile circle of the downtown stoplight. They identified eleven parcels, eliminated seven for various reasons and applied our evaluation tool to the remaining four. They entered into negotiation and were able to purchase the number one rated site - 74 acre parcel on Marion-Center Road between Clark and Veenstra roads. This site will contain the new high school and baseball, softball and practice football/soccer fields with room to spare for the future. This site will serve the needs of Charlevoix for a long, long time.

It is public record that the purchase of this property was $250,000. Engineering estimates have been completed that put the cost of utilities at less than $1 million. Adding the two figures keeps the overall site cost well within the budget of $1.6 million that we established.

Concerns have been expressed about the north end of the Marion-Center Road with the curves to the M-66 intersection. The city, working with M-DOT has a plan that will straighten out the curves and bring Marion-Center out to US-31, eliminating the problem. This work will begin in the Spring of 2000. Drawings of the changes are available from the city. You will see that it includes left-turn lanes, right-turn lanes and will likely include a traffic light.

Site location may again prove to be controversial. The most important points to remember is that an objective set of criteria was used to determine the best site for the new school and the quality of education is determined by the quality of the curriculum and the quality of the facility.

I understand that personal choice enters into supporting a bond issue. This is America; we were founded to be able to have personal choice. Because this bond issue can stir strong emotions, an objective set of criteria was developed and used to determine the best piece of property for Charlevoix's students and citizens. I say again, the best piece of property, because there is no perfect piece of property. Your perfect piece may not be my perfect piece but the bottom line is that we have selected a piece of property that best meets the needs of the schools and have to move forward. The only wrong decision is to let this location issue stop us from moving forward to give our children the schools that they and we need for them to successful in the future.

I hope that we can all set aside personal preferences and do what is right for Charlevoix and vote Yes on October 11.

Sincerely,
Bill Trubilowicz

Says vote 'NO'

Editor:

Here I am again, writing a letter to get the truth out. I was asked to be on a committee of 23 to collect information about the needs of the Charlevoix public schools. We met many times, going over all the information, and finally reached a consensus on what needed to be built. I originally had other ideas, but after all the checking, I agreed that the plan we came up with was best.

The Board of Education would not let us come up with a formal recommendation as to a site, even though we unofficially concurred about where it should be. Right from the start, my sixth sense told me something was wrong, by the various comments that were made. One board member was heard to say that we're not putting the school on the north side in a water hole. The Waller Road site has only 23% wetlands, which borders on U.S. 31, and could be reduced down considerably with a beautiful pond to enhance the site. Also, the comment was made after a question about the purchase of the property on Ellsworth Road, "It's a done deal." Nothing is a "done deal" in Charlevoix until you and I, the people who are paying for this, say yes or no.

The Board had deadlines for us on the committee, which we met, and then they turned around and didn't meet deadlines, even trying to keep the site secret until they decided to release it. Many of us knew what they were doing, as there aren't any secrets in Charlevoix. They seem to be insistent about low dollar cost on the raw land, but ignore the high cost of bringing utilities to the site, making the low dollar figure into the highest one.

The Waller Road site (between Waller Road and U.S. 31 north), has already got sewer and water very close by. The township fire department is right across the street. The bike and walking path from town is already in. They are working on the other end of it in Bay Shore at the present time. This will join with the one which goes to the pool at this time. Our kids safety is all important on roads leading to school. The land is not a water hole, but is high and dry, and was farmed by the Martin family for years. This site is beautifully wooded, and there is natural gas going right by, and two electric companies which can provide power. It is near the present K-5 school, the swimming pool and the soccer field. The woods would protect the building from winter winds, holding down the cost of heat and snow removal. This is a plus, over a site with no protection in the cornfield. The cost of the land with all utilities close by, is approximately $1,000,000.

Do you know that the Ellsworth Road running by the proposed property is the busiest road in Charlevoix County? The traffic there is the highest of all the county roads. The paper says it will cost $1,200,000, possibly $1,600,000, just to put the sewer out there. What about the cost of water and gas? Stand on the Belvedere golf course, and sight across to the water tower. They are about even, making little water pressure for approved hydrants, which also determines insurance rates (the Waller Road site has approved water hydrants all around it, with the fire department across the street, leading to the best possible low rates). There is no bike or walking path at the proposed site, and in the area of Vern-Ida Street, the ditch is deep and very dangerous. Now they want us to vote on this property, and have tried to force it by buying the land already. We don't even know the unknown costs lurking there. Even the purchase of that land is not a "done deal", as it could be sold again. Real estate is sold every day.

The location, as the paper states, will be used for the next 100 years. Our present high school property was bought 110 years ago, and had a school there which is presently the Legion Hall.

I am 68 years old, and this will not affect me personally, but Charlevoix is what it is today because of the good decisions that were made by people, now gone. Today, we are reaping the benefits of them. I am all for the kids in this town, as evidenced by my actions, but let's give them the best facilities, with a location that someone can say 100 years from now, "They did the right thing."

It is imperative that a minimum of 2,500 voters turn out. There is a real organized effort at work to convince us that the cornfield is the best site. I know how tough it is to take on the establishment, but I did it before, about 33 years ago, when they wanted to consolidate with East Jordan and build a school 3 miles south of Ironton. You came out and saved the school at that time. You aren't voting against the proposed school or the kids, but to let the Board know we want the best site. That is the issue now.

I know those opposing me, and trying to justify their actions, will come out with a barrage of figures trying to prove their costs, but you can put two and two together.

This whole fiasco reminds me of the story of the farmer who had some nice, clean oats to sell for $3 a bushel. When a buyer came to him and began to haggle the cost, the farmer said, "Of course, I can lower the price, if you'll just let me run it through the horse first!"

Please join me in voting No, to let them know this site is not the one.

Dale Boss

No alternative except 'NO' vote

Editor:

The Charlevoix School Board has apparently bought into its own public relations campaign, to the point it no longer understands where "PR" should end and public consideration of policy decisions should begin.

As a result, the school board has authorized the immediate purchase of a $250,000 "school site" on Marion Center Rd. without opportunity for meaningful public comment, as part of its apparent election strategy to discourage differing points of view.

This process is wrong! The outcome of the pending bond proposal, as well as the location of our schools, will dramatically shape our entire community for the next 100 years.

Community input should have been obtained prior to making a decision of this magnitude. Community input should not, under any circumstances, be sacrificed for election politics.

This highly political approach to an issue as important as school location leads me to question whether all site alternatives and facility options have been identified and fairly analyzed. It also troubles me that important facts have not been disclosed, such as the fact that the Schools own 19 acres of land at the elementary school site.

Those voting on Oct. 11 deserve less hype and more light in order to make an informed decision.

Once that happens, Charlevoix will pass a school facilities proposal. Until then, the School Board has left many of us with no alternative but to vote "no."

Sincerely.
Shirley Gibson

Sacrifices for children are worth 'YES' vote

Editor:

As a government teacher I have always encouraged my students to stand up for issues that they believe in to try to make a difference. Now it is my turn.

I moved to Charlevoix four years ago during the summer of 1995. When I first came to this city, I was amazed by all it had to offer: the location, the friendly people, and the small town environment. I knew I was blessed with the good fortune of living my life and raising a family here.

With the passage of the bond issue, Charlevoix citizens have the opportunity to make this place even better. We have the chance to show our children that we care about their future.

I know that there are nay-sayers who, for whatever reason, would rather watch this chance slip by just so they may win a personal battle. Let's not be so short-sighted.

The bottom line is that no matter what site our school board chooses, no matter what our elected school board decides, not everyone will be pleased. We must look beyond our differences to the core of this issue. This is about our children.

We need to send the message that, yes, we want you to strive to be the best individuals you can be. We believe in you.

By alleviating the overcrowding at the elementary school, by creating a sound 5th/6th grade and 7th/8th grade learning environment in the renovated high school building, and by allowing our high schoolers to graduate from a modern facility, we communicate this message.

Students will flourish in the pride that the passage of the bond issue will create. Our community will flourish in the pride as well.

I know for this bond issue to pass sacrifices must be made. Giving up your preference on location, paying more in taxes, or letting go of personal issues is difficult. But the sacrifice we make is for our children, and they are worth it.

I'm sure you may be thinking that as a teacher I am biased toward the passage of the bond issue. I am. As a resident who wants to raise her family in this community, I think it is time for us to move ahead and realize our potential. Let's stop tearing down our future.

James Madison once said, "What is government but a reflection of human nature?" I would amend that to say, "What is an educational system but a reflection of its community?"

Obituaries

Margaret M. Rule

In loving memory of Margaret M. Rule, 69, of Charlevoix, who passed on in her sleep on a cruise ship on the Danube River in Austria in the early hours of Sept. 23, 1999.

She had been fighting a heart condition for nearly ten years but refused to let it slow her down in her zest for life.

Peg, as she was affectionately called by all who knew her, is survived by her loving husband Dwight (Charlevoix), son Robert, daughter-in-law Anne, granddaughter Emily (Dallas TX) and two brothers, Robert Beznitz (Charlevoix) and John Beznitz (Warren MI).

Her family had been enjoying boating, skiing and recreating in the Charlevoix area since the mid 1960's and she had relocated here from Brighton MI with her husband back in 1993.

A 1947 graduate from St. Mary's Academy (Monroe MI) and a retired school teacher from Taylor School District (Detroit) with a BA from Michigan State University and a MA from Wayne State University in Primary Education, Peg had a passion for music, art and nature and was clearly blessed with the "fruits of the spirit" — Love, Joy and Peace.

She had been active all her life in photography and used her travels to find subject matter that she shared in numerous clubs and affiliations that she actively participated in over the years (Scarab Club: Detroit, Crooked Tree Art Council: Petoskey, Charlevoix Camera Club, Easter Upper Peninsula Craftsman's Guild, Michigan Association of Retired School Personnel). Her dear friend Bonnie Staffel, was influential in Pegs art direction since the early 70's and helped to expand her expression forms into handmade paper and pottery. Friends and family who received her creative works over the years will fondly cherish these original mementos. Her most recent and greatest joy has been her granddaughter Emily Anne (21 months), who she affectionately called "Miss Emily."

She will be missed dearly by all who knew her.

Memorial Service will be held on Saturday Oct. 2 at 1:00 p.m. at St. Francis Catholic Church, 1025 S. Union St., Traverse City. In lieu of flowers, donations to the American Heart Association in Margaret's memory would be appreciated.

Anna M. Fowler

Anna M. Fowler, 86, of Charlevoix, died Sept. 24, 1999 at Meadowbrook Medical Care Facility in Bellaire.

Funeral service will be at 1 p.m., Friday, Oct. 1 at the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum will officiate. Burial will follow in Brookside Cemetery.

Anna was born on March 23, 1913, in Dayton Township, Mich., the daughter of Charles and Mary (Fowler) McWhinney.

She graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1931. On June 24, 1949 she married Forrest F. Fowler in Traverse City, Mich. VACATION PROPERTIES

Beverly Ironside, Northwest Michigan Habitat for Humanity president, receives a donation in the amount of $2,735 from Mitts Lee (left) and John Murray of Vacation Properties Network. Habitat gets generous local support

Officials broke ground in Charlevoix on June 5 at the newest construction site for Northwest Michigan Habitat for Humanity.

The house is the first to be built in the immediate Charlevoix area and the seventh home built by NWM Habitat, which covers Charlevoix and Emmet counties.

Much of the needed financial support for the local project has come from NWM Habitat's work in other communities in Charlevoix and Emmet counties, according to Beverly Ironside, Habitat Board president.

"This project has been a good opportunity for churches, organizations and individuals in the Charlevoix area to join us in a Habitat building project right in their own area," said Ironside.

One notable contribution was made by the Charlevoix-based real estate firm, Vacation Properties Network (VPN).

The company sponsored the Vacation Properties Network Benefit Golf Scramble on Sept. 9 at Charlevoix Country Club.

Event proceeds totaling more than $2,700 were donated to NWM Habitat for Humanity by VPN.

Habitat for Humanity is an ecumenical Christian Housing ministry that works in partnership with people in need of decent shelter to build simple, decent homes.

"Through the houses built, hope is restored and lives are changed as the cycle of need is broken," Ironside said, "Habitat for Humanity builds more than houses, it builds families, communities and lives. Every gift is a testament to the caring and unselfish spirit of Habitat's supporters and friends."

For more information about Habitat for Humanity, or to make a contribution call Beverly Ironside at 547-4411.

Bergmann Center has vision for future

By B. J. Hetler

Inclement weather forced organizers to move the activities inside the building, but families, workers and staff at the Bergmann Center enjoyed the annual potluck picnic on Friday, Sept. 10.

The work-activity center for the developmentally disabled provided grilled hot dogs, hamburgers and other good food to an enthusiastic crowd.

The center currently supervises more than 60 people who are learning employment and life skills with the goal of becoming a part of the Charlevoix community, director Suzanne Muma said.

Industries such as Lexalite and Michigan Maple Block send work to the center where developmentally disabled adults perform assembly jobs and inspect parts for defects. The workers service non-profit groups by compiling mass mailings. The amount of wages paid to the workers depends on the job.

Currently, most of the work is done in the center, but that is changing, Muma said.

"Right now the work comes here," she said. "But the state is pushing for changes to get developmentally disabled people into the community."

The center does have a small group of workers who travel to area businesses, such as restaurants and motels, to provide janitorial, housekeeping and reception services.

Lynn Sirmons is the Bergmann Center's Employment Training Specialist. He finds jobs for the workers and trains them on-site for several weeks. The response from businesses is very positive, Sirmons said.

"The employers love the workers. They're dependable, they're on time. They're good workers.

"We have 22 people out at work," Sirmons said. Both he and Muma want to increase that number, but need the facilities to train the adults in life skills, as well as employment skills.

"Our dream is to build a community living center where people have housing and a place to learn life skills," Muma said.

The state wants developmentally disabled people to be part of the community, but it is not providing funding for the facilities to teach people how to function in the community, Muma said. The non-profit center is funded through Community Mental Health Services, individual and group contributions and service clubs.

Most workers live in foster homes. Not only is there a shortage in housing, Muma said, but foster homes are not conducive for teaching independent living.

For instance, meals are prepared for the residents in foster homes, Muma said. Time demands and practicality don't allow opportunities for the residents to learn to cook. Outings and many other activities are group activities out of necessity and the structure of foster homes.

A living center, as envisioned by Muma and the staff at the Bergmann Center, is designed with apartments where three or four developmentally disabled adults live together. The adults are taught to shop, cook, pay bills, maintain employment, and otherwise live independent lives. Staff supervise periodically.

To make such a center a reality will require funding from many sources, Muma said.

"We're looking for persons interested in helping to build a community living center," Muma said. "The independence is good for workers.

"Their self-esteem and confidence goes way up, and they're able to make a contribution in society."

Interested persons may call the Bergmann Center at 547-2979. It is located at 8855 Martin Road in Charlevoix.

Bergmann Center Director Suzanne Muma and employment training specialist Lynn Sirmons (standing) join some of the regular workers who attend the work-activity center for the developmentally disabled. The center hopes to expand to include a community living center that will provide housing and living skills training. (Photo by B. J. Hetler)

Information session offered to parents of high school juniors

An informational session for Charlevoix High School juniors and their parents will help students get ready for college testing and the application process.

An informal program will be presented at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 5 in the Study Hall of the school.

School counselors John Prescott and Deb Devitt will talk about the upcoming MEAP, PSAT and ACT tests that 11th grade students will take this school year. They will also discuss college applications and admission procedures.

"This is an opportunity for students and their parents to stay on track together, and hear about what is coming up soon," said Prescott.

For more information call the counselors at 547-3222.

Tips for packing a safe school lunch

Charlevoix students are back in school. If they are packing a lunch, it is probably nutritious. But is it free of the bacteria that cause food-borne illness? Families can take some simple precautions to ensure that lunches are safe and nutritious, whether they are bound for school, daycare or the office.

Because most schools do not supply refrigeration for children's lunches, parents should consider perishability when choosing lunch items that will be eaten several hours after they leave the home.

Insulated lunch boxes packed with cold food and gel packs are essential when sending perishable high-protein items such as meat, poultry or egg sandwiches. The item should be nestled directly against the cold source.

Most sandwiches can be frozen overnight and will thaw just in time for the noon meal. Juice bags and boxes can also be sent frozen, allowing them to double as an ice pack that keeps other foods cold.

Lunches sent in bags, either paper or plastic, remain cooler and better insulated if double-bags are used.

Students should place their lunch in a locker or other relatively cool, shaded location as soon as they get to school. Lunches should not be placed on hot playgrounds, windowsills, near radiators or on bus floors.

Children may consider purchasing milk at school to ensure it has been properly chilled.

Perishable items such as meats, eggs or poultry should be discarded after lunch and not finished later in the day.

Snacks should also be non-perishable varieties.

With a little preparation, students can take hot foods such as soup, chili or stew to school. An insulated bottle in an insulated bag should always be used. First pre-heat the bottle by filling it with boiling water and letting it stand a few minutes. Empty the water and then pour in your very hot food. If the insulated bottle is sealed tightly and put in an insulated bag, it should remain hot until lunchtime. You may wish to test this once at home to ensure food stays very hot.

How lunches are prepared is of paramount importance. Just as when you eat at home, all fruits and vegetables in a sack lunch should be thoroughly rinsed, although soap is generally not necessary.

Use only clean utensils and a clean surface when preparing a sack lunch. Avoid re-using plastic bags, unless they are for dried snacks such as chips or crackers. Keep family pets away from kitchen counters when preparing lunches, and always wash your hands for at least 20 seconds with soap before preparing any food.

Sending a nutritious, safe lunch is simply one more way for children to have a successful school year.

The Jordan River Pathway is an 18-mile trail covering varied terrain adjacent to the Jordan River. The Jordan River was the first river in Michigan designated a Natural and Scenic River. Along the way, participants will discuss the natural history of the region and nature's preparations for winter. The trip leaders will also teach "leave-no-trace" camping and hiking skills.

Wednesday Night at the Races — September 22

By A. Nony Mouse,
Charlevoix Yacht Club

An almost full moon rising pale out of the autumn haze added just a bit more to the special effects of colorful spinnakers over the deep blue waters of Lake Charlevoix — all brought to you courtesy of the CYC (with significant help from above!) Again, the breeze held early in the race but later tapered down to allow the crews to more thoroughly enjoy the scenery.

The first J-22, First Date, crossed the line at 7:30:22 so they have improved, but only by 3 seconds (over last week). Their lead, this time over Superfluous, increased to over 4 minutes. The Purple Passion gang had High Maintenance in high gear and finished in the money! Habanero crossed at 7:39:19 and in the next minute and a half Swine Flew, H.S. Moisture Missile, Reckless, Paleface Lite, Gecko and Jumblies all finished. Just one minute later Thunderstruck followed.

In the larger Jib & Main Fleet, Booma was first across the line with Our Thyme II and Apothecary trailing. The positions remained unchanged on corrected time. Cheemaun did not show and High C retired before finishing.

In the P-26 Fleet, on corrected time, the final result was Jesse, Blasen III, Sandpiper and Cygnus. Original Sin had an excused absence. (The Race Committee did a fast and accurate job of scoring in Mike's absence!)

Spinnaker A is starting to sound like a broken record with Kamikaze and Gotcha first and second but, this week, Mint Julep retired. In Spinnaker B, only number 1, Babe and number 2, Hawk crossed the finish line, as M 3 was yet another retiree.

A. Nony was supercargo aboard Paleface Lite and had a ball. The others complained only about the noise level as his ancient joints protested the total lack of lubricants on the manifest - this was remedied only as we debriefed tactics at the Club after the race. The skipper trusted the old man of the sea to drive all the chute legs; these J-22s are simply a blast! Note that both the first and last places tonight went to two of the several boats newly welcomed to the Fleet. There's room for you to be there next spring!

The year 2000 CYC Memberships are available starting October 2, consider joining the fun and fellowship of this bunch of water lovers. You do not have to be a boat owner or know how to tie a bowline— just have to be nice people who enjoy being on or near the water. For information call 231-547-2000.

Kids of all ages got hooked on fishing at the first annual fishing derby held at Charlevoix Country Club. (Courtesy photo)

Kids find 'reel' fun at fishing derby

Twenty young anglers landed more than 100 fish during the first fishing derby hosted recently by the Charlevoix Country Club.

The pond located at the front of the clubhouse was crowded with aspiring fishermen. Parents, grandparents, friends and on-lookers appeared to have as much fun as the kids as they moved from one happily squealing angler to another.

Matthew Murray, 6, was the star fisherman of the day. Though he fished in the "under 10" category, Matthew's "magic touch" landed 19 fish, more than any other angler!

Wherever he dropped his line in the pond, success followed. He hooked a 15-inch bass, the largest fish caught by any of the kids in his division.

Ryan DeYoung hooked 11 fish, the most in the "over 10-year-olds" division. Tony Grace and Michael Wojan each caught 10 fish.

Wojan also caught a 15-inch bass. Joe Grace and Joe Celentino each landed a 14-incher.

The one-hour event was followed by an awards ceremony with hot dogs and chips and pop.

The success of the fishing derby so overwhelmed club management, they promised to make it an annual affair.

Ricks scores five goals in 10-5 win

Senior Michael Ricks scored a personal-best five goals and Jon Boss scored one goal and added a school-record six assists to lead Charlevoix to a 10-5 victory in a soccer match against Harbor Light Christian Academy last Friday.

The Rayders scored early on a Ricks pass to Boss, and Harbor Light tied the contest just :20 later.

Ricks converted a penalty kick for his first goal, and Ryan Vogelheim fed him a pass for number two to put Charlevoix ahead 3-1 midway through the first half.

At that point, Coach Josh Block rested most of his starters for the remainder of the period.

Harbor Light cut the lead to 3-2 with a late goal before halftime.

"This game gave us a chance to try out some new things and play some people in different positions," said Block. "We used two defenses we had never used before. We experimented a little. I'm trying to get these guys to play a certain kind of soccer. I'm trying to teach them a different method of positioning back on the defensive end."

Kiel Tilley, Tony Shearer, Tick Bakker and Andy Granath each played out of their normal positions and all played "pretty well," according to Block.

The starters returned to open the second half and Charlevoix netted two quick goals. Sean Stockman and Vogelheim each converted Boss passes to up the score to 5-2.

Harbor Christian battled back, scoring two goals by Mark Wilson in a four-minute span, and trailed by just one, 5-4, with 14 minutes remaining.

Charlevoix countered immediately with three unanswered goals.

Ricks banged a kick off the goalkeeper and Boss scored twice off Vogelheim passes.

Harbor Light bounced back with another goal by Wilson, his fourth of the game, on a header.

Wilson has scored seven goals in Harbor Light's last two games.

Ricks scored again on a feed from Vogelheim to put the Rayders ahead by four, 9-5.

Charlevoix doubled the Harbor Light score, 10-5, on Ricks' fifth tally. Boss picked up the assist.

"Offensively, we're playing well," said Block, "and our bench is showing improvement. It was good to give those guys some extra playing time."

"However, we didn't have a good defensive game at all. We have to play better there."

Charlevoix hosts Northern Michigan Christian Academy on Oct. 5, and Leland on Oct. 6.

Sell shoots even-par 35, ties school golf record

Charlevoix's Jon Sell tied a school record for the lowest nine-hole score in leading the Rayders to a golf victory over Harbor Springs on Sept. 21.

Sell shot an even-par 35 at Harbor Point Golf Course. The Rayders team posted a 159-167 win and moved into second place in the Lake Michigan Conference with a record of 4-1.

David Shearer continued his fine season-long play by shooting a 38. Allen Brooks had 42, Craig Siwarga 44, Chris Smith 47 and Dennis Avery carded 49 for Charlevoix.

Kreg Wager scored a 48, Bill Foster 56 and Nick Cole had 62 for the junior varsity squad.

"We're playing our best golf right now," said coach Jim Glynn. "It's a result of our team unity. Our confidence is beginning to peak."

Former Rayders Mike Custer (1975) and Luke LaBlance (1990) each shot 35 while on Charlevoix's golf team.

Basketball team shows improvement

Though it may not be apparent by looking at their win-loss record, the Charlevoix girls basketball team is steadily improving as the season progresses.

The Rayders lost a close game with Elk Rapids, 60-57; crushed Harbor Light Christian Academy, 78-53; and got destroyed by Petoskey, 77-48, in the past week.

"It's been rough, said coach Jason Otter, "but, we're coming around as a team. Good things are starting to happen. The girls are working hard and not getting down."

Megan Vogel scored 22 points, Kristy Shindorf 15, and Leslie Hoffman had 7 against Elk Rapids.

The Rayders led all the way at Harbor Light. Kerstin Larsen and Vogel both scored 22 points. Taya Drost added 10 points.

Petoskey raced ahead 20-1 en route to their eighth straight win.

Larsen played a fine game scoring 19 points, making 11 steals. Hoffman scored 14 points, and Jennifer McClellan added eight for Charlevoix.

The Rayders host East Jordan on Friday, Oct. 1; Kalkaska on Thursday, Oct. 7; they travel to T.C. St. Francis on Tuesday, Oct. 5.

Balanced offense not enough vs. Gladiators

Charlevoix gained 135 yards in the air and 135 yards on the ground and were outscored 56-9 by T.C. St. Francis at home last Friday.

The Gladiators lived up to their reputation as one of the best football teams in the state. They scored on their first play of the game, a 71-yard run and never looked back.

"We had some chances to score," said coach Todd Klinger, "but we couldn't capitalize."
